FOR HARNESS and saddle from Mexican Mustang Liniment is just what you need. It takes effect at once, and you will be astonished how quickly it heals.

It's this way:

You can burn yourself with Fire, with Powder, etc., or you can scald yourself with Steam or Hot Water, but there is only one proper way to cure a burn or scald and that is by using

Mexican Mustang Liniment.

It gives immediate relief. Get a piece of soft old linen cloth, saturate it with this liniment and bind loosely upon the wound. You can have no adequate idea what an excellent remedy this is for a burn until you have tried it.

A FOWL TIP. If you have a bird afflicted with Roup or any other poultry disease use Mexican Mustang Liniment. It is called a STANDARD remedy by poultry breeders.

HAVE YOU BEEN TO THE FAIR?

The Montgomery Fair.

If not you have missed seeing one of the finest modern stores in the State of Alabama.

A store that you will like to trade in, no trickery here, no changing of prices, strictly one price to all alike, and that price as low as good reliable merchandise can possibly be sold. If at any time a purchase is not entirely satisfactory after careful home examination, return the goods to us promptly, and we promptly return your money. Our main effort is to please our patrons and gain their good will. We want your trade, not for a day, a week, or a month, but for all time. Fast running electric elevators will soon be in operation to carry you to our second and third floors.
Other extensive improvements will be made to make this store (your store) equal to any first class metropolitan house that New Yorkers boast of.

In our dress goods section
You will find the most extensive lines of dress goods that has ever been displayed in the South, and the selling prices will pay you to come a long distance to trade.

In our silk section
Miles of silk and satin, all new beautiful silks, all the wanted kinds, silks that will wear. Taffeta silks ranging in price from 32 cents a yard to $1.25.
Fancy dress and waist silks at 49 cents to $1.50.

In our Wash goods section
A dozen sales people are kept busy in this big department.
This tells the story best of our ability to serve you well. A saying here for you in every yard of wash goods you buy.

In Millinery
We already have the largest trade of any southern store.
There must be a reason for this and a good one, too. It's to your interest, better investigate for yourself.

The Institute will be under the personal leadership of Prof. A. J. Showalter, of Dalton, Ga., assisted by his two daughters. The charges will be as follows:

For the Evening Choruses, Night Sessions.....	$1.50
For all not in Harmony and under 14 years.....	3.00
For all above 14 years and not in Harmony.....	4.00
For Primary Harmony.....	4.50
For Advanced Harmony.....	5.00

for the term of twenty days. Where two are sent from the same family, a deduction of 15 per cent will be allowed; for three from one family, a deduction of 20 per cent. Where more than three wish to enter from one family, apply to Committee for special discounts. Special arrangements can be made for private lessons on reasonable terms.

Board can be had in pleasant homes at from seven to ten dollars. The first session of this Institute was a grand success and the promise for the second session is very flattering. A large number from a distance are making applications for places. The session will be one of the best and fullest ever taught in middle Alabama.

Clanton is one of the best business towns between Birmingham and Montgomery, situated on the great Louisville & Nashville system, 43 miles north of Montgomery, in the health giving pine woods, on a high plateau, 550 feet above tide water; malaria is unknown. The water is celebrated for its purity and coolness. The people are refined, cultivated Christian people, and will extend a hearty welcome to those attending. And while those attending this Institute do so with a purpose, and will have the greater part of their time occupied, still in the intervals there will be time for pleasant social intercourse.

1st subject for discussion. Does the Bible teach missions? If so, is a church living in obedience to the commands of the Bible that refuses to give to missions? Opened by I. Windsor.

2d subject. Does the cause of Christ in Chilton county suffer by reason of the fact that our churches do not support the ministry? Opened by Felix Eiland.

3d subject. Does the Bible give authority for a church? If so, what should be the character of its members? Opened by W. H. Shaw.

4th subject. What are the advantages of Sunday-school, and how should they be conducted? Opened by Alex Glasscock.

The committee respectfully urge that the churches in Chilton County Association, both in Second and First District, elect messengers, one or two at least, to this meeting. We want you, we need you.

COMMITTEE FIXES AUGUST 25 AS DATE OF DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY.

None But Democrats Can Vote. Offer to Vote is a Pledge to Support the Ticket.

FULL TEXT OF THE REGULATIONS

Candidates to be Nominated for all Offices. How Ballots Must Read.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 12.—The following is the primary plan in detail as finally adopted by the Democratic State executive committee yesterday for the primary which is to be held August 25th.

Resolved, That a Democratic primary election shall be held in the several counties of the State on Monday, August 25, 1902, for the purpose of nominating Democratic candidates for governor, lieutenant-governor, secretary of state, state treasurer, auditor, attorney-general, superintendent of education and commissioner of agriculture and industry; and also for the purpose of electing members of the Democratic State executive committee from each congressional district.

HOLDING THE PRIMARY.

Section 2.—That said primary election shall be held or managed at each voting place throughout the State by the inspectors, to be appointed by the Democratic executive committee of the several counties; provided that any candidate or his friends may designate a person to be present at such polling place, and such person shall be allowed to remain in the polling place and shall be allowed to inspect and count the ballots counted; and that such inspectors shall be allowed to appoint a sufficient clerical force to conduct said election; and such election shall be held in all respects in accordance with the general laws governing primary elections in this State. All managers, inspectors, clerks and other officers and returning officers shall be required to take an oath to perform their duties at such election according to law, and to accurately and truthfully count and return the votes as cast in said primary election. Such oath may be administered by any officer authorized to administer an oath or in the absence of such officer, may be administered by any one of the managers or inspectors authorized to hold said primary election. On the failure of any inspector to attend at the hour of 8 a. m. such as may be present may complete the number. If none of the inspectors appointed are present, or if they are present and refuse to open the polls, then any three qualified voters in this primary at such precinct may open the polls and conduct the said election.

Section 3.—That the polls at each voting place shall be opened at 8 a. m. and closed at 5 p. m., provided that in any town or cities which have a population of more than 5,000 the polls shall remain open until 7 p. m.

COUNTING THE VOTE.

Section 4.—That the inspectors at each election shall, immediately after the polls are closed, count the vote cast at said primary and make not less than four certificates of the result of said primary election, one of which shall be at once posted in some conspicuous place at or near the voting place one of which shall be forwarded to the chairman of the county executive committee within twenty-four hours, one to be kept by the inspectors with the ballots and poll lists thirty days and one to be furnished to the precinct committee from said ballot and precinct.

Section 5.—That on the Thursday following the primary election herein provided for the county executive committee of the several counties shall convene at the county seat of the county and shall canvass the returns from the several precincts of the county and a certificate of the returns, duly certified to by the presiding officer and secretary, shall be forwarded in duplicate to the chairman of the State executive committee at Montgomery and be secretary of the State executive committee at Birmingham, Ala.

Section 6.—That the State Democratic executive committee shall convene in Montgomery on the 30th day of September, 1902, for the purpose of ascertaining the result of said primary, and it upon tabulating the returns from the several counties any one has received a majority of the votes cast

WHO MAY VOTE.

Section 12.—That the following persons shall be allowed to vote at such primary and no others. At such primary election every white man shall have the right to vote who will be by law entitled to vote in the next general election in the precinct in which he then offers to vote, and who:

First.—Believes in the principles of the Democratic party and pledges himself to support and vote for, in the succeeding general election the nominees of such primary election as declared by the State Democratic executive committee, and also:

Second.—Voted for or supported the nominees of the Democratic party in each of the last general elections for congressmen, State officers and county officers, at which he was entitled to vote. Those who failed to vote for the nominees and to support the principles of the Democratic party in August, 1900, by reason of sickness, absence from the State or other providential causes, or who have since become of age, and who will support the nominees and principles of the Democratic party in the November election of 1902, shall be entitled to vote and participate in said primary. An offer to vote in the primary shall be a pledge to support the nominees. Any qualified voter may challenge any vote as offered on the ground of want of party allegiance and of intention to vote for such nominees on the part of the voter as well as upon the ground of the want of any qualifications prescribed.

Upon such challenge being made, it shall entitle the voter to be received for the voter to then and there sign and file with the inspectors of election the following written or printed declaration and pledge, viz:

"I declare that I am duly qualified to vote at this election under the rules of the Democratic party as prescribed by the call of this primary election, issued by the State executive committee of said party on the day of July, 1902, and that I have not voted at this election, and I do hereby pledge myself to support and vote for the nominees of this primary as declared by the Democratic executive committee; this day of , 1902." If he shall refuse to so sign and file such declaration and pledge, his vote shall be rejected.

COMMITTEE SHALL ORGANIZE.

Section 13.—That at the meeting of the State executive committee, to wit: On the third day of September, 1902, such committee shall designate a time and place for the meeting of the committee-elect at which time they shall organize after being called to order by the present chairman.

Section 14.—That in the Senatorial districts in which there is no Senatorial committee, the chairman of the executive committees of the respective counties composing the Senatorial district together with members of the State executive committee residing in the district shall compose said Senatorial executive committee.

Section 15.—That the county Democratic executive committee may order a primary for the nomination of county officers, members of the Legislature and Senate, on the same day named for the State primary, or may order a county convention and nomination of county officers, members of the Legislature and Senate as they may decide.

Section 16.—That the chairman of the State Democratic executive committee shall, as soon as practicable, make proclamation of this action of the State Democratic executive committee, and take all necessary steps to carry the same into effect.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

Section 9.—That the State executive committee shall be composed of four members from each Congressional district and a chairman, and that the members of the committee from each district shall be elected by the primary vote in each district, and the chairman of the committee shall be elected by the committee. The four candidates from each Congressional district receiving the highest number of votes shall be declared the committeemen from said district, and the term of office shall be for four years, and begin with the organization of the new committee.

Section 10.—That the chairman of the county executive committee of each county shall procure and furnish the inspectors with a list of the registered electors in such precinct, and also with a list of the electors of said precinct who have paid their poll tax.

Section 11.—That each candidate for a State office and for members of the State executive committee not later than August 1, 1902, make a declaration in writing of his candidacy.

SELMA, Ala., July 12.—Mr. Alex Walker, a well-known young man, met instant death yesterday afternoon under the wheels of a box car in the Southern freight yard. He was on his way to the train dispatcher's office to attend the employees' school when a box car being shoved by the switch engine came up behind him and he fell beneath the wheels. His head was almost cut from his body and death resulted immediately.

HUNTSVILLE, Ala., July 12.—John Balch, a farmer, was found in the woods near Jeff yesterday morning with his throat cut. He had become demented and wandered from home and attempted suicide.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 12.—Governor Chandler, of Georgia, and Governor Jolks, of Alabama, will address a large gathering of the laboring men of the two States at Anniston, Ala., on Labor Day.

The suit of Mrs. Fannie E. Wilds vs. the A. G. S., for the killing of her husband, W. H. Wilds, while crossing the railroad two years ago, has been reversed and remanded for retrial. Suit was brought for damages in the sum of $40,000. On trial the jury gave a verdict for $20,000. The case was appealed by the railroad, and was decided by Justice Harlan, who intimates in his decision that the general charge should have been in favor of the defendant.

President Shackelford has raised the amount desired for the extension of the Troy college building and has advertised for bids. Very soon the work will have begun and there will be ample room for all who want to enter next session.

The man with a lying machine may be even more conspicuous for his physical courage than for his inventive skill.

AMICABLY SETTLED

And the Miners are Again at Work.

THE NEW SCALE IS DULY SIGNED.

It Gives General Satisfaction. Dispute all Ended for a Year.

Expressions of good cheer are heard on all sides over the settlement of the mining scale. Short as was the suspension, the outcome was most anxiously awaited. By all parties it is considered a good and equitable settlement. It was adopted Friday afternoon by a vote of 130 to 63.

W. E. the joint scale committee of four honorable body, with full authority from the Association of Operators and convention of miners, beg leave to report the following contract to remain in force until June 30, 1903, with the old scale prices, rules and regulations now in force, with the following additions:

The contract reads as follows:

First.—With a view of remedying conditions that have developed in carrying out the joint resolutions adopted last year providing for arbitration of differences, it is hereby agreed that the United Mine Workers of America will not ask the companies to take up any grievance for adjustment during suspension of work, unless authorized by district officers.

Second.—Funeral clause left for local adjustment.

Third.—Absentee clause left for local adjustment.

Fourth.—That the day wage scale heretofore in effect is hereby cancelled and the following uniform day wage scale adopted, based on 55 cents per ton for mining coal to go up and down with the scale as before:

Drivers, minimum	$1.75
Drivers, maximum	1.47
Spike team drivers, 25 per cent extra, and for each mule over two, 10c extra.
Trackmen	2.69

Blacksmith	2.96
Blacksmith helper	1.67
Drummers	2.02
Miners on company work	2.93
Stable man	1.37

All men working on rock shall not receive less than miner on company work. And all other common day laborers for inside work not mentioned on the scale, to be paid $1.75 per day.

Fifth.—That two or more cars daily shall be set aside to determine average weight of cars at mine that are now paying by the ton or car. Time of weighing to be at the option of operator.

Sixth.—That 5 per cent shall be the maximum grade over which a miner shall be required to push cars.

Seventh.—To avoid probability of misunderstanding, it is hereby recorded that the contracts specify all coal in Pratt seam under 3 feet 2 inches, shall pay 2 1/2 cents per ton above scale shown; when size of coal in Pratt seam goes below 3 feet, then the price is 5 cents per ton above scale shown.

Birmingham, Ala., July 11, 1902.

Several of the mines began operations Saturday and all are running now. The Sloss-Sheffield Steel and Iron Company will blow in their No. 2 city furnace just as soon as there can be an accumulation of coal and coke. No. 3 furnace at North Birmingham will receive a six weeks' repairing. The Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Company will start up all its furnaces with banded coke just as soon as the needed coal and coke can be procured. Other furnaces in the same condition will be started up also and before the expiration of a fortnight the suspension of work at the mines, which lasted just eleven days, will have been forgotten.

The New Maine.

The battleship Maine, which has been under construction in Cramps' shipyard since the spring of 1902, will leave for her builder's test of the Delaware capes on Tuesday noon, says a Philadelphia dispatch. The trial will take place on Thursday. Easily the most powerful battleship that the Cramps yard has turned out for the United States navy, the Maine is also planned to be the fastest. She must attain eighteen knots speed, the same requirement as for the Russian battleship Retzevan recently completed at the yards. In most respects the Maine and the Retzevan are alike. The keel of the new Maine was laid on February 15, 1899, the anniversary of the destruction of the old Maine in Havana harbor. She was launched on July 27, 1901, Miss Mary Preble Anderson, of Portland, Me., a descendant of Commodore Preble, being her sponsor. The Maine is 388 feet long on the load water line. Her beam extreme is 72 feet 2 1/2 inches, her draught 23 feet 10 1/2 inches and her displacement 12,500 tons.

Milk Trust Forming.

It is understood that dairymen from Illinois have undertaken to form a milk trust in the Birmingham district. It appears that the general plan is to make an agreement with local dairymen to sell their product exclusively to this company. The price agreed upon is 20 cents per gallon, and the dairymen will deliver to one station of the company. While the dairymen now get 25, 30 and 40 cents per gallon for his milk, it has to be delivered at many places and is quite expensive. The new company will establish receiving stations at convenient points in the district. All the dairymen will have to do is to deliver the milk, see that it is measured and then receive a certificate which will be cashed. The company, it is said, purposes building a creamery near Birmingham for the manufacture of butter and cheese.

South Alabama Medical Association.

At the meeting of the Alabama Medical Society in Birmingham recently there was a movement set on foot to organize a South Alabama Medical Association and that movement was favored by all the physicians in the given territory. Accordingly a committee was named on organization. Troy has been chosen as the place for the first meeting. The object of the organization is not to antagonize the state association, but it is to stimulate to greater activity the various county societies and to promote the interests of the members thereof in a scientific way.

Captain Kennedy, Adjutant.

Capt. Hughes B. Kennedy, commander of Company G, Third Regiment, Alabama National Guard, has accepted the position of adjutant on the staff of Lieutenant Colonel McConnell, who is now in command of the regiment. An order for the election of a captain for Company G will be issued in about two weeks. Captain Kennedy has been acting adjutant of Colonel McConnell's staff since the latter's appointment recently by Governor Jelks. During the encampment he acted in that capacity. He is considered one of the best adjutants in the South.

Matters at Springfield, Ill., have quieted.

Only a single squad of infantry is left on the ground and that is under the command of a lieutenant.

LATER STATE NEWS

WATERMELONS

Lead to a Fight and Possibly One Man Killed.

In a fight Sunday afternoon between rolling men and employees of the L. & N. Railroad, Conductor John H. T. Rives was struck on the head with a rock. His skull was crushed and his left eye was nearly torn from his head. It is probable the wounds will prove fatal. The difficulty is said to have arisen from the attempt of a rolling mill man to get some watermelons which had been scattered over the ground by a wreck on the L. & N. Rives was in charge of the train with instructions to watch the watermelons. It is claimed by railroad men that an attempt was made to get melons from the car, and is trying to prevent them the fight started.

H. F. and Oscar Maassen were arrested and charged with assault with intent to murder.

The latter acknowledged that he was the first to engage in a fight with Rives and that he had thrown a rock. He denied that the rock he threw struck Rives. He said he was not trying to get watermelons when the fight commenced and claims that Rives started it. The account of the trouble as given the police is that a rolling mill man attempted to buy a watermelon and Rives refused to sell it. He had a fight with the man, who afterwards was reinforced by a number of friends. It was then that Rives was struck. There were a number engaged in the fight, but no one else was seriously injured. Conductor Rives lives at Magella Station, which is four miles from Birmingham on the L. & N. He has been with the road several years. He has a wife and two children.

Fig Iron.

There is so little iron for immediate delivery to be had that the fact that $22 a ton is being offered for small lots is hardly regarded as a feature of the market. All interest now centers in contracts for the first six months of 1902. A few small orders were booked here last week at $17 for delivery of the first quarter in next year, but free selling will not begin before next August. One large concern is quoting No. 2 foundry at $16.50 for delivery running from January to July. It is believed by not a few conservative iron makers that the schedule for the first half of next year will harden on a $16 basis. There has been considerable inquiry during the week for Southern iron with deliveries beginning January. There has also been inquiry for Northern brands, and while consumers would cover at what they deem reasonable prices, there is hesitation to place contracts at quotations now ruling.

Gift to the State.

The department of history is in receipt of a handsome oil portrait of Gen. Isham W. Garrott, the brave colonel of the Twentieth Alabama who fell during the siege of Vicksburg. His commission as a brigadier general had been issued at Richmond four days before he was killed and he died without knowing of his promotion.

The Madison county text-book committee, has announced the selections of the text-books to be used in the public schools of Madison county for the next five years.

A large portion of the books, including readers and histories, are published by a Richmond publishing house and contain Southern literature.

Bids will be opened on the 21st for the Selma public building.

Deserted Camp.

The serenity and good humor of Camp Foster at Selma, was marred Saturday by the actions of the non-commissioned officers and privates of Company C—the Selma Guards. About 12:30 o'clock as they were marching to dinner in the mess hall they deserted camp. The trouble seems to have been over the ordering of Bugler O'Flynn on guard. The latter claimed that as bugler he was not subject to guard duty, and refused to serve.

Esley is now shipping steel to Pittsburg.

An order for 2,500 tons is being filled as rapidly as possible.

HARICOT BEAN LOAF.

Soak a pint of beans over night; the next morning cook until soft; rub through a coarse sieve and season to taste with salt and pepper. Moisten with just enough cream or tomato sauce to moisten evenly into a loaf; put into a pan, sprinkle with bread crumbs and dot with bits of butter and bake a nice brown. Serve with brown or tomato sauce. After boiling these beans a tablespoonful of molasses, vinegar and butter may be added and the mass made into croquettes and served with tomato sauce.

Extraordinary Theft.

A charge of stealing a red bag from the basement of a cement building a Chicagoan was arrested Saturday. He was unable to say why he wanted to carry a furnace, containing a fire, out of the flat. He said he was going to the stove for junk for $12. The police is valued at $255. This he serves to prove the charge that the thieves will steal anything a baby's nursing bottle to a stove.

Dallas Wants It.

Republican National Committee. I. Atwell has forwarded letters to President Miller, of the American League Clubs at Chicago, for the holding of the convention of that body in Dallas, Texas, during the month of October, during which President Roosevelt is expected to be in Dallas.

Governor's Appointments.

Governor Jelks has appointed M. P. Walker notary at Birmingham, and Gerald H. Krawpel at Mobile; E. S. Mann, alderman of Courtland, under a special act giving the appointment of the mayor and aldermen to the governor on account of negro majority; Greenleaf Fountain, constable, Perry county; L. I. Griffith, notary public and justice of the peace, Cherokee county.

Officials here express doubt as to whether the proposed reciprocity treaty between the United States and France will be ratified and this is cited as another reason why the alleged proposed mission is unlikely.

Acts Immediately

Colds are sometimes more troublesome in summer than in winter, it's so hard to keep from adding to them while cooling off after exercise. One Minute Cough Cure cures at once. Absolutely safe. Acts immediately. Sure cure for coughs, colds, croup, throat and lung troubles.

DENTAL NOTICE

Do not wait until the teeth ache before having them filled. Have a dentist examine your teeth every six months, perhaps oftener, if an adult, and every three or four months during childhood and youth. Keep all fillings bright and well polished, especially those between the teeth, using a stick and some fine powder for that purpose, when the brush alone does not accomplish it. The smallest cavities, abrasions or spots in the enamel, require the early attention of the dentist. All operations upon the teeth are performed with much less suffering when inflammation or irritation does not exist. The first, or milk teeth of children, should not be extracted until the roots are absorbed, which is known by their becoming very loose. Exceptions to this rule are cases of non-absorption of the roots, resulting in irregularities, requiring professional skill in their management. Have your teeth examined free of charge, and should you need any dental work I shall be glad to serve you.

Summer complaint is unusually prevalent among children this season. A well developed case in the writer's family was cured last week by the timely use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy—one of the best patent medicines manufactured and which is always kept on hand at the home of the writer. This is not intended as a free puff for the company, who do not advertise with us, but to benefit little sufferers who may not be within easy access of a physician. No family should be without a bottle of this medicine in the house, especially in summer time.—Lansing, Iowa, Journal. For sale by Hopkins Drug Co., and A. Horn, Thorsby.

Normal Musical Institute.

The Second Session of the Showalter Normal Musical Institute will begin in Clanton, Ala., on Thursday, the 7th day of August, 1902.

The Institute will be under the personal leadership of Prof. A. J. Showalter, of Dalton, Ga., assisted by his two daughters. The charges will be as follows:

For the Evening Choruses, Night Sessions.....	$1.50
For all not in Harmony and under 14 years.....	3.00
For all above 14 years and not in Harmony.....	4.00
For Primary Harmony.....	4.50

for the term of twenty days. Where two are sent from the same family, a deduction of 15 per cent will be allowed; for three from one family, a deduction of 20 per cent. Where more than three wish to enter from one family, apply to Committee for special discounts. Special arrangements can be made for private lessons on reasonable terms.

Board can be had in pleasant homes at from seven to ten dollars. The first session of this Institute was a grand success and the promise for the second session is very flattering. A large number from a distance are making applications for places. The session will be one of the best and fullest ever taught in middle Alabama.

Clanton is one of the best business towns between Birmingham and Montgomery, situated on the great Louisville & Nashville system, 42 miles north of Montgomery, in the health giving pine woods, on a high plateau, 590 feet above tide water; malaria is unknown. The water is celebrated for its purity and coolness. The people are refined, cultivated Christian people, and will extend a hearty welcome to those attending. And while those attending this Institute do so with a purpose, and will have the greater part of their time occupied, still in the intervals there will be time for pleasant social intercourse.

The Committee will cheerfully give any further information wanted. Address

Chilton County Baptist Association.

The meeting of the First District of Chilton County Baptist Association will convene with Union Grove church, five miles east of Jemison, on Friday before the Fourth Sunday in July, instead of First Sunday in August. This change was made by the church at Union Grove.

1st subject for discussion. Does the Bible teach missions? If so, is a church living in obedience to the commands of the Bible that refuses to give to missions? Opened by I. Windsor.

2d subject. Does the cause of Christ in Chilton county suffer by reason of the fact that our churches do not support the ministry? Opened by Felix Eiland.

3d subject. Do the Bible give authority for a church? If so, what should be the character of its members? Opened by W. H. Shaw.

4th subject. What are the advantages of Sunday-school, and how should the be conducted? Opened by Alex Glascock.

The committee respectfully urge that the churches in Chilton County Association, both in Second and First District, elect messengers, one or two at least, to this meeting. We want you, we need you.

American Union, as the critics agree, is in a state of threatened decay. We are taking old jokes too seriously and other things too seriously.

The Shah of Persia has bestowed a decoration of the highest Persian order on Emperor William. The monarch who would undertake to wear all his badges at once must be something of an athlete.

The scientists have recently been trying the experiment of feeding young chickens on sterilized food, from the time they are hatched. The result is that they die—which shows that the much discussed bacteria and viruses are essential to life.

What does "more or less" mean? The United States Supreme Court holds that where a lumbering concern contracted to cut 2,700,000 feet of dead timber "more or less" on the Chippewa Indian reservation in Minnesota, and they cut 7,000,000 feet instead, this was not an increase in volume within the phrase "more or less."

Mr. Prolet gives a rule by which you can tell very closely to what age you are likely to live. Provided, of course, accident does not intervene. Simply add together the ages of your father and mother and your two grandfathers and two grandmothers, and divide the whole by six. This does not tell how long you will actually live, but only your theoretical prospect of life.

The American Consul, Miller at Nanchang, China, says that trade between the United States and Manchuria is destined to increase vastly within the next few years. The Russians have matters largely in their own hands, and he recommends young Americans to learn the Russian language, as there is a great demand for employees who can speak both Russian and English.

According to the Philadelphia Record, a vexed problem in South Jersey is "What has become of the gay and festive strawberry festival?" No one seems to hold the answer, but the festival has vanished. Time was, and not so long ago, either, when strawberry festivals began with the first blizzards and kept merrily on till frost flew again, but not even strawberries were essential to their financial success. It may be that with the luscious fruit so prevalent in their midst the good church ladies have decided that the festival may be cut out. At all events it has gone.

The trust fever has broken out in far away Japan. Six or seven of the largest silk houses have agreed, after long consideration of the matter, to "pool their interests." That our example has not sooner been followed there is due, no doubt, to the scarcity of factories where capital to any great amount is employed. There are many factories, but they are small, with more skill in individual manufacturers than there is capital. It is said that capital, as we speak of it, is not understood there at all. And yet a few of the more "Westernized" houses have made the break and it is likely that others will follow.

The output of the mineral products of the United States in 1900 showed a large increase over that of any previous year, and with a grand total of $1,070,108,880, according to the Geological Survey report, we are one of the most important countries of the world, both as to mineral resources and to the variety obtained. The increase in precious metals and stones was most noticeable because of the discovery of new fields for operation. While never recognized as a country rich in diamonds and other precious stones, the United States has yielded some precious stones of considerable value.

Henry Labouchere suggests in the London Truth that Cecil Rhodes should have added to each of his scholarships already worth $1500 a year for three years apiece, a proportionable life annuity, in order to enable the American scholars, spoiled for business by an Oxford education, to live decently and honestly. He asserts that an Oxford education is primarily intended to enable the young men acquiring it to enter the class of amateurs and idlers. He thinks that Mr. Rhodes would have done better to found scholarships for English youths to study in the United States, because there, in addition to class room work, they would learn to feel ashamed to loaf around, or to depend on their fathers for positions.

SOUTHERN INDUSTRY

Conditions Much Improved. Crops and Iron.

STRIKE SETTLEMENTS HELPFUL WORK

$17 is the Basic Price for Iron Until July, 1903—Other Items.

IRONWORKERS ARE RAISED.

Settlements of numerous labor controversies and prospect of an early settlement as to other struggles have greatly improved the industrial outlook, while agricultural conditions are steadily improving. As these have been the only unfavorable influences for some months, the prospects for active trade are decidedly encouraging. Preparations for unusually heavy fall sales are being made, and confidence grows stronger. Mills and furnaces that have been idle on account of the usual overhauling resumed as rapidly as needed repairs could be made.

IRON MARKET.

Pig iron continues to command full prices, supplies falling below requirements and furnace deliveries failing to fill contracts. Scarcity of fuel is still the principal drawback, while coal and motive power shortage are additional causes of delay. New orders are reported for distant delivery, running a year ahead. Prices are fully maintained for the raw material. Imports have reached a considerable aggregate and more are expected. Structural material is still the feature, new business being offered in great bulk.

THE IRON MARKET.

The price of southern pig iron for the first six months of 1903 has been fixed on a $17 basis for No. 2 foundry. Representatives of the large iron companies from west Virginia to Alabama held conferences in New York last week and an understanding was reached that a $17 rate should be maintained and that the delivery period should be limited to 100 days. Several weeks ago the price of iron had been fixed at $16.50 for No. 2 foundry. The price was low enough, but after reviewing the situation, the most conservative concluded that a $17 basis was low enough. Prosperity seems good for another twelve months, but the increased furnace capacity that is expected next year will, in the opinion of most of the producers, cause prices to soften after July next.

SPINDLES AND LOOMS.

Some curtailment of spinning is reported at southern mills, the tendency being to wait until new cotton comes forward. Export trade increased through buying of light-weight wools, and worsteds have opened at unchanged prices, and the increased activity of mills have aroused more interest in the raw material, which tends to advance. Cotton rules steady, the outlook for a liberal yield being balanced by the strong antislavery position. Manufacturers of cotton goods hold prices steady, and there has been a distinct increase in demand.

MACHINERY.

Railway needs are undiminished despite the enormous amount of work already placed, and agricultural implement-makers are fully employed. A general advance in prices of machine tools has occurred, averaging nearly 10 per cent. Eastern shoe shops receive more orders, some of the larger producers refusing contracts calling for delivery before October. Prices are fairly held.

NEW CAR LINE.

At a meeting of the mayor and board of aldermen of Ensley, a franchise was granted to put a street railway line in the city. This franchise has been in the hands of the board for some time and work will be begun immediately.

Failures for the week number 213 in the United States against 183 last year and 20 in Canada against 32 last year.

The wages of 50,000 iron workers in the rolling mills of this country were advanced July 11 because of the advance in selling price of iron during the last two months, the wages being affected by the sliding scale of the amalgamated association of iron, steel and tin workers.

The Pullman Car company voluntarily raised the wages of its conductors July 12, the men getting from $10 to $15 dollars more a month, according to length of service. Wages of all employees except porters have been raised recently.

The Chinese government has raised the contract for the construction of the Canton-Hankow railway and work is to be begun immediately on the Canton end of the line. The contract provides for the purchase of 100,000 tons of gold bonds of the Chinese government secured by the railway property. The road is to be completed in two years.

Draining the Everglades is the object of a gigantic scheme soon to be attempted. Nine canals embracing 144 miles will be dug, and about 4,000 acres reclaimed. The estimated cost of reclaiming will be about $2.75 per acre.

DON'T WANT FOREIGN LABOR.

A proposition has been submitted to South Carolina cotton mill men to furnish them with a certain number of foreign families as operators. The plan is to get the immigrants as they arrive, chiefly from Italy and central Europe, and ship them south. This, it is argued will relieve the demand for domestic labor and will enable native whites to remain on the farms. It is a fact that the mills are drawing whites from the farms, and that with all the inducements they offer they cannot secure enough adult labor; but the suggestion of bringing foreigners into the mills will not meet with favor. The presidents would rather run short-handed.

OIL OPERATIONS.

Captain A. F. Lucas and other Texas oil magistrates have been in the Knoxville section recently and have become interested in the development of oil lands in that locality. Captain Lucas is said to be identified with the Alabama-New York Oil Company which has secured options on about 25,000 acres of land and will bore for a well within the next few weeks. The Madison Oil Company has decided to resume operations at their well near Blanche, Tenn. For some cause interest in oil speculation has been revived and there are several people out taking options on lands.

THE FARMERS OF THE NATION.

The census bureau has issued a bulletin giving condition of the agriculture in the United States for 1900. It shows there were at that time 6,739,657 farms in the country which were valued at $16,674,694,247. Of this amount $8,569,195,191 represented the value of buildings, and $14,114,492,016 the value of lands and improvements other than buildings. The value of farm improvements and machinery was $761,261,550, and of live stock $3,078,050,041. Those values, added to the value of the farms, give a total value of farm property amounting to $20,514,051,838. Texas leads with the greatest number of farms, 352,190, and also with the highest acreage, 125,807,017. Other southern states having more than 200,000 farms are: Alabama, 223,220; Georgia, 224,691; Kentucky, 231,667; Mississippi, 221,803; North Carolina, 224,637; Tennessee, 224,623. The hay and grain lands are put down at a value of $6,363,548,543 or 31 per cent. Cotton over 5 per cent. There are 512 coffee farms in the country valued at $1,932,915.

Marshall Shot.

Town Marshal James Cockrill, of Jackson, Ky., was fatally shot from a second-story window of the court house Monday afternoon by unknown parties. There were six shots, two hitting Cockrill. James Cockrill is a brother of Thomas Cockrill, whose trial in Breathitt county for killing Benjamin Harges, has revived a desperate feud. The feud between the Cockrills and the Harges families has demoralized Breathitt county a long time. The officers and even the courts were held in defiance, and the governor has been repeatedly appealed to for a solution. There is small hope for Cockrill's recovery.

Foster Moseley, of Brookside, shot and painfully wounded himself Saturday night. He was preparing to take a bath when a pistol dropped to the floor and discharged. The bullet went through his left leg above the knee, entering his right thigh. He is not seriously wounded, but will be laid up for some time.

The Governor has made the following appointments: J. J. Edmondson to be notary public at Woodlawn. A. Y. Sharpe to be notary public at Memphis. J. L. Dean to be notary public at Opelika. L. Y. Dean, Jr., to be notary public at Eufaula.

Mrs. T. A. Harrison, mother of General George F. Harrison, of Opelika, died at her home in Outhbert, Ga., Thursday night. The remains were interred at Opelika.

At the present rate of progress seventy years will be required entirely to uncover Pompeii. It is estimated that as much treasure remains as has been found.

SALT WATER DAMAGE

Engine Jumps Into a Crowd of Men with Fatal Result.

A NASHVILLE POLICEMAN KILLS A MAN

Greely's Cousin Dies—Novel Craft—Sued for Libel—Railroad Rebates.

CAUSE A MYSTERY

But the Loss Is Very Considerable. The loss to rice growers, shrimp fishers and others in Louisiana from the invasion of salt water into the ordinarily fresh water streams already amounts to millions. Compensation is that fishing is better and that the troublesome water hyacinths are being rapidly killed out by the salt water when all human efforts to destroy them have failed. The salt water invasion is attributed by some to the long drought followed by southern winds. Other connect it with the eruption of Mont Pelee and recent earthquakes.

PECULIAR DEATH.

Engine Leaves Track and Plunges Into Workmen.

A queer accident occurred in the Knoxville yards of the Atlanta, Knoxville & Northern Sunday, which cost David Mundy his life. His brother, Eliaha, was fatally hurt and other employees were badly shaken up. The men were at work cleaning an engine which was standing on a side track. Another engine approached on the next track and when near, the engine jumped the rails from some unexplained cause and ploughed its way into the group of men. David Mundy, who was a car inspector, was instantly killed. Eliaha Mundy can live but a few days.

THE SECOND TIME

They Met the Policeman Shot Him to Death.

Late Friday evening in Nashville, Policeman Walter E. Jacobs shot and fatally wounded Henry F. Beaumont, traveling salesman. Jacobs claims Beaumont was advancing on him with a butcher knife which was fanned where the wounded man fell and that he had never seen Beaumont until a half hour before, when the man met him and made a somewhat unintelligible threat, after which he walked away. When they met again the tragedy occurred.

A VIRGINIA PAPER

Sued by Attorney for a Large Amount for Libel.

Commonwealth Attorney John G. Tilton, of Norfolk, Va., has instituted suit for $10,000 against the Virginia-Pilot Publishing company for the publication and circulation of an alleged libel. The suit grows out of certain articles in which Tilton was criticized by the paper relative to the position he took in declining to hold Osborne, the alleged double wife murderer, for trial here on the charge of killing his wife in that city, instead of turning him over to the Oklahoma authorities to answer for a similar crime in that territory.

Killed His Assassin.

A special from Abingdon, Va., says Moses Lytton and John Collins, a prominent farmer, had a difficulty in which Collins whipped Lytton. Later Lytton fired on Collins with a gun loaded with buckshot and instantly killed him. Lytton surrendered.

WOULD-BE SLAYER

of Victor Emmanuel Under Arrest in Italy.

A dispatch from Milan, Italy, reports the arrest of a young barber, who recently arrived there from Paterson, N. J. The prisoner gives his name as Tonetti and confesses that he is an anarchist. Papers which were seized at his lodgings include correspondence with Paterson anarchists and a document indicating that it was Tonetti's intention to assassinate King Victor Emmanuel, who frequently travels to a motor car.

Bound Over.

Lizzie Anderson, who shot John and Perry Nettles near Bickley, Ga., a month ago, was given a commitment nearing and bound over to the superior court. The evidence was that the Nettles boys with several others attempted to make her leave the settlement. She fired one charge from a shotgun in the air to frighten the men away and when they ran she fired again, wounding both Nettles boys.

MORE WIVES LIKE THIS

And Fewer Deaths Resulting from Them.

The Jaubert brothers, who operate a small coal mine near Oreville, Ill., were both shot to death at their home by the wife of one of the men. They returned intoxicated and the husband demanded his supper. Mrs. Jaubert began her preparation and her husband began breaking the dishes, and at last attacked her. Mrs. Jaubert and her sister fled to a back room and locked the door. Her husband followed, broke in the door and renewed his assault, whereupon the infuriated wife fired three shots into his body, one passing through his heart, causing almost instant death. The brother, who was a witness to the tragedy, took up the quarrel, whereupon Mr. Jaubert emptied the two remaining chambers of the revolver into his body, from the effects of which he died shortly afterwards. The woman gave the alarm and surrendered to the officers. The coroner's jury exonerated the wife.

AUGUST NINTH

Date Set For Coronation of King Edward VII.

An official notification has been issued by the king's command, that the coronation of King Edward and Queen Alexandra will take place August 9. Rehearsals of the procession from Buckingham palace to Westminster Abbey have taken place and the officials of the various state departments concerned in the Abbey ceremony are again busy with preparations for the ceremony.

THE OFFICERS ADMIT

Their Defeat and Give up the Chase of Tracy.

After forty days of continual pursuit by men and bloodhounds, all organized effort to capture Harry Tracy, the escaped Ore convict, has ended. No further possses will start after him. The pursuit of Tracy through Clark, Cowitt, Lewis, Tauraton, Pierce, Kitap, Suohomish and King counties has cost these counties $10,000.

Another Greely Gone.

John W. Greely, a cousin of the founder of the New York Tribune, died in Londonderry, N. H., last Tuesday in the eighty-fourth year of his age. He and Horace Greely were born in the same house in Amherst, N. H. He was a member of a family of thirteen children. He is survived by his widow to whom he had been married fifty-eight years.

A New Fish Boat.

The Antice, a novel type of ship for handling fish in the gulf of Mexico was launched at the Crescent ship yards, Elizabethport, N. J., July 12. She is built of mild steel of the highest textile strength and has steam windlass and steering gear, electric lights and refrigerating holds, the latter to be kept at proper temperature by ice machines. She is 177 feet in length, 24 feet beam and 10 feet draught. Oil will be used for fuel.

Liverpool fears that the coronation may be postponed again. Among medical men a certain amount of skepticism exists as to the fitness of the king to go through the coronation on August 9. His majesty's recovery would be certainly wonderful, if a man who is still unable to walk should be in position to undergo the fatigues of crowning in three weeks. The same skepticism is expressed in other quarters. A second postponement would not surprise the public.

Fire destroyed ninety blocks in Guayaquil, Ecuador. Loss $5,000,000. The government custom house was burned.

Triple Murder.

Near Stringtown, I. T., Mrs. Daniel Grant, her daughter, Mrs. Jack Reeves, and a man named Nickles, were waylaid and killed while returning from church. Mrs. Reeves had been separated from her husband about eight months and prior to that time the couple had lived with the Grant family.

King Edward will supersede the coronation coach of George III with a landau.

Wish They'd do It Here.

The Pennsylvania railroad announces that passengers on the Twentieth Century Limited between New York and Chicago will be granted a rebate of $1 for each hour the train is late in reaching either New York or Chicago.

FOUR MILITARY POSTS

Order Given for Their Establishment.

A FEW IMMIGRATION FIGURES SHOW

Carnegie Plate—Rejected—Pension Bureau—Attention to Navy

IMMIGRATION

Italy, Sicily and Sardinia Formed the Greater Number. A statement has been prepared by the immigration bureau showing the number of immigrants who arrived in the United States during the first ten years 1902, as compared with the year 1901. The total arrivals for the ten years were 646,743 immigrants, or $1,055 other alien passengers, making a total of 752,798. This is a decrease of 160,825 immigrants over 1901. The largest number of immigrants came from the following countries: Italy, including Sicily and Sardinia, 178,375; Austria-Hungary, 171,989; Russian Empire and Rumania, 107,347; Sweden, 30,848; Denmark, 29,138; German Empire, 28,041; Norway, 17,270; Japan, 14,270; Finland, 13,578.

Chickamauga First.

Secretary Root has given the order for the establishment of the first of the four great military posts which are to be the gathering places of the United States forces in case of war and in time of peace are to be the training schools for both regular and militia men. This, the first post, will be at Chickamauga. $150,000 has been allotted for the construction of a post there, calculated to accommodate one full regiment of cavalry and one company of artillery, which force is to be the nucleus of the future great military post. As the tract adjacent to the Chickamauga national park, the troops will have the run of the ten square miles comprising that tract during large maneuvers.

Cuba's Nest Egg.

The auditors' office of the United States military government of Cuba, which remained at Havana in order to check the accounts up to May 19, has finished its work. The final balance certified over to the new government May 10 was $1,613,808, of which $637,170 was in the treasury, the remainder being in the hands of the disbursing officers of the island. About $100,000 has been debited to the military government on account of estimated or possible claims.

A Speedy Craft.

The torpedo boat destroyer Whipple, in her official endurance trial on the Chesapeake course Friday made 29.44 knots over the measured mile. A part of the run was made at the rate of 30.25 knots. For the hour the boat made 27 knots. The Whipple exceeded the contract requirements in all points.

Merit Will Win.

Pension Commissioner Ware has adopted a system of promotion for his bureau in which merit alone is to be considered, without regard to political pull, religion or nativity.

The postoffice department has received an old plan to have uncollected and unserviceable postal cards redeemed at 75 per cent of face value payable in stamps by postmasters.

Louis N. James, a thirteen year old boy, has won the amateur golf championship of the United States.

The encampment of the cavalry at East Lake is over. Gen. John A. M. Clarke, after whom the camp was named, also reviewed the soldiers.

A new bank has been organized in Uniontown and will begin business in the fall.

The Alabama Chautauque met at Tallapoosa last week.

The navy department has rejected 500 tons of Carnegie cement armor plates, which failed to stand the required tests last week. It was intended for the battleship Missouri.

Hillary A. Herbert, secretary of the navy under President Cleveland's last administration, is lying very ill with typhoid fever in a hospital at Washington.

Austria-Hungary was visited by a cyclone and tropical rain storms. Homes were ruined, crops destroyed and lives lost.

NEW CONDITIONS OVER THE STATE

Russell Sage Boys Land

An Ancient Document Found.

Has Caught His Dinner

Capt. A. L. Dabney, the Confederate civil engineer, who is preparing to give a banquet to his friends within the next few weeks at the Cotton States and International Exposition, has just received capturing another monster rattlesnake. The success of the feat is now being celebrated. Captain Dabney feels confident that he will be able to furnish his guests with a rattlesnake dinner. The new snake is a large one, over six feet in length, and carried twenty-seven rattles. It was a desperate fight when captured and Captain Dabney paid for it $100.

Agricultural

Twenty counties in Mississippi suffering from the effects of a drought and in over one-half the number the crop has been utterly ruined while cotton has been damaged from 60 to 75 per cent. Tallahatchie county the destruction is practically complete and cotton is being plucked. The drought in the delta is spreading and latest reports received state that counties where the prospects were excellent two weeks ago there is now great desolation.

Ram.

Dispatches from northern and central Mississippi report generous rainfall Saturday and Sunday. They came late to save early corn but will also a fair crop of late corn. Cotton is well.

Souvenirs.

Governor Longino has received a piece of Mississippi marble which inscribes to Col. William J. Bryan a piece of Mississippi marble who inspired to place in this new hall Lincoln, Neb. Colonel Bryan in his letter that he desires to have a mantle in his new parlor made of marble from the various states he has visited in the two presidential elections. He was the democratic candidate. The governor has complied with the request.

Michigan Girl Drowned.

Miss Lottie Miller, of Holland, Mich., was drowned in Pearl Harbor while fishing with a party of friends. She was visiting the family of her father.

In several parts of the state the planting of corn, which was delayed during the recent drought, is set down and the land replanted. The farmers believe in case of a late fall, they will have a crop, and if the plant should be off from fruition by early frost make good fodder.

Russell Sage has purchased of 60,000 acres of long leaf pine land in southern Mississippi. It is learned that he does not propose to develop it immediately, but will wait until the big mills which are being built and night have exhausted their supply and fancy prices are commanded.

A little book of an early to governor of Mississippi, William Claiborne, has been discovered. The book is the state's first. It contains letters written by the governor to Jefferson, Madison and others in regard to the Louisiana purchase.

A new mill holler near Dow, the Alabama state line, blew up, killing two white men, Primrose and his son, Frank. Primrose was another man.

Prohibition.

The fight for state prohibition is renewed at the next session of the Mississippi legislature, and Governor Longino should be in being petitioned to do by certain men, bankers and cotton brokers of the state. It is not likely that state measure looking and will be introduced there.

The Weekly Crop Bulletin Says:
While temperatures averaged slightly lower than the previous week, the day temperatures ranged well up in the nineties on several days, though the heat was tempered by slightly more than the average cloudiness; scattered showers were received in many central, east-central, and a few southern counties, with a few heavy local rains, but the very long drought continues practically unbroken in many western, middle and northern counties. Cotton continues clean, and, while small, it is healthy and holding up remarkably well; in sections where moisture has been received, it is taking on a new growth; as a whole, it is well fruited, though continuing to bloom too heavily at the top; there are several complaints of shedding of leaves and bolls, and a few complaints of rust. Early corn will make some yield, but, taken as a whole, it is practically a failure; pulling of fodder from early corn is progressing slowly, with this forage very dry and inferior; late corn has deteriorated in drought stricken districts, but has improved where moisture has been received, particularly on bottom lands, where it is fairly promising. Minor crops continue generally poor and backward, though cane, sorghum, and peas have improved slightly where showers were received; some sweet potatoes were transplanted, though the greater portion of this work remains to be done; gardens have revived in a few localities, but vegetables continue scarce; pastures continue poor; very little hay has been made, and, without general rains soon, the hay crop will be very light; melons and cantaloupes are being marketed very slowly, with the vines withering in many fields; late peaches are ripening slowly, with the fruit inferior; grapes continue promising. The ground continues generally too hard and dry to plow for fall crops, though turnips have been sown in some localities, and more peas have been planted.

NOTICE.

DRAMATIC PERFORMANCE.

The Chilton Dramatic Club will give an entertainment Friday night at the court house.

Vanity Ticked.

During the early excesses of the French revolution a rabble of men and women were rioting in the streets of Paris. Lafayette appeared and ordered a young artillery officer to open fire upon them with two cannon. The officer begged the general to let him try first to persuade them to withdraw.

"It is useless to appeal to their reason," said the general.

"Certainly," answered the officer, "and it is not to their reason, but to their vanity, I would appeal."

The officer rode up to the front of the mob, doffed his cocked hat, pointed to the guns and said:

"Gentlemen will have the kindness to retire, for I am ordered to shoot down the rabble."

The street was cleared at once, for none could brook the idea of being classed with the scum of the city.

Why He Wasn't Impressed.

The following story is told of a garrulous victim of the Johnstown flood of 1889, who when he reached paradise ascended a cloud that served within the pearly gates as a rostrum and undertook to thrill his new made acquaintances among the shades with an account of the disaster through which he had passed. He was interrupted by a gray bearded old man in the group. "A mere bucketful—a mere bucketful!" the old fellow piped. "Don't waste so much time talking of a small affair like that!"

The Johnstown man resented this and hunted up St. Peter, of whom he asked, "Who is that old codger who seems to think our flood such a trifling matter?"

"That?" said St. Peter. "Why, that's Noah!"

Our clever Sheriff John Morgan visited our city to-day.

Well, Mr. Editor, I think our executive committee made a serious mistake when they laid down the law that no one should vote at the primary on the 25th of August but those who have voted the democratic ticket for the last two elections. I thought the advocates of the new constitution wanted all the white people of Alabama to get together but it does not look so from the way the committee acted. I think the best plan would have been to let all white men come in and vote that would have pledged themselves to support the nominees of the Democratic party. There are a large number of good citizens and voters in Alabama that would have come back to our party and voted with us. But how can we expect them to come back and vote with us after we have created them so badly. I could not ask them to do it. We will need them too, before the general election is over. I have always voted the Democratic ticket ever since I was old enough to vote. But I think I will stand off this time and see the old "true blues" fight it out amongst themselves.

Saves a Woman's Life.

To have given up would have meant death for Mrs. Louis Cragg, of Dorchester, Mass. For years she had endured untold misery from a severe lung trouble and obstinate cough. "Often," she writes, "I could scarcely breathe and sometimes could not speak. All doctors and remedies failed till I used Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and was completely cured." Sufferers from Coughs, Colds, Throat and Lung Trouble need this grand remedy, for it never disappoints. Cure is guaranteed by Clanton Drug Co. and F. A. Gullledge, Verbena.

Reasoning the system.

It is through the bowels that the body is cleansed of impurities. Constipation keeps these poisons in the system, causing headache, dizziness and melancholia at first, then unsightly eruptions and finally serious illness unless a remedy is applied. DeWitt's Little Early Risers prevent this trouble by stimulating the liver and promote easy, healthy action of the bowels. These little pills do not act violently but by strengthening the bowels enable them to perform their own work. Never gripe or distress.

Laxative Bromo-Quinine Tablets cure a cold in one day. No Cure No Pay. Price 15 cents.

FOR HARNES and Middle Grove Hardware Store. It takes effect at once, and you will be astonished to see how quickly it kills even.

It's this way:

You can burn yourself with Fire, with Powder, etc., or you can scald yourself with Steam or Hot Water, but there is only one proper way to cure a burn or scald and that is by using

Mexican Mustang Liniment.

It gives immediate relief. Get a piece of soft old linen cloth, saturate it with this liniment and bind loosely upon the wound. You can have no adequate idea what an excellent remedy this is for a burn until you have tried it.

A FOWL TIP. If you have a bird afflicted with Roup or any other poultry disease use Mexican Mustang Liniment. It is called a STANDARD remedy by poultry breeders.

Normal Musical Institute.

The Second Session of the Showalter Normal Musical Institute will begin in Clanton, Ala., on Thursday, the 7th day of August, 1902.

The Institute will be under the personal leadership of Prof. A. J. Showalter, of Dalton, Ga., assisted by his two daughters. The charges will be as follows:

For all not in Harmony and under 14 years..... 3.00
For all above 14 years and not in Harmony..... 4.00
For Primary Harmony..... 4.50
For Advanced Harmony..... 5.00

for the term of twenty days. Where two are sent from the same family, a deduction of 15 per cent will be allowed; for three from one family, a deduction of 20 per cent. Where more than three wish to enter from one family, apply to Committee for special discounts. Special arrangements can be made for private lessons on reasonable terms.

Board can be had in pleasant homes at from seven to ten dollars. The first session of this Institute was a grand success and the promise for the second session is very flattering. A large number from a distance are making applications for places. The session will be one of the best and fullest ever taught in middle Alabama.

Clanton is one of the best business towns between Birmingham and Montgomery, situated on the great Louisville & Nashville system, 42 miles north of Montgomery, in the health giving pine woods, on a high plateau, 550 feet above tide water; malaria is unknown. The water is celebrated for its purity and coolness. The people are refined, cultivated Christian people, and will extend a hearty welcome to those attending. And while those attending this Institute do so with a purpose, and will have the greater part of their time occupied, still in the intervals there will be time for pleasant social intercourse. The Committee will cheerfully give any further information wanted. Address

BILL ARP'S LETTER

Being in Convalescent Stage He Discourses Upon Doctors

HIS SON TELLS HIM THROUGH SAFETY

Barlow Man Declares that Were He Not for Medical Science He and King Edward Both Would Have Gone Home Last Week

I don't know whether I can write a letter or not. I will try. The effort will keep me from thinking about myself. For a month I have been playing "Billie" in the low grounds, but I had a good doctor who has nursed me night and day and cheered me up and comforted me and I am on the up grade, though as the Georgia crackers say "I am powerful weak." This doctor is my son and he says he has not forgotten how his mother and I nursed him for three long months in Florida and saved his life and now I shall not die if he can help it. I take all his medicines, quinine, strychnine, calomel, spirits of nitre, capsules without number, and tonics, too, and if I get well I will never know what cured me, but he will. What would the world do without doctors? King Edward and I would have died last week.

About twenty years ago I had a spell like this one, for I had been working in the water all day trying to dam up the branch in the meadow so that the children could go in bathing. That night I liked to have died, and old Dr. Kirk was sent for and worked on me for three or four days and got me up again. My wife told me then that if I didn't live out half my days. She told me the same thing the other day, and she knows. Old Dr. Kirk is a trump. He was our family doctor until he got old and tired and moved away to live with his children. Before he moved to this place from South Carolina he had a love scrape over there, and he had a rival, too, and they fell out. The girl wouldn't have either one of them and the other fellow heard that the doctor had told stories on him to the girl and so after the doctor located here his rival wrote to him and demanded a retrial, or else a fight. The doctor wrote him a stinger and refused to accept a retrial, but would accept his challenge and fight him until blades gave over, and as the fighting code gave the challenged party choice of weapons and time and place and distance he should choose rifles at long range and the next 29th day of February as the time and the other fellow must stay where he was and shoot over this way and he (the doctor) would stay here and shoot over that way and both must aim high so as not to hit anybody between them.

But I must stop now and take breath. A good long breath is what I want. The old woman was asked what she said the doctors differed about it, but she always believed he died for lack of breath. I don't want to go that way. I was ruminating about these physicians, for doctor is not the proper name. Doctor means a teacher of anything, whether it be science or art or law or pharmacy or theology. Physician is the right word. It is a very ancient name for the professor. The Bible tells how Joseph got the physicians to embalm his old father, but I do not think it was a very popular profession among the Jews, for it is mentioned only two or three times and with doubtful favor. King Asa had a disease in his feet and would not call upon the Lord for relief, but sent for a physician, and he died and slept with his fathers. Then there was a woman who had an issue of blood for twelve years and had suffered much from many physicians and spent all she had and was nothing better, but rather grew worse. The Jews unto this day do not give much patronage to physicians or quack medicines. I never knew but one Jew doctor, though there are a few very eminent ones in the large cities, for whatever a learned Jew does he does well. There is a doctor Jacob in New York city who stands at the head of the profession and is consulted by the rich and great men of the nation.

Now, let me stop for another good, long breath. When I was a boy we didn't have but one doctor in the town, and he weighed 300 pounds and was never in a hurry. He left little babies around ever and anon and when one came to our house the old cook told us where he got them and she slyly pointed to his corpulence. He had a little office on the street and a few shelves with bottles on them containing calomel, salts and castor oil, senna and camomile and Peruvian bark, balsam of capilla, and such simple things, and in the corner was a skeleton in a box that stood upright, with a scrow in the skull, and sometimes the little, long door was open and we school children could peep in and then run for our lives. It was an awful sight. But the old doctor got too old and fat to practice and sent to New York for his nephew, Dr. Philo D. Wildman, a student of Valentine Mott, the great New York physician and surgeon. He was as smart as his tutor and went to cutting and stitching our people just like killing hogs. He straightened cross eyes and sewed up bare legs and stitched up of soldiers. The agonizing screams of poor little John Thompson, my schoolmate, still haunt me, for he was simply dying of stone in the bladder and the doctor cut it out. It was as large as a pigeon egg and the little boy got well. My brother and Jim Craig studied under Wildman, and when they wanted a stiff they would go out to the Redland grave yard in the night and dig up a fresh buried corpse and haul it to a little room back of their office and cut it up and boil it down and make a skeleton of the bones. I went with them one night and helped them to dig up a negro, but somebody rocked us as we were taking it out and we had to run for our lives, for they threatened to shoot. That satisfied me with the business and I never went again.

But our little town wasn't big enough for Wildman and so he moved to Columbus and made a great reputation. About that time the yellow fever visited Savannah, and Wildman believed he could stamp it out and that he was immune, but he wasn't. He took the fever right away and died. It is a curious coincidence that three doctors from our town went to Savannah to fight the fever and every one of them took it and died.

But I was ruminating about the suffering and agony that the advance in surgery and physic has saved mankind and I rejoice that Crawford Long has been given the first place in the Hall of Fame. I was at school in Athens when his discovery was made, but the magnitude of it was not realized until long after. I was one of the first to have a tooth extracted by the use of his lethean.

Let me rest a while, for I am weak and nervous, and, as Byron said—

"My visions fit less palpably before me."

I have just enjoyed a good, long letter from my old school mate, Nathan Crawford, of Lincoln. He is the honored school commissioner of the county and will die in harness, I reckon. He is in his eightieth year, but we were classmates, for he was one of those sure and slow boys, while I was precocious and uncertain. Only three of us left now, for Tom Alexander is living at Rome. Nathan writes a good, old fashioned, cheerful letter, and says that he never stole Frank Alexander's watermelons, and hints that it was Overton Young and a boy of my name. The only reason that he didn't steal them was that he boarded with Mr. Alexander and got plenty without stealing. It is too late now for him to assume a saintly morality, for Tom and I still live to testify. But it was a good letter and the memory of Nat Crawford is always comforting and refreshing.

Now for a good, long rest—Bill Arp, in Atlanta Constitution.

The Boers have taught Continental Europe a lesson: It is that an army may be too big and unwieldy to be handled effectively against a comparatively small force of mobile men who know how to take cover and shoot straight. Hence there should be a reduction of armaments, with consequent relief to the taxpayer. It follows from the fact that the British empire with all its resources was three years, lacking four months, subduing the farmer Boers, that the time has gone by when a powerful nation can ride rough-shod over a people who may be few in numbers, but who have an ample supply of magazine rifles and ammunition and know how to use them. That is a good thing for the whole world to learn. The rude Boer has been a great educator. As a peacemaker he is better than the Hague Conference, observes the New York Sun, and he wears the laurels in defeat. May England rule him wisely and well and appreciate his role qualities.

Fifty per cent. of all the strikes in the United States are successful, thirty per cent. succeeded in part, while thirty-six per cent. fail completely. These figures represent the averages of the twenty-year period from 1881 to 1900. They appear with many other facts of high statistical and economic interest in a table prepared by Mr. Carroll D. Wright from the material furnished by the sixteenth annual report of the United States Commissioner of Labor. Mr. Wright publishes them in an article in the North American Review.

There were 6057 miles of railways built in the United States in the past year. Texas has a long lead, having built 538 miles, Oklahoma coming next with 428 miles, and New Mexico third with 275 miles. The young southwest is developing wonderfully. Five eastern states report no new mileage, while Nebraska alone, among western states, has not increased her railway lines.

The secretary of war has found it necessary to issue an order holding army officers peculiarly responsible for the disappearance of revolvers and other small arms used in the service, unless the loss is proved to be due to legitimate causes. His action has been prompted by an extraordinary increase in the losses of this kind of property.

manufacturers of the state have determined to seek relief by electing these commissioners as they do all other state officers, and have commenced the agitation of this question in earnest. They are determined to support no man for the legislature before the democratic primaries and convention who does not pledge himself to aid in the passage of a law giving the people the right to elect the railroad commission, and having the commissioners paid by the state and favoring the enactment of laws giving the commission authority to establish and maintain reasonable freight rates on shipments within the state.

No sooner had the people commenced this agitation than the L. & N. Railroad Company, through its attorney, Capt. J. M. Falkner, declared war upon them as shown by his interview in the Birmingham News of July 9th, in which he, says in substance that that railroad would fight this movement with all the weapons that are recognized as fair in political warfare; that the road will come out boldly in the open field and make the issue before the people. He further said: "The men who are behind this have announced that they will exact pledges from candidates for the legislature" and that "The L. & N. people will put some questions to the candidates, too."

What these questions will be, we are not informed. The only appropriate question is: Are you in favor of the railroads and against the people? We are anxious for this question to be put to and answered by every candidate. Capt. Falkner further threatens to mass the employees of the railroad company and throw them in the coming election against the people on this question. He characterizes the leaders of this movement who have patronized his road for years as sore-heads, and says they do not represent the people, and if not actuated by hate toward the railroads, they are moved by selfishness, and says that the savings from reduced freight rates would be put in somebody's pocket and that the consumer would not get the benefit. He further threatens the people by saying: "If the movement continues to grow the railroads of Alabama will be but obeying the law of self-defense in lining up against it; there has been no concert of action yet by the railroads but that is inevitable under the contingency which I have stated."

He then says that "the L. & N. Railroad Company is the first railroad to step in the firing line." "We believe that our interests are threatened at a vital point and we are going to contend manfully for their preservation."

It will be seen from the above that there is a positive unequivocal declaration of political warfare by this railroad company against the people of Alabama, and that the combined railroads of the state are to be enlisted in it. The business men of Birmingham have accepted the issue tendered in this threat, as will be shown by the following resolutions:

RESOLUTIONS
"Whereas, the Louisville & Nashville railroad company, through its attorney, J. M. Falkner, has declared political warfare upon its patrons, the merchants, manufacturers and farmers of Alabama, as is shown by an interview of the said J. M. Falkner, published in the Birmingham News of the 9th instant, and
"Whereas, this political warfare has been declared by said railroad company from the "house top," and "to be waged by it with all the weapons that are recognized as fair in political warfare," and

"Whereas, the patrons of the said railroad company who have for years attributed by their patronage to the said and aggrandizement of said railroad company and have borne with the unjust exactions imposed on them by it have been denounced by said Falkner as 'sore-heads,' and
"Whereas said railroad company has declared through its said attorney that it will marshal all its employees to hunt them, as unwilling oppressors against its said patrons in the coming election, and
"Whereas, the said railroad company, a foreign corporation, exercising franchise in Alabama by the sufferance of the people of the state as its servant, has assumed the attitude of a corporate power and wealth, and is engaged in the firing line with its people, Alabama, contemplating with indifference their destruction and ruin, an inevitable result if the railroad is successful in the conflict, therefore

RESOLVED, That we accept the issue of battle cast by this, our former servant, and while we regret the necessity of such a contest and engage in it with no spirit of capricious opposition to railroads, as we recognize them, then properly controlled, to be useful auxiliaries in the development and growth of our country, we, however, enter into it with hope and determination, pledging to the cause our earnest support.

"We rejoice that it is to be an open fight, as it will enable us to distinguish our friends from our foes, to draw the line between those who put the welfare of all the people of the state above the sordid greed of the unrestrained, insatiable greed of this foreign-taxing power which is sapping their prosperity, draining them of their substance and blighting alike the farm, the factory and the store."

"We rejoice that the fight is to be made upon facts, as the facts will show that the people of Georgia, who have a railroad commission elected by the people and under their pay, with adequate laws to enforce its orders pay from 40 to 70 per cent less on shipments of local freight in that state than do the people of Alabama on similar freights in this state, whose commission is appointed by the governor and paid by the railroads, and who have not adequate laws to regulate freight rates between the people and the railroads. The facts will further show that a farmer in South Alabama ships his products into the state of Georgia and then ships them back by his home in order to reach the market in Alabama. The facts will also show that with fair freight rates in Georgia, the farm lands in that state are worth from 33 to 50 per cent more than the same class of lands in Alabama under the freight rates exacted in this state."

ARE NOT DISMAYED.
"We are not dismayed by the threats that the other railroads in Alabama are to be lined up against the people in this fight, and that the fight is to be a vigorous one. We expected nothing less from the alien owner of these railroads who, moved by his greed, has formed a gigantic trust, combining all of the railroads of the country under one management, and is now laying his hand upon the ocean, seeking to place it under tribute to his cupidity and avarice. A railroad trust is no less dangerous or extortionate than a beef trust."

"This fight should be made to the finish, for if it ought to be determined once for all, whether the people of Alabama or J. Pierpont Morgan, through his railroad, will control the policy of the state."

If the people of Alabama have sufficient intelligence to select by ballot a 1 the other state and county officers, why haven't they the intelligence and capacity to select the railroad commissioners? Why are they singled out and the people deprived of the right to vote for them unless it is that they want to remove them as far from the people that they will have no sympathy for nor interest in the people?

The right to fix a freight rate gives the right to tax that which the people produce and consume, and the people are required, indirectly, to pay tax every day in the year.

Should this taxing power be unlimited and unrestrained? Should the people have the right to say through a commission elected by their votes, to these foreign owners of railroads exercising this taxing power: "Thus far shalt thou go, and no further?"

Let the people see that candidates for the legislature pledge themselves to aid them in this fight, if elected, before giving them their support.

FREE DELIVERY ROUTES.

There Will Be Seventy-one in Alabama This Fall.

On September 1, there will be a total of seventy-one routes of rural free delivery in the state of Alabama, as compared with forty-three on the same date last year. The First and the Sixth Congressional districts have no rural free delivery. The following are the number of rural free delivery routes in the state by counties on September 1:

Ninth District, Jefferson county—Girlington, seven routes; East Lake, two routes; Adamsville, one route; Adger, one route; Bessemer, five routes; Easley, one route; Leeds, one route; McCalla, one route; Morris, two routes; Palos, one route; Pinson, two routes; Pratt City, one route; Trussville, two routes; Warrior, two routes.

First District, Mobile county—Mobile, four routes.

Third District, Lee county—Opelika, one route; Chevala, one route; Auburn, one route; Louchapoka, one route.

Third District, Barbour county—Eufaula, one route.

Third District, Henry county—Dothan, one route; Headland, one route.

Fourth District, Calhoun county—Anniston, three routes; Oxford, two routes; Jacksonville, two routes; Duke, one route; Piedmont, two routes.

Fourth District, Talladega county—Lincoln, one route; Talladega, one route.

Fifth District, Tallapoosa county—Alexander City, two routes.

Fifth District, Macon county—Notasulga, two routes; Tuskegee, two routes.

Seventh District, Etowah county—Gadsden, three routes; Attalla, three routes.

Seventh District, Marshall county—Albertville, one route.

Eighth District, Madison county—Huntsville, one route.

Eighth District, Colbert county—Tusculum, one route.

Eighth District, Lauderdale county—Florence, two routes.

Eighth District, Limestone county—Elkton, two routes.

ONE THOUSAND CITIZENS

Disfranchise Themselves in Montgomery County.

Registration closed in Montgomery county with one thousand white men left out. Every effort was made to get them all on the roll, but even personal solicitations failed, and the county falls to about fifth place in the figure it will put in the primary. The total is 4164, of which 47 are negroes. Unless an unusual proportion of the voters can be gotten to the polls on August 25th, the vote of the county in the primary will not be much over 3,000. Against this great loss of political power there is no kick, the people being amongst the most enthusiastic primary advocates in the state.

RESISTED THE OFFICER

And Paid For it With His Life.

Alex Stoenepher was shot Friday afternoon at Henry Ellen by Deputy Sheriff Doughton while resisting arrest and died later. The deputy told Stoenepher to consider himself under arrest. The latter drew a pistol and commenced firing at the deputy, who returned the fire, mortally wounding his opponent with the first shot. Stoenepher had been ordered arrested by a justice of the peace for refusing to pay his road tax. The deputy was specially commissioned to arrest him and had been looking for him for several days. Stoenepher gave them a merry chase through several counties, carrying two pistols and a Winchester rifle all the time.

Bound Over.

Lizzie Anderson, who shot John and Perry Nettles near Bickley, Ga., a month ago, was given a commitment hearing and bound over to the superior court. The evidence was that the Nettles boys with several others attempted to make her leave the settlement. She fired one charge from a shotgun in the air to frighten the men away and when they ran she fired again, wounding both Nettles boys.

NOTABLE DOCUMENT.

Access to "the Independent State of Alabama."

The department of history in receipt of the military papers of the late Colonel R. T. Jones of the Twelfth Alabama regiment in the civil war. Among them is one very rare document, being his commission as lieutenant-colonel of artillery made out in the name of "The Independent State of Alabama," which was the title of the commonwealth during the brief period between the passage of the ordinance of secession and the organization of the Confederacy. They are presented by his widow who now lives in Selma.

A very valuable gift recently was that of the poster of the Twenty-eighth Alabama, presented by Col. R. N. Berry, of Selma. It is the only record of the kind in existence of that notable regiment.

WANTS STATE APPROPRIATION

Committee Waited on Governor Jinks to Secure It.

A committee from the Alabama association has called on Governor Jinks to secure a state appropriation for the fair this fall. He promised to take the matter up with Commissioner Poole and communicate with the committee as soon as possible. The matter was discussed thoroughly with the governor and the entire plans made plain to him. He took considerable interest in them and it is expected he will use his influence in securing an appropriation, half of which will go to live stock premiums.

FOUND IN MOBILE

Whither He Had Gone to Escape a Whipping.

Oscar Janson, the 12-year-old son of a Montgomery shoemaker, went away from home last Friday night clothed in a shirt and an old pair of breeches, rather than stay under the parental roof and take a threatened birching. His distracted mother's heart was relieved by news from the chief of police in Mobile that the orphan was safe in that city.

Holds Over.

Sheriff Black, of Geneva, will hold at least until November, which takes him over the period of the general election. The supreme court sustained the lower court in ousting him in a contest, but he applied for a rehearing and the court withdrew the certificate of affirmance pending the rehearing. The court does not meet until November, and thus Black holds on. He is a Democrat.

Mine Stable Burned.

Fire broke out in a mine stable at Wylam Saturday. As luck happened the mines were not out of the mine. The fire destroyed all the stables and feed, which amounted to several thousand dollars. It is claimed a spark from a driver's lamp set the fire off.

Forced to Shut Down.

Imogene mine, near Gurnee Junction, is temporarily closed. A fire broke out in the engine house which destroyed the house and a part of the machinery. The company will be able to resume work in a few days. Blorton mines, two of the slopes, will begin work at once. One of the mines will stop for repairs.

Boy Stabs Playmate.

THE BANNER

LET THE PEOPLE RULE.

VOL. X

CLANTON, ALA. THURSDAY JULY 31, 1902

NO. 41

THE MAN ON THE CORNER

One of the Signs He Saw, and Some He

Had lots to tell you this week, but am squeezed out, and so is a lot of correspondence, but it could not be helped. Henry Jones signed the contract, and Ben Teal started work on the new brick warehouse. A handsome new dwelling is being erected for Renfro Mullins next to Mayor Callen's house.

DRAMATIC PERFORMANCE

There was a good sized audience at the court house to witness the initial performance of the Clanton Dramatic Club. The play was the humorous drama in three acts "Not Such a Fool as He Looks." It was well staged, the scenery was good, and the makeup of the actors excellent.

Act I opens in the office of Mr.
Daniel Murgatroyd (E. B. Dea-son), a money lender, from whom Captain Marker (J. Watts Moore) is endeavoring to extract a loan.
Murgatroyd has a beautiful niece, Felicia (Miss Allie Stewart) who is in love with Mr. Frederic Grantly
(J. H. Middleton) but the money lender intends her to marry Sir Simple (T. A. Curry). Jennie (Miss Mamie Latham) a maid, brings in a note to say Sir Simon is coming. Sir Simon is rather stiff, but has a good heart and is "Not such a fool as he looks." Felicia appeals to him not to press his suit, and, like a gentleman, he agrees to help her to marry Grantly.
On learning this, Murgatroyd in a rage declares Sir Simon is not a baronet but the son of a washerwoman.
Mrs. Mold (Mrs. Gamma Anderson).

Act II shows Mrs. Mold at home at laundry work, with Mr.
Mold (Dr. P. I. Hopkins) in an appropriate condition at supper. Her son, who had been Sir Simple Simple, enters and there is a family row. Mr. and Mrs. Mold leave the room when Grantly and Felicia enter. They had made a runaway marriage and implored Sir Simple to find them a hiding place from Murgatroyd. He puts them in a lady visitor, who makes herself known as the mother of the child whom years before she had entrusted to the care of Mrs. Mold.
The lady, Mrs. Mertins (Miss Bettie Mullins) is informed that the son is living with Mrs. Mold and will soon be in. She wants to see him before being made known to him, and is hidden behind a screen.

Act III brings Sir Simple in, heavily followed by Murgatroyd in search of the runaways, and Mold, who is half-dressed. There is a struggle between them, when Mrs. Mertins rushes out and proves to be the long lost wife of Murgatroyd. Grantly and Felicia appear down upon a happy family
and they all live happy ever after.
The performance reflects great credit upon the Dramatic Club and was carried out without a hitch.
Mr. Curry made a capital Sir Simple, who proved to be "Not such a fool as he looks," and Mr. Dea-son's make-up as the money lender was excellent. Mrs. Anderson's personation of the avaricious wash-erwoman was perfect. Dr. Hopkins, the inebriate, acted as one to manner born (No reflection, doctor). Miss Bettie Mullins recovered her long-lost child and found very naturally, and Miss Mamie Latham made a sweet looking maid. Mr. Middleton acted part as if he liked it, while Mr.
Dea-son made a fierce looking captain with his whiskers. The audience were highly pleased with the entertainment, and it is hoped the Clanton Dramatic Club will give us another performance.

Confederate Veterans' Picnic.

Camp John W. A. Sanford, Confederate Veterans, will have a recreation and basket picnic at Clanton, on August 6. Speeches will be made by Hon. Tipton Mullins and Mr. J. O. Middleton. All friends of the old Vets, especially ladies, are cordially invited to attend and bring their baskets.

The public is invited to attend
the opening day of the Southern Institute at Clanton, next Monday, August 7.

BERBER O. BICE DROWNED.

The excursion which left Birmingham last Saturday had an extra coach to accommodate the Thorby Cornet band and a number of friends for a trip to Mobile.

Mr. Berber O. Bice, who was taking a course at the Birmingham Business college, was called home to go with the band. It was a fatal call.

On Sunday afternoon a number of the excursionists crossed the bay
to Fairhope and went in bathing.
Berber was about 300 feet from the bathhouse, when he was heard to cry out "Oh!" and then disappeared.
It is supposed he stepped into a deep hole and, being unable to swim, was drowned.

Mr. Sam Thorson telegraphed to Berber's father, Marshal Jonathan Bice, at Thorsby, and Mr. Bice went down to Mobile on Monday.

Berber's body was not recovered until Monday morning, and was then carried to Mobile, prepared for burial and shipped to Thorsby on No. 4.

The funeral took place on Wednesday morning at New Salem cemetery, Judge Adams, who held the unfortunate young man in high regard, officiating. Berber was an estimable young man of fine character, and was beloved by all. The greatest sympathy is felt for Mr.
Bice and family in their sad bereavement.

Poisoning the system.

It is through the bowels that the body is cleansed of impurities.
Constipation keeps these poisons in the system, causing headache, dui-ness and melancholia at first, then unsightly eruptions and finally serious illness unless a remedy is applied. DeWitt's Little Early Risers prevent this trouble by stimulating
the liver and promote easy, healthy, action of the bowels. These little pills do not act violently but by strengthening the bowels enable them to perform their own work.
Never gripe or distress.

TO THE VOTERS OF THE PEOPLES PARTY.

The Executive Committee of the Peoples Party in session on July 28, 1902, had under consideration the advisability of continuing the present organization of the Peoples Party, and also the advisability of uniting with the Republican party,
and after much discussion and deliberation, decided to refer the question to the people, and ordered an election to determine the same,
to be held at the various precincts
within the county, on Friday, August 22, 1902. Polls to be opened at or before 9 o'clock a.m., and to close at 5 o'clock p.m. Tickets will be furnished to the managers. The voters desiring to continue the organization of the Peoples Party will vote Peoples Party. Those who are in favor of the Republican party will vote Republican party; and also to elect delegates to a county convention, to be held in the court house in Clanton, at 11 a.m., August 23, 1902, for the purpose of nominating candidates for county offices. Also the Executive Committee will meet on the last above named day and place to count the votes. The Beats are entitled to the following number of delegates, viz:

Professor Moore of the weather bureau at Washington has invented a cooling machine which, he says, will cool a room as easily as a stove heats it.

The design of the "President's flag"—an emblem which is displayed on a vessel only on those rare occasions when the nation is in mourning—has been altered. The present flag bears the coat of arms of the United States on a blue field. On the shield of the new emblem the thirteen stars will be arranged in a circle around the head of the eagle, with a sunburst radiating from its crest.

Overproduction of oil in Russia has led to great depression in the industry. There is no country now adequate means of distribution to relieve a glut at the point of production. The owners of flowing oil wells in Texas who could not secure transportation and who were obliged to either provide costly storage or let their oil run away were in somewhat similar predicament, but Americans are more swift to adapt means to ends. The Russians are under a further comparative disadvantage because of a fixed cash royalty exacted by the government on all oil produced.

Northwestern the war of empire takes its way from the falls of St. Mary's river, with their almost limitless water power, to Hudson Bay and the headwaters of the Fraser river and the Saskatchewan, the cry goes up for more and still more pioneers to subdue and reduce to possession millions of acres of fertile fields and vast stores of hidden mineral wealth. Already the wood pulp industry of the northwest has become highly developed, while vast deposits of copper, zinc, nickel and the precious metals are being unearthed by American prospectors. The final introduction to the world of productive industry of this region of fabulous natural wealth promises to go into economic records as a sensation of latter-day achievement.

"I am inclined to think that if our president were to cease his routine of hard work he would die," remarked Juan Cortina, a Mexican who recently visited Washington. At half past 8 every morning General Diaz goes to his office and works until about 1.30 p. m. At 4.30 he goes back again, and rarely ever leaves before 11, and often not until midnight. His time is spent in the hardest sort of labor and the president would be miserable if he could not carry out the daily program. That is the reason why in my opinion he will never make any trip to foreign countries. A journey of any magnitude would break into his settled habits. He is a remarkable man in his personal habits. He takes no intoxicating liquors and is never known to partake of food at a banquet. Whether he will serve another term as president rests with himself. The people want him to stay in office as long as he lives."

Statistics collected last year by the weather bureau show that while no part of this continent is entirely free from thunderstorms, they are far from equally distributed over the country, and in some parts of it are so infrequent that the timid people living in them are able to consider themselves safe from the lightning. Florida seems to have more of these little storms than any of the other states, though its record for seventy for the year is closely approached in the mountains of Georgia and the Carolinas. The number of thunderstorms decreased with the distance from Florida, Nova Scotia having only about ten of them per annum, and California four. The average for the entire United States is about thirty each year, with half of the thirty in the months of June, July and August. The thunderstorms are roughly proportioned to the amount of rainfall, with every inch of which, as a rule, one of them comes. This rule is broken, however, notably in the maritime provinces of Canada and around Vancouver on the Pacific, where the rainfall is abundant and the thunderstorms particularly few. "It may be," says the Electrical World and Engineer, in commenting on these facts, "that in sunny climates rain and atmospheric electrical disturbances go hand in hand; whereas in more temperate regions the rain falls without marked atmospheric electrical disturbance."

ALABAMA FARMERS Are Unjustly Discriminated Against by Railroads.

ARGUMENTS FOR POPULAR ELECTION
Of Railroad Commissioners Directed to the Agricultural Interests of the State.

Statement made by Frank S. White, State Chairman of the Farmers', Merchants and Laborers' Association of Alabama.

Alabama has had a railroad commission composed of three members for more than twenty years; they have been appointed by the governor, their salaries have been paid by the railroads and no adequate laws have been passed giving them the necessary authority to regulate freight rates and to prevent extortion and unjust discrimination.

This system has proven a complete failure: first, the commissioners have been appointed by the governors generally, either to reward them for some political service rendered or to place them under obligations so as to obtain political service from them in the future; second, they were paid by the railroads and did not feel under any obligations to the people; third, if they had been disposed to relieve the people from the oppression under which they were suffering they had no sufficient power under the law to do so.

The farmers, merchants and consumers of the state have decided to appeal to the people of Alabama for relief and are urging the people in the coming primaries and conventions throughout the state to support only candidates for the lower house and the senate of the next legislature who will earnestly work to give them relief by passing a law requiring these railroad commissioners to be elected by the people, have their salaries paid by the state and who will aid in enacting laws conferring upon the commissioners sufficient authority to enable them to prevent extortion, unjust discrimination and to establish and maintain fair and reasonable freight rates.

The farmers of Alabama are more numerous than all other classes combined; they pay more taxes, they do more public service, their labors contribute more to the general welfare than do all other classes combined; they ought to receive greater consideration, and yet receive less than any other class. If the farmers of Alabama are made prosperous all other classes will receive the benefit; if they are not prosperous all other classes will suffer. They pay more freight on railroads than all other classes combined, therefore they ought to receive at the hands of the railroads the most liberal treatment, yet they have had imposed upon them by the railroads greater extortion and have been more unjustly discriminated against than any other class; they have never been given a freight rate by the railroads that would enable them to ship their products to the cities within the state so as to compete with farmers in other states. The result is that our farmers in south Alabama, who could readily supply the cities with early melons, fruits and garden products, have been driven out of the market by the shippers from Florida and southern Georgia, the black belt and the Tennessee valley have never been given a rate by the railroads that would enable them to put their corn, oats and hay into the cities, and especially in the rapidly developing mineral sections so as to enable them to compete with the states north and west of us. The result is that the markets of Alabama are supplied with corn, hay, oats and other food products from Kansas, Texas and other agricultural states. The farmers in all other sections of the state have never been given a freight rate by the railroads upon their farm and garden products which would enable them to ship to the cities of the state and compete with like productions from other states. The products are being supplied our cities from other states to the exclusion of our own people. The railroads, by giving the farmers of other states this advantage, have prevented our farmers from diversifying their crops, and have forced them to raise cotton alone and leave off these other more valuable crops, when it is well known that the more cotton we raise, the less we get for it.

Within the last month a farmer from Pickens county, Alabama, shipped from Carrollton, in that county, a carload of Irish potatoes to Birmingham. The railroads charged him at the rate of 40 cents a bushel freight. Carrollton is about 100 miles from Birmingham. At the same time the railroads were charging Kansas and Michigan farmers at the rate of 27 cents per bushel, the distance being from 600 to 800 miles. In other words, they were charging the Michigan and Kansas farmers only a little over one-half what they were charging the Pickens county farmers, and were shipping their products six or eight times as far.

The freight on this car load of potatoes from Pickens county was $114.60. This farmer not only lost all the supposed profits on his potatoes, but lost the potatoes themselves, and after paying the freight he was in debt between $30 and $40. The railroads, no doubt, have a perfect explanation for this transaction. They have not, however, made it yet.

A barrel of flour can be shipped from Mt. Vernon, Indiana, to Birmingham, Ala., for 40 cents, a distance of about 600 miles, but the railroads charge 46 cents to ship the same barrel of flour from Birmingham to Bear Creek, in this state, a distance of a little over 100 miles.

On the Central of Georgia Railroad in Georgia they charge on shipments from Macon to Fort Valley, 7 1/2 cents a hundred and meat 12 cents a hundred. The same road charges in Alabama from Birmingham to Sterrett, the same distance, on hay 18 cents, and meat, 15 cents per hundred. This same road ships from Macon to Howard, in Georgia, hay at 11 cents and meat at 15 cents per hundred. In Alabama the same road charges from Birmingham to Tramel's (2 miles less distance) hay at 22 cents and meat at 20 cents per hundred. In Georgia this road charges from Macon to Columbus, hay 15 1/2 cents and meat 19 cents per hundred. In Alabama the same road charges from Birmingham to Dadeville, hay 29 cents and meat 23 cents. The above rates are all in less than car load lots.

It will be seen from the above that the merchants and farmers in Alabama for the same service pay from 20 to 100 per cent higher freight rate on the same railroad than do the people of the adjoining state of Georgia.

Numerous other instances might be mentioned, but these are sufficient to demonstrate the unfair way in which the Alabama farmer is discriminated against in favor of farmers in other states.

It is needless to say the farmers of Alabama are growing poorer every day under these exactions, yet they are working hard and denying their families everything except the bare necessities of life.

How can the merchant and other classes in Alabama prosper, when there is no prosperity among the farmers; upon whose success does the prosperity and development of all other trades and industries depend?

The railroads cannot successfully deny that the farmers in Georgia have local freight rates for their products to cities in that state, and to cities of other states, at a very much lower freight rate than the farmers of Alabama have. Neither can they deny that the country merchants, and merchants in the smaller towns in Alabama, pay from 20 to 100 per cent higher freight rates for the same service, than do the country merchants in Georgia.

Is it not time for the farmers of Alabama to arouse themselves and cooperate with the merchants of the state who are helping to make this fight for an elective railroad commission? Indeed, is it not time for the entire people of Alabama to see the injustice that is being done the farmers and merchants of the state, and through them the injustice to all the people.

You are told by the railroads that you are not competent to elect by direct vote these railroad commissioners. This means either that you are wanting in patriotism or in sense. Don't let any man contend to your face that you do not love your country or that you are a fool. Make every candidate for the lower house and for the senate before you give him your support declare in unmistakable terms his position on this issue.

The following are some of the reasons:

- 1st. They are the servants of the people and the people should be allowed to select their servants.
- 2nd. They are created by law to prevent railroads from oppressing the people. The people should be permitted to select those who are to stand between them and oppression.
- 3rd. A commission elected by the people will reduce freight rates, and thereby reduce the cost of living and increase the value of the products of labor and make the farmer and laborer prosperous.

4th. The railroads want high freight rates—they oppose an elective commission, they fear such a commission will reduce rates.

5th. The people elect justices of the supreme court and all other state and county officers—why not allow them to elect railroad commissioners?

6th. If railroads have the power to tax anything the people produce and consume they should be permitted to elect a commission, to stand between them and the railroads to prevent exorbitant taxation.

7th. The farmers, merchants and manufacturers of Alabama can only be prosperous when they have a fair freight rate; a commission elected by the people will insure fair freight rates.

8th. It has been openly charged in the press and not denied by the railroads that local freight rates in Alabama are from 40 to 100 per cent higher than they are in Georgia—Georgia has a railroad commission friendly to the people—the people of Alabama, if allowed to vote directly, would elect a commission friendly to their interests and local freight rates would be equalized with those of Georgia.

9th. For twenty years the people of Alabama have waited in vain on railroad commissions appointed by governors and paid by railroads to give them relief against unjust freight rates—the people want a change—the railroads do not. A change cannot be made for the legislature are pledged to exert themselves to give the people the right to elect railroad commissioners and have them paid by the state before you vote for them in the primary.

NEW YORK CAPITALISTS
To Invest Heavily In Alabama Coal Lands.

Former Governor Thomas M. Waller, of Connecticut, who passed through the state with a party of New York capitalists returning from New Orleans and southern Alabama, said that the party had spent several days looking over coal territory in southern Alabama arranging for the immediate development of that section. Their mines, which have only been worked to a small extent, are situated on the Warrior river. Members of the party have decided to invest a large amount of money in the property, and by the building of several hundred barges and a market for their large output at Mobile and New Orleans.

In a recent report to his government embodying his conclusions relative to American business methods, the British consul at Chicago laid much stress upon the comparatively early age at which a man in the United States is relegated to the ranks of the superannuated. Inquiry and observation lead the consul to believe that when a man reaches the age of forty-five he has great difficulty in finding employment in Chicago, and, indeed, in any American city. This he considers a grave defect in an otherwise admirable business system. He says: "There are many men in good positions over that age who will, in all probability, remain there for some years to come and then retire; but a new-comer of that age has little chance of employment, as he cannot expect to learn new ways. A man who is out of work at that age is regarded with suspicion, especially when trade is good, because if he had proved that he was worthy of his position—which should be a good one after many years of service—he would not have been forced out; or if he had been, some other firm who had come into contact with him in business would try to secure his services."

The sessions of the Tuberculosis Congress have been beyond precedent helpful in practical hints suitable to the layman's understanding. It is well to know that consumption is not properly hereditary and not even easily communicable to persons taking proper precautions; that its allies are intemperance, insufficient clothing, dampness, filth, overcrowding, improper food; that its foes are fresh air, unlimited sunshine, good food, sanitary surroundings. These things are for individual consideration, states the New York World. The appeal of various speakers for more parks and playgrounds, for better homes for the poor and for hospitals where light cases can be cured and hopeless ones prevented from endangering the community should appeal to lawmakers and philanthropists.

Since Senator McLaurin, of South Carolina, declined the vacant judgeship on the Court of Claims, ex-governor G. W. Atkinson, of West Virginia, is being urged for the position.

Philippines.

Gen. Thomas Dead.
Gen. George L. Thomas died early Tuesday morning in Birmingham. General Thomas entered the Confederate army as a lieutenant in the First Alabama troops and served through the entire war, being promoted to the rank of major. He was a member of the United Confederate Veterans and prominent in the Alabama division. The deceased was 76 years old. He was born in Athens, Ala., September 30, 1832. He received a university education and afterwards moved to south Alabama. He was reared in Clanton, Green county. He leaves a widow and three children.

KILLED WHILE UNDER ARREST
Attorney Shoots Fellow Passenger and Claims Defense of Policeman.

Hollis B. Parrish, a young Owenton attorney, shot and killed George Leonard, a brick layer, Monday afternoon on a street car in the heart of Birmingham. The shooting resulted from some words the two men had after boarding the car. It seems that when the two men boarded the car Parrish brushed against Leonard and the other resented it. Some words ensued, and an officer who was on the car ordered the two to stop talking and they persisted, and the policeman told the conductor to stop the car. When the car stopped Leonard refused to go and pulled back when the policeman told him to get off. Parrish states he thought Leonard was trying to resist the policeman, and as well as he remembers, was putting his hand in the direction of his rear pocket, giving cause for him to believe that Leonard intended to shoot the policeman, so he reached around the officer's waist and fired. The ball entered the left breast just above the heart. It lodged in the body and has not been found. The weapon used was a 38-calibre Iver-Johnson pistol, which Parrish says was given him by a man in payment of a debt. Parrish is about 25 years old and is a son of the Rev. L. F. Parrish, presiding elder of the Tuscaloosa district. He also has a brother who is a minister in Athens, Ala. Leonard leaves a wife and one brother.

Alabama's First Cotton Bale.

Selma has the distinction of receiving the first bale of cotton in Alabama. It was raised by Captain J. F. O'Brien, of Burnsville, who has raised more first bales than any farmer in Alabama. It weighed 470 pounds, classed strict middling and sold for 12 cents. This is the earliest bale of cotton brought to market in Alabama in five years. In 1897 the same negro that drove the wagon that brought the new bale this time, brought a bale on July 27. In 1900 the first bale was brought to Selma on August 9th, and in 1901 it was August 15th before a bale reached here.

New postmasters in Alabama are: M. J. Barrows at Cohasset, Conecuh county, and A. W. Anthony at Guinn, Marion county.

Wm. Carr, a miner, was badly crushed by falling rock in a Sayreton mine Monday.

The new $35,000 Methodist church at Selma is occupied. The first service was held in it last Sunday. At the morning service a presentation was made of a beautiful Bible and hymn book from Miss Mary Harvey and a beautiful solid silver water set from the congregation of Temple Mishkan Israel. Some years ago when the last named had given up their old synagogue and were without a house of worship, pending the erection of their new beautiful temple, the Methodists tendered them the use of their church.

Paris has an Anti Consumption Dispensary, whose establishments are situated in the most thickly populated districts of that city. Patients are received, cared for, and given advice as to the precautions to be taken to stop the progress of the dread disease. In addition the society has several sanatoria outside Paris where consumptives are treated by the "open-air cure."

REPUBLICAN LEAGUE
Called to Meet Next Month to Organize
State Campaign.

Hon. Joseph C. Manning, who is postmaster at Alexander City, and for the past few years has been an ardent republican, authorized the organization of a meeting of republicans from several counties in Alabama to be held at Montgomery, Ala., Tuesday, August 14th, for the purpose of organizing an Alabama league of republicans. He states that he has been in correspondence with republicans throughout Alabama and that there is a widespread feeling of sentiment for a movement.

The object of the league, as stated by Mr. Manning, is to unite republicans in concerted action to build up the party and to engage in an educational contest for votes instead of the usual conflict for delegates.

Mr. Manning says that the league will select a delegation to attend the next meeting of the National Republican League of Clubs. He says that that President Roosevelt assumed that he stood ready to back up a broad gauge movement to secure the party strength and respectability in Alabama and that the league of not be factional, but he hopes that conditions will be brought about by its work and that factionalism will disappear.

PHILIPPINE CASUALTIES.

Interesting Figures From the Insular Possessions.
The adjutant-general's office has compiled some interesting statistics regarding the insurrection in the Philippines. There were 2,561 engagements with the enemy between February 4, 1899, the date of the battle of Manila, and April 30, 1901, fixed as the virtual downfall of the rebellion. The larger portion of the fights were attacks from ambush on the American troops, or skirmishes which only small detachments of part. The number of troops that have been transported to the Philippines to July 16 last was 4,135 officers and 123,803 men. The casualties of killed or died of wounds, 69 officers and 936 enlisted men; of disease, 6 officers and 125 men; drowned, 6 officers and 267 men; suicide, 10 officers and 72 men; murdered, 1 officer and 91 men; total 139 officers and 4,016 men. Wounded, 190 officers and 2,707 men, a total of 1,897 killed or wounded, and deaths, other than disease, 282 officers and 4,158 men. Total, 4,470. A large proportion of the deaths by drowning occurred in action or in active operations against the enemy.

Mrs. Reed was shot in the arm and leg, and Key Reed was shot in the arm and leg. The shooting was done with a revolver.

Bishop Harwell Dead.

Right Rev. B. W. Harwell, bishop of the diocese of Alabama, died at Selma infirmary last Thursday noon. An operation was performed for appendicitis the day before the effects of which he never recovered. The bishop was born in Georgia in 1849. He received his education at Trinity college, Hartford, Conn. In 1874 he was made a bishop and advanced to the present two years later, resigning the diocese of Alabama and Selma, Ala., in 1896. He was a member of the Alabama diocese, and succeeded late Bishop Wilkins as bishop of Selma. He leaves a widow and children.

Incident by Lightening.

As a result of a stroke of lightning Sunday, Annie Herndon, aged 8 years, and Willie Blair, aged 5 years, were badly burned, and physicians state there is no chance for the lives. The accident happened East Thomas. The steel umbrella, which Miss Herndon was carrying, is probably the cause of the accident. The lightning struck the umbrella and passed down the rod to her hand and arm, burning her. Young Blair, who was walking beside her, was knocked down by the lightning and almost paralyzed.

Unknown Escaped.

A murderous assault was made by Mrs. S. C. Batte, of Woodlawn, Monday morning about daylight by a known person, whose purpose was evidently robbery. Mrs. Batte struck three times on the head with a heavy club, each time laying her open and exposing the skull. The assailant, who was wearing a mask, was a grocery and lives in the city. She has been carrying a considerable amount of money about her person.

Lost a Hand.

While attempting to load a train at Selma early Saturday morning, E. W. McCrary fell and was run over by the wheels of the car. Amputation above the elbow was necessary.

Alabama Gingers.

The Alabama Gingers' Association last Wednesday morning gathered and completed a preliminary organization. Col. Hiram of Berharts, was elected president. Dr. H. M. Starr, of Mobile, vice-president, and Mr. H. Atlanta, secretary and treasurer.

Accidentally Shot.

R. E. Hewitt, telegrapher at Decatur Junction, accidently shot himself Friday afternoon with his own shotgun, the lead from the side of the head near the eye.

The Stub Was Fatal.

John Breen, one of the men stabbed by Noah Wood in Selma last Tuesday, is dead. Breen, the other wounded man, is doing nicely. Wood has been over to the sheriff. He is a defense.

Shooting at Selma.

Friday morning at a shooting near Broom, E. P. Foley, a ham contractor, was shot. Brooks, three bullets took one just over the heart and abdomen. The deceased was 29 years of age, a wife and several children. Brooks has not been captured.

The Echols-Smith Hardware Co., Birmingham, has increased its capital stock from $25,000 to $100,000.

HON. SYDNEY J. BOWIE.
THE announcement that Mr. Bowie is a candidate for Congress, to succeed himself, will be received with pleasure by his numerous friends. Two years ago Mr. Bowie was an untired quantity, but the remarkable ability he has already displayed in congress, has enlightened not only his constituency, but also the State and country generally. Few members succeed in making a reputation in their first session but this Mr. Bowie has done, and it is easy to comprehend that in the future the reputation already acquired will be greatly enhanced. He has paid particular attention to local matters, and in most cases has successfully carried them through. Apparently he will have no opposition and will be unanimously nominated. This is right and proper and no more than he deserves.

POPULIST MEETING.
THE executive committee of the People's Party of Chilton county met at the court house on Monday morning for the purpose of conferring with those in sympathy with them.

L. B. Pounds was elected chairman, and H. A. J. Harris secretary. About fifty persons were present. After some discussion on the political situation, and what, if any, action the Populist should take, L. Moore, of Beat 10, offered a resolution to the effect that the Populist organization be maintained in the county.

This opened up considerable talk in which Judge Adams, L. H. Reynolds, C. L. Langston and G. W. Wilson expressed their views.

Judge Adams said he had been fighting the peoples battles since 1884. He believed to day in the principles of the Populist Party as much as he had ever done because those principles were right. But there was no denying the Populist Party as an organization was defunct, and the question to be considered was what should now be done in this county. He was not prepared to go into the Republican Party. He considered Joseph F. Johnson had made us a good governor and it was perhaps best for the people to go into the democratic primary and vote for him. He was only expressing his opinion and whatever a majority of the Populists decided upon doing he was with them. So far as county officers were concerned they could be nominated by us in the primary and elected.

Mr. Reynolds remarked that his position was well known and he would not take up much time in speaking. Six months ago he had suggested that the Populists should go into the Republican party. While he was as strong a Johnson man as anyone he would not go into a Democratic primary to vote for him. He was with the Populists, and if they decided to remain Populists he was still with them, if they would go into the Republican party he would go with them, but if they wanted to join the Democratic party he would not go with them.

Mr. Langston concurred in what Mr. Reynolds had said. Mr. G. W. Wilson thought Governor Johnson had made the best governor Alabama had ever had, but he would join the Republicans before he would the Democrats. Judge Adams moved that the question before the house be referred.

A DELICIOUS TOUR.
The party over went out of the State of Alabama then that which left Birmingham on the morning of July 9. It was the annual excursion of the Alabama Press Association and comprised 118 ladies and gentlemen. Three special Pullman coaches were attached to the regular train of the Southern railway, and the journey commenced at 6 a.m. Scarcely out of Birmingham and something went wrong with the locomotive which delayed us an hour or more. Then on we sped to Atlanta. As we passed through Alabama it was noticed that everywhere crops were suffering from the drouth.

After dinner at Atlanta a special train was made up by the Seaboard Air Line and off we went for Norfolk, Va. During the night, while all good people were sound asleep, there was another breakdown with the locomotive which consumed about five hours, the consequence being that we reached Norfolk about six hours late.

The hospitable Virginians had arranged a splendid program for the day, but the lateness of our arrival precluded it from being carried out. As it was, however, an elegant luncheon was served at the Hotel Monroe, at Portsmouth, after which the party was carried on special cars to Ocean View. Here a fine surf bath was enjoyed, while the lightning flashed and the thunder rolled and the rain came down in torrents. Back to Norfolk where we embarked on board the good ship "Dorchester," and commenced our ocean voyage. It was just about dark as we steamed down the harbor, watching "the lights along the shore," passing Newport News, Old Point Comfort and Fortress Monroe.

On and on, through the night, the good ship plowed her way, while wearied heads sought repose amid novel surroundings after a long and pleasant day.

"Sailing on the midnight deep, While wearied meenmates calmly sleep, The watchman walks along the deck To guard the ship from foe or wreck. 'Who goes there? shipmate quickly tell.' 'Above, below, good night, all's well.'"

The joy of being once more at sea appealed strongly to this scribe, who has traveled over all the oceans, and far into the night, wrapped in his overcoat, he paced the deck, thinking of old times and varied scenes. Many a time and oft have I walked the deck while an angry sea made the vessel roll and pitch and it was a hard matter to keep one's equilibrium. But this night was calm and still, the sea was as smooth as a mill pond, and there was no more motion to the vessel than there is in the oscillation of a railroad train.

But the "Dorchester" is going ahead, and so must I. In the morning nearly everyone came to breakfast, very few suffering from seasickness. The day was passed watching the ships far and near as they sailed on, while an occasional porpoise caused a diversion. As the orb of day sank to the horizon it presented a magnificent spectacle. It was a beautiful sunset. The large red orb slowly descended until its lower edge apparently sank into the water, gradually getting lower and lower, while the ascending rays went heavenward, reminding us that while our bodies are committed to the grave the immortal soul soars aloft. Finally the sun disappeared below the horizon and the second night was upon us. About this time land appeared on the port side, and the lighthouse along the coast of Long Island showed their warning gleams. Steadily the "Dorchester" made her way, and the merry crowd held a mock trial on deck, causing such hilarity as must have disturbed the mermaids in their dreams.

Early next morning we steamed up Narragansett bay and arrived at Providence, R. I., where we were warmly welcomed by the Press Club. After breakfast we went to the new State house recently completed. It is very beautifully located. Here we were introduced to Governor Kimball, who made us a pleasant speech of welcome.

Leaving the capital we were then taken aboard a steamboat and carried down the bay to Crescent Park, a favorite resort of the citizens of Providence. At this place we were invited to a genuine "Clam" dinner and right good it was. There was "clam chowder," clam fritters, clams baked and clams raw, and in fact clams of every conceivable variety. If you don't happen to know what a

"clam" is, it is a shell fish, of sea flavor, much esteemed in the East. The exposition was visited, and all the shows in the Park thrown open to us. Here we saw "Jim," the educated bear who worked many wonderful mathematical problems. Returning to Providence the beautiful Roger Williams park was visited, and in the evening we left Providence with regret and proceeded to Boston, the "Hub of the Universe." At Providence there was a familiar look in the faces of cotton on the wharves. Providence is one of the leading Northern cotton markets, and much of the cotton machinery in use all over the country is manufactured here. It is also one of our oldest cities, having been first settled in 1636 by Roger Williams. It is a thriving city full of life and bustle, may it continue to grow and prosper.

Boston, the fifth largest city in the United States, was reached late in the evening, but a committee of the Boston Press Club, on hospitable thoughts intent, invited the gentlemen from Alabama to the club house, where an enjoyable time was spent.

"And the smoke went up the chimney just the same." Next morning a stroll around the city, with a look at the Bunker Hill monument, and other historical spots, and in the afternoon the Press Club carried us in special cars for over forty miles around the city. And Boston is a city worth seeing. Think of its history. 'Twas here in 1630 a company of English colonists laid the foundations of the city and 'twas here in 1773 the world-renowned "Tea party" was held, and in 1876 the British army evacuated Boston after having been beleaguered for nearly a year. One would gladly spend a long, long time in this delightful city, but a glimpse at Longfellow's home, and the stately halls of Harvard is all our limited time will allow.

On the following morning our friends of the Press Club (I can't think of Boston without the Press Club where "The smoke goes up the chimney just the same") escorted us down to the pier and aboard the boat for an excursion down the bay. But, alas, bad luck pursues us. Barely clear of the wharf when we collide with a harbor dredge, knocking a hole in our boat and blocking the rudder chains so that it was impossible to steer. An hour or two was taken up in making good the damage, and off we went. Massachusetts bay is a splendid harbor and, while the band played Southern and patriotic airs, we enjoyed the scenery. An appetizing lunch was served on board, the weather was delightful and so was the company. But our delay in the morning made it necessary to hasten ashore at Salem and take the cars back to Boston in order to catch the train for New York. If our good friends of Boston only parted with us with one-half the grief we felt in leaving them then the smoke did not go up the chimney just the same. Fare thee well!

A couple of hours run through the State of Massachusetts and we reach Fall River. Once more we take ship and brave the ocean wave. The boats of the Fall River Line are the most sumptuously equipped passenger vessels to be found in the world. It is delight to be on one. Dark was the night as we steamed down the bay into Long Island Sound, stopping awhile at Newport to take aboard passengers and cargo. The music of the band, with the rhythmic throbbing of the engines, and the lap of the water made enchanting melody. But a few of our voyagers found that

"That queer sort of up and down motion Which one meets with on the treacherous ocean Has at last convinced them of the notion They never were meant for the sea."

Early in the morning we pass from Long Island Sound through Hell's Gate into the East river, along Blackwell's Island, under the new East River bridge and the Brooklyn bridge, and rounding the Battery, with the statue of Liberty glittering in the morning sun on our left, up the North river to our pier. And here we will rest until next week, as my space is filled up, and New York is too big for me to tackle right now.

FOR HARNES and Battle Horse Mustangs. Must be just what you need. It takes often at once, and you will be astonished to see how quickly it binds over.

It's this way:
You can burn yourself with Fire, with Powder, etc., or you can scald yourself with Steam or Hot Water, but there is only one proper way to cure a burn or scald and that is by using

Mexican Mustang Liniment.

It gives immediate relief. Get a piece of soft old linen cloth, saturate it with this liniment and bind loosely upon the wound. You can have no adequate idea what an excellent remedy this is for a burn until you have tried it.

A FOWL TIP. If you have a bird afflicted with Boop or any other poultry disease use Mexican Mustang Liniment. It is called a STANDARD remedy by poultry breeders.

Normal Musical Institute.

The Second Session of the Showalter Normal Musical Institute will begin in Clanton, Ala., on Thursday, the 7th day of August, 1902.

The Institute will be under the personal leadership of Prof. A.
J. Showalter, of Dalton, Ga., assisted by his two daughters. The charges will be as follows:

For the Evening Choruses, Night Sessions.....	$1.50
For all not in Harmony and under 14 years.....	3.00
For all above 14 years and not in Harmony.....	4.00
For Primary Harmony.....	4.50
For Advanced Harmony.....	5.00

for the term of twenty days. Where two are sent from the same family, a deduction of 15 per cent will be allowed; for three from one family, a deduction of 20 per cent. Where more than three wish to enter from one family, apply to Committee for special discounts.
Special arrangements can be made for private lessons on reasonable terms.

Board can be had in pleasant homes at from seven to ten dollars.
The first session of this Institute was a grand success and the promise for the second session is very flattering. A large number from a distance are making applications for places. The session will be one of the best and fullest ever taught in middle Alabama.

Clanton is one of the best business towns between Birmingham and Montgomery, situated on the great Louisville & Nashville system, 42 miles north of Montgomery, in the health giving pine woods, on a high plateau, 590 feet above tide water; malaria is unknown. The water is celebrated for its purity and coolness. The people are refined, cultivated Christian people, and will extend a hearty welcome to those attending. And while those attending this Institute do so with a purpose, and will have the greater part of their time occupied, still in the intervals there will be time for pleasant social intercourse.
The Committee will cheerfully give any further information wanted. Address

GREETING!

We have the pleasure to inform the citizens of Clanton and the surrounding country that we have bought out the entire stock of J. B. Downs, which we are selling at wholesale prices, and are putting in an entirely new stock of goods.

Hoping to be favored with a share of your patronage, which we will try to merit
by selling the best goods at lowest prices, We are

Yours very respectfully,

THE MAN ON THE CORNER

CONFEDERATE VETERAN'S PICNIC.
Camp John W. A. Sanford held a picnic on Wednesday in the grove at West Clanton, and it was a very enjoyable affair. The old Veterans were out in full force, and there were from five to six hundred people on the ground.

Adjutant J. M. Stanfield acted as chairman and at the opening of the proceedings introduced Mr. Tipton Mullins, who made an interesting thirty minutes speech, devoting his theme, in the main, to the causes which led up to the war. Mr. J. Osmond Middleton followed with a patriotic speech, reverting to the heroism not only of the men who went forth to fight their country's battles, but also to the devoted women who heroically sent their loved ones from them to fight for the cause so near to their heart.

Mr. Stanfield gave some highly interesting and pathetic reminiscences from his own experience, and other facts with which he was personally acquainted. He drew a touching picture of the departure of the soldiers from their homes.

After the speaking, Mr. Lyon, the photographer, took a picture of the Veterans in a group. There was forty-one of them, a pretty good muster for Clanton.

Then came dinner and, thanks to Mrs. Middleton, I fared sumptuously. There were many well filled baskets scattered all over the grounds, and the feast went on right merrily. Dinner over, and the crowd dispersed in groups, and many of the Veterans recalled old times and fought their battles over again. It was a pleasant gathering and the Camp deserves great credit for its arrangement.

East Clanton.

The meeting is in progress at this place this week. There has been no secret sessions yet.

We are having plenty of rain now, and it has given the farmers a cheerful heart. I think there will be better crops made yet than was thought possible.

We are having a great deal of sickness in the community now, but none serious.

Profanity has no rightful place anywhere, and I'm grateful to know that if good principles will not prevent the use of it in the presence of ladies, the civil laws of our land will.

Some of our people have commenced picking cotton.

John Howard and Beater Kenrick are renowned for coon catching.

Yes, they rolled me and tumbled me and stung me, and I kicked and I groaned and I sighed, and after all I had to endure the pests.

M. Watts of Cross was a visitor here last week.

Take Laxative Bromo-Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box 25 cents.

Jemison.

Misses Lizzie and Anna Lowery have returned home after a long stay with their brother in Bessemer.

Messrs. I. N. Langston and Wallace Hand returned home from Hot Springs Friday.

Miss Quintilla Henry, the post-mistress, visited home Sunday.

Miss Bertha Durham also returned home Sunday after a long absence.

Mr. Vernon Hubbard visited Ridgely the past week.

Miss Addie Skaggs is with us again.

Mr. Fillmore Dawson went to Birmingham the past week.

Mr. R. F. Killingsworth, living about five miles west of Jemison, had his house burned at midnight Aug. 2d, 1902. Nothing was saved but the bed the family slept on. Luckily he is insured for a small amount in the Farmers' Mutual Insurance Association, which will give him a start again.

GUESS.

Union Grove.

Possibly the readers of the Banner would like to hear from this part of the country.

We are having some rain and cotton is looking well.

The Baptist brethren held their Association on the 25th and 26th of July. They had a good time and much interest was manifested. We are glad to have energetic and enthusiastic men among us who labor for the salvation of fallen humanity. We trust they will accomplish much good.

A SUBSCRIBER.

Providence.

Rain has come at last, and cotton is looking better, but the corn crop is entirely a failure. It looks very gloomy to us farmers, but we feel sure that there will be some way provided for us.

Rev. Bro. Parrish filled his regular appointment here Sunday.

Our Sunday school is in a flourishing condition. It is said to be the best school that has ever been at this place. This proves to us that our community has left that careless, indifferent way far in the rear, and is taking hold of things that tend to lead people to a higher and nobler life.

Messrs. D. C. Alred and Jesse Ray of Clanton were welcome visitors among us Sunday.

Our literary school, with full attendance, seems to be progressing nicely.

The talk of dry weather has about ceased; and people are talking of protracted meetings, the prospects of Sabbath schools and many other items of less important business, are busily engaging their thoughts, and I am

Death of a Centenarian.

Mr. Emory Devenport, who had reached the good old age of one hundred years, died at his home near Kincheon, on the night of Wednesday, July 23. He was one of the oldest men in the county and was a highly respected member of the community. He was buried at the Devenport graveyard near Mulberry church on Thursday, July 24. After a long and useful life he rests in peace.

DONE TO DEATH.

On Sunday night Ran Lee (colored) had some words with another colored boy, about 14 years old, name unknown at the depot, Clanton, and throwing a piece of slag or cinder at the boy knocked him under a moving train and the boy was crushed to death, being literally ground to pieces. The remains were buried at the colored cemetery on Monday.

Sheriff Morgan arrested Lee, and a preliminary trial was held before Justice E. B. Deason on Wednesday morning. Lee confessed to the crime and was committed to jail in default of bail, to await the next term of circuit court.

TO THE VOTERS OF THE PEOPLES PARTY.

The Executive Committee of the Peoples Party in session on July 28, 1902, had under consideration the advisability of continuing the present organization of the Peoples Party, and also the advisability of uniting with the Republican party, and after much discussion and deliberation, decided to refer the question to the people, and ordered an election to determine the same, to be held at the various precincts within the county, on Friday, August 22, 1902. Polls to be opened at or before 9 o'clock a.m., and to close at 3 o'clock p.m. Tickets will be furnished to the managers. The voters desiring to continue the organization of the Peoples Party will vote Peoples Party. Those who are in favor of the Republican party will vote Republican party; and also to elect delegates to a county convention, to be held in the court house in Clanton, at 11 a.m., August 23, 1902, for the purpose of nominating candidates for county offices. Also the Executive Committee will meet on the last above named day and place to count the votes. The Beats are entitled to the following number of delegates, viz:

- Beat One—5; Beat Two, Providence—2; Beat Three, Benson—1; Beat Four, Verben—3; Beat Five, Kincheon—4; Beat Six, Maplesville—2; Beat Seven, Shoults—1; Beat Eight, Stanton—2; Beat Nine, Thorsby—3; Beat Ten, Cooper—4.

The managers are as follows, viz:

1. T. J. Dorminy, W. H. Conway
2. Providence, W. H. Shaw, O. C. McGraw
3. Jemison, C. W. Reynolds, C. L. Laughton
4. Macedonia, S. E. Waldrup, E. A. Bearlen
5. Benson, R. J. Williams, John Lightsey
6. Clanton, John Grant, H. F. Littlejohn
7. Verben, Noah Duffee, Henry Gray
8. Kincheon, John Edwards, A. T. Hathcock

New York city paid last year for public and private police protection $16,112,852. Yet during the year property was stolen to the value of $6,500,000. In this same time there were in the city 231 murders, 563 robberies, 3,472 larcenies and 1,513 burglaries. The crime of burglary is twice as frequent in New York city as it was ten years ago.

One of the commissioners of the board of public works in Buffalo, N. Y., recommends the erection of a crematory for the incineration of the pauper dead. Similar recommendations have been made in Boston. The reason assigned for both is that the potter's field in each place is overcrowded and that incineration will cost only $1. against $3 for burial in the ordinary way.

The appalling danger of the morning newspaper at the breakfast table is set forth by The London Lancet as follows: "It is the custom of many households to have the morning paper's post, including letters, newspapers and circulars, placed upon the breakfast table. The plan is convenient, but from a sanitary point of view it is appalling. It is undoubtedly a dirty practice. The paper at the postoffice or the postman may not be as bacteriologically clean as is desirable. The dust of the road may adhere to any exposed part of the letters may be dropped, and the bacteriology of road dust exhibits some well-known pathogenic organisms."

Prof. R. H. Thurston of Cornell university speaks of recent experiments with a "double-decked" aviator, by the Messrs. Wright of Dayton, as having distinctly contributed to our knowledge in the field of aerial flight. The Wright apparatus, carrying one man, who assumes a nearly horizontal position, has a total spread of 308 feet of canvas, the length of the machine being 22 feet. The planes have a curvature copied from that of a pigeon's wing. Gliding or soaring was successfully accomplished in winds ranging from 11 to 27 miles per hour. Starting from a slight elevation, the longest flight was 400 feet. No motor was used. The operator found no difficulty in steering and balancing.

The difference between a crown colony and those like Canada and Australia, which are practically autonomous, is exemplified in the recent refusal of the Australian parliament to increase the constitutional allowance of the governor-general from $50,000, which Lord Hopetoun said was too small to cover the expense of sustaining the dignity of representing the British crown, to $90,000, which he requested on the plea that he had been compelled to spend $125,000 from his own purse during his incumbency of the office. Parliament's refusal resulted in Hopetoun's resignation. If the governor-general had been in charge of a crown colony he would have appointed a sufficient number of ex-officio representatives in the legislature to carry the measure safely over the votes of those elected by popular vote. In an autonomous colony the crown's representative is a mere figurehead.

The French Society for the Psychology of Children has asked for answers to the following questions: First, What is the most serious falsehood that you have observed in any child under your care? Point out what induced the child to deceive, and so forth. Say if the child habitually deceives. Give age, sex and so forth. Second, Do you know of children who habitually deceive without any idea that they are doing wrong? If so, to what causes do you attribute this state of mind? On the other hand, children are to have a chance to say their say. The society ask them to reply to the following queries: For what was the last scolding given to you out of school? What did they say to you? What did you answer? What is the first deed—the most noble, generous deed—that you have ever seen performed? A discriminative analysis of answers ought to furnish a basis for interesting conclusions. Fear enters so largely into the reasons for falsifying that the two sets of inquiries have a close relation. The memory of former scoldings and the dread of another outburst account for many a lie. The gentle dealing with the errand, save in exceptional cases, protects childhood against itself, and takes away the pretext for falsehood.

IMPORTANT MEETING

How the State Democratic Primary Tickets Will Look.

MARION VISITED BY DESTRUCTIVE FIRE

Birmingham Has Another Murder—Alabama Post-office News.

THE REPUBLICANS:

Held an Important Conference in Birmingham.

Probably the first representative meeting of the republicans in Alabama since the war, without a negro being present, was held Saturday in Birmingham. The meeting was also one of the first in many years in which there was not discord and wrangling. There was but one heated discussion during the whole conference. It was a joint meeting of the Vaughan and Bingham factions to promote harmony and a motion was passed that the state committee request the chairmen in the counties where there are two committees to get together and harmonize things as far as possible, calling only one convention or primary.

The conference passed a resolution asking that the executive committee call a state convention to meet in Birmingham early in September for the purpose of naming a republican ticket for all state offices, the representatives to this to be elected by those qualified to vote under the new constitution. This throws the larger portion of the negro representation out of the convention and has caused a protest from that race which may reach the ears of the national executive committee of the party. The negroes claim that the new constitution does not deny them votes in primaries and one of their number stated that he would advise every negro in this election of republican representatives to a republican convention. The negroes, he said, admit there is no possibility of voting in the state elections unless they are qualified to vote under the new constitution. They will all vote for a democratic governor and other state officials if they are not represented in the republican convention.

REDUCED TO ASHES.

The Elam Drug Company Burned Out.

Fire Saturday night in Birmingham destroyed the stock of the Elam Drug Co. The loss will be very heavy, a large quantity of medicines and chemicals being ruined and the bottles and demijohns holding them being broken. The stock was valued at $20,000. The building belongs to others and was valued at about $4,500; it was only partially destroyed. The origin of the fire is a mystery.

Gov. Jelks has appointed S. M. Meredith to be constable in Beat 13, Pike county; J. C. Tabb to be justice of the peace in beat 20, Dallas county; J. Lewis to be notary public in Birmingham; J. W. Roberts to be notary public at Garley.

Found Dead.

The remains of a young white man, supposed to be Harrison Wright, of Mobile, was found lying cold and stiff near Birmingham Friday. By the side of the man were found empty cocaine and morphine bottles and in his purse were two notes as follows: "My name is Harrison Wright from Mobile, Ala. Address care of the police station. I am thirty years old." The other read: "One Emily is the cause of all this."

Courtland has about thirty miles of private telephone lines, so many that an exchange is meditated. The long-distance line runs through the town but is of no use to the people as there is no station there.

Before the Primary.

The candidates who will make the race for the democratic nomination for state offices are as follows:

For Governor—Jelks, William D. Johnston, Joseph F. For Lieutenant Governor—Cunningham, Russell M. Meador, Daniel J. Waller, Charles E. For Secretary of State—Hefflin, Thomas J. Julian, Frank N. Tanner, James L. For Attorney General—Cobb, James E. Garber, Alexander M. Troy, Alexander. Wilson, Massey. For Auditor—Sowell, Thomas L. For Treasurer—Smith, J. Craig. For Commissioner of Agriculture—Poole, Robert E. For Superintendent of Education—Cory, Chappell. Bulger, Thomas L. Harris, John G. Hill, J. W.

FIRE AT MARION.

City Visited by Destructive Conflagration. Loss, $30,000.

Marion was visited Saturday night by fire which threatened for awhile to destroy almost the entire business portion of the town. The fire broke out in the store of J. C. Lovelace & Co. The Selma fire department was telephoned for but the flames had been gotten under control before it reached there and the train was not unloaded. The King hotel, the largest in town caught several times, but was saved by the bucket brigade. When the fire first broke out sufficient hose could not be obtained and almost every merchant within two blocks moved his stock, causing considerable damage to the same. The entire contents of Lovelace's store was destroyed, together with the building. The loss to the firm alone on stock and building will amount to about $25,000 partially insured. The origin of the fire is unknown.

ANOTHER MURDER.

Walter L. Cotton, chief clerk of the Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, in Birmingham, was stabbed and almost instantly killed Saturday morning by Albert Jones, a negro employee in the store. The stabbing occurred in the rear of the store and is supposed to have been the result of a short quarrel between the clerk and the negro. No one witnessed the affair and only the statement of the negro throws any light on it. He claims Cotton struck him because he had cursed Cotton. The wound which caused death is just between the eyes. The knife blade passed through the bone of the nose and penetrated at least an inch and a half into the brain. Had this wound not caused death, another on the right leg which severed the large artery would have caused death. The negro in defense said: "Cotton knocked me down and fell on me and the knife." When asked how many times Cotton fell on him and the knife, he replied: "Three or four times." Further than that he would not discuss the stabbing.

Alabama Postal Service.

New Alabama postmasters are: Glasgow, Butler county, George W. Searcy; Middleton, Calhoun county, James D. Johnson; Wicksburg, Dale county, W. H. Gilbert. In September two rural free delivery routes will be established at Alexandria, Calhoun county, with two carriers. The routes embrace an area of population of one thousand. The postoffice at Middleton will be discontinued and mail sent to Alexandria.

Conferences between General McArthur and Admiral Higginson.

Conferences between General McArthur and Admiral Higginson have been held at Newport to arrange for the coming army and navy maneuvers and troops have begun to arrive for the reinforcement of coast fortifications.

COMBINING TO FIGHT US

European Countries to Reduce Exports.

According to information from an authoritative source the sovereigns of Russia, Germany and Italy argue that the time of European wars is almost over, as their interests are so great in other continents that it is not worth while to fight for a strip of land here and there in Europe. Consequently the large armaments which are now intended for European conflicts might be reduced or transformed for the defense of colonial interests, the gain being devoted to the improvement of commerce and industry, and for a collective fight against the common danger—American competition.

Lovers of Horseflesh.

One hundred acres of land has been bought by the Birmingham Matinee club near East Lake on which it is proposed to build a standard mile track and a speedway one-half mile in length. The property cost $15,000 and will be converted into a driving park. Another object of the club, and one which they expect to be of great benefit to Birmingham, is to erect a stable with 500 stalls in which horse owners from all parts of the country may winter their horses. By this it is hoped to make Birmingham one of the greatest wintering places in the South for horses. The tracks will be finished by April if the present plans of the club are carried out. Races are to be held next fall.

Gave Himself Up.

Too Much of Water.

Reports from Mississippi, Arkansas, West Tennessee and North Alabama are to the effect that the rain was the heaviest experience in years in some localities, and was of the record-breaking order. At Memphis the precipitation for twenty-four hours was 4.40 inches, and at Arlington the downfall was 6.50 inches. In Mississippi, Alabama and Tennessee crops were generally benefitted, in a few localities the downpour was so violent as to destroy the younger crops. News from every section of Arkansas tells of an unprecedented downpour of rain, in some localities approximating as high as 12 inches in three days. Cotton is reported badly damaged in many places, and railroad traffic has been checked in some of the western and southern portions of the state. Thousands of acres of corn and cotton may be lost.

Declared Aliens.

Commissioner Sargent, of the emigration bureau, with the approval of Secretary Shaw, has issued a circular prohibiting the coming to the United States of residents and natives of Porto Rico and the Philippines except after the same examination as is enforced against other alien immigrants. The circular also stated that the provisions of the laws relating to the exclusion of Chinese apply to all persons in Porto Rico and the Philippines who are of the Chinese race.

Treasury Statement.

At the close of business July 31, 1902, the national debt, less cash in the treasury amounted to $973,910,367, which is an increase as compared with July 1 of last year of $4,453,126. This increase is accounted for by the reduction in the amount of cash on hand. Cash in the treasury amounted to $1,278,479,598 against which there are demand liabilities outstanding amounting to $24,504,999, leaving a cash balance of $353,974,599.

Mosquitoes Will Starve.

Quinine having proved inadequate to forestall malaria carried by mosquitoes, Professor Grassi is experimenting at Rome with a pill that, besides quinine, contains iron, citron, arsenic and bitter extract. Grassi people take six, children half as many pills, and ne'er a mosquito goes near them. The professor thinks the mosquitoes will die of starvation if people in general take kindly to his pills.

New Coal Company.

Birmingham has a new coal company. It is authorized capital $1,000,000, one-third paid in, and owns about 12,000 acres of coal lands. On the 25th of July the Pratt coal company was organized under a charter granted by the state of Alabama. The company has bought the entire property of the Pratt coal company, which has been operating the Newburg Pratt mines near Blossburg, Ala., and the lands belonging to the Pratt Coal Co. The entire area is controlled by the big state-owned lands, sometimes called the West Alabama and the Jefferson and the Pratt lands. It is stated by the company that the property, taken altogether, is better situated for the mining of coal than any other in the district of equal size. It is the intention of the company to operate the mines now owned by the Pratt company and to develop the property on a large scale.

Coal Land Deal.

Saturday there was sold to the McCormick estate, of Hartford, Conn., something over 12,000 acres of coal lands situated at the junction of Walker, Winston and Marion counties. The purchase price was $100,000, all cash. There was included in the deal about a thousand acres of the Montevallo school lands for which the school secured a fair price. The property carries three tracts, the Black creek, Jefferson and Look creek, and is situated within the miles of the Southern and three miles of the Kansas City railroads and the survey of the Mobile and West Alabama railroad runs directly through it. It is not known whether the property was bought for investment or for immediate working.

The Republicans.

MORGAN COUNTY OIL

There is Anything in the Seen Development.

For several months the Valley Oil Co. has been upon the plugged wells. Several iron pipes were taken out of the wells, and a depth of 100 feet was reached, which they had hoped to reach in the effort. Now they have moved the derrick and will move a crew of hands to the well and work of mining has been started. The first oil was drilled here in 1890, and whose purpose was to find out whether they intended to put down. Failing to find quantities, although some were found, they pulled well and returned from the well without oil. It is the purpose of the Valley Oil Co. to put down a number of wells to develop and pump the oil from them.

The price of iron remains in the northern markets, and that if the production of iron continues there will certainly be a heavy demand for the first six months of next year. MORGAN COUNTY OIL FIELDS.

There is Anything in Them It Will Soon be Developed.

For several months the Monticello Oil Co. has been trying to open the plugged oil well at Hartsville. Several iron plugs were taken out, but a depth of 1,100 feet one was reached which they have failed to remove, although five weeks have been spent in the effort. Now they propose to use the derrick and drill a new well. A new firm has been employed and work will be resumed within the next ten days. The first well was sunk here in 1886 by a company whose purpose was to find natural gas, which they intended to pipe to the Deaters. Failing to find gas in paying quantities, although several small seams were found, they plugged the well and retired from the field, notwithstanding oil had been found in what would now be paying quantities. The purpose of the Monticello Oil Co. to put down a sufficient number of wells to develop the field and pump the oil from them.

Iron Market.

The price of iron remains firm, but the northern markets seem to show that the prospect of consumption continues there will certainly be a scarcity during the first half of next year. Very heavy business is now being done for delivery during the first six months of next year. One large southern interest that has been selling freely at prices somewhat less than those generally current is reported to have contracts sufficient to take its output for one-half of 1903. Other furnaces in the South have sold their probable outputs of certain grades and several Ohio furnaces claim they have nothing to offer for delivery before March. If consumption continues at present it is apparent that there will be a scarcity of iron through the first half of next year certainly, and may be longer. Choice brands of No. 2 foundry are commanding $1 per ton higher than scale for January delivery.

A recent report from North Carolina shows the fearful fact that in one county alone there are 2,082 persons between the ages of twelve and twenty who are unable to read or write.

Government Printing Costs.

Because of the unreasonable prices asked by the bureau of engraving and printing, which has done the work for years, the postoffice department has advertised for bids for printing postage and special stamps used by the government. The act involves the question of the right of the government office to contract with outsiders for work that can be done by another department. If arrived at, this change will result in putting out of work a large number of bureau employees.

Tennessee Oil Company.

The East Tennessee Oil, Gas & Pipe Line Co., has been organized with Knoxville and Clinton, Tenn., men as officers, for the purpose of developing oil fields lying within three miles of Coal Creek, Tenn. The capital stock is $1,000,000.

Dock Facilities.

The Brunswick & Birmingham railroad has closed a deal for the Ellis Young dock property in Brunswick, Ga., which is one of the most valuable fronts on the bay. The road is rapidly building, and it is thought that it will be completed to Birmingham within a year.

Raw Sugar.

Forty-four steamships, one of the largest fleets in the history of the sugar trade, are now either on their way to the Delaware breakwater or taking on cargoes in Java, and within the next few weeks will land on the piers of the Atlantic coast refineries a not less than 250,000 tons of the raw product. The ships average at least 5,000 tons each. The refineries are making preparations to warehouse a portion of these big shipments, it being impossible to store it all at the refineries.

SIXTEEN CONVICTS ESCAPE

Prison Walls Blown Out by Dynamite in Tennessee Penitentiary.

Armed with dynamite to blow his way out of prison, Gas Hyatt, the train robber and desperado, led a desperate band of sixteen convicts to liberty from the Tennessee penitentiary Monday night. Fifteen of the escaping party got entirely clear of the premises, and only one, Ed Carney, a safe blower sent up from Nashville, paid the penalty of death in the bold undertaking. Two were tracked down by bloodhounds and captured, but the rest of the prisoners had gotten so far out of bonds that by midnight no trace of them could be had. Hyatt stood off the inside guard with a brace of revolvers while the men preceded him. Six of the prisoners that got away were government men and the others were state convicts. Posses with bloodhounds are in pursuit.

Seventy-Five Stripes

William Dodwell, a farmer living near Yelvington, Ky., was taken from his home at midnight Sunday, bound to a tree and beaten with a blacksnake whip until he was almost unconscious from the loss of blood. Over seventy-five lashes were administered and there are more than fifty wounds from two inches to a foot long on his face and body. The bark was worn from the tree where the ropes which bound the unfortunate man touched it and the whip left marks on the tree as if it had been cut with a knife. Cause unknown.

Nearly Captured Grant.

Commodore Joseph Montgomery, the aged Confederate naval officer who nearly captured General Grant during the civil war, died in Chicago Monday. Commodore Montgomery was born in Carrollton, Ky., in 1817, and from his youth until the war broke out was engaged in river traffic. At the battle of Mobile bay he played a conspicuous part. He was in engagements at Port Pillow and New Orleans and at Memphis he lost his fleet. He was an intimate friend of Jefferson Davis.

Escaped From Jail.

Sam Tanner, who was tried some two weeks ago on the charge of an attempted criminal assault and was bound over to the grand jury, and was in jail in default of bond, made his escape from the Gadsden jail. Deputy Sheriff Bran locked all the prisoners in their cells Friday night, but Saturday morning Tanner was missing, and a big hole was in the brick wall. All of the other prisoners deny any knowledge of Tanner's escape.

SENATOR PETTUS' HOME COUNTY

Presents His Name to the People of Alabama in a Ringing Address and Asks His Return to the Senate.

Selma, Ala., July 22, 1902.

To the People of Alabama:

The neighbors of Gen. Edmund W. Pettus present his name to you as a proper person to succeed himself as United States senator. You all know him as a brave soldier, a great lawyer and a patriotic statesman. We trust that you have already determined that he is the right man in the right place. We, who know him intimately in his everyday life, take great pleasure in endorsing him personally for honesty of purpose, unyielding fealty to principle and devotion to the democratic party and the interests of his state. We do not claim that he is the only man in this great state worthy to represent you in the United States senate, but we declare that with his great ability and six years of experience, he is the best man to whom you can, at this time intrust the many interests you have at Washington, and that Alabama will honor herself by sending this worthy and faithful servant back to the senate without opposition. We therefore urge upon each and every voter in the various counties to vote only for such candidates for the legislature as will openly declare themselves as favoring his election to the United States senate.

Respectfully,

Germany has of late years increased her facilities in the glove-making line, and has overshadowed France in quantity of product at least. At the present time, 1100 German concerns are engaged in this industry, the total output of 85 factories being for export only. All but 100 of the factories are entirely occupied with the kid-glove industry. Germany also has 100 tanneries for kid and 40 odd for shoe leather. The latter product, however, cannot approach, either in quality or finish, the material turned out by the tanneries in the United States. The glove industry is scattered all over the German Empire, Thuringen and the Kingdom of Saxony having the most factories.

The coal mines of Tongshan and Lingai are the only mines in China worked upon modern methods. Anthracite coal is mined on the Yalu river. It is hauled 50 miles by mule carts, and sold to the natives. All southern Manchuria seems to be remarkably well supplied with coal, but it is only locally worked and used.

RESTRICTED VISION IN CITIES

An Explanation of the Prevailing Practice of Wearing Glasses.

"Speaking of the practice of wearing glasses," said a well known optician in Canal street, "there is a curious thing about the human eye that the average person is constantly overlooking. We talk a great deal about the influence of color, about glare, and all that sort of thing. Unquestionably color has a great deal to do with the weakness of the human eye at this time. Glare figures as an important factor in the impairment of the human sight. In the matter of color there is so much rioting in these latter days that the eye is kept in an almost constant strain. Red is violently red, green violently green, and so on, until the eye is simply strained beyond the normal in an effort to visualize the hue, and hence the optic nerves are, in a measure, strained and injured. But this is not the greatest danger when we come to think of modern tendencies so far as the human eye is concerned. There are other conditions which are infinitely more injurious than the matter of color. The glare is bad enough, too. The electric and incandescent lights are simply fearful on one's eyesight. But the thing I quarrel with more than with any other influence is the condition which limits the scope of one's vision. The eye should have a broad range. One should have the opportunity of seeing a long distance. We are denied this opportunity. We are hemmed and hedged in until the distance we are capable of seeing is very short indeed. This is why I am a strong advocate of parks and promenades. Green is naturally a restful color, and if the city could be provided with long avenues and splendid parks, where one's eyes could stretch out in a long vista, it would be a great thing."

—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

A Suicidal Cow.

The stupidity of the average cow is proverbial. The species endowed with suicidal tendencies, however, apparently can display a tenacity of purpose highly embarrassing to those in charge of such of the breed. This was the experience of the officials at the Tay Ferries when an animal of the kind proceeded to execute its morbid design of self-destruction. The "cow" arrived by the midday boat, and no sooner had it been transferred to the Craig Pier than it walked deliberately to the edge, gazed for a moment at the waters below, and, eluding the vigilance of its owner, plunged into the sea. The coldness of the water evidently carried the conviction that the temperature on shore was preferable, for the animal immediately struck out toward the east side of the harbor. It would probably have reached its goal had it not been so unfortunate as to meet a mishap not altogether uncommon down Tay Ferries way; it stuck in the mud. Two athletic piermen, armed with a stout hempen rope, lost no time in hastening to the rescue, and, after several futile attempts, succeeded in encircling the line round the animal's horns. A long pull and a strong pull followed, resulting in the liberation from the mud of the cow, which ultimately regained the shore, its fiery temperament subdued by its immersion in mud and water. Fully half an hour was spent endeavoring to rescue the animal, the operations being watched with considerable amusement by a large number of spectators.—Dundee (Scotland) Advertiser.

An Alaskan Soldier's Equipment.

Major Bingham, quartermaster at Seattle, at the request of the Quartermaster's Department at Washington, has forwarded information for the dressing of a lay figure to represent the equipment of the United States soldiers in Alaska. One sketch represents a soldier with the mackinaw jacket and trousers, with muskrat cap, fur mittens and horsehide shoes. The cap is of an unusual style, being made to protect the ears, cheeks and nose, with openings only for the mouth and eyes. The points protected by this cap are those most easily frost bitten.

DON'T GET THE BADGER.

One of the Most Valuable Members of the Household in Another Direction.

Some years ago, during a visit to friends at Selma, Ala., Gloucestershire, the late Sir John Stainer, the famous organist and composer, joined in a badger hunt which had a most unexpected ending, one that was undoubtedly wholesome both for the badger and his hunters.

The manager of this estate amused himself, by night, moving at certain woods where the badgers earthed, and Dr. Stainer had not then been knighted—having been told that there was to be a meet at a place called Pin-nock Cliff, an extensive woodland in the Cotswolds, expressed a desire to take part in it.

At midnight, accordingly, in company with the manager, the Rev. Robert Browne, who was then curate of Sudeley, and a few others, Dr. Stainer started to tramp to the rendezvous, which was about four miles away. The beaters were left at a certain point with instructions to give them their half hour's start. This being effected they were quietly awaiting the appearance of the badger, who, disturbed on his rambles by the beaters' dogs, would probably ere long charge at the earth. While they waited, the approach of the morning was heralded by that mysterious light which at that time of year—it was June—begins to be seen about 2 o'clock.

It was one of the finest mornings possible to imagine. There was no wind, the sky was clear, and the small patches of detached mist obliquely creeping up toward the ethereal blue overhead irresistibly suggested celestial beings winging their upward way.

The birds soon began their morning songs—first the skylark with his thrilling notes, then in the far distance the cuckoo, the wood pigeon and the dove cooing to his mate, and then the hosts of other birds, one after another, until all the woodland resounded with song. For a few moments the little party stood in silence; then Dr. Stainer, raising his hands, exclaimed:

"All that have life and breath sing to the Lord!" the opening words of Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise."

The manager caught at it in an instant and hummed the trombone part. "Do you know it?" asked the doctor. The manager nodded.

"Let us have the first chorus," said Dr. Stainer.

And so they sang from memory, as well as they could, the first chorus from the "Hymn of Praise." Dr. Stainer taking the treble, Mr. Browne the alto, the manager the tenor and another the bass.

Naturally they did not get the badger. Never was badger in this humor, and it is easy to imagine the dazed beast, who never could have heard such sounds in all his previous existence, giving his earth a wide berth.—Youth's Companion.

Where Rock Crystals Are Found.

There are a number of well defined regions in this country where rock crystals are found, and mining for them is carried on with more or less regularity most of the time. But the most remarkable ones have been found by chance rather than by any definite clue as to their whereabouts. One of the well defined regions where quartz crystals have been found in the past dozen years is at Hot Springs, Col., on the banks of the Quachita. A remarkable feature about these stones is that they are so worn by the tide and current that they are round like pebbles. In most cases they are very clear crystals, and they are of fair value. Some have been cut and sold for good prices.—Scientific American.

Luxurious Hansoms.

A compendious hansom cab has just put in an appearance on the London streets. In addition to the most puffy padding, it is fitted with a velvet hat pad, a clothes brush, an electric light which can be switched on by the fare, and a tube ending in an India rubber ball, which, when squeezed, blows a whistle in the cabman's ear.

We received a letter on Wednesday morning, signed by ten voters, recommending Mr. L. B. Pounds as a candidate for the legislature. As it came too late for this issue, we give this notice. Space for correspondence is all filled up by Tuesday at the latest, or we would never be able to get The Banner out on time.

According to the New Orleans Times-Democrat, in summing up the condition of the cotton crop "Alabama now has the doubtful distinction of being the worst State in the cotton belt. Some localities have done well enough, but the average condition is low." Speaking generally it says: "To sum up: Timely rains have rescued the crop from a far-reaching disaster. It is too soon as yet to accurately ascertain the extent of the relief, but there can be no doubt that (with the exception of the Texas flood-district) the benefit has been very considerable. The August developments will have a very great importance, and the date of frost will be almost decisive. The ravages of the boll weevil constitute a special problem which, in the nature of things, must soon be solved."

The calling of a primary in this county for the purpose of giving those who have hitherto been allied with the Populist party an opportunity to vote whether they desire to continue that organization or to go bodily into the Republican party, is attracting some attention in the State, and requires careful consideration on the part of every man who purposes to vote in that primary. It is conceded on all sides, even by the speakers at the recent Populist meeting, that the Populist party, both State and National, as a political organization, is irrevocably dead. It cannot surely then be a wise course to attempt to keep it alive in this one county.

The other question confronting the voters, that of joining the Republican party, is of more far-reaching importance, and should be most carefully studied before the step is taken. To those who have already decided upon joining the Republican party, we can only say it is their right and privilege to do so, and we presume they have studied the consequences. But to those who are in doubt as to what course to pursue, we would earnestly urge them to pause and think.

That, under our form of government, it is necessary for every man to belong to some political party, is recognized by all, and at this time we have the choice of being either Democrats or Republicans or nothing—there is no alternative.

The new constitution of the State and the reform in the electorate promises far more of general good to the masses of the people, if continued under a Democratic administration, than can possibly be the case should the Republicans obtain control. That contingency is not very probable it is true, and we cannot believe that any considerable number of voters in this county are going to do anything that will further any such undesirable catastrophe.

A DELIGHTFUL TOUR.

To resume our narrative. On landing at New York, the second largest city in the world, we were met by Mr. Johnson, a former Alabamian, now with "The World," one of the greatest newspapers on earth. On behalf of "The World," whose guests we were to be for two days, he outlined a program for the day, and the party boarded the elevated train and proceeded up town to the Hotel Empire, and by the way if you are going to New York you cannot do better than make that comfortable hostelry your headquarters.

The first visit was down town to the city hall, where the Hon. Seth Low, mayor of New York, gave the party a hearty welcome. After an inspection of the building, and a speech from Hon. J. A. Cantor, president of the borough of Manhattan, the Alabama Press Association ranged itself on the steps of the city hall, and a "World" photographer took a snap-shot at them, and got 'em, too, while a wondering crowd looked on, wondering what it all meant. That afternoon's "World" gave to an admiring public a picture of the Alabama Press Association on the steps of the city hall.

Then across Park Row to the Pulitzer building, the home of "The World," and a right handsome home it is, too. Here a dainty lunch was set out, and done ample justice to. The mysteries of the linotype and other wonderful secrets were unfolded to those of an enquiring turn of mind, while busy writers paused an instant to smile benignly at this influx of visitors from "Way down South in Dixie." Then a trip skyward in the elevator, up the tower, from the dome of which a splendid panorama of the city of New York is had. At our feet lies Brooklyn bridge, and the waters of the East and North rivers join and flow down the bay into the broad Atlantic, which this morning presents a rather misty appearance. Steamships, boats, barges, sailing vessels and ferry-boats galore are scurrying in all directions, while on the other hand Broadway, with its busy crowds, and the other streets leading north, filled with an ever moving populace, present a fascinating sight. But we must get down again, we cannot stay on this tower all day, so down we go into the busy haunts of men.

A visit to the elegant quarters of the New York Press Club, and to sundry places in the city, brings along the afternoon, and time to return to the hotel to prepare for another pleasurable excursion.

O, the automobile, the automobile. You just pull the lever and round goes the wheel.

You go scooting along, not the least jar you feel.

There's nothing to equal the automobile.

There were some ten or a dozen automobiles of all sorts and sizes, and as soon as all were seated the procession started. It was a gay procession and made an imposing appearance. We glided along very smoothly on the beautiful Riverside drive, on the banks of the Hudson, until we reached the noble mausoleum in which repose the mortal remains of General U. S. Grant. Here, with reverent steps, as befits the solemnity of the building, we enter and gaze upon the tomb of the dead hero. A beautiful wreath had been prepared, and this was laid upon the casket by the hands of one of Alabama's fairest daughters, Mrs. J. A. Rountree, who exclaimed: "Thus Alabama shows her loyalty to the Union." Short addresses were made, and leaving this noble monument to a great man, we again enter our horseless vehicles and return through beautiful Central Park, which seemed doubly lovely this summer evening. I have been in a good many of the world's finest parks, but I always give Central Park the palm for beauty.

The day has been a busy one, but we are not through yet. By the courtesy of Mr. H. B. Sire, proprietor of the New York Theatre Roof Garden, and Mr. Perley of "The Chapones" company, the party was invited to that performance which was greatly enjoyed, and midnight had sounded before our Alabama sightseers reached the hotel.

Next morning, bright and early, "The World" escorted us across town to Long Island ferry, and crossing the East river, we boarded the electric car bound for Manhattan Beach. Arrived at the Beach, the first thing was a glorious swim in the surf; the water was rather cool at first, but it was exhilarating, and produced an excellent appetite for the luncheon which followed at the hotel. On the cars once more for an afternoon of fun and frolic at renowned Coney Island. O, the glories of Coney Island are much too bewildering for me to attempt to describe. Crowds upon crowds of people, all on pleasure bent, are not amongst the least of its attractions. Show after show, shoot-the-chutes and loop-the-loops, scenic railways, and music everywhere. Noise and din, hustle and bustle; it's let's see this, and let's see that, while the waves of the great Atlantic eternally lap along the shore. But time remorselessly goes on, fun and frolic notwithstanding, and boarding the cars we return to Manhattan Beach to witness Pain's grand fireworks display and the magnificent spectacle "Ancient Rome and the burring of the City." Pain's displays are always super-excellent and this one was above the average. A very pretty set piece "Welcome, Alabama" was the crowning glory, and assuredly Alabama had been royally welcomed in New York.

The following day our party went up the Hudson river to West Point, but I took a day off and went visiting old friends whom I had not seen for some time. At night the party was the guests of Col. W. D. Mann, who years ago resided at Mobile, and now edits "Town Topics" and "Smart Set." The gallant Colonel has a warm spot in his heart for Alabama, and enjoyed to the full carrying the party to see "A Chinese Honey-moon" at Casino. After the performance the Colonel held a reception at the home of "Town Topics," where dinner was served and dancing indulged in for a considerable time. The hospitality of Colonel Mann was most heartily appreciated by the Alabama Press Association, and he will ever hold a high place in our esteem.

And this is our last day in New York. Let us make the most of it. Down town we go and spend a very pleasant hour in the Aquarium, watching the fish disport. I visited some of the old familiar places with which I was acquainted and had a pleasant time generally, and at 4:30 we bid a reluctant farewell to New York, and left over the Baltimore & Ohio on our homeward journey. The party went on to Washington, but myself and two friends stopped off at Baltimore where we perambulated the town until we were tired and then turned in.

Baltimore is noted for its fine monuments and public buildings. The Washington monument on Charles street is an exceptionally fine work of art, and the monument erected to the memory of the men who fell in defense of the city in 1844 is a handsome structure. The postoffice, custom house and court house are fine specimens of architecture.

In the morning we visited the wholesale and retail districts, finding everywhere evidences of the vast amount of business transacted in this great Southern city, the sixth largest in size in the United States. A drive through Druid Hill park in the afternoon finished a pleasant day and we went on to Washington.

At Washington several of the public buildings were visited and the Washington monument was duly ascended. Some went to Arlington, others to Mt. Vernon, and in one direction or another you would meet the Alabamians.

Three days of sight-seeing at the National capital and the party was about ready for home, and on Monday night we left Washington, en route for Birmingham, where we duly arrived next night.

It was a delightful tour from beginning to end; at each place we stopped at we were heartily welcomed and made many pleasant acquaintances. Then, thanks to Secretary Rountree, who carefully makes all the arrangements beforehand, all trouble is avoided, and everything goes like clockwork.

Once a year from Alabama Room the members of the Press. As they lounge in ease luxurious it's Alabama, here we rest.

Home returning, pockets empty. Duty longer cannot shift. Good times over, work in plenty. Alabama, here we work.

COMMITTEE ON PROGRAM.

It Needs a Tonic.

There are times when your liver needs a tonic. Don't give purgatives that gripe and weaken. DeWitt's Little Early Risers expel all poison from the system and act as a tonic to the liver. W. Scott, 531 Highland ave., Milton, Pa., says: "I have carried DeWitt's Little Early Risers with me for several years and would not be without them." Small and easy to take. Purely vegetable. They never gripe or distress.

As a rule, the man who can tell you all about the problem of life can't work it himself.

Greatest Sale That Ever

Happened in This City!

It isn't an ordinary, sale, but extraordinary in all that much used word can imply. We—yes, we are compelled to rid our shelves of merchandise, old shavings, and walls are to be torn down, we must sell goods at a fearful rate the next two weeks or store them out of the way. This we do not care to do. We prefer to sell them, and sell them at such ridiculously low prices that it will pay you well to take them to your home and store them for future use.

This Rebuilding and Expansion Sale will commence promptly next Monday morning at 8 o'clock sharp. You are certain of Bargains—and who isn't hunting for them these days.

Verbena

The citizens of Clanton and Verbena had a big barbecue at Tyrone, Autauga county Saturday. The dinner was well prepared and much enjoyed by the large crowd present, many of whom were ladies.

The Hon. T. L. Bulger, candidate for superintendent of education, made a splendid speech of about an hour's length and evoked considerable applause. He found present many of his old political and personal friends, who voluntarily pledged him a warm support in the primary on the 25th inst.

The Hon. Alexander Troy, candidate for attorney general, also addressed the audience in a short speech which was well received.

Prof. Walker spoke briefly in advocacy of the candidacy of Colonel Bulger. This concluded the speech making, after which all present adjourned to the heavily laden tables, where a most excellent dinner was served.

A YOUNG LADY'S LIFE SAVED At Panama, Columbia, by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

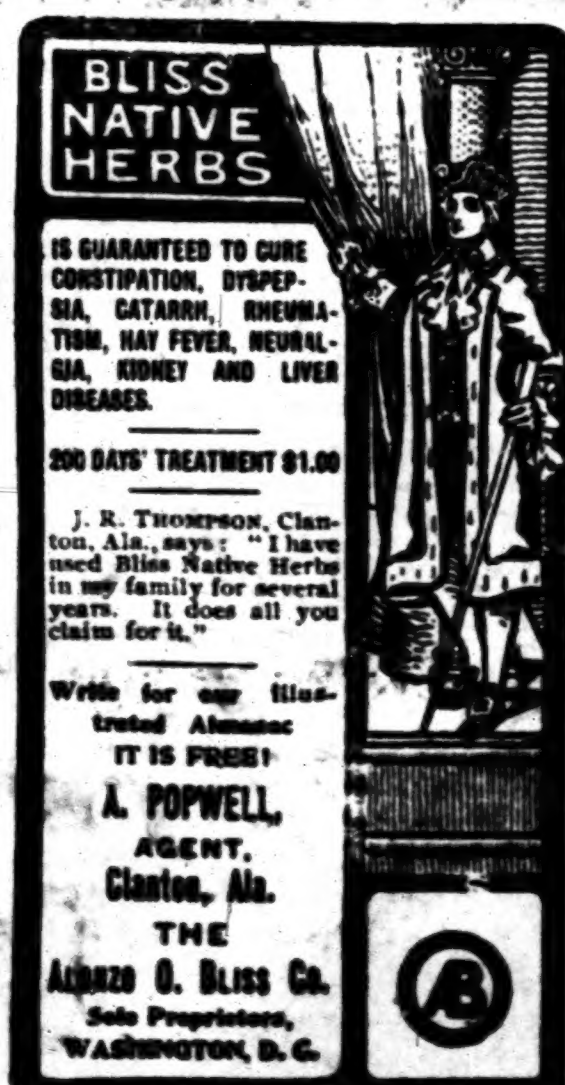

Dr. Chas. Utter, a prominent physician, of Panama, Columbia, in a recent letter states: "Last March I had as a patient a young lady sixteen years of age, who had a very bad attack of dysentery. Everything I prescribed for her proved ineffectual and she was growing worse every hour. Her parents were sure she would die. She had become so weak that she could not turn over in bed. What to do at this critical moment was a study for me, but I thought of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and as a last resort prescribed it. The most wonderful result was effected. Within eight hours she was feeling much better, inside of three days she was upon her feet and at the end of one week was entirely well." For sale by Hopkins Drug Co., and A. Horn, Thorsby.

Wetumpka's First Sale.

The first bale of cotton of the season reached Wetumpka Saturday. It was sold by Dan Turner to M. Hohenberg & Co., bringing 10 cents a pound. This is the earliest bale received in Wetumpka in any season.

To My Friends

It is with joy I tell you what Kodol did for me. I was troubled with my stomach for several months. Upon being advised to use Kodol, I did so, and words cannot tell the good it has done me. A neighbor had dyspepsia so that he had tried most everything. I told him to use Kodol. Words of gratitude have come to me from him because I recommended it.—Geo. W. Fry, Viola, Iowa. Health and strength, of mind and body, depend on the stomach, and normal activity of the digestive organs. Kodol, the great reconstructive tonic, cures all stomach and bowel troubles, indigestion, dyspepsia. Kodol digests any good food you eat. Take a dose after meals.

I have always on hand a stock of sewing machines and machine supplies, and am still buying tobacco tags. L. D. POPWELL, CLANTON.

HE BUILT A NEW NOSE.

A CHICAGO PHYSICIAN'S REMARK-ABLE EXPERIMENT.

The Loss of a Child's Nasal Organ Remedied by Grafting Her Little Finger in the Place—Operation Proved a Complete Success—The Process Explained.

This is the story of the nose a Chicago doctor built. He began to build it some weeks ago when a little girl twelve years old whose nose for the most part had been with itself presented her diminutive person at the Cook County hospital for the purpose of recounting her disaster to the surgical masters therein and of securing their magical assistance in bewitching a substitute into existence.

The only evidence of a nose which the twelve-year-old had at that time was an aperture in her face. On each side were the vestiges of the nasal walls and wings.

Today the noseless maiden is no longer noseless. A flesh and blood organ much resembling the missing part furnished by the same blood that courses through every other part of her physique, is proudly accepting the once deserted site for a little girl's nose. It has a bridge, nostrils, properly outlined walls, and adapts itself charmingly to purposes and breathing without causing its owner any disagreeable sensations.

The price paid by the heroine for the new article was the small finger of her left hand. That was the building material for the doctor in erecting the new nose. The little finger of her left hand was planted in the nasal cavity. Its tip was cut off, the finger inserted, and held in place by means of a plaster of paris cast for two weeks.

The cast was then removed, the finger severed from the hand, trimmed up, and sewed to the rudiments of nasal flaps to form the nostrils.

The hand was then neatly trimmed
diagonally to avoid as far as possible
the appearance of deformity, so that,
despite its lack of one finger, it presents a symmetrical appearance.

Although perfectly satisfactory, as far as it goes, the work is not entirely completed and will probably require several additional operations in order to achieve the perfect symmetry sought.

The surgeons who had the noseless little maiden in keeping were Dr. W.
E. Schroeder, who performed the operation; Dr. Weinstrom, head resident physician of the Cook County hospital, and several others.

The first step to be taken in creating the new nose was the preparation of the little girl's face. This was bathed for four or five minutes with green soap and sterile water, followed by a bath in alcohol, bichloride of mercury and other chemicals, and again with sterile water, rendering it thoroughly clean and antiseptic.

The edges of the nasal cavity were then "freshened," made raw to prepare them for contact with the growth to the finger. The skin was cut away and an incision made along the free border. A vertical incision extending up along the nasal bones was then made, the skin drawn back and the tip of the nasal bone laid bare.

This was also to prepare a fit place for the little finger to grow after it had been inserted.

The nasal cavity was now packed with gauze. This was a precaution taken against the access of blood to other portions of the body, particularly the lungs, where pneumonia or some other disorder might result in consequence.

Before the operation was started the little finger of the left hand had to submit to some treatment. The presence of the nail at the tip made it unavailable for service. The finger as hence amputated just above the nail. The end was cut off obliquely and an incision made along the sides of the remaining part, in order that its blood vessels could come in contact with those of the nose and enable it to grow into the nasal cavity.

The incisions left the skin hanging loose in flaps on the upper and lower sides of the finger. The edges of the supper skin flap were trimmed to fit into the angle formed by the incision made over the tip of the nasal bone.

The finger was now ready to be grafted into the office. The tip of the finger was placed at the upper end of the nose and sewed, or, as the surgeons say, "sutured," into place with silk thread. The first suture was passed deeply through the bone at the last finger joint. Additional sutures were passed uniting the upper skin flap of the finger with the skin of the nose and cheeks, while the lower skin flap was attached to the mucous membrane on the interior of the nose.

Finally the hand was dressed,
bandages being placed round the arm and head. The finger was now in place. It was now necessary that it be made perfectly rigid. The least movement could undo the entire value of the operation, and make successful grafting impossible. For this purpose
it was fixed in a plaster of paris cast,
which extended about the shoulders,
neck and head.

The little noseless maiden was now hidden from view, so far as the ap-per portion of her body was concerned. The cast obliged her to hold her hand to the spot where her nose ought to be, and necessitated her being fed through a tube. She maintained this position for two weeks,
during that time not being able to use her nose even for breathing purposes.

During this period of apparent passivity, while she lay motionless in her bed, the liveliest and most novel activity was going on in her small frame. Little blood vessels were

THE R. R. COMMISSION

What Two Alabama Papers
Think About It.

Of Popular Importance.

The following is an editorial from the Birmingham News of July 26th:

THE RAILROAD COMMISSION.

At a meeting of a large number of the business men of Birmingham Saturday night resolutions were adopted favoring the election of a railroad commission by the people, to be paid by the state, and requesting the press of the city to endorse the movement.

It was now time for the second operation, severing the little finger from its old associations and completely adapting it to the new service awaiting it. The patient was put to sleep.
This was done before the cast was removed, to prevent any possible movement on her part of the liberated hand and arm.

The cast was now sawed off and the little finger of the left hand, which had been sewed to the nasal cavity at the previous operation, was amputated at the middle or "metacarpal" joint. Henceforth it was a nose.

It was trimmed up and sewed to the fragments of the nose so as to induce a proper contour. The nose was pricked with a needle to test the blood supply. It bled, indicating healthy activity.

The hand was then neatly trimmed
into shape and sewed as the final feature of the operation.

The little girl finds her finger in its new sphere of life a most convenient and serviceable member. It adapts graciously to the acts of breathing and sneezing, and as time progresses promises to assume greater and greater complexities. The surgeon's knife has not yet attained the lightning rapidity in its metamorphosis as that of the fairyland wizard's wand, and does not pretend to be able to cast such an enchantment over even the prettiest little finger in the world as to enable it instantly to convert itself into a nose of marked beauty.

The little girl is elated over the transformation of her visage and confided the other day to one of the hospital physicians that her mother was "tickled to death."—Chicago Tribune.

PRODUCTS FROM BONES.

Utilization of Every Bit of Material for Various Purposes.

The economy which is practiced in the average boarding house has become proverbial, but it is extravagance to the standard of economy practiced at a "bone mill." The chief product from bones is glue, and among other materials which are obtained from them are soap, glycerine and fertilizers.

Nothing is wasted. Even the least economical boarding house has a few perings and hanks to throw away. There are no papings and hanks in the disposition of bones.

The first stage in the utilization of bones is that of cleaning them. When brought to the glue factory they are apt to be covered with more or less dried flesh and bits of foreign matter.
After being carefully culled over by workmen and broken by crushers they are sealed in a vacuum of sulphuric acid. From the soaking tanks the bones emerge white and apparently perfectly clean, but still redolent with a far-reaching odor. They are then placed in what are termed digesters, or steam tanks, where, after being subjected to a pressure of steam for several hours, a spirit is opened at the bottom of the digester and the liquid glue is drawn off. The grease of the bones, being lighter, is drawn off last and separated from the first product. The liquid glue is evaporated to a strength of 45 percent gelatine, a portion of which is permitted to harden for commercial use,
as glue, and a part is refined and sold for gelatine for table use.

The grease is drawn off into cooling tanks, where, in its crude state, it is made into scouring soaps. By a process of refining and the admixture of vegetable oils and perfumes, toilet soaps are produced. The spent liquors which are run off from the boiling soap are utilized for the manufacture of glycerine. The bones which are taken out of the digesters are ground up for fertilizing purposes, and the dirty water in which they are cleaned is boiled down and made into manure.
From the beginning to the end of the process not even an ounce of material is wasted.—New York Tribune.

Cuckoos and Larks.

Cuckoos are birds whose actions are a standing puzzle to naturalists. As is well known, the cuckoo lays its eggs in the nests of other birds. When they hatch the young cuckoos throw out the young of other species and get all the attentions of the old birds for themselves. Recent experiments show that the instinctive desire of the young bird to eject its foster-brothers from the nest is much stronger than has been believed. Two cuckoo eggs were placed in the same nest, and the fight that ensued after the chicks were hatched reads like an account of champions wrestling. The instinct is a most singular one, and was manifested before the birds were 20 hours
old.

Proverbial early rising by the lark, expressed in the phrase, "up with the lark," is denied by an eminent ornithologist, who claims that whereas the greenfinch is up at 2 o'clock in the morning in summer, the blackbird at 4 and the hedgerow sparrow half an hour later, the lark does not appear until after 5.—Chicago News.

The Thing That Fuzzed the Patient.

"You may be thankful for your excellent constitution. It has pulled you through many a spell of sickness."

"But, doctor, if I have such a blamed strong constitution, why am I always getting sick?"—Chicago Tribune.

The Railroads in Politics:

Did you all see Capt. Falkner's remarkable and significant statement:
"It is deplorable to bring the railroad into politics?" When were they out?
Go to your capital when legislative matters are being agitated that affect the railroads and see if they are not shaping things. They are only the "bonafide employees" of the railroad. Keep more of them at home and the people through their representatives (from the farm, etc.) will shape legislation that will not injure
the great combines, corporations, etc., but prevent them from getting more than a reasonable and decent profit for their labors. Only railroad commissioners appointed, and other positions elective. Let the people say who shall be the commissioners. Read

GOLD IN ALABAMA.

Meador Withdraws From the Race.

TENNESSEE RIVER IMPROVEMENTS.

An Old French Relic—Secured and Jail Delivery—Montgomery Shooting.

Historic Gold Mine.

Though little is said about it, Alabama is doing a goodly amount of gold mining at this time. In the days when this whole country was a wilderness, DeSoto is reported to have found the yellow metal in generous supply. Some claim that the very shaft he dug was found in Randolph county, and that the ore can be made to yield fifty per cent. The Baltimore Mining company has begun developing the property in Randolph county with shafts at Talladega. Twelve stamp mills have been put up and men enough employed to make them pay well, about $2,000 a week. The worth of the ton is being taken out.

WELL KNOWN PHYSICIAN.

Dr. Daniel F. Robinson, prominent physician, was fatally shot by Henderson Graff, a well known gambler, who was himself seriously shot during the affray, early yesterday morning.

Dr. Robinson was placed in the police station where his wounds were looked after. The women of the house were locked in the station house to await an investigation of the shooting.

Narrow Escape.

Saturday afternoon W. B. Drawhorn and J. W. Bridges, carpenters employed on the Louisville and Nashville passenger station at Selma, had a narrow escape from death. They were on the roof of the building while a workman was below holding a support that they might adjust the roof. In some manner the support kicked and down came the roof and the men.

Begins at Once.

Major Knight, government officer in charge of the Tennessee river improvements, will begin work at Colbert this week. A canal eight miles long, running alongside the river will be constructed and the work will require two or three years and $2,000,000 in completion. The arrangements are similar to those further up the river. Major Knight will have a large force of men at work and the great undertaking will be carried as far as the congressional appropriation of $300,000 will take it. When this work is completed the Tennessee river will be navigable from Paducah to Deland in all seasons.

Judge J. H. Lovejoy, probate judge of Etowah county, has filed two suits in the circuit court against Thomas L. Johnson and Dr. J. W. Lawrence for $100 each. The suits grew out of the filing of impeachment proceedings against these parties against Judge Lovejoy several months ago. There are still counts in the suit.

Congressman Richardson has received papers for two more rural delivery routes in Madison county, and after they are properly signed will be filed with the department. There are twenty applications for new routes in the ninth district and the post department will send an inspection during the latter part of this month.

S. Duke, a tobacco salesman from North Carolina, died at Selma, Saturday, from an overdose of morphine. Whether it was taken with suicidal intent is not known.

A St. Louis editor in a heavy leader on the subject of pig iron says: "The United States are the only country where pig iron production has increased during the past year." They certainly are; and moreover it is going to keep right on increasing.

Prince Chen has arrived to succeed Mr. Ting Fang as Chinese minister.

ANOTHER CAR TRAGEDY.

Second Killing on a Birmingham Street Car.

Joseph B. Trotter, manager of the Globe Iron Bedstead Manufacturing plant at Avondale, was shot and killed by Wm. M. Frowell, a conductor on the Birmingham Railway, Saturday afternoon at the Mary Pratt station. Frowell gave himself up. Conflicting statements have been made as to the cause of the shooting. It is said that Trotter was under the influence of intoxicants, while others say he did not drink. It seems he cursed the conductor and struck at him, whereupon the conductor shot at him four times, three bullets taking effect. One entered the back between the shoulders and came out at the left breast. It is thought it penetrated the heart. The conductor stated that the shooting was entirely a personal matter and was done in self defense.

Out of the Race.

D. J. Meador, of Marengo county, has withdrawn from the race for the nomination as lieutenant governor. The first intimation of any intention of Mr. Meador to withdraw was contained in a telegram received by Chairman Lowe of the state democratic executive committee. No reason could be learned for his retirement from the contest. Mr. Meador is one of the most widely known public men of Alabama. He has served five terms in the legislature and at present represents his district in the state senate, being the president of that body.

A RELIC.

Of French Colonial Days Reposes in the Capitol.

Director Owen, of the department of history and archives, received Friday the historic Bienville cannon. It was sent to Mobile by the French government. Bienville embarked up the Mobile river to Ft. Toulouse, now known as Ft. Jackson, and there the gun served upon the intrenchment from 1714 till 1763, when the English succeeded to the country and the French commander rendered the gun useless. It was preserved by citizens of Montgomery and is now in the capitol.

Broke Jail.

Five white prisoners escaped from the Jackson county jail at an early hour Friday morning. Bob Eastons, under sentence for selling whiskey, refused to go with the others. Bill Coffey was shot in the leg and recaptured. Coffey and Jesse Shavers, who recently escaped and were subsequently recaptured, were leaders in the escape. The men escaped by sawing the bars in the same manner and in the same place as they did about two weeks ago.

Gored By a Bull.

Mrs. Joe Guest, of Seaborn, Etowah county, was horribly gored by a bull one day this week. Mrs. Guest had gone to the barn on some errand when the bull attacked her, goring her in a fearful manner, breaking several ribs and bruising her up considerably. She is in such a condition that it is doubtful if she recovers. Mrs. Guest is a member of one of the oldest families of Etowah county.

A Fire Bug.

At Florance Saturday fire broke out at the residence of W. H. Fordcock. The house was probably set on fire by an incendiary. Mr. Fordcock had a fine collection of hard wood stored in the back of the house, which was destroyed. No insurance.

Jacksonville is agitating the subject of getting a modern yarn mill. The citizens will give a good bonus in the way of lands and sites to any set of men who desire to put money in there. The town has two trunk lines of railroads and the finest springs in the state. An oil mill is in paying operation, and a bank has a lucrative business, while located there is one of the three normal schools of the state, with an annual appropriation of $7,500.

Opelika's first bale of cotton for the season was brought in by W. J. Jamison and sold for 9 1/2 cents.

There is a great amount of building and machinery making going on that requires iron and steel. No little construction is being done by the railroads, which up to a short time since, were unable to afford the improvements which are now being made.

CREAM OF STATE NEWS.

Important Alabama Items Condensed for our Busy Readers.

SAYS SHE SHOT HER HUSBAND.

That Dead Man Was Going to Murder Her and Then Suicide.

A Columbiana special says: "Some two months ago, or more, it will be remembered that a Mr. Morrell was killed in his home in or near Vincent. The killing was done with a shotgun, but no one knew who fired the fatal shot. His wife's statement was that he was shot by some one from the outside of the house. Considerable effort was made to obtain some clue to the guilty person, but without avail. Yesterday his wife came to this city, and, hunting up Sheriff Cox, surrendered to him, confessing that she is the one who killed her husband."

"Her story is that her husband had been drinking heavily for several days, and treated her badly; that on the night he was killed, she was ministering to a sick baby, when her husband came in with his gun and loaded it in her presence, telling her he was putting in one load to kill her and the other to kill himself. He commanded her to get the baby to sleep in a hurry and that as soon as she did so, he would kill her and then himself."

"He lay down near her, his gun by his side, and watched her some minutes, when he fell asleep. As soon as she assured herself that he was sound asleep, she quietly got up, took his gun and shot him, killing him instantly."

"Her excuse is that she had seven children, most of whom were small, and that she could not make her escape from him. She is now in jail waiting the action of the courts."

Bankers Form Association.

The Alabama Bankers' association was re-organized at Mount Springs Monday. A large number of the most prominent bankers in the state were in attendance. The officers elected are: President, J. W. Whiting, of Mobile; first vice president, Tom O. Smith, of Birmingham; secretary and treasurer, E. J. Buck, of Mobile. The next annual meeting will be held in Birmingham in the latter part of May, 1903.

Struck Soda Water.

In digging a well north of Mobile, the Mobile Oil company has struck at a depth of 1500 feet a strong flow of gas and brine, the latter carrying soda as an ingredient. The water is pronounced by State Geologist Smith as somewhat stronger than the wells at Culum Springs, Ala. The company is considering the question of establishing a sanitarium and sinking another well for oil.

Court Day Changed.

Judge Jones of the United States district court has issued an order changing the date of the fall term of court at Montgomery from the first Monday in November to the first Monday in December and at Birmingham from the first Monday in September to the first Monday in November. The term at Huntsville remains unchanged for October.

Tenant Lomax.

Dr. Glenn Andrews, who has been attending Tennant Lomax, reports that there has been no material change in Mr. Lomax's condition. His condition is regarded as extremely serious. Mr. Lomax will be removed to Montgomery immediately.

Ship Builders to Pay Up.

The navy department, through Acting Secretary Darling, has made a ruling that contractors for ships, armor, supplies, etc., are to be held to strict accountability in the enforcement of penalties for non-performance of work according to contract. The case on which the ruling was made is not made public, but the ruling itself has a general application.

The transport Meade has left Manila for Frisco with 892 men of the Fifteenth United States Infantry.

Women Ruot.

Mrs. John Golden of Jeffersonville, Ind., has been granted a license to pilot steamers on the Ohio and Mississippi rivers. She will be at the wheel of her husband's steamer, the Shawnee, which goes south with a large store boat in tow. Mrs. Golden has devoted much of her time to the river, and has traversed the various waterways of the South.

Shelby's Confederate Veterans.

Friday was a great day in Montevallo. Fully 3,000 people assembled to attend the annual reunion of the Shelby county Confederate veterans. The morning was given to the address of Senator Pettus and Col. Falkner. This was followed by a basket dinner, and in the afternoon by a sham battle. Governor Jelks kindly allowed a cannon and a battery of artillery from Montgomery.

To Recover Randolph Money.

Attorney General Charles G. Brown left Sunday night for Pennsylvania to look after the state's interest in the Judge Randolph matter. The amount he hopes to recover for the state is about $25,000 with interest. It will be remembered that this is a case which has been quietly worked up by Governor Jelks and Attorney General Brown looking toward the recovery of some money due the state by ex-Probate Judge Randolph of Montgomery county. It appears that the estate of Judge Randolph is about to come into possession of some money in Pennsylvania that the officials think that they can turn into the state treasury.

Cordova has recently been victimized by a young man about 23 to 27 years old soliciting subscriptions to all the leading magazines and newspapers at the same price which he himself got them as agent, claiming that he was throwing away his commission in order to get up one thousand subscribers to win him a scholarship in an Atlanta business college. A great many people took advantage of the low prices quoted, and he left with more than $50.00. Not a paper paid for has ever been received.

The populist executive committee of St. Clair county held a long session at Coal City Saturday, the outcome of which was the calling of a county convention to be held at Friendship August 30th for the nomination of a county ticket. They passed a resolution with but two dissenting votes in favor of fusion with the republicans in the election of county officers.

Within the past two weeks more than the usual number of accidents have happened in Selma resulting from persons attempting to get on moving trains.

Earthquake in Alaska.

A special from Skagway, Alaska, says: Monday at noon a severe earthquake was felt here. The first shock was fifty seconds long. Several large plate glass windows were broken and chimneys tumbled down. The water in Lynn canal rose five feet and then subsided very quickly. A report from Juneau says the little fleet there was pitched around and several boats capsized. The first long shock was followed by a lighter one.

Lightning Strikes Church.

The Baptist church at Leslie, Ga., was struck by lightning while services were going on. The building was crowded. Richard Dodson was instantly killed. Forty other persons were seriously injured, though it is not thought any will die. The building was badly torn and set on fire, but a hard rain put out the flames.

Fireman J. B. Parker, of the Southern, met with a painful accident while on his engine at Freemont. He went on top of the tender, when on stepping on the cover of the manhole it turned with him and threw him violently on his back. It was at first thought that his back was broken, but the muscles are terribly strained.

Search for Bodies.

A fund of $700 has been subscribed with which to search the debris of the Hotel London to see if there are still any bodies in the ruins. There are still three guests missing according to the count of the clerk.

Hon. Oliver Wendell Holmes, chief justice of the supreme court of Massachusetts, has been appointed by President Roosevelt to succeed Mr. Justice Gray, resigned, on the supreme bench of the United States supreme court.

Julius Hoffman, a German farmer, 65 years of age, committed suicide at Rockport, Ind., but before doing so burned between $5,000 and $6,000 in money that his young wife with whom he is said to have had frequent quarrels, might not enjoy its benefits. When his wife found the body she also discovered the burning embers of the money bag. Her husband had so carefully saved and represented years of labor on the farm.

POPULAR SCIENCE.

Some interesting additions to our knowledge, not only of geography but of anthropology, may be expected from the expedition of W. Fitzhugh Whitehouse, an American, and Lord Hinchlip, an Englishman, into Abyssinia and the regions of the Upper Nile. Among the curious places to be explored is the district of Walamo, reputed to be infested with devils. Mr. Whitehouse intends to spend a month in Walamo with the intention of discovering the reason why the natives of the country believe that it is possessed by demons.

Wonderful stories are often told of the powers of vision possessed by savage races. During the recent Cambridge anthropological expedition to Torres Straits, the visual acuity of the natives was carefully tested, and Mr. Rivers, who made the tests, concluded that the excellence of vision shown by savages has a psychological origin; that is to say, it arises from knowing what to look for. Thus the power of an Indian to tell the sex of a deer at such a distance that distinguishing features like antlers were invisible was found to rest upon his knowledge of the peculiar gait of the male deer.

The scales of fishes as an index of age have lately been the subject of study by the English Marine Biological Association. The scales of many fish show a series of parallel concentric lines which indicate successive increments of growth. The lines of growth are more widely separated in that part of the scale formed during the warm season of the year than the portion formed in the cold season. The alternation gives rise to the appearance of "annual rings" that indicate the age of the individual fish in years. It appears that it is often possible to determine the age of individual fish of certain species with considerable precision—which is a conclusion of considerable practical as well as scientific importance.

In sinking the Brooklyn caisson for the third bridge over the East River, it has been found possible to make compressed air do the work of shovels in removing the sand, through a thick stratum of which the caisson is being forced down toward the bed-rock deep beneath. The sand is so pure and loose that the force of the compressed air supplied for the workmen in the caisson suffices to drive it up through blow-pipes inserted into the caisson for the purpose. Jets of water are directed against the sand around the bottom of the blow-pipes, and when thus dislodged the sand readily passes up through the pipes with the strong air-currents that are continually pouring into them from the compressed atmosphere of the caisson.

Professor A. E. Verrill, of Yale, regards the phenomena witnessed during the awful eruption of Mount Pelee in May as bearing out the theory that immense quantities of explosive gases were evolved through the dissociation of oxygen and hydrogen from the water on coming suddenly into contact with hot lava, and that these gases when ejected into the atmosphere, exploded above the crater, producing the terrible effects that were noted. According to this view, the inhabitants of St. Pierre were killed by a sudden explosion of a vast volume of mingled oxygen and hydrogen, while the poisonous hydrochloric acid gas, formed from the chlorine liberated from the seawater that had leaked into the volcano, and was combined with the hydrogen, quickly suffocated those who may have escaped death from the explosion.

Bonner as a Typewriter. One of the old-time composers, who holds down a case in the Government Printing Office, once worked on the Hartford Courant with the late Robert Bonner when he was zinc-slinger in that office. He says that one day a "tourist" came along, and, after mixing around in the composing room and doing the panhandling act to the queen's taste, announced that he was about the swiftest printer that ever came down the pike or counted croquettes. He said he was spooling for a contest with some swift, and understood that Bonner was one of the men who found it necessary to drop water in his space box to prevent setting his case on fire.

Mr. Bonner finally grew tired of the "tourist's" bluffs, and said that, while he was not a betting man, he would give him a ten spot for a little trial of speed. Strange to say, the "tourist" produced a ten, which Bonner covered, and the two men got down to their knitting. In twenty hours and twenty-eight minutes Mr. Bonner had set and corrected 25,000 ems of solid matter, besides taking time to store away three pieces of pie and two glasses of milk. The "tourist" was snored under by more than 4000 ems. Mr. Bonner was the first man to enter a typesetting contest in America, and it is a coincidence that Leo Mouhemmer, the last to win one, died within one week of Mr. Bonner. The greatest record Mr. Bonner ever made was setting and correcting 33,000 ems in twenty-four hours, an average of about 1375 ems in an hour.—Washington Post.

A New Trip For Tourists. From London to Shanghai by rail within twenty or thirty days and at the comparatively small cost of $105 first class or $120 second class is now a matter for accomplishment by any tourist. Until recently the time occupied in the journey to the commercial metropolis of the East was about six weeks and the cost was nearly triple the present amount.

OUR BUDGET OF HUMOR.

Anticipation. "I can make nothing of you," said Miss Smithleigh. "That's because I'm an enigma. I suppose," said Jonesthy. "Not in the least! I can make nothing of any man, merely by marrying him!" snipped the girl, for she confessed herself an enthusiast. It was her first intimation of a distinctly hostile purpose, and Jonesthy was thankful for the glow which came to his face.—Puck.

CHILTON county has been ignored by all the political speakers in this campaign, but Gov. Johnston gave us a warm speech on Tuesday, so we are not left out in the cold altogether.

THE Democratic State Executive committee is called to meet to day at Birmingham to take action in regard to Marshall and other counties that are proposing to conduct the primary on the 25th inst. in opposition to the rules laid down by the state committee. It looks as if they had a job on their hands.

THE Prohibitionists on Tuesday at Montgomery nominated a full State ticket, with W. D. Gay, of Montgomery, for Governor, and H. L. Martin, of Ozark, for Lieutenant-Governor. Both gentlemen are pretty well known in this section, and have many sympathizers in their temperance work.

CLANTON'S FIRST BALE.

ONCE again Mr. Jim Edwards brings in the first bale from his place about five miles southwest of Clanton. It was ginned at the Maddox gin last Friday, Aug. 8, and weighed 474 pounds. E. M. Pinckard & Co. bought it, paying 10 cents per pound.

Last year the first bale was brought in by Mr. Edwards on Aug. 26, and was sold for 9¢ per pound, and in 1900, the first bale came in on Aug. 28, bringing 9½¢ per pound.

This year we believe is the earliest date at which cotton has been marketed here.

The Negro in 1903.

Yes, the negro is disfranchised at present all right. He is not in the game at any point or at any stage of it; but the negro will be in it and very decidedly in it, in 1903, just a year from now. He cannot register under the temporary plan, but the permanent plan, which goes in force in 1903, he is put on equality with the white man—exact equality. The white man must have the same qualifications as the negro to register, and the negro must have the same qualifications as the white man, no more no less.

The negro must simply be able to read and write, or own in his or his wife's name $300 worth of property, and he can register.

The white man must be able to read and write, or own in his own or his wife's name $300 worth of property, also. It is practically an educational qualification.

The Republicans are endeavoring to take advantage of the present conditions at a time when the negro is practically out of politics, to build up a white Republican party in this state by getting business men interested and committed to it and getting new blood. But before the election in 1903 the negro may be back in politics, and if he is denied access to the white Republican party he may set up a black Republican party, and the fight will be on between them for the federal offices. With Roosevelt as president the white Republicans know in advance what will be the result. They know that Booker Washington would have more influence with the president than the whole job lot of them. They are defeated right at the beginning of the fight. They are whipped before they are fairly in it.—Montgomery Journal.

EX-GOVERNOR JOHNSTON AT CLANTON.

Late on Saturday evening last a few handbills were distributed in Clanton, stating that ex-Gov. Johnston would address the people on the issues of the campaign on Tuesday at 11 a. m. Tuesday morning arrived on time and so did eleven o'clock, but the train he was expected to come on was rather more than two hours late. When No. 1 got into the depot Gov. Johnston stepped off and was greeted by a few friends, and it was arranged that he should speak at the court house at two o'clock. At that time there was about seventy-five persons in the court room, and that number was increased to about 100 while he was speaking. Shortly after two, Judge Adams, in a few words, introduced the Governor to the audience.

Governor Johnston said we were confronting a new issue. This was the first time the people had an opportunity to select their candidates. There was a great difference between selecting candidates and electing them. For many years a few politicians had met together and selected candidates, and then the people had elected them. Now the people themselves were to select the candidates first and elect them also. He believed this was to be an honest election; the plan was for each candidate to have a friend at every box to see that everything was conducted in a straightforward manner.

He said "When I am elected governor, and by the grace of Providence, I expect to be, I will stand for honest elections for all parties, and the candidate who gets the honest votes will get the office, whether he be Democrat, Republican or Populist. Then I am in favor of taking any scoundrel who steals a ballot and sending him to the penitentiary by express train." (Applause)

Referring to the opposition he was meeting with in this campaign, he remarked that the politicians, the ringsters, did not want him to enter the race, but "I am a free white man and have a right to express my judgment on public affairs, and I intend to assert that right in spite of any gang of politicians." One serious mistake they had made in the new constitution—a vital mistake—they ought to have inserted a clause to the effect that Johnston should never hold any office during his natural life.

He then referred to some of the acts of his administration; the appointment of examiners to see that the money received by the public servants was duly paid by them into the treasury. The increase of school appropriations, and quoted Supt. Abercrombie's report for 1902, wherein that gentleman had said that these increased appropriations could not have been made without the aid and assistance of Gov. Johnston and his friends. Alabama bonds were cited as a criterion of the credit of the State; when he first went into office, our State bonds were worth $102, and when he went out of office they were worth $114, now they were worth $107.

Under the call of the State committee, every white voter who believed in the principles of democracy, and would pledge himself to support the nominees, was entitled to vote in the primary on August 25. He said "If ever there was a time when any man who believed in the fundamental principles of the Democratic party should take his place in the party, now was the time. The only chance you have to express your opinion is in the primary, and every man should go out and vote, and abide by the result. If I lose by only one honest vote I will stand by it. You have the opportunity to go and cast your ballot in this primary and be of some weight, and your vote will be counted just as it is cast. Unless you vote in this primary, however you may vote in November will be of no effect."

Governor Johnston asked the Populists: "But what are you going to get out of the Populist party? Do you think you are going to elect a governor or a legislature? You know you are not. There is not a doctrine of the Democratic party you do not believe in—not one. You object to the machine, you are the best machine man, by staying out of the primary you are doing the very thing the machine wants you to do. We are going to have a fair election. You can't sit off and eulk. We want to to brush away the methods of the past. We want honest elections. You can't get them as skirmishers, you can't get them as guerillas. If you had four times as many Populists or Republicans in the State you would not be able to elect the officers, because there are more Democrats. In Chilton county (continued on 2d col. page 8)

A TRIBUTE TO THE MEMORY OF BERBER BICE.

By the First Baptist Sunday-school, Thorsby.

One week ago to-day, just as the sun had assumed his noon-day throne and shown with transcendent brightness, scattering golden light everywhere and thrilling the whole world with life, the subject of this tribute was suddenly, unexpectedly called to yield his sweet young life under circumstances too well known and too heart rending to need or bear rehearsal. Yet, suddenly and untimely as seemed his death the cheering thought arises that though his death was tragic, his life, his rising manhood, his bright, beautiful, genial character, shedding its benignant rays over the moral and social world, was not altogether unlike the bright luminary that witnessed his end.

Of his character we are willing for others to speak. However, we shall remember with so much pleasure the nobleness of his character, the purity of his heart under the influence of the religion of Christ, and the brilliancy of his youthful intellect.

Not only have these kind, commendable words been said concerning our dear brother friend since his death, but were sweetly spoken by many while he lived and we thought he had the promise of a long and useful life; and not only have these expressions of love and praise fallen from the lips of relatives and personal friends, but even from those who knew him not in person, and had only heard afar off his name as a youth of extraordinary mental powers and moral worth. From far and near came rare, sweet flowers in such profusion that they covered his grave and bier as with a "fragrant snow-drift," most sweet and fit emblem of the many virtues which clustered around the character of the fair youth over whom they were strewn.

And now can we as a Sunday-school add anything to the wreath of honors which has been heaped upon the new made grave of our companion and brother? Yes; those bound to him by the tender ties of Christian brotherhood and Sunday-school association, we would offer our affectionate heart-felt tribute to his memory. In these relations we knew him as no others did. We knew him as the sincere, devout, humble Christian.

We can also speak of him as a Sunday-school officer and pupil. As an officer, he was punctual, painstaking, and faithful. As a pupil, he was seldom absent, and always respectful and attentive to his teacher, quick to answer all questions, and unfold the leading truths in the lesson. Gentle and affectionate to his classmates, he drew all of our hearts to him as to a magnet, and we loved him in our hearts. What higher, what more beautiful picture of a good Sunday-school scholar could be drawn.

Again, some had the good fortune to know him as an intimate associate. Of all the numerous testimonies to the worth of Berber Bice, the following from one of his bosom friends, is striking and conclusive: "As one of Berber's most intimate friends, I can truly say he was one of the purest boys that I ever knew. He was good, upright, honest, and truthful. His language was always chaste and elevating, his manners becoming and impressive. He was constantly thrown into bad company, but never overcome by evil influences. He won the respect and love of all by his kind and gentle ways."

And now what more need we say? What more can we say that would be more impressive than the example of him whose memory and virtues are enshrined in our hearts? But let this memory be more than mere sentiment—let it be a living, active principle, which will cause all to strive to follow the bright example which has been given us in the noble Christian life of Berber Bice.

And finally we request that this tribute to his memory be entered on our records, and that a copy be sent to his family, with our warmest sympathy, and our earnest prayer that God will sanctify this sad affliction to their spiritual and eternal good. ROBERT JONES.

MARRIED.

THOMAS-GRAY.

On Sunday morning, August 10, while the sun shone its brightest and the birds sang their sweetest songs, surrounded by a host of friends and relatives, Mr. E. S. Thomas and Miss Sallie Gray were made man and wife at the home of the bride's father near Cooper, J. J. McDowell, J. P., officiating, and Mr. G. F. Harris serving as best holder for our venerable and eloquent Squire during the ceremony. Mr. Thomas is one of the best known young men in this section, having lived in this immediate neighborhood nearly all his life. Known and loved by all is the way he goes out in life. Miss Gray was one of the most charming, lovable, gracious and kindhearted young ladies of this community. To know her is to love her, because she is a most perfect specimen of ladyhood besides being a Christian. It is presumed that the young couple will make their future home in Montgomery. May their voyage through life be as happy and free as the dancing waves on the deep blueses. A FRIEND.

It Needs a Tonic.

There are times when your liver needs a tonic. Don't give purgatives that gripe and weaken. De Witt's Little Early Risers expel all poison from the system and act as a tonic to the liver. W. Scott, 531 Highland ave., Milton, Pa., says: "I have carried De Witt's Little Early Risers with me for several years and would not be without them." Small and easy to take. Purely vegetable. They never gripe or distress.

Maple Spring.

The series of meetings held at this place closed last Tuesday night with twenty-four accessions. The church was revived. The meeting was conducted by the Pastor, the Rev. J. L. Hand, who did some excellent preaching.

The health of the community is tolerably good. Miss Bessie Harris, who has been quite sick, we are glad to say is improving.

Mr. D. F. Jack's foot that was broken some time ago is getting on nicely.

Dry weather continues; crops are almost a failure here, some are pulling fodder; cotton picking has begun, minus the cotton.

Mr. W. M. Wiley and family of Deatsville visited Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Jacks recently.

Mr. G. A. Jacks of Deatsville and Mr. Lawrence Patterson of Coosa visited their uncle, Mr. D. F. Jacks, last week.

Mr. Boomster has begun work on his new residence.

There are two sides of every question. And it's surprising how much there is to the other side when you hear it fairly presented.

A Necessary Precaution.

Don't neglect a cold. It is worse than unpleasant. It is dangerous. By using One Minute Cough Cure you can cure it at once. Allays inflammation, clears the head, soothes and strengthens the mucous membrane. Cures coughs, croup, throat and lung troubles. Absolutely safe. Acts immediately. Children like it.

IF YOU WILL PUT a teaspoonful of Mexican Mustang Liniment into a glass half full of water and with this gargle your throat often it will quickly cure a Sore Throat.

Keep this fact always fresh in your memory—

For Cuts, Mashes and all Open Sores, you need only to apply

a few times and the soreness and inflammation will be conquered and the wounded flesh healed.

To get the best results you should saturate a piece of soft cloth with the liniment and bind it upon the wound as you would a poultice.

25c., 50c. and $1.00 a bottle.

KEEP AN EYE ON your poultry and at the very first sign of Roup, Scaly Legs, Bumblefoot or other disease among your fowls use Mexican Mustang Liniment.

MONTGOMERY FAIR.

REBUILDING AND EXPANSION SALE

"Well! well! What's the matter with the old Fair?" every body will be asking in a few days.

Before many days the public will be carried in fast running elevators to our second and third floors, hitherto unused for the sale and display of goods. Business keeps growing so fast that we've got to have every inch of selling room we can possibly get. And now for the

Happened in This City!

It isn't an ordinary sale, but extraordinary in all that much used word can imply. We—yes, we are compelled to rid our shelves of merchandise, old shawls, and wools are to be torn down, we must sell goods at a fearful rate the next two weeks or store them out of the way. This we do not care to do. We prefer to sell them, and sell them at such ridiculously low prices that it will pay you well to take them to your home and store them for future use.

This Rebuilding and Expansion Sale will commence promptly next Monday morning at 8 o'clock sharp. You are certain of Bargains—and who isn't hunting for them these days.

MAIL ORDERS given prompt and careful attention.

A YOUNG LADY'S LIFE SAVED At Panama, Columbia, by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Dr. Chase Utter, a prominent physician of Panama, Columbia, in a recent letter states: "Last March I had a patient a young lady sixteen years of age, who had a very bad attack of dysentery. Everything I prescribed for her proved ineffectual and she was growing worse every hour. Her parents were sure she would die. She had become so weak that she could not turn over in bed. What to do at this critical moment was a study for me, but I thought of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and as a last resort prescribed it. The most wonderful result was effected. Within eight hours she was feeling much better, inside of three days she was up on her feet and at the end of one week was entirely well." For sale by Hopkins Drug Co., and A. Horn, Thorsby.

Rev. F. M. Turner and wife, the noted Pastor Evangelist, has been conducting a two weeks revival meeting at Sardis. They stopped over in Clanton four hours last Sunday en route for their home in Pensacola, Fla. God saved many souls under his preaching during the meeting, 30 accessions to the church. He is a great revivalist and God is using him in saving souls.

To My Friends

It is with joy I tell you what Kodol did for me. I was troubled with my stomach for several months. Upon being advised to use Kodol, I did so, and words cannot tell the good it has done me. A neighbor had dyspepsia so that he had tried most everything. I told him to use Kodol. Words of gratitude have come to me from him because I recommended it—Geo. W. Fry, Viola, Iowa. Health and strength, of mind and body, depend on the stomach, and normal activity of the digestive organs. Kodol, the great reconstructive tonic, cures all stomach and bowel troubles, indigestion, dyspepsia. Kodol digests any good food you eat. Take a dose after meals.

BILL ARP'S LETTER

Wonders of the Solar System in Barrow Man's Theme.

WE OF EARTH ARE "SMALL POTATOES"

Cong Days Explained—Solar Plexus
Punch at President Roosevelt.
Comments Captain Howell
In His Role for Mayor of Atlanta.

Dog days. So many of the young people write to me about dog days that I will answer briefly that there are no dog days. It is nothing but a superstition that has come down to us from the ancients. The dog star or Sirius has its time to appear in the heavens and rise and set like other stars, but it is a very irregular time and so what we call dog days may begin the first of July or many days later. The rising of Sirius in a line with the sun begins
now on the 14th of July and will continue until the 11th of August. Those early days were believed by the ancients to bring very hot and sultry
weather and many malignant diseases, but this has been disproved by modern astronomy, for the appearance of Sirius is very uncertain and in the course of time it will rise in the winter. Now a little more about this wonderful star. You know that we have eight planets that belong to our solar system. They all revolve around the sun just as the earth does and the nearest planet to the sun is the fastest it travels. Neptune is 16,000,000 miles distant and it takes 165 years to get around.

But Sirius is away outside of our solar system and is 120,000,000,000 miles from us and gives a 400 times more light than our sun. It is the largest and brightest star in the heavens.
It is called the Dog Star because it appears to be in the tail of the constellation that the ancients named Major Canis or the Big Dog. They were a smart people and we still keep their map of the heavens and their names of the stars, but they had no telescopes and did not know that there were many stars or suns except those we see with the naked eye.

But now young people listen! It is now established and proven that there are millions of stars and solar systems star off in space and that ours is the smallest and the most insignificant of them all. We are nothing and less than nothing in the scale of existence.
It has always been a mystery to me
why the Creator of the boundless universe, that has no limit should have created this little world of ours for His greatest work, the creation of man in His own image. Little lower than the angels, man who sinned and fell and was redeemed by the sacrifice of the Son of God. I don't understand it. I cannot comprehend it. This little world is no larger than a cannon ball compared with some of the planets and stars afar off in space. It has but one little moon that does not con-descend to show us but one side of its anatomy. The other night we went out to Mr. Granger's beautiful home to look at the full moon through his great telescope that cost $5,000—and as mounted in a high observatory with a dome that revolves as the earth revolves. It was a magnificent spectacle, but the view of Jupiter with four moons and Saturn with his rainbow ring and seven moons was much more beautiful and impressive. Of course these planets must be inhabited, for the Creator would not have surrounded a dead world with such luminous and beautiful satellites. We don't know anything hardly, and it fills me with dilemma to see young men strutting around like cockatoos and making themselves and know everything and expected to live always—when the truth is they don't know where they came from nor where they are going and can't add an hour or a day to their existence. I have but little hope for a vain or conceited man, and a vain woman is no better. A conceited man is close kin to an idiot
and a woman vain of her beauty should sometimes remember that she had no hand in creating it for it was God given or inherited. "Oh! why should the spirit of mortal be proud?"
Of all the faults of which humanity is guilty, that of self-conceit is the last to be forgiven and the hardest to reform.

I was ruminating on this yesterday
when I read what Roosevelt said in his speech at West Point. The editor who publishes it speaks of him as our well meaning but impulsive president.
He should have said our "conceited and egotistical president." In speaking of the great men whose West Point had graduated, he said, "I claim to be a historian and I speak what I know to be true that West Point has turned out more great men and more statesmen than any other institution in the United States." It was self-conceit and egotism that provoked such a monstrous absurdity, for Colonel Sprague, of Yale college, had recently challenged him to the proof and has shown beyond all doubt that Yale can number ten times the great men that West Point can number. Among them 1,353 ministers of the gospel, 78 justices of supreme courts, 17 chief justices, 546
doctors, 39 governors of states and 33
United States senators; besides these,
Yale has sent forth an army of educators, established 370 colleges, 100 for women and 8,000 high schools, while West Point has sent out none but soldiers.

Teddy ought to be ashamed of himself, but he will not be. He is not yet ashamed that in his so-called history
he called Mr. Davis an arch traitor and repudiator and told what he did when governor of Mississippi, etc. His attention has been called to these mistreatment of the great statesman and statesman and where comes in at West Point that he obtained when secretary of war is still in force and who never was a member of the legislature nor governor of Mississippi. No, he is not so conceited to take back anything or to apologize for his mistakes. The man he slandered was dead when he published those lies, but his widow lives and there are thousands of veterans all over the south who cherish his memory and who now hold his slander in supreme contempt. Yet he dares to be a historian! When a gentleman finds that he has unwittingly wronged another he hastens to apologize, but a conceited idiot rolls the moment under his long-legged shoes as if a cow or a snake and swallows them and trots on his conceit.

P. S.—All hail to Evan Howell—the soldier, the editor, the friend in need.
I have known him intimately since his childhood. His good father was married in my town and I think I am the only living man who was at the wedding, though I was then but a child.
All hail to my friend. He has the right to run for mayor and Atlanta will honor itself by electing him—Bill Arp, in Atlanta's Convention.

REPORT ON CROPS

Shows Improvement in Every Important Producing State.

The monthly report of the statistician of the department of agriculture shows the condition of corn on August 1 to have been 86.5 as compared with 87.5 on July 1 and a ten year average of 84. The statistician estimates the winter wheat crop at about 380,000, 000 bushels, or an average of 13.8
bushels per acre. The crop is turning out better than was expected.

The average condition of spring wheat in August was 89.7 as compared with 80.3 on August 1, 1901. The average condition of oats was 89.4 against 73.6 on August 1, 1901, and a ten year average of 82.2.

The average condition of potatoes improved 1.9 points during July and on August 1 it was 82.5 points higher than at the corresponding date last year. Of the eleven principal sweet potato producing states only two report an improvement in conditions during July. The other nine states reports declines ranging from 5 to 18 points. Preliminary returns indicate an increase of 1.1 per cent in the hay acreage. The condition of timothy hay has improved 5.1 points during July and is 4.8 points above the mean of the August averages for the past eight years. Reports as to the production of clover are on the whole unfavorable. The excellent condition of pastures has been well maintained.
During July, however, an improvement of 3.8 points has been made during the month.

During July the changes in the condition of the tobacco crop were unfavorable in every important tobacco-producing state except Pennsylvania, where an improvement of 4 points is noted. More than an average apple crop will be harvested. Texas reports a condition 18 points above the ten-year average in the cane sugar crop.

CAPITALIST SHOT.

William Dunovant Shot by W. T.
Eldridge, Vice-President of Railroad.
Houston, Tex., August 11.—William Dunovant, a capitalist and business man, was Monday afternoon shot and fatally wounded by W. T. Eldridge, vice-president and general manager of the Cane Belt railroad. Business matters are said to have caused the trouble. As Captain Dunovant entered a train at Simonton switch, Eldridge, who was in the car opened fire, the bullet striking Dunovant in the stomach. Other shots went wild.
Eldridge then struck Dunovant over the head with his revolver several times.

Postoffice Looted.

Thieves broke into the store of B.
C. Grigby, at Tolesboro, Ky., Loomis county, in which is situated the postoffice. They completely looted the postal office of all its funds, securing $150 of postal funds and $200 from the store, also much merchandise, and escaped in stolen rig.

SEVEN PERSONS BURNED

To a Crisp in a Hotel Fire at San Angelo, Texas.

A fire in the Landon hotel at 3 o'clock Sunday morning destroyed the structure entirely, burning seven persons to a crisp and doing a property damage of $75,000. There were 75 people in the house and all of them got out safely with the exception of the seven mentioned and three others who have not yet been located, but are believed to be safe. In addition to the hotel, three stables and a half dozen stores were burned, only the greatest effort prevented the whole of the business section of the town from going.

RAN THE GUARDS

But Met His Death in Escaping Defection.

Liter Stone, a well known young man of Louisville, and a member of the hospital corps Kentucky state guard, which is in camp, met his death
in an attempt to run guard after dark.
He succeeded in passing the sentries,
but his absence was soon discovered and a detail was sent after him. He was tracked to a pond just outside the camp lines, but a diligent search failed to locate him, and it was supposed he had gone to the woods not far from the camp. Nothing more was heard from him until morning, when his body was found in the pond, into which he had first escaped. It is supposed that in his efforts to gain his liberty he had run into the water over his depth and was drowned.

TWO BROTHERS KILLED

While on Their Way to the Polls to Cast Their Votes.

A special from Sneedville, Tenn., says: On the morning of the election day Wiley and William Brewer, brothers, were assassinated while going to their voting precinct. William Brewer was killed, but Wiley Brewer made a hazy declaration in which he gave the names of six men whom he claimed fired the fatal shots, when the men were ambushed from the roadside.
The tragedy is said to be a sequel to the murder of Deputy Sheriff John Lamb, Tillman Collins and brother and Whitten Gibson at this voting precinct two years ago.

Wellborn, Greenway, a young man living at Lusk, Ga., Friday shot and killed another young man by the name of Long. It seems that there was an old feud between the two families and the Longs beat up a brother of Greenway's very badly a few days ago and when Greenway met Long he shot and killed him instantly. Greenway is still at large.

DR. CHAPMAN'S SERMON

A SUNDAY DISCOURSE BY THE NOTED
PASTOR-EXEGETIST.

Subject: Remember the Death of Christ a Help to All, Whosoever He Takes Away From Us All the Sins and From the Grave Its Victory.

NEW YORK CITY.—The following impressive sermon has been prepared for the Rev. Dr. J. W. Chapman. The subject of the discourse is "Remember the Death of Christ a Help to All, Whosoever
He Takes Away From Us All the Sins and
From the Grave Its Victory." Mark 16: 9. Truly he might realize the words of Hebrews 12: 2: "Remembered for us our Lord Jesus Christ, who himself took upon himself our sins, and himself was crucified for us, that he might redeem us from all iniquity, and cleanse himself to himself a peculiar people, zealous of good works." Truly he might realize the words of 1 Peter 2: 24: "Who his own self bore our sins in his own body
on the tree, that we, being dead to sins, should live to righteousness; his blood cleanseth from all unrighteousness." Truly he might realize the words of 1 John 2: 2:
"The blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth from all unrighteousness." Truly he might realize the words of 1 John 4: 10: "He that loveth his brother, abideth in the love of God, and his sins are forgiven him because of the love that he hath to his brother." Truly he might realize the words of 1 John 5: 6: "The blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth from all unrighteousness."

CROP REPORT.
The Weekly Crop Bulletin of August 11th reports cotton continues small, but is making fairly good growth, in southern and middle counties, though in north-central and northeastern counties it is still suffering for moisture; as a whole, late cotton is opening rapidly, with picking getting well underway in many sections; rust is spreading and becoming damaging,
quite so in some fields, and upland cotton is shedding freely; present indications point to a light yield of cotton, with very little prospect of a "top crop." Late corn is fairly promising, except in north-central and northeastern counties.

Governor Johnston said he had

DO YOU MOVE?
The world "do move." That is a much mooted question solved long ago.
A later discovery is, however,
that other bodies "do move," the most important of which is The Montgomery Advertiser "Grand ma" is actually alive; she still lives and moves.
Although The Advertiser has made some important moves in its long career, one of the most recent moves as well as important to the public is, that on or about August 16, 1902, the new home, built for Alabama's foremost daily, will be occupied, and the great paper greatly improved, not only in fa-

Constipation is nothing more than a clogging of the bowels and nothing less than vital stag-nation or death if not relieved.
If every constipated sufferer poisonous filth to remain in his system, he would soon get relief.

Constipation invites all kind of contagion. Headaches, biliousness, colds and many other ailford's Black-Drught thoroughly cleans out the bowels in an easy and natural manner without the purging of calomel or other violent cathartics.

Be sure that you get the original

Beware, Ark., May 25, 1902.
I cannot recommend Theodorford's Black-Drught too highly. I kept it in my house all the time and have used it for the last ten years. I never gave my children any other medicine. I think I could never be able to mention it on account of being troubled with constipation. Your medicine is all that I need.

MALARIA AND YELLOW JACK

(From N. Y. Herald, January 14, 1902.)
The widow of Dr. Lazzaro, who is the employer of the Government, went to Cuba, was inoculated with Yellow Fever through mosquito bites, and died.
The above tells of the sad result of a series of experiments by the Government, all of which proved conclusively that the familiar mosquito is a dangerous vehicle for carrying Malarial "Yellow Jack," and other malarial
fevers.

Those who are exposed to mosquito or other malarial influences should take warning. Iron is the fighting element in the blood and provides nature with sufficient resistance to ward off disease.
But if the blood is impure or imper-fected, or if there is weakness, it means that the fighting qualities of the blood have been lowered, and consequently there is danger. If you would escape, keep the blood pure and properly nourished with
Dr. Harter's
Iron Tonic

It supplies the blood with iron in a natural way. It is recognized everywhere as the best blood purifier and tonic in use, and it has been used for half a century.
I have used Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic myself and in my family for over twenty five years, and can heartily recommend it. I regard it as particularly valuable in ward of malarial and other fevers.

KNOX SPEAKS FOR NEW CONSTITUTION.

The President of the Late Convention Advocates the Election of Governor Jelks.

The following is the speech of Hon. John B. Knox, president of the late constitutional convention, delivered in opening the campaign of Gov. Wm. D. Jelks for re-election.

MR. KNOX SPEAKS

Fellow Citizens—I regret the necessity of appearing again before you in defense of the new Constitution. Including the time consumed last spring in the canvass for the nomination of delegates to the Convention, the day upon which the call for a convention, and the election for ratification following immediately upon the adjournment of the convention which framed the Constitution, I devoted practically the whole of one year to this service; and, naturally, I regret on my return from the first vacation I have had since this contest was inaugurated, to find that the same set of men who opposed suffrage reform and the adoption of the new Constitution at every step, had organized, and backed by a secret organization which they claim to have perfected in every part of the State, were again at work, seeking to gain control both of the Executive and Legislative Departments of our government, for the purpose avowed with more or less indelicacy of defeating the reforms accomplished by the adoption of the new Constitution, either by emasculating its provisions through the process of amendment.

I attended the other night the meeting at which Governor Johnston launched his campaign, and watched with attention and interest, to see how he would attempt to justify his demand that the people of this State should place the seal of disapproval upon the administration of Governor Jelks; for the purpose of electing him for a third term to an office which he claims he does not want, and which he says he has no ambition to fill.

As I understood him, he placed his demand to be restored to power in this State upon the ground:

JOHNSTON'S GRIEVANCE.

First—That the State Convention which nominated Governor Sanford failed, in terms, to endorse his administration, and,

Second—To enable him to carry out the program which he openly avowed, of amending the new constitution, in what way he does not state, but presumably along the lines he has heretofore advocated, and, in the meantime, to administer its provisions, as he expresses it, "so as to bear lightly upon the people," until he can secure the adoption of his amendments. By this means, it seems, he expects to restore to the people honest elections and the right to govern themselves.

Now, what does he mean by all of this? When he and his following were defeated in their efforts to overthrow and prevent the adoption of the new Constitution, they came before the State with the avowed declaration that they proposed to carry on the fight, and ask the people to restore them to power, so that they could, by amendment, make the new Constitution conform to their views, and emascuate from it those suffrage provisions to which they declared deadly and eternal opposition.

I have heard it intimated that efforts have been made in the North to raise funds to aid in this movement. I do not know if this be true or not, but, if so, for what conceivable purpose would philanthropic gentlemen in the North contribute means to support a State canvass in Alabama unless it be for the ultimate purpose of restoring to certain of our population the rights of which they have been deprived by the terms of the new Constitution? And what need is there for amendment of the suffrage provision of the present Constitution unless it be intended in some way to restore to this portion of our population some of the rights of which they are deprived by its terms?

CAUSE OF THE FAILURE.

And why did the State Convention of the Democratic party in Alabama omit to endorse the administration of Governor Johnston? Every one of all familiar with the history of that administration knows that his notable efforts to defeat suffrage reform in this State—which was the chief feature of his administration—furnished the ground for such refusal.

The Democratic Convention of which he complains, and in which I had the honor of being chairman of the Committee on Platform and Resolutions, demanded in no uncertain terms the holding of a Constitutional Convention. As much, therefore, as we might regret the situation, it was not of our making. That Convention could not demand suffrage reform and a new Constitution in one paragraph of its platform, and in another endorse the efforts of Governor Johnston to defeat all suffrage reform in Alabama, without stultifying itself.

His grounds of complaint, therefore, are practically the same, and his demand for re-election as an endorsement of his administration, and his desire to be again restored to power, in order that he may amend the new Constitution, is simply a continuance of the policy which he has persisted in since his first somersault on this great question, of implacable opposition to suffrage reform in this State.

You all know that in his aspirations for office, and at the election in which he was finally successful, I was a warm friend and ardent supporter of Governor Johnston, and as chairman of the Democratic State Executive Committee, conducted his campaign. At this time, Governor Johnston was an earnest advocate of a new Constitution in this State, and said to me on more than one occasion that he intended to make the calling and holding of a Constitutional Convention to eliminate the negro vote and generally to revise the Constitution of 1875, the main feature of his administration.

JOHNSTON'S OPPORTUNITY.

At this time I know and believe him to have been sincere in such intention, and I then expressed to him the opinion that if he did so, he would make his administration the most notable of any in modern times, not excepting the great administration of George S. Houston, which marked the period of our redemption from the evils of reconstruction.

I had long advocated and felt the absolute necessity of suffrage reform in this State. I advocated it during Governor Sear's administration, and was told by the leaders of the party at that time, although the Governor himself favored the demand for a new Constitution, that the white men of the State were united, and such a movement could not be entertained because it would divide them and make possible the return of the negro to power.

I advocated it again during Governor Jones' administration, who also I believe, was in favor of suffrage reform, and was told that the white men were divided, and that the movement could not be undertaken because it would endanger the success of the Democratic ticket, but that, when harmony was restored, such reform should and would be undertaken.

Thus, our party leaders, upon this great question, reasoned in a circle. We could not undertake this great reform, and remove an evil that was corrupting the youth and would ultimately destroy the life of the State, because, at one time, the white men of the State were united, and such a movement would divide them, and at another, because the white men were divided and such a movement would endanger the party success.

CONSTITUTION RECORD.

I must do Governor Johnston the justice to say that at this time he was a prominent and an active and an earnest advocate of the movement. As chairman of the Committee on Platform and Resolutions, in the Convention which nominated Governor Johnston for re-election—as I recollect it—he aided in having this demand embodied in the platform of the Democratic party in this State; and he and others of us who favored the movement, consented reluctantly to withdraw the demand only because it was insisted that party success at that time would be endangered by such a provision.

And we all remember, notwithstanding the demand for suffrage reform and a new Constitution was stricken from the platform, that the celebrated thirteenth plank, of which Governor Johnston was the author, and which declared that the functions of government should be restricted to the intelligent and the virtuous, was the subject of bitter attack, and aroused virulent opposition on the part of our opponents in every part of the State.

When Governor Johnston was himself elected to office, and when, by lapse of time, much of the bitterness which had divided the white men of the State had been allayed, the friends of a new Constitution and suffrage reform were encouraged to believe that the accomplishment of this great movement was at hand.

In his first message to the Legislature in 1896, as Chief Executive of the State, he advocated this reform in a message which bears the stamp of true statesmanship, and which, in force and expression, will rank with our very best State papers. Among other things, in this message, he says:

ADVOCATED CONVENTION.

"The duty is upon you to consider the necessity for a new Constitution for our State. That the present Constitution has served its purpose, and now embarrasses rather than promotes the objects it should serve, is manifest to all thinking men. It is essential that some of the iron bands which have prevented our growth and development should be struck off. The fear of improper restriction of the right of suffrage should not be allowed longer to stand in the way of relief demanded more strongly each year."

In concluding this message, he says: "The security, peace and concord that would come from the successful accomplishment of these changes would bless not only this generation but those to follow us, by opening opportunities for progress and removing dangers sometimes averted by resorting to methods that all patriotic citizens deplore."

In his message in 1898 he again renewed the demand:

"I submit," he says, "to your patriotic consideration the selection of the wisest course to pursue, but I must insist that we shall be recreant to our duty if we temporize with conditions that are pregnant with evil."

At this session of the Legislature a bill was passed submitting to the voters of Alabama the question as to the calling and holding of a Constitutional Convention to carry into effect the recommendations of these messages.

CONFERENCE AT CAPITOL.

I remember quite well to have attended a conference with the Governor and a number of other gentlemen in the private room of the Executive office, which lasted until a very late hour. He had summoned a number of gentlemen, some of whom were advocates of the measure and some of whom were not, to advise him in the premises.

The result of the conference was that we received the assurance that if the Legislature passed the bill, it would receive his approval and hearty support.

Afterward, I learned that he insisted upon the bill being submitted to a Democratic caucus and made a party measure. This was done. The bill was passed, and received his approval as Chief Executive of the State.

When the State Convention of the Democratic party met to formulate its platform and nominate delegates to the Convention, I was amazed to learn that Governor Johnston caused great inharmoniousness and came near to disrupting the Convention because it was proposed to make the demand for a new Constitution a party question.

Several weeks before the issuance of his remarkable message recommending the Legislature of Alabama for the purpose of repealing this bill, which authorized the submission of the calling and holding of a Convention to be voted upon by the people, I remember to have had a conversation with Mr. G. B. Deans, chairman of the State Executive Committee of the Populist party, and, at the time, a member of the Senate from the district composed of Shelby, Chilton and Elmore.

When Governor Johnston issued his message recommending the Legislature, this conversation came back to me with great force.

THE DEANS IDEA.

In Mr. Deans' advanced idea that the people were opposed to interfering with the right of suffrage, and that Governor Johnston had the opportunity of his life, and said that if he would remove the Legislature and repeal the bill authorizing the submission of this question to a vote of the people, as he could do by the aid of Populist votes, that he would bring to his support not only those of his own party who opposed the movement, but the entire Populist party throughout the State.

It has been stated time and again in this State that Governor Johnston changed front on this great question, and, from an advocate became a bitter and implacable opponent of the movement because certain gentlemen were nominated as delegates whom he did not think he could control.

In my opinion, this was not the motive which actuated him—at least, not the motive in chief which prompted his action.

I was in a position to know that Governor Johnston's great idea, at this time, was to absorb the Populist party in this State, and he believed that if he could so shape the policy of the Democratic party as to absorb the Populist party, that the Populists, returning to the Democratic party through him as the gateway would become his adherents and his supporters, and, by using these new recruits, and adding them to the number of his own supporters in his own party, he saw, or thought he saw, an opportunity of defeating General Morgan for the Senate, which he believed, if he could accomplish, would make him the biggest man in Alabama.

LIKE THE THIRD NAPOLEON.

And thus it was that, under the influence of this vaulting ambition, like the Third Napoleon, he entered upon his great coup d'etat.

He reconvened the Legislature, he defeated the will of the people, and postponed suffrage reform in this State for two years.

It was upon this question, fellow citizens, that I parted company with Governor Johnston.

I have nothing to say against him personally, and I entertain towards him no naught of bitterness, but I could not stand idly by and, without protest or resistance, see this great reform movement trampled by him in the dust, only to be used as a means of gratifying his selfish ambition.

We all know that his plans came to naught.

At this time I was not in his confidence, but if I could have been permitted to have counseled him, I think I might have caught something of the inspiration of Woolsey, and have said to him:

"Cromwell, I charge thee, fling away ambition. By that sin fell the angels!"

The people of Alabama were not prepared for such a change of front upon the greatest issue of the hour, and by this course he not only separated himself from those friends who had held up his hands during his long political career, and had aided materially in his success, but contributed to destroy the confidence of the people in the sincerity of his purpose, and in the integrity of his motives in the service of the State.

Having started in the wrong, he has persistently and consistently continued in the wrong. His opposition to the ratification of the Constitution was prompted by no other purpose. In this movement he allied himself with the Populists, the Republicans and the negroes, to prevent and defeat suffrage reform and the establishment of white supremacy and honest elections throughout the State.

TO ABSORB THE POPS.

And now his only hope of success is in the accomplishment of his old, well defined purpose of absorbing the Populist party and being the gateway of their admission into the Democratic party, through their support, and by their votes, to re-establish himself again in power in Alabama, and pave the way to General Pettus' seat in the Senate of the United States.

In his contest with Senator Morgan he failed, because the Populists refused, notwithstanding the efforts of some of their leaders, to abandon their principles and return to the Democratic party, and, of those who did return, many refused to follow his leadership.

In this contest he will fail again, because there is no honest Populist who is willing to surrender the principles in which he believes, and stultify himself by pretending allegiance to the party which he has long opposed, in order that he may serve Governor Johnston in the gratification of his selfish ambition.

I see a statement in the press to the effect that Governor Johnston denies that he is at this time a candidate to succeed Senator Pettus, or that he has any intention of opposing the re-election of Senator Pettus.

But, fellow citizens, he may, in this respect, occupy somewhat of the attitude which his friend and supporter, Mr. Stallings, defined as his own. In a joint discussion which I had with Mr. Stallings at Opelika during the canvass for the ratification of the Constitution, he declared, with great emphasis, that he was not a candidate for any office—in fact, he said that he never intended, as long as he lived, to become a candidate for any office in the gift of the people of Alabama, but he said, with an expression peculiarly his own, "I reserve the right."

Now, I put it to you, fellow citizens, if Governor Johnston can be trusted by his friends and induced, against his will, to accept an office which he does not want, is it difficult to conceive, if the way be open, that he might be raped by his friends and induced to accept an office which he does want?

Let me, in passing, say a word as to his statement that the issue in this election is the right of the people to govern themselves, and the maintenance of honest elections and fair primaries, of all of which he claims to be the sole champion.

Fellow citizens, it is true that there has been and still is being waged in this State a great contest over the right of the people to govern themselves, and to establish and maintain honest elections in this State.

So long as the ballot was being manipulated and elections were conducted by managers who, in effect, appointed the officers instead of declaring correctly the result upon a count of the ballots actually cast, the right of the people to govern themselves was a fiction and did not exist in truth or in fact.

To correct this great evil, and to remove a blot from the fair name of our State, the friends of the new Constitution have waged a contest that must be memorable in the history of this State. In that contest Joseph F. Johnston did not appear as an advocate of the movement, but as its most determined and implacable opponent.

Fellow citizens, when I speak with fervor and with feeling upon the evils which afflicted this State under the old system, let no man discredit me with a disposition to criticize the action of our friends in the Black Belt. Through all those troublesome hours, when the dark cloud and menace of negro rule hovered on every horizon, it was the courage and steadfastness of the men of the Black Belt that saved the State from a return to the horrors of reconstruction, and the humiliation and disgrace of negro domination.

CHARGES AGAINST BLACK BELT.

It was charged by the opponents of the new Constitution that the Black Belt was not sincere in their support of the movement for suffrage reform, and everywhere Governor Johnston and his followers, in their opposition to the ratification of the new Constitution, sought to prejudice and inflame the white voters of the State against the Black Belt and the advocates of suffrage reform, not only by charging that white voters would be disfranchised, but upon the pretense that the suffrage scheme which we had embodied in the new Constitution was a plan to enable the Black Belt to register their negroes and retain them as a permanent political factor in the State.

The fact known to all that no white man has been deprived of his right to vote, and the insignificant number of negroes who have been admitted to registration, has shown how unfounded were these charges, and how completely their authors have been convicted as false prophets.

We cannot, fellow citizens, pay too high a tribute to the patriotism and sublime spirit of self-sacrifice which has led the men of the Black Belt, who have stood as the strength and bulwark of the Democratic party for over a quarter of a century, in voluntarily surrendering the great power with which the old system invested them, and laying it upon the altar, to restore fair elections, and guard the welfare and protect the honor and fair name of the State.

What constitutes a State? Not high raised battlement or labored mound.

Not cities proud, with spires and turrets crowned.

But men—high minded men, but know their rights.

And, knowing, dare maintain."

Fellow citizens, I do not believe that there is any sentiment in this State, or that there is any white man, whether Democrat, Populist or Republican, who loves his State and who is not prompted by the impulses of the democratic or the selfish aspirations of the office seeker, who would countenance for a moment any proposition to disturb the splendid work accomplished in the adoption of the new Constitution, which forever eliminates the ignorant and vicious negro voter as a political factor in this State.

KEEP OUT THE NIGGERS.

An old gentleman in my county, who has been a supporter of Governor Johnston, and, who, I believe, was deceived into voting against ratification by the misleading statements of our opponents, was approached recently by the opposition, and asked to accept an important committee appointment, to aid in continued opposition to this reform.

"No," he said, "the white men of the State have all been registered, and the niggers have been disfranchised, and I don't propose to take any chances on letting them get in again."

And I very much mistake the sentiment of the people of Alabama if this homely expression of this venerable old man does not voice the general verdict.

A passenger train over in our neighboring State of Georgia was boarded recently by a countryman and his young bride, or sweetheart—I am not sure which. He had never travelled a great deal, if ever before, but was evidently very much concerned and completely absorbed in the girl. More than this, he was very affectionate, and with his arm around her waist, and her hand resting on his shoulder, he looked by at the girls marked by the spire of each telegraph pole. A thick and somewhat officious passenger, allowing himself to become annoyed by this continued exhibition of affection, complained to the conductor, and insisted that the performance should be stopped. The conductor, with some hesitation, approached the couple, and modestly suggested that some of the passengers were objecting to the exhibition they were giving. The girl straightened up and agreed at once to acquiesce, but the country man, placing her head back gently upon his shoulder, said, Mary Ann, I have paid my fare on this here car the same as the others, and you just stay where you damned are!

LET THEM REMAIN.

I believe fellow citizens that it is the sentiment of the white people of Alabama, so far as the right to vote and the right to exercise the controlling influence in the government is concerned, that the ignorant and vicious negroes in this State should stay where they damned are!

Governor Jelks for many years has been a consistent and an able advocate of suffrage reform as embodied in the new Constitution. He and his administration stand for the new order of things and will see to it that no backward step is taken in the great reform which has been accomplished.

It is impossible for me to believe that the white people of Alabama, who have labored so long and at such cost, to accomplish this reform, will countenance, for a moment, the thought of taking the work of administering and enforcing the Constitution out of the hands of its friends, and place it in the hands of those who in advance have proclaimed an intention to undermine and defeat it.

In the light of his past betrayal of the cause, and of his continued opposition to the reform accomplished, there is danger that the friends of the new Constitution, so far as Governor Johnston's promises of enforcing the provisions of the new Constitution, should be placed in power, are concerned, might be placed in the same situation as a merchant up in Columbus in this State was left last fall by one of his customers. The customer wished to invest in a pair of shoes, and although the merchant knew that the customer had on previous occasions proven unreliable, the customer being a good talker, succeeded in securing the credit he asked for. As the winter was approaching, the pair he selected was furnished with very thick soles, and was what is known as "the double decker." Like the good tradesman he was, the merchant soon became interested in the transaction, and, after the customer was nicely fitted, the merchant dismissed him with the remark, "Now, John, you will be in a good position to sing that grand old hymn, 'How Firm a Foundation.'" Yes, the customer remarked as he passed out of the door in full possession of the new shoes, and you will be in a good position to sing that other grand old hymn, "A Charge to Keep I Have."

JOHNSTON THE FINANCIER.

Every one who has listened to Governor Johnston since he left the Executive chair, has not failed to hear the denology which he persistently sings in praise of his management of the State finances during his term of office. A friend who sat by me during his opening speech at Montgomery noted the fact that he used the personal pronoun "I" sixty-seven times in the first seven minutes of his address, and maintained the ratio throughout.

I would not, fellow citizens, detract one iota from any credit to which Governor Johnston is entitled, by reason of his management of the State finances, although there cannot be any doubt but that his recommendations are very high. He claims that when he entered the office he found the State Treasury at a low ebb, and left it coffers full. He omits to mention the fact, however, that during his term of office the rate of taxation was increased to the constitutional limit, and to the highest point which our people have ever been compelled to bear. He does not mention, either that the new Constitution decreases the limit of taxation from seventy-five to sixty-five cents on the hundred, and that this was one of the grounds of his opposition to the ratification of the instrument. He does not mention, too, that the finances of the State during Jelks' administration are in a more satisfactory condition than they have been for many years. If the receipts for this year shall be as large as last year—and it is estimated that they will be larger—the State ought to have on hand on the 1st of December, 1900, about $300,000 more than was in the treasury when Governor Sanford, who succeeded Governor Johnston, was inaugurated two years ago, and this financial condition was brought about without the raising of the tax rate so much as one mill against any person.

THE CONVICT DEPARTMENT.

He lays great stress upon the amount of money received by the State from the convict department during his administration. I have nothing to say against Mr. Trege's management of the convict department. I believe him to have been capable and efficient, notwithstanding the criticisms to which he has been subjected. But Governor Johnston, while

...the fact that this same department, in eighteen months, or since the inauguration of Governor Johnston, has paid into the State treasury something like $140,000, an amount equal to one and one-half times the combined earnings of the same department for more than four years before.

He failed to mention, too, that the old soldiers have received during the last fiscal year $135,000 more for pensions than these deserving veterans ever received from the State before; and that, at high water mark this year, the treasury had $100,000 more than ever before, and $300,000 more than the high water mark in 1900.

If, therefore, taking him upon his own ground, Governor Johnston's administration by reason of the condition in which he left the treasury is entitled to go down in history in a blaze of glory. I ask why the administration of Governor Jelks is not, in like manner, entitled to its meed of praise and to the approval of a grateful people.

Another claim which Governor Johnston advances is that he is entitled to the credit of forcing the hand of the party and securing to the people a primary election.

CLAIMS THE EARTH
It is a cold day in August, fellow citizens, when Governor Johnston does not claim the earth.

In all justice, it seems to me that he is entitled to no credit whatever on this account. Instead of being entitled to the credit for securing the present primary election, his advocacy of it is considered by many as the only circumstance which placed the question of primary, yet non, in doubt.

Governor Johnston and his immediate followers were without influence with the State Executive Committee, and a primary election was ordered by that committee in response to a general demand on the part of the Democratic press in this State and upon petition from prominent Democrats throughout the State. Papers like the Birmingham Age-Herald, the Birmingham News, the Mobile Register, and the Montgomery Advertiser, supported practically by the entire State press, are entitled to unmeasured praise for the persistency with which they advocated a State primary.

The adoption of the new Constitution has established a new order of things, and there was a general desire to discount the convention system and allow candidates for office to submit their claims directly to the people.

What Governor Johnston wanted was a general white primary; what the Democracy of the State wanted, and what the State Executive Committee ordered, was a Democratic primary.

Governor Johnston says that he is making this race to establish the principle of the right of the people to govern themselves. After an experience of four years the opposition to him in this State believe the issue to be, not upon the right of the people to govern themselves, but upon the question as to whether we shall continue to have a republican form of government, or an absolute monarchy.

NEEDS A ST. HELENA.
Notwithstanding his disastrous defeat in the Senatorial contest, no Isle of Elba is strong enough to hold him. It will take another Waterloo and a St. Helena to do the work; and this, it is needless for me to say, the approaching tides of August and November will furnish.

Fellow citizens, in conclusion, permit me to say, in summing up the results accomplished by the adoption of the new Constitution in the establishment of white supremacy and the elimination of the ignorant negro vote in this State, I find infinite satisfaction in the fact that now all men, everywhere throughout the broad limits of this State, who appear before the people seeking either election or approval, are forced to come with a declaration in favor of fair and honest elections.

Governor Johnston and his followers—whether sincere or insincere—come before the people with a demand for fair and honest elections, though, it must be confessed, "without fruit meet for repentance" for the sin of having opposed the measure of reform without which fair elections in this State were an impossibility.

Governor Jelks and his supporters, in like manner, but, as I insist, with more grounds to warrant your confidence, come before you flying at their mast-head a demand for honest elections.

This is the boon which the new Constitution has secured to us. Fraud in the conduct of elections and corruption of the ballot box, in response to the demand of a healthy and an enlightened public sentiment, will be no longer tolerated.

In the face of this splendid achievement, perchance the thought that our people would entertain for a moment, or would strive with power, any official or political party which would strike down the signs of their protection.

A good constitution, fellow citizens, which contains in a measure the charter of the liberties of the people, is framed and ordained by them as a fundamental law, not to be changed by every passing Legislature, but to stand like the giant oak of the forest, to shelter them against the rain and the storm, and throughout all the best and holiest of the day.

GOV. JELKS REFUTES STATEMENTS OF JOHNSTON

Authorized Interview Full of Interest.

FINANCIAL COMPARISONS.

Steady Growth in Treasury Receipts in Past Two Years.

Accuses Ex-Governor of Failing to Speak of Management of Convict Department and Ridiculous Method of His Nomination.

In an authorized interview Governor Jelks refutes statements made by former Governor Johnston in his speech at McDonald's Theater in Montgomery and declares that some of the statements are untrue.

The Governor's interview is full of interest to every citizen of the State. He shows, for example, that if it had not been for the expenses of the Constitutional Convention, and if the appropriations for old soldiers and for the public schools had been held down to sums equal to those disbursed in the last year of the Johnston administration, there would have been nearly $1,000,000 more in the treasury on December 1st, last year, than when ex-Governor Johnston went out of office.

The statement is also made that in a year and a half of the Jelks administration, more than one and a half times as much money has been paid into the State Treasury than was paid in during the four years of the Johnston administration by the convict department.

Governor Jelks makes a remarkable exposition of the management of the convict department and criticizes ex-Governor Johnston for not referring to this important subject in his Montgomery speech.

The interview of Governor Jelks follows:

"I have had the pleasure of perusing the report of Governor Johnston's late speech at McDonald's Theater in this city and desire to offer some observations upon certain portions of it.

OPPOSED FAIR ELECTIONS.

"He says, 'I stand here expressing the free right of every man to aspire to any office and have a fair election and a fair count.' Governor Johnston stood all over the State for several months in an attempt to deny the white people of Alabama the right to have a fair election and a fair count. We sought to rid ourselves of white supremacy by fraud and establish white supremacy by law. There was no occasion for the contest over the Constitution. People who supported the Constitution did so with the avowed purpose of introducing into this State fair elections and fair counts. Governor Johnston has done more than any other man to postpone the day for a fair election and a fair count. He postponed the ratification of the new Constitution two years and would have postponed it indefinitely if his plans had carried. It is most absurd to have him set himself up as a leader of fair elections and fair counts. There is not a reading person in this State who does not know that he has been a consistent enemy to such a consummation for at least three years.

"He tells us, too, in that speech that he was 'standing at the request of a great body of honest mechanics. I do not know how many honest mechanics are behind him, but I am quite certain that a great number of honest mechanics, merchants and farmers supported the new Constitution and stood for honest elections and fair counts in this State when Governor Johnston was quite on the other side.

"Governor Johnston says he is not a candidate because he desires the honor of the office. Governor Johnston has been heard to say that he was in politics this year because he had some political debts to pay. There is a suspicion abroad that his interest in this campaign is not only

God grant that it may be so! That the Constitution which you have now ordained and put in force may stand to bless not only this generation, but generations yet unborn; and, when the youth of our State, who have been reared from conditions that are recognized everywhere to have been intolerable, reach a ripe old age, and when they see a hand raised to strike it down, may cry out in protest, like the venerable sire of yore:

"Woodman, spare that tree;
Touch not a single bough,
For in my youth it sheltered me,
And I'll protect it now."

for the office of Governor or Senator, which ever it may be, but that it is to destroy the people who recently made honest elections and fair primaries possible in Alabama. He is aiming at the men who made the Constitution.

"He tells us in his address that if he is elected 'there will be no combinations, no Senatorial predestinated selections, no people who are to occupy any office by any promise that he has made.' His insinuation is that another is running for the office of Governor who has predestinated Senatorial selections and who has promised out places in the gift of the Governor. There is only one other candidate to whom he could allude, and that candidate has made no promise, implied or otherwise, as to any office in his gift or likely to be in his gift. That candidate desires to make this statement as emphatic as possible.

COMPARISON OF FINANCES.

"The ex-Governor calls attention to the fact that the State government paid out last year something like $700,000 more than was paid out the year before, which was the last year of his administration. That is true. Over $300,000 of this was for schools, a sum that much in excess of any previous appropriation.

"The Auditor's report will show that the one-half mill tax for old soldiers, amounting to $135,000, was that much in excess of any amount disbursed in any one year before for the same purpose. By examination of the same authority, I find that the Constitutional Convention cost the State about $200,000; that the State paid out something like $50,000 licenses refunded, collected under a law passed during Governor Johnston's administration and declared unconstitutional; that it paid back to the Sloss-Sheffield Company $56,000 which had been paid in on a land deal, which was refunded. These several sums added up amount to more than the excess in disbursements of last year over the previous year. There were other sums that always follow the session of the Legislature, including the cost of the Legislature itself, not set down here. All of these disbursements were from plain legislative enactment. Not a dollar was handled improperly.

"Governor Johnston complains of the present administration on account of its disbursements. He surely would not now be put in the attitude of objecting to increased appropriations for public schools, although he did oppose the bill calling for the setting apart of one mill for public schools, going so far as to send for the Finance Committee of the Senate and begging them to kill the bill. He cannot object to the increased appropriation for the old soldiers. He cannot object to the refunding of license money improperly collected under an act approved by him. He ought not to complain of the cost of a Constitution that gives us fair elections and honest counts. He says he stands for fair elections and honest counts and complains because the disbursements for a Constitution which gives us white supremacy by law—not fraud—cost the State $90,000.

"The ex-Governor did not go further and inform the public that these increased disbursements were made on exactly the same tax rate which was levied during his time. He did not think to say to his hearers that not one of them had been taxed a mill more on the hundred dollars than they had been taxed before.

DEFICIT IS NOT APPARENT.

"This administration paid out last year, it is true, over $700,000 more than his administration did in 1900. But it did so on the same tax rate. Notwithstanding these increased appropriations there was this year in the treasury on the first day of this month $100,000 more than there was on July 1, 1900, before he went out of office.

"In this connection it is well enough to say for the benefit of those persons who might be misled, that on July 1, 1900, there was $335,000 in the treasury. On July 1, 1901, there was $903,000 in the treasury. On July 1, 1902, there was $962,000 in the treasury. The ex-Governor ecstatically remarks that 'another deficit begins to make its hideous appearance in Alabama.' This is not true. The fancies of the ex-Governor run away from the figures. No deficit is in sight and no deficit is probable or possible.

"I hope the ex-Governor will not complain of this administration because it paid out something like 40 per cent. more for schools and benevolence than was ever paid out before in any one year. I hope he will not continue to complain that this administration in one year paid out $135,000 more to old soldiers than was paid out before. It is not a proper subject of complaint against the administration, particularly if it has been done with the treasury balances swelling all the while.

"I think it right that the public should know that the State is not hastening to any deficit at all. It is right for the people who pay the taxes to understand that the announcement of the ex-Governor is absolutely untrue and that his calculations fly in the face of the treasury's daily balances. If the cost of the Constitutional Convention had been eliminated from the figures and the appropriations for schools and old soldiers had been held down to a sum equal to the sum disbursed in 1900—Johnston's last year—there would have been in the treasury of the State nearly one million more dollars on December 1st than there was in it when Johnston went out of office."

CONVICT DEPARTMENT OVERLOOKED.

"The speaker, in his calculations, perhaps overlooked the management of the convict department and the increased income to the State from that part of the government service. Several times it has been said in the prints that Governor Johnston made something like $80,000 in four years on the convicts, and several times that has been answered by the statement that since Governor Samford came into office, up to July 1, 1902, that department had paid into the State Treasury something like $140,000, over and above all expenditures. In a year and a half it had paid into the State Treasury more than one and one-half times as much as Governor Johnston's boasted administration did in four years. The convict department did not engage in any new business either. It has been leasing convicts to turpentine people, to farmers and to mill people, to miners and to coal operators and keeping the feeble classes on its own farms. It did the same thing during Governor Johnston's administration.

"The speaker did not discuss the convict department. He should not have forgotten about the convict department. There is enough material in the convict department to suggest to the Governor several unhappy defenses.

"He tells about the men who urged him to become a candidate for Governor. They came out of the mines, and from the farms and from the plow handles and from the lawyer's desk and from the doctor's shop, to use his language; they came there with one accord urging him to take up their cause and the cause of the people against the politicians. Did any person ever hear just such an absurd thing as this? Every man who went to that conference, perhaps, went there with an invitation from this man in his pocket, went there for the purpose of bringing to already determined individuals into the field. If there were doctors and farmers and merchants and lawyers in that conference they were invited as the ex-Governor's friends and henchmen. None of my friends was invited to the conference; none of the friends of the present administration was invited to the conference. None of the friends perhaps of Senator Morgan or Senator Pettus was invited to the conference. The gentlemen who went to the conference that put Governor Johnston in the field were men who had his letters as their only credentials. This man, complaining at conventions and caucuses and conferences, was himself nominated by people whom he had selected for that purpose. No such nomination was ever made in this State before. It was an unprecedented thing and the result of the primaries will not show that it is at all desirable as a precedent.

"I am not a nominee of any caucus or conference, myself. I am a candidate before the primaries of the party in this State. I am asking doctors, lawyers, mechanics, farmers and all other classes to come into the primaries, not with credentials from me in their pockets, but with their right as Democrats in this State, to cast their ballots for me for Governor. Governor Johnston has already been nominated. Why should he want another nomination?

NOT ENTITLED TO ENDORSEMENT.

"The ex-Governor complains that he was not endorsed by the Democratic convention. The Democratic convention to which he has reference declared for a Constitutional Convention and the most signal item of his entire administration was the defeat of a provision calling for a Constitutional Convention. The Democratic State Convention could not have endorsed him and his administration and at the same time called for a Constitutional Convention.

"But his demand for an endorsement is an afterthought. A few months ago, when he came out in an authorized interview in a Birmingham paper and said that he would, on no account, become a candidate for Governor, he had not thought of the slight put upon him by the Democratic State Convention and was probably not then particularly desirous of an endorsement. His demand for one now has grown up in his mind in the last few weeks, perhaps.

"The State Examiners are not on the pay rolls of the State by Governor Johnston's advice. As he says, 'For years the State has had an examiner of public accounts.' Governor Jelks advised the Legislature to increase the number of examiners, so that they could better cover the State. I assume that the increased number of examiners given out of the message of Governor Jelks. It is not true, as Governor Johnston says, that they are drawing more pay since he went out of office than they did during his term. There is another place where the ex-Governor and the Auditor's report are not at all in harmony. The fact is, the Examiners are drawing a good deal less money than they did during his administration.

JOHNSTON'S CHANGE OF HEART.

"The ex-Governor is very tender with the Constitution now. Validating it a few months ago, by action, he now wants the pleasure of purging it, through its early life. He proposes, he says, to accept it in good faith and give it a fair trial.

"The instrument that we made by so much sweat and labor and cost and after twenty years of yearning will not be turned over to the tender mercies of the men who fought the call for a convention and fought the ratification of the instrument. We have now under that Constitution, white supremacy; we have the possibility of clean primaries and honest elections. There is a occasion for Governor Johnston to disturb himself by proclaiming that he was at the front in the fight for honest elections. He was not in the front of that fight; he has merely come up after the battle, he is without the status of power or crime upon his shoulders. He is fresh from the rear. He will not be allowed to participate in the victory and might not be.

"The constitution makers began to fight for honest elections and clean primaries and white supremacy. They carried it out in the face of the last gun was fired."

SOME REASONS

Why Johnston Should Not Be Nominated for Governor and Why Jelks Should Be Nominated for Governor.

WHY JOHNSTON SHOULD NOT BE.

1. Because he says himself that he does not desire the position of Governor.
2. Because he has already served two terms as Governor, all that any man heretofore has ever done.
3. Because he assigns no better reason for his candidacy than that he desires a vindication for a fancied slight.
4. Because no good purpose can be subserved by electing him to the office of Governor.
5. Because it seems to be his ambition to be a greater man than all the great men who have heretofore served the State in the office of Governor.
6. Because no interest of the State at Alabama is now suffering for lack of his services.
7. Because the people have no interest in gratifying a man's personal ambition to be a greater man than all other men have heretofore been.
8. Because Captain Johnston, when he first came in office as Governor, advocated the amendment of the Constitution and subsequently procured the Legislature to repeal the act authorizing the holding of a Constitutional convention.
9. Because, notwithstanding he approved the act to hold the Constitutional convention, he subsequently procured its repeal for political purposes in his own interest.
10. Because, during his entire administration, he was engaged in formulating a ring, the object and purpose of which was to make him Senator in the place of General Morgan.
11. Because he set himself against the Constitutional Convention, and after it was held and the Constitution formulated he strenuously opposed its ratification.
12. Because in his announcement as a candidate for Governor, he suggests that $400,000 has been appropriated in excess of whatever has heretofore been appropriated when he knew perfectly well that that sum of money was simply going back to the people to whom it rightfully belonged, in the interest of public schools, old soldiers and the like.
13. Because he is seeking the office of Governor not in the interest of the people but for the gratification of a personal ambition.
14. Because he must know, if he knows anything, that every interest of the State under the Jelks administration is being carefully cared for and every department of the State government efficiently administered.

WHY JELKS SHOULD BE.

1. Because he is a clean and capable man.
2. Because he is a man of high moral character and desires to be elected Governor.

Out On a Yowl.

"You have asked me to be your wife," said the wealthy "maiden lady." "Before I answer you please tell me one thing. Are you in favor of woman suffrage?" "I am," he answered, thinking thus to win her.

"Then I cannot be yours," she said. "My husband must regard me not as his equal, but as a tender child whom he has taken to love and to cherish." Chicago Record-Herald.

A Nice Yell Instead of Goggles.

A Paris milliner has invented a nice yell for automobilists, which is said to be a great improvement over the goggles hitherto used as a protection to the eyes. It is intended chiefly for women, who generally object to the beauty-marring effect of goggles. The yell consists merely of a sheet of mica in the form of a visor, attached to the cap, and set close to the face.

There are seven species of salmon in the Yukon River, Alaska. Each has its date of arrival from the sea at the spawning grounds.

An Outlander.

"She says she would like to get away somewhere where she would have time to think." "Well, I always feared she was cut out for a society girl."—Life.

Popularity.

"Do you think he would be a success in politics?" "Yes, indeed. Why, he has thoroughly mastered the knack of looking interested when he is being bored."—New York News.

Fraud Positive.

"I suppose you set a good table?" "I snatched the man who was looking for food."

A Woman's Warning.

"What do you think about that man's foolish assertion that his word is as good as his bond?" "I regard it as a very obliging warning to anybody who might be thinking of taking his bond."—Washington Star.

ALARIA AND YELLOW JACK

(From N. Y. Herald, January 16, 1911.)
The widow of Dr. Lazzaro, who, in employ of the Government, went Cuba, was inoculated with Yellow fever through mosquito bites, and died
before Congress for relief to-day.
The above tells of the sad outcome
of a series of experiments by the Government, all of which proved convincingly that the familiar mosquito is a dangerous vehicle for carrying Malarial "Yellow Jack," and other malarial
fevers.

One who are exposed to mosquito bites, malarial influences should take care. Iron is the fighting element
in the blood and provides nature with
a potent resistance to ward off disease.
If the blood is impure or impoverished, there is weakness. It is that the fighting qualities of the blood
have been lowered, and consequently there is danger. If you would keep the blood pure and propriously with

THE TRUE STORY OF THE DROWNING OF BERBER BICE

Memphis, Tenn., Aug. 5, 1902. Mr. J. H. C. Thorsby, Ala. Dear Sir and Friend—Your kind letter of the 4th inst. to hand, and in the following lines is a perfect and correct story of the accident that befell your son.

In company of Mr. Edward D. Thorsby, of Memphis, I went down to Mobile on an excursion. We took the boat Heron for Fairhope on Sunday at 9 a. m. Your son was on board with the band he belonged to. We arrived at Fairhope at 11 a. m. and Mr. Dally and myself and the boys started to go in bathing at the pier, not being able to get suits we went about a quarter of a mile below the pier and went in swimming, but Mr. Eitel came down and told us to go to his private bath house, a short piece below where we were. Well, we went down there and went in from the end of the bath house where the water was shallow. There was a near as I can remember, about ten boys in swimming, and Berber and myself were among them; we went out a short piece and swam around in shallow water for about ten minutes. All the boys started wading out, they were all green as to how to handle themselves in salt water. Berber and myself became separated from the main crowd, and kept wading out until we got to water about to our necks, when all of a sudden the water got very rough and the tide was running out. At this time I was about 25 ft. from Berber, I hailed to Berber to come back as the water was over my head in a minute. I did not hear him answer me, but I looked back and he seemed to be coming in. I was having a hard time myself by this time, as the surf would run over my head and strangle me and I never swam in salt water before. I was nearly drowned when I heard him halloo "Oh!" I looked back and saw him; he seemed to be standing in a wall of water, he went down once and came up and went down again. I saw him no more. I finally made my way to shallow water and continued halloaing for help, which I had been doing all along, but nobody heard me, so I went in as fast as I could and told Mr. Sam Thorsby, who was the first person I met, he at once went to the bath house and a skiff put out for the spot which I showed to them and four or five men went in and commenced diving for the body. I at once sent to Fairhope for help and a crowd of men and a sail boat at once came down to the pier. I really think everything that mortal man could do was done as promptly as could be done, it was not ten minutes after the drowning before men were at work diving for the body.

I never will forget Berber Bice as long as I live. He was a nice boy, I only took a little with him. He told me he was from Thorsby and also told me that it was his first experience in salt water. I was entirely exhausted when I reached land, and Mr. Thorsby said I was as white as a sheet. I have felt sad ever since I left Mobile. Someday I may be in Birmingham, if so, I will run down and see you, or if you ever can by Memphis, remember that there is one boy who though your son was nearly a stranger was affected as it was my brother. Be sure and find me if ever you come this way. You might drop me a line once in a while. I would be very glad to hear from you. God bless you and yours. I am yours respectfully, EDGAR WILSON.

DO YOU MOVE?

The world "do move." That is a much mooted question solved long ago.

A later discovery is, however, that other bodies "do move," the most important of which is The Montgomery Advertiser "Grandma" is actually alive, she still lives and moves.

Although The Advertiser has made some important moves in its long career, one of the most recent moves as well as important to the public is that on or about August 16, 1902, the new home, built for Alabama's foremost daily, will be occupied, and the great paper greatly improved, not only in facilities for production but in size and make up as well. The Advertiser's new home is the most complete plant anywhere in the South. When you come to Montgomery, call and be shown about it.

The campaign is upon us, the new crops are about here, you need The Advertiser every day. Drop a postal card and get a sample copy of the great Sunday edition free.

Just a postal card with your name and address will do. Don't forget it. Sixty-five cents will get The Daily and Sunday Advertiser for a whole month.

Mrs. Fred Unrath, President Country Club, Benton Harbor, Mich. "After my first baby was born I did not seem to regain my strength although the doctor gave me a tonic which he considered very superior, but instead of getting better I grew weaker every day. My husband insisted that I take Wine of Cardui for a week and see what it would do for me. I did take the medicine and was very grateful to find my strength and health slowly returning. In two weeks I was out of bed and in a month I was able to take up my usual duties. I am very enthusiastic in its praise."

Wine of Cardui reinforces the organs of generation for the ordeal of pregnancy and childbirth. It prevents miscarriage. No woman who takes Wine of Cardui need fear the coming of her child. If Mrs. Unrath had taken Wine of Cardui before her baby came she would not have been weakened as she was. Her rapid recovery should commend this great remedy to every expectant mother. Wine of Cardui regulates the menstrual flow.

WINE OF CARDUI

Won't Stay Retained. This notice appears on a Flushing steamboat: "Passengers should obtain a receipt for all provisions taken on board this boat and are requested to retain the same." Easier said than done! It reminds us of the old proverb: "There was a young man of Ostend Who said he'd hold out till the end, But when half way over From Ostend to Dover He did what he didn't intend." —London Globe.

LARIA AND YELLOW JACK

Widow of Dr. Larena, who, in 1901, was inoculated with Yellow Jack, and died of the disease, is now in the hands of the Government, and is being used for the purpose of carrying the disease to the people.

Who are exposed to malarial influences should take this medicine. It is the fighting element of the blood, and provides nature with resistance to ward off disease. It is pure and does not harm the system. It is the best blood purifier and tonic, and it has been used for many years.

Harter's Iron Tonic

It is the best blood purifier and tonic, and it has been used for many years. It is the fighting element of the blood, and provides nature with resistance to ward off disease.

Houston, Tex., Aug. 1, 1901. "I have used Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic myself and in my family for over twenty years, and heartily recommend it. It is a most valuable remedy to ward off malarial and other fevers."

J. H. HAYES, United States Senator, Texas.

CLANTON, ALA. THURSDAY AUGUST 28, 1902

NO. 45

VOL. X

THE MAN ON THE CORNER

One of the Sights We Saw, and Some We Saw Not.
The primary is over.
And the nominations made.
All the doughty politicians
Are now resting in the shade;
And from now until November
The lucky ones will fade.
While each defeated member
Will just stay at home and cuss.

Considering that we have just gone through two primaries and two conventions everything is wonderfully quiet. It looks very much as if the people were thinking more about their short crops than they are of politics, and I guess they are right. Anyhow, the Populist primary of last week was, as expected, a quiet affair. 317 men, out of all the old Populist host,
thought it worth while to come out and vote, and of this number the biggest half wanted to stick to their old organization. I can sym-patize with them in their wish to do that, but it is an impossibility,
and although a majority of them voted to that end, the result of the two conventions practically ended
the Peoples Party in this county.

When a Populist convention
nominates candidates for office, the presumption is that those candidates will honestly and faithfully uphold and maintain the principles and platform of the party that honors them with the nomination.
Then when, immediately afterwards, those candidates go before a Republican convention and pledge themselves to support and vote for all Republican nominees, one is forced to wonder where the true Populists can come in. Is it possible that the 168 men who voted to maintain the Populist organization, can have imagined, as a result of their victory, they would be compelled to vote for Republicans whether they like it or not?
And yet that is exactly what is forced upon them. It does not look right to me, and it is not right. Of course it is quite agreeable to the minority who voted to go Republican, but it is tough on the majority. This is a new way for a majority to carry an election.

It is a pleasure to note that six of the successful teachers in this county at the examination in July were students of Clanton High School. They were not only successful in passing the examination,
but each one obtained the certificate for which he applied, three asking for, and getting, second grade certificates, and three third grade. This speaks well for Prof.
Callier's system of tuition, as well as for the capabilities of the students.

The recording of deeds, etc., is a matter that cannot be too carefully and clearly done, and whatever tends to legibility and clearness of the records is to be commended. Some of us write a good hand, but there are others who do not, and a badly written record may lead to lots of trouble. The typewriting machine does the work to a queen's taste and there can be no dispute as to what is written. I have just been looking at a new typewriter Judge Adams has got for the record office, and it is a beauty. The records are as clear

A Necessary Precaution.
Don't neglect a cold. It is worse than unpleasant. It is dangerous.
By using One Minute Cough Cure
you can cure it at once. Allays inflammation, clears the head, soothes and strengthens the mucous membrane. Cures coughs, croup, throat and lung troubles. Absolutely safe.
Acts immediately. Children like it.

East Chilton.

Well, we had quite a little storm
last week which blew fences down and twisted trees off considerably.
Messrs. T. D. and William Whitworth visited their mother here Saturday.

J. M. Parrish, Jr. of Clanton was a pleasant visitor here Friday.
Mr. Jesse Jones and family have returned from Prattville, where they marketed quite a number of sheep last week.

J. N. Goss visited Clanton and Poplar Springs Sunday and reports
a delightful time.

Some of our people are attending the meeting at Salem this week.

Messrs. Lee Williams, B. P.
Kendrick and J. N. Goss caught another fine Raccoon last week.

The cotton fields are already white unto harvest.

I'm grieving over the loss of
"Nobody's Darling."

LOST DOVE.

Providence.

Surely, "Nobody's Darling" has been in the waste basket, but he is coming again if he escapes the rugged bottom of that basket.

Farmers in this section are busily engaged gathering what little cotton they have. Fodder pulling is about finished.

Some of our young people went to Salem Sunday to the protracted meeting; they reported a nice time.

The meeting seems to be attracting the sincere attention of the Salem people, as well as many others.

There was quite a lively crowd at Mr. Jim Robinsons Sunday afternoon.

We are anticipating a successful series of meetings at Providence
beginning on the first Sunday prox.

I can heartily shake hands with
"Lost Dove" in regard to our "sanctified" meetings.

A person's associates have a great deal to do with the proceedings of their lives. Good associates leads one to higher, and nobler aspirations in life, while bad associates are the best thing in the world for mental, moral and spiritual degradation.

Nobody's Darling.

Sudden Death of Mr. Monroe Durbin.

On Tuesday morning, Mr. Monroe Durbin, whose home is near Kincheon, and who has not been in robust health for several years,
but was apparently as well as usual, went out to drive some pigs from his garden, and returning to the house, laid down to rest, and shortly afterward was found dead.
It was a terribly sudden call, and we deeply sympathize with the betrayed widow and five children.

Mr. Durbin was about 45 years old and was greatly respected in the community. The funeral took place Wednesday afternoon at Pleasant Grove cemetery. "In the midst of life we are in death."

All Were Saved.

"For years I suffered such untold misery from Bronchitis," writes J.
H. Johnston, of Broughton, Ga.,
"that often I was unable to work.
Then, when everything else failed,
I was wholly cured by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption.
My wife suffered intensely from Asthma, till it cured her, and all our experience goes to show it is the best Croup medicine in the world."

Miss Quintilla Henry has been on the sick list, but some better now.

Mr. Elisha Cooper is with us again, and also his brother.

The singing school is progressing nicely.

Mr. Rasmus Langston was with us Sunday. Come again, Mr.

Mr. J. H. Harrison is at home on the sick list, but we hope he will be all O. K. in a few days.

Miss May Honeycutt spent a few days here with her aunt, Mrs.
Hughes.

This is my first time; I will not worry you. I will close by saying

Moore's Mill.

The series of meetings held at Bethlehem closed Wednesday night with twenty accessions. The church was revived. The meeting was conducted by the pastor, Rev.
J. E. Moore assisted by Revs T.
J. Drason, J. L. Neely and Charlie
Hill.

It was a great revival; yea, more,
it was a great upheaval, that stirred the hearts of this people and the entire community from center to circumference. The Spirit of the Living God was poured out upon the church and the people.
Surely this is a meeting long to be remembered by reason of God's rich blessings poured out upon this community, and His love richly shed abroad in our hearts. Worthy art thou O Lord, to receive honor, glory, majesty, might and dominion forever.

THREE days since the election, and no one has cried fraud. Verily, we have come to the days of honest elections.

GOVERNOR JELKS carried the State on Monday by a majority of something over 20,000. It will take the official count to decide the exact majority, but it is overwhelming.
The vote was light. Chilton gave a majority of about 270 for Jelks.

THE greatest surprise in the proceedings of last Saturday was the nomination of Mr. L. H. Reynolds for the legislature. Until Saturday
Mr. L. B. Pounds had been the only candidate, it being conceded that he was entitled to the nomination, and also that Mr. Reynolds was aiming for a higher position.
Probably when Mr. Reynolds discovered he could not carry Chilton Populists bodily into the Republican party, he considered his prospects for the Republican nomination for Congress slim, and as he must be a candidate for some office Pounds was ruthlessly pushed aside and Reynolds captured the nomination. Mr. Reynolds is a chronic candidate.

Price on Cotton Crop.

New York, August 26.—The weekly government report upon the cotton crop issued today indicates, in my opinion, the most serious situation which has confronted the trade since 1896. This situation is intensified by the fact that a month ago every one, myself included, was expecting a large crop
and an abundant supply of cotton.
A large crop now seems absolutely out of the question, while an exceedingly small crop is quite within the range of possibilities. The world's supply of American cotton visible and invisible is less with one exception than it has been at any time since the American war and in the case of the exception above referred to cotton went up to 11 cents a pound in New York. I feel justified, therefore in expressing the opinion that a further and very substantial advance in cotton is inevitable, and may be confidently anticipated and southern holders and producers can, I think without trouble realize at least 9 cents a pound for their production, provided they are not precipitate in accepting present prices.

THEODORE H. PRICE.

BEAT No. 11.

At the recent session of the Commissioners' Court a new Beat, to be known as Beat 11, was formed, the boundaries of which are as follows:
Beginning at the mouth of Yel-lowleaf creek in said county, thence up and along said creek to Mahan bridge; thence south and along the Montgomery and Calera road to Rocky creek; thence down and along said creek to Walnut creek;
thence down and along said Walnut creek to the Coosa river, thence up and along said Coosa river to the point of beginning. It is ordered that Flint Hill school house be, and hereby is, the precinct voting place.

THE POPULIST CONVENTION.

In all probability the convention held by the Populists at Clanton on Saturday will be the last convention of that party. While the vote at the primary on the preceding day was a victory for those wishing to maintain the organization of the Peoples Party, the subsequent proceedings of the convention, and the action of the nominees, practically nullifies the vote, and rushes
all who support the ticket into the Republican party.

The executive committee met in the morning and canvassed the returns from the primary, the announcement being made as follows:

For the Peoples Party . . . 168
For the Republican Party . . . 149 majority for the Peoples Party 19.
Chairman L. B. Pounds called the convention to order, Judge S.
M. Adams was elected chairman,
and W. H. Shaw secretary.

Without loss of time the convention proceeded to make nominations for county officers, and the following were duly nominated:
For Representative—L. H. Reynolds.
For Supt. of Education—J. W.
Moore.
For Commissioner First District
—W. H. Conway.
For Commissioner Second District—Alex Glasscock.

REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

As soon as the court house was vacated by the Populists on Saturday, the Republicans of Chilton county held a convention, twenty-six white gentlemen being present and not a solitary colored man.

H. A. Wilson and Secar Harris, both claiming to be chairman of the Republican party in this county,
called the convention to order.
Both gentlemen tendered their resignations as chairman, and the resignations were accepted.

J. B. Downs was elected temporary chairman of the convention, and F. O. Dudley, secretary; the temporary organization afterwards being made permanent.

Delegates to the Republica-State convention were elected as follows: H. A. Wilson, Secar
Harris, J. B. Downs, W. C. Edler and D. N. Riggins.

Delegates to the Fourth District congressional convention—K. G.
Faegre, F. O. Dudley, J. E. Sims,
Lee Vickers and W. H. Foshee.

The following executive committee was elected with J. B. Downs as chairman. Beat 1—A. J. Glasscock, I. A. Green, 2—C. L.
Glasscock, B. E. Collum, 3—(none), 4—H. A. Wilson, W. C.
Edler, 5—(none), 6—Madison
Popwell, 7—W. H. Foshee, W. J.
Atchison, 8—Secar Harris, D. M.
Apperson, 9—D. N. Riggins,
Scott Caverno, 10—E. J. Jones,
J. W. G. Kicker. The committee was empowered to fill the vacancies.

The following resolutions were passed:

"Be it resolved by the Republican party of Chilton county, in convention assembled, that we endorse the wise and patriotic administration of President Theodore Roosevelt, and pledge it our hearty and loyal support."

"Be it resolved, that the delegates elected to represent Chilton county in the State and Congressional conventions are instructed to cast the vote of this county as a unit in all matters coming before said convention."

"Be it resolved, that the delegates elected by this convention to attend the Republican State Convention are hereby instructed to cast their votes for W. I. Wellman for chairman of the Republican State executive committee."

Nominations for county officers was next in order, when the announcement was made that a committee from the Populist convention desired to confer with a committee from the Republican convention. After a short discussion it was decided not to appoint a committee, but to invite the Populist delegation before the convention. Messrs. L. H. Reynolds, W.
H. Conway, J. J. Green and L. B.
Pounds then appeared before the convention, and stated that the Populists had nominated a ticket which they asked the Republicans to endorse.

Chairman J. B. Downs and ex-chairman H. A. Wilson declared that the Populists had nominated as good Republicans as the convention could possibly do, and advocated their endorsement, but a motion was made that they (the Populist nominees) should not be endorsed but nominated straight out by the Republican convention.
The question was raised as to whether the Populist nominees would vote for Republican nominees, and Mr. H. A. Wilson, acting as spokesman for the convention, put the following question:

"Will you support and vote for the Republican nominees, State and National, and in the Fourth Congressional district?" and Mr.
L. H. Reynolds and Mr. W. H.
Conway (the two Populist nominees present) both heartily pledged themselves to do so, while other gentlemen in the convention vouched for Supt. J. W. Moore and Mr.
Alex Glasscock doing the same thing.

This concluded the business and the convention adjourned.

ON TO THE GOLDEN GATE.

The fields of clover smell so sweet
I think of the song "Sweet fields arrayed in living green and rivers of delight." I noticed a sign posted in St. Louis reading, "Wanted 400 harvesters; men to house wheat,
$2.50 and $3.50 per day and board."
What do you think of that for farmers to pay a day for labor.

Whenever the railroad ran through a cut, I noticed that they had high plank fences on each side of the road and no cracks left in the fence. On inquiry, I found that the railroads build them to keep out the drifting snow in the winter.

They use wind mills all through this country to pump the water out of the wells for their stock, and also for irrigating the land when necessary.

At Mt. Cook station, a few miles out of Denver, we all turn our watches back one hour so as to conform to mountain time. When I went East I had to turn forwards
every now and then one hour.

After leaving Nebraska and entering Colorado, the soil changes to sandy and no rain falls and the country is as desolate in places as the plains of Jericho.

Fifty miles out from Denver the Rocky mountains appear like clouds on the horizon, and you would call them so unless someone told you better. I found the farm houses light frame instead of brick. They said it was safer, for when the cyclone blew down a brick it nearly always kills all the family, and you and the frame house generally travel together and are thereby saved in the cyclone. We sleep under blankets here now. More anon.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Aug. 13
I wrote you last from Denver. I am now in the new Jerusalem of the Latter Day Saints, the Mormons.

I could say a great deal about Denver and not tell it all. It is a city of schools and churches. So far advanced is it beyond the Wild and Woody West of 30 years ago, that Buffalo Bill's Wild Western Show is here now playing to well entertained crowds. Denver pays $21.08 per capita tax for its city schools.
It brings its water 35 miles from the mountains. There are a great many tree nurseries around the city, and must be, as all the trees they have they are compelled to propagate. The railroads are fenced in out here and there is a crossing every mile. That inconvenience to the farmers of Alabama would raise quite a howl.

I saw a large tract of land laid out in what I thought was peach trees, and I said "gee whizz!" What a big peach orchard, and the fellow in the seat behind me laughed and said it was the mesquite tree. An other fellow from the East was as green as I; he said "These people out West are certainly hard workers, for they have cleared up the whole d-d country already, and we in the East are not through yet."

Then I laughed.
Some fir and pine trees grow in mountains here. I saw a typical rancher's home en route here. The dwelling was built about half way in the ground, so as to dodge the fury
of the cyclone as much as possible.
I find that anyone who comes from a low humid climate like Alabama into these high altitudes will scratch their skins, while every strand of your hair will each go its own way and you have to go the barber and get him to plaster it down with hair oil.

I leave Denver and stop over at Colorado Springs, a summer resort
in the mountains, 5,992 feet above the sea level. The springs are four miles away at Manitou, and Manitou is at the base of the famous mountain, Pike's Peak, 14,147 feet above sea level. I had been on top of Rigi Kulm in the Alps, and had experienced trouble with my ears, and it was 5886 feet high, and I am afraid to venture up so high; but throwing my fears aside, I went up, and the way my ears did pop and sing was fearful. The top is away above the timber line and the clouds are as often below as above its top.
Two ladies and one man was overcome by the rarefied air, but nothing serious came from it. I brought no overcoat with me, and I have never been colder in my life except one time on the sea off from shore of Greenland 800 miles. The cog wheel railroad that makes the ascent

is eight and three-quarter miles long.
Pike's Peak is noted in this particular, the unobstructed view is greater than in the Alps, as other mountain tops in the Alps are as high as any you may stand on and thus cut off your view. While Pike's Peak is the king among its fellows, and you can see farther than you can; a bigger view than you can view. A nice gentleman, from Piqua, Ohio,
whose blood was warmer than mine,
kindly tendered me his overcoat.
Without it I would have suffered much. I discovered that my nose bled a little from the altitude, when I was half way down; had I known it when on the top of the peak I guess they would have one more to carry down. But I am through now with mountain tops. At the base of the mountain is an extensive park called "The Garden of the Gods," so named because the red stone rocks therein are chiseled out by nature in all kinds of fantastic shapes; some rocks being nearly in the shape of a frog, some in shape of camels;
some in the exact form of a lion,
and so on.

After one day we again take train for Salt Lake. As the train steams out of Colorado Springs I can see away above the clouds old Pike's Peak, with its rocky barren top. Its top is one mass of broken loose rock, like as if some giant Vulcan had taken his hammer and spent his life in breaking in smaller pieces the great rocks. Glad I was not there when the job was being done. We had trouble all the way here. Our car was No. 13 in the train. Our train was the 13th section. We had no conductor on the Pullman sleeper. No porter for awhile. My chum and I made our own berth.
The tremendous crowd taxing the railroads beyond their capacities.
Running thirteen trains in sections
as the regular No. 5 out of Denver.

We soon strike the Colorado-Utah desert and a delightful rain falls for the first time in six months.
We feel good and congratulate ourselves on the fact, as the dust would be blinding; when lo! The train stops, our joy turned to sadness; the cloud burst of the mountains ahead has washed away the ashlike embankment of the railroad and we must wait for repairs. In the meantime the Pintch gas on our sleeper gives out; the water in the tank is out, and no dining car was put on our train. While we sit on velvet cushions our carpeted moving palace (now turned to stationary palace) the solitude of the desert looks in around us, we think of how nice an humble cottage with a crust to eat would be. Finally, a candle is procured somewhere and cut up in pieces among us and we hurry to make down our berths for the night, before our little piece of candle burns out. Finally repairs are made and we move again. More anon.

ON A WHEEL the rider frequently meets with disaster. A very handy and efficient device to have with you when an accident happens is a bottle of Mexican Mustang Liniment.

Ulcers or Running Sores

need not become a fixture upon your body. If they do it is your fault, for

will thoroughly, quickly and permanently cure these afflictions. There is no guess work about it; if this liniment is used a cure will follow.

YOU DON'T KNOW how quickly a burn or scald can be cured until you have treated it with Mexican Mustang Liniment. As a flesh healer it stands at the very top.

MONTGOMERY FAIR.

"Well! well! What's the matter with the old Fair?" everybody will be asking in a few days.
Before many days the public will be carried in fast running elevators to our second and third floors, hitherto unused for the sale and display of goods. Business keeps growing so fast that we've got to have every inch of selling room we can possibly get. And now for the Greatest Sale That Ever Happened in This City!

It isn't an ordinary sale, but extraordinary in all that much used word can imply. We—yes, we are compelled to rid our shelves of merchandise, old clothing, and walls are to be torn down, we must sell goods at a fearful rate the next two weeks or store them out of the way. This we do not care to do. We prefer to sell them, and sell them at such ridiculously low prices that it will pay you well to take them to your home and store them for future use.

This Rebuilding and Expansion Sale will commence promptly next Monday morning at 8 o'clock sharp. You are certain of bargains—and who isn't hunting for them these days.

MAIL ORDERS given prompt and careful attention.

COMMITTEE.

A YOUNG LADY'S LIFE SAVED

At Panama, Columbia, by Chas. J. Cole's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

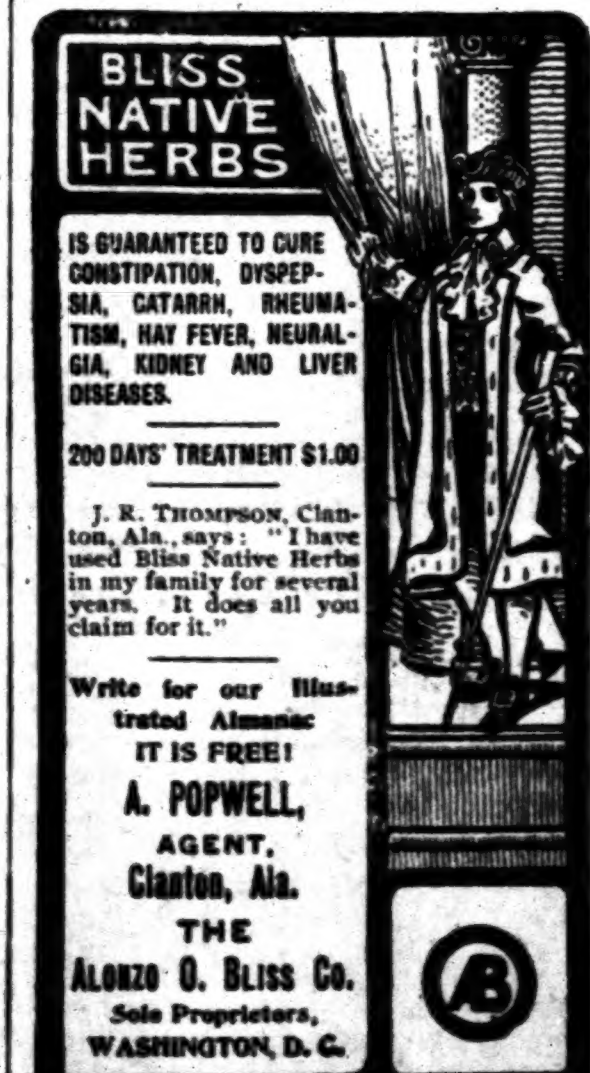

Dr. Chas. J. Cole, a prominent physician, of Panama, Columbia, in a recent letter states: "Last March I had as a patient a young lady sixteen years of age, who had a very bad attack of dysentery. Everything I prescribed for her proved ineffectual and she was growing worse every hour. Her parents were sure she would die. She had become so weak that she could not turn over in bed. What to do at this critical moment was a study for me, but I thought of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and as a last resort prescribed it. The most wonderful result was effected. Within eight hours she was feeling much better, inside of three days she was up on her feet and at the end of one week was entirely well." For sale by Hopkins Drug Co., and A. Horn, Thorsby.

MARRIED

At the home of Mr. James Mitchell, near Stanton, August 24, Mr. A. H. Johnson and Miss Fannie Mitchell, Rev. W. H. Connel performing the ceremony. We extend hearty congratulations to the happy young couple and wish them a long and prosperous life together.

To My Friends

It is with joy I tell you what Kodol did for me. I was troubled with my stomach for several months. Upon being advised to use Kodol, I did so, and words cannot tell the good it has done me. A neighbor had dyspepsia so that he had tried most everything. I told him to use Kodol. Words of gratitude have come to me from him because I recommended it.—Geo. W. Fry, Viola, Iowa. Health and strength, of mind and body, depend on the stomach, and normal activity of the digestive organs. Kodol, the great reconstructive tonic, cures all stomach and bowel troubles, indigestion, dyspepsia. Kodol digests any good food you eat. Take a dose after meals.

THE MAN ON THE CORNER

Man of the Sights He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.
There was a man in Jemison
Who thought himself most wise,
He thought he'd turn Republican,
For that was office lies.
So to the old time Populists
He spoke with greatest glee:
"Let us all turn Republican,
That man's office for me."
Then up and spoke the Populist:
"That trick will never do,
We will not turn Republican,
And we've had enough of you.
You cannot turn us as you list,
You cannot turn us as you list,
We'll be true Populists
We'll be true Populists."

And so the man from Jemison
Did work and sweat and stew,
He wanted office, Oh, so bad,
He knew not what to do.
He ran by night, he ran by day,
He ran and's running yet,
He'll run while life is in him stay,
But office he'll ne'er get.

Tuesday morning Lewis Reynolds was in town and so was Joe Headley. At first sight there don't seem any connection in that, but the boys on the corner found a plenty. Joe has recently patented a "wire tightener," and has also a bed brace to sell. One of the boys observed that Joe ought to sell himself to meet the cyclone that's coming. Another thought he might invest in a wire tightener,
but it was remarked that Lewis had his wires already laid and stretched so tight that the least turn more would break them. Joe has a model of a bridge to show the working of his tightener, and it was suggested that Joe should call it the Republican bridge and present it to Lewis as illustrative of the bridge that carried him over from the Populist party to the Republicans, but the objection was made that Lewis had not needed a bridge, he had crossed the stream at a jump, while another one thought it probable that Lewis' Republican bridge would break down with the load it has to carry and dump him in the shoals. Joe is headed for Jemison and may be Lewis will invest.

Some people there are, in their journey
through life,
With nought but ill luck are they troubled;
But Will Adams has found with a beautiful wife
His good luck in this world is just doubled.
Sing hugh, oh, needles and pins,
There's nothing on earth like a fine
pair of twins.

The new warehouse is completed and Mr. Henry Jones is now ready for business, and it would seem most likely he will get plenty of it.
Like all new enterprises it will take a little time to get the proper run of it, and the best thing you can do is to see Mr. Jones and he will give you all the information you desire. The warehouse is called the "Farmers' Warehouse" and the farmer now has facilities for storing his produce until such time as he wishes to dispose of it.
Good luck to Mr. Jones.

The primary election to be held on the 15th inst. is one in which every white man who believes in the rule of the people, and that is democracy, should be willing to leave his work for the short time necessary and cast his vote for the men he believes will best serve our country. Go and vote for your best men, and in November we will elect them. This is the people's opportunity and should on no account be neglected.

The Normal Musical Institute
closed last week with a concert
Friday night which was much enjoyed. Prof. Showalter and his charming daughters left on Saturday. The Institute has not been altogether a financial success, I believe, but it has been of great benefit to the lovers of music.

Water Cure for Chronic Constipation.

Take two cups of hot water half an hour before each meal and just before going to bed, also a drink of water, hot or cold, about two hours after each meal. Take lots of outdoor exercise—walk, ride, drive.
Make a regular habit of this and in many cases chronic constipation may be cured without the use of any medicine. When a purgative is required take something mild and gentle like Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. For sale by Hop-

To the Democratic and Conservative
Voters of Chilton County:

The political condition in our County at this time leads us to believe that the differences which for some years past have divided the white men of Chilton are now being healed, and that many of our friends desire to re-enter the Democratic party. The working of the new Constitution up to the present is eminently satisfactory.
The pledges made to the people have been religiously kept.
Every white man who presented himself to the Registrars was duly registered for life, and the primary election just held was carried through in a spirit of fairness and honesty.
Taking all these things into consideration, the Executive Committee of the Democratic Party of Chilton County, at a meeting held at Clanton, August 28, 1902, ordered that a Primary Election for the purpose of nominating a Representative in the Legislature, a County Superintendent of Education, a Commissioner from the First District, a Commissioner from the Second District, and an Executive Committee, consisting of one member from each of the Eleven Beats, be held at the several voting places in Chilton County on Monday, September 15, 1902.

The following resolutions were adopted by the Committee:

RESOLVED, That all conservative white men who believe in the principles of the Democratic Party, and who will support the nominees of said Party, are hereby cordially invited to participate in this primary, regardless of all past party affiliations.

RESOLVED, That the names of all candidates must be sent in to the Chairman of the Committee at Clanton, not later than September 10, in order that they may be printed on the official ballot.

RESOLVED, That each candidate be allowed to have a friend of his own at each polling place to sit with the managers and see the ballots counted.

RESOLVED, That each voter who is unable to mark his own ballot be permitted to have any friend he may call upon to mark his ballot for him.

RESOLVED, That the Managers and Returning Officers must take the oath, as required by law, and the Returning Officers must bring the returns in to the Chairman of the Executive Committee on or before Thursday, September 18, 1902, when the Committee will meet and the result will be declared, each candidate receiving the highest number of votes for the respective offices to be declared the nominee.

In throwing down the bars and making this liberal proposition to all the white voters of Chilton County, the Committee is animated solely by the desire to harmonize the white people of Chilton with a view to the advancement of our County, our State and Nation, which we firmly believe can only be accomplished through the medium of the Democratic Party.
This primary is in the hands of the white people, all who wish are free to enter as candidates, and all who will are free to vote for the men of their choice. Brethren, let us dwell in unity.
Very respectfully,
THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE OF THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY OF CHILTON COUNTY.

A Certain Cure for Dysentery and Diarrhoea.

"Some years ago I was one of a party that intended making a long bicycle trip," says F. L. Taylor, of New Albany, Bradford County, Pa.
"I was taken suddenly with diarrhoea, and was about to give up the trip, when editor Ward, of the Laceyville Messenger, suggested that I take a dose of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I purchased a bottle and took two doses, one before starting and one on the route. I made the trip successfully and never felt any ill effect. Again last summer I was almost completely run down with an attack of dysentery. I bought a bottle of this same remedy and this time one dose cured me."

North Carolina has 224,637 farms, averaging 101 acres and worth $622. Fifty-four thousand of them are owned by colored men. The state produces $17,000,000 worth of corn, $15,000,000 worth of cotton and half as much to sugco.

A Munich tailor proposes to lessen the perils of hot climates by clothing made on approved optical principles. The outer layer is of white material to reflect heat rays, and an inner layer of black or other colored fabric is expected to absorb the chemically active light rays.

In one respect the official paper containing the terms of the Boer surrender is unique in the history of nations. The London correspondent of the Scotsman, who describes it, says it looks not like a state paper but like a business circular. It will take its place in the archives of the war office or some other department stamped in every line with the habits of the twentieth century. A state paper typewritten! The thing would have been inconceivable a few years ago. There is no parchment, no elaborate penmanship by official scribes. The military typewriter was called in; the terms of surrender were set forth in the printed type; and beneath the typewriting the signatures were written.

Experiments conducted by Dr. Alexander P. Anderson in the laboratories of the New York Botanical Garden are said to have developed a method by which, with the application of heat to starch grains, the granules are expanded to many times their original dimensions, being fractured into innumerable fragments by the process. Thus, a grain of rice is expanded to eight or more times its original volume, while still retaining its original form. Other cereals exhibit similar behavior. The material prepared in this way is absolutely sterilized, and may be preserved or stored for a long time. The products have met with approval from food and chemical experts, and the process bids fair to prove of greater economic and commercial value.

Young Walter Raleigh tossing his cloak to be a bridge for the Virgin Queen's feet was not so gallant a squire of dames as that Kentucky cadet at the Virginia Military Institute who, accounted as he was, plunged into the water and rescued a white hat thrown from a boat by a young woman of Richmond. She was inspired by mischief or enthusiasm for sociology or anthropology to test the devotion of Southern youth and air their chivalry by a "dare." The Kentuckian spoiled his clothes and saved his honor and the swimming hat. He was rewarded or repaid by a smile and a hand-kiss. Honor to the brave; and yet wasn't the young woman braver than her knight? queries the New York Sun. For a girl to dump her good, new hat into the drink shows more than feminine, almost more than mortal courage.

The attention of the president having been called to the published statement that Attorney General Knox's name was being considered with the view of appointing him to a justiceship on the supreme bench to succeed Justice Shiras it can be said on the authority of the president himself that not only does he not contemplate such a move but that Justice Shiras has not resigned.

MURDERED AND ROBBED.

Dead Bodies of Man and Wife Found on Floor of House.

The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Britton Lewis, residing five miles south of Bronson, Fla., were found on the floor of their home by neighbors. The house had been pillaged and Lewis and his wife murdered. There is no clue to the murderers. The belief is that the murder was committed by two persons, and the general impression is that they were white men who were acquainted with the premises and knew of his wealth. Sheriff Sutton with a posse is scouring the country and bloodhounds have been brought into play.

Alger Charged With Fraud.

A special from Winchester, Tenn., says: The noted lawsuit between ex-Secretary of War Alger and the heirs of John F. Anderson involving some 15,000 acres of land in the mountains of middle Tennessee, has been reopened by the filing of a bill in the chancery court, alleges fraud on the part of General Alger while the case was before the courts previous to its apparent settlement in 1900. The bill alleges that while General Alger was seeking a recovery of his purchase money and asking that the heirs of Anderson be compelled to take back the land and pay all expenses incurred by General Alger in purchase, taxes, interest, etc. (which suit General Alger won after six years of litigation,) he, (General Alger) sold the lands to Governor Bliss, of Michigan, for about $90,000, but by fraud and persuasion prevented Governor Bliss from registering the deed. The bill claims that General Alger was not entitled to a recovery inasmuch as he parted with his title while the case was still in court and while he was seeking to have the sale to him from John F. Anderson rescinded.

INHUMAN WOMAN.

A report from Sevier county, Tenn., says that Mrs. Earl Sharp, aged about 16, in a fit of insanity attacked a negro woman servant and dug her eyes out with a fork and then threw the negro on a hot stove, almost burning her to death. The negro is said to be still alive. The report states Mrs. Sharp, who is a daughter of Colonel McMahan, one of the most prominent citizens in the county, surrendered and was bound over in the sum of $10,000 bond, which she gave.

Religious Theater.

Rev. Forbes Phillips, vicar of Gorleston, near Yarmouth, England, who aroused widespread comment by permitting Mrs. Brown Potter to recite from his pulpit, is agitating a fresh and more startling scheme for a close union of church and stage in the cause of religion. He proposes that each parish maintain a theatre under the management of the church. In an outspoken interview the clergyman says: "Clergymen overdo the religious side of life, thereby ruining the spiritual lives, like that of over-fed Strasburg geese."

Experts of high repute say that when the coal mines in both the Americas and in Europe are exhausted the stores of fuel in China will serve the world for centuries. Chinese coal and Chinese cheap labor in future cycles may then keep afloat the furnaces which maintain the industries of the globe; and the Yellow Peril will then become the Yellow Benefactor.

SUPERINTENDENT AND ATTORNEY-GENERAL

Candidates so Close That Who Will Run Second Race is Still Uncertain.

In the following tables are given the figures, up to the time of going to press, in the races for the nominations for attorney general and superintendent of education. It now appears as if Wilson and Garber in the one and Harris and Hill in the other will have to settle it in another primary.

AGRICULTURAL

An Excellent Pig Trough.

To slop pigs properly make a trough of oak board one and one-half inch thick, and of any length or width desired, one board eight inches and one ten inches wide will make a trough suitable for all but very small pigs.
Nail them together V shape, letting the ten inch board go over the eight inch to make the sides even. Nail on ends, divide the trough into nine to eleven equal spaces. From an oak board one inch thick and six or eight inches wide saw V shaped partitions, with one corner a right angle and two corners half right angles. Fit the pieces and nail with six penny finishing nails. The illustration shows the pig side of the trough when set in the corner of the pig pen. The upper part of the partitions that stand above the trough are nailed to the fence board and the ends of the trough to the posts. The trough must be level and project three or four inches on the outside thus allowing a clear space to whole length to pour in swill. Besides the convenience and cleanliness each pig gets his proper share. This individual trough is also fine for feeding

dry feeds. F. C. Laclede, in The Epito-mist.

Combinations of Foods For Cows.

No better combination of foods for feeding cows in the stable can be imagined than alfalfa hay and corn silage,
and possibly a little grain, although a fairly well balanced ration can be made up without grain. In such feeding it is best to give hay and silage each once a day. The amount of silage per head ranges from thirty-five to sixty pounds daily, depending upon the supply of silage. The cattle will eat corn silage at all seasons of the year, even when on good alfalfa or other green pasture, but if the supply be limited it can be most profitably fed when pastures are dry, or if the cattle should be kept off them because of heavy rains or until the grass is of sufficient age and size to be of value.

If the dairyman will erect silos and have their cows calve in the fall instead of spring they can secure as large a flow of milk during the season when dairy products are usually high priced as they now have during the low prices of the spring months. Corn silage may be fed with profit to sheep
as well as cattle, but not to other stock.
Alfalfa silage is fed successfully to all farm stock, including swine and poultry. Horses working hard should be given such watery food in very small quantities, while those at light work or doing nothing may be fed more, and will even make profitable use of some corn silage. Nebraska Farmer.

A Good Insecticide.

Kerosene emulsion is perhaps the most generally used of all the contact insecticides of its class. It is best prepared as follows:

Take one pound of whale oil soap
and boil in a gallon of water until dissolved. While hot add two gallons of kerosene oil. Churn this mixture through a force pump with nozzle attached, dividing the spray against the wall of the vessel again. This process should be kept up until the liquid mass thickens like butter. Then allow to cool. After cooling it should not separate, if so it must be boiled, more soap added and churned again. Rain water should be used or water made soft by using lye. This forms what is called the stock solution. Any good lye soap will make the emulsion, but whale oil soap is preferable. The stock solution may be diluted to any strength for any given plant. The proportions depend upon the tenacity of the insect and resistance of the plant.

It must be remembered that this insecticide kills by closing the breathing spiracles of insects and in a manner suffocates them. Hence each individual insect must be struck in the application of this kind of an insecticide, and it will be evident at once that unless the very best nozzles are used, the best designed force pumps employed, and the work done thoroughly, only partial results will follow. It is always good practice to spray at frequent intervals for such pests as plant lice in order that they may be kept in control.
One application seldom ever suffices to eradicate these pests. Contact insecticides are necessary for all those insects which have puncturing mouth parts and which, therefore, do not take in solid food and cannot be poisoned. It will, therefore, be apparent that the eating habits must be determined first and then the nature of the insecticide to be used. Home and Farm.

The Potency of Breed.

The breeder must depend for the improvement of his cattle and cows upon inheritance and the system of feeding, but many beginners who do not see immediate results of a system of careful breeding get discouraged and give up. A great many criticisms of breeding results are thus voiced through disappointment. A good many times calves inherit tendencies rather than the actual gifts which their sires possessed, and these tendencies require cultivation and encouragement to develop. Good breeding consists in recording such valuable tendencies and caring to them. But time is quired in some instances to make them at all consistent with one's ideas of what they should be. In the lands of good feeders and breeders dairy cows are producing larger supplies of milk and cream. Milk rich in butter fat is becoming more common and feeding more economical. A cow can be fed to-day by a progressive dairyman at much less cost than it was possible ten years ago, and yet feed is higher. This is due to a better balanced ration, which means economy in cost on both ends. It produces more results, and it can be provided at less expense.

We have the breeds to-day which are well adapted to beef or butter-making,
and these are becoming more common on our farms every year. Their general distribution argues well for the future of our cattle and dairy outlook.
But to keep up the potency of these good breeds we must have the courage of our convictions, and the patience necessary to wait for results. We need to feed for a purpose, and to develop tendencies which will provide us with sure profits. Well-bred cows in the hands of ignorant people are sure to degenerate, and in time all their good points will be neutralized. It is necessary that we should have intelligence in feeding to bring out the best that there is in them. Educated men in this line of work will not only emphasize the value of the good breeds, but they will raise a standard of dairying and beef raising a little higher each year. E. P. Smith, in American Cultivator.

Convenient Chicken Coop.

The accompanying illustration gives an idea for the construction of a neat, handy and healthy coop. It can be made of any size. For one or two broods of chickens, about four feet square and two feet high in front and eighteen inches in the rear is a convenient size. It should be made with a tight floor to prevent the entrance of rats, skunks, etc., and also to aid in keeping clean. The entrance should have two doors. One of them merely a frame over which is stretched wire netting with meshes fine enough to exclude all prowlers of the night. This is to be used in the summer time when it is too hot to shut the coop with the tight doors. The other door can be made to shut over the wire door by hinging at the top. The wire door is made to slide in from the top or end.
With the coop tightly closed there will not be sufficient ventilation. A

COOP AND CLEANER.

ventilator made of three or four inch boards nailed into a box about two and one-half feet long, set in the middle of the coop roof and extending down inside to within a couple of inches of the bottom will suffice. At the rear, to aid in cleaning, should be a door about eight inches wide, extending the whole length of the coop at the bottom.
By lifting this and using a small hoe-
like tool, a made by taking a block 4x8 inches and boring a hole in the center, and putting in a handle about two feet long, the job of cleaning is a short and easy one. All coops should be painted and the roof made tight enough to prevent leaking. These coops are not too heavy to be carried to any place where it is desirable. The illustration shows the coop with one door raised, showing the wire netting.

stead.

Coal Ashes in the Garden.

A note comes to me concerning coal ashes, ashes and charcoal. The writer says that he has always used coal ashes for making sidewalks and supposed them good for nothing else. "I tried what you recommended on a small part of our garden, forking them into my clay soil, and I also placed coal ashes, as you recommended, about young trees. I must confess that I am reaping great benefit, but I cannot understand where the benefit comes from."
The benefit is in the fact that coal ashes make your soil more porous, and therefore more capable of receiving and retaining moisture and fertiliz-ing elements from the atmosphere. A well aerated soil is all the time becoming a well enriched soil. You know very well that a hard compacted clay is little better than a solid stone for your plants and trees. The principle is just the same as that of aerating with a cultivator. This business of mulching, cultivating and lightening
the soil is all one. The mulch that you put about your trees should occasionally be forked in, and renewed with fresh mulch, removing at the same time
all weed. Do this once a year at least.
For trees in a garden this is better than plowing, because it does not tear
the roots, nor break the little fibres that are feeding the trees. The same care should be taken in the vineyard.
If I had a few vines I would not plow them at all, but would mulch them heavily with coal ashes and with fertiliz-ing material. Then I would fork them carefully and keep them clean.
Charcoal is valuable in just the same way. The wood ash connected with this sort of material is a fertilizer. Remember that all sorts of insects that work around the base of trees find it very difficult to do any mischief when brought in contact with coal ashes or with the coal refuse from a coal yard.
Downing recommended this thirty or forty years ago, and better advice cannot be given. E. P. Powell, in New York Tribune Farmer.

MAN KILLED BY STRIKERS

Troops Ordered Out in the West Virginia Mining Region.

NON-UNION MEN ARE TERRORIZED

Governor States That He Sends Militia to Protect Life and Property, But Not to Settle the Strike—Citizens Refuse to Aid the Sheriff—First Clash With Soldiers in Pennsylvania.

Rosnoke, Va.—A dispatch from Bluefield, West Va., says that there is great excitement on Crane Creek and Simons Creek over the recent shootings.
John Rubie, a blacksmith employed by the Sagamore Coal and Coke Company, was shot by striking miners and killed.

Rubie, in company with Barney Shu-mate, of this city, who had been employed as a guard, left the company to go to a point on the works to watch, as the company feared a visit from a mob. En route they were fired on, and Rubie fell. Shumate opened fire on the miners, who after their first volley fled. None of them has been arrested. The non-union men who took striking places are terrorized, and a good many of them are leaving. A number of guards have been engaged,
and rushed to the works.

Charleston, West Va.—The troops ordered to the New River strike district by Governor White arrived during the afternoon, establishing headquarters at Thurmond. The situation is very acute. Sheriff Daniel, who is here from Fayette County, says he is powerless to repress disorder, and property and life are in constant danger. Nearly everybody refuses to act as deputy sheriffs to assist in the eviction of striking miners, and hence the Sheriff made a request for troops.

Governor White says he sends the troops to protect life and property, but not to settle the strike. That, he says, belongs to the miners and operators.

MOROS ATTACK SOLDIERS

Cars Full of Militia Are Stoned, and Captain Is Hurt.

Tamaqua, Pa.—The first clash between the striking miners and the troops has occurred, and as a result five prisoners are in the guard-house at the Twelfth Regiment camp, and Captain J. Beaver Gearheart, of Company F, Twelfth Regiment, is suffering from a wound on his shoulder,
made by a stone thrown by a striker.

A report gained currency that the striking men were gathering in force to make a march on the No. 4 colliery,
where the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company is mining and cleaning coal.
The colliery is at the west end of the Panther Creek Valley, and the troops were ordered to that point. Companies
P and K, of the Twelfth Regiment, were placed on trolley cars and run through the valley. During the trip the cars were surrounded by a mob of striking miners, who hurled stones at the soldiers. James Marteen, an Italian, was caught in the act of hurling a stone at the cars. When the soldiers attempted to capture him Marteen offered resistance, and the soldiers were compelled to fix their bayonets. In the melee which followed Marteen was slightly wounded in the left side.

On the return to camp a large mob was encountered, and for a time it looked as though there would be another riot. As the first car was passing through the mob Captain Gearheart was struck in the right shoulder by a stone. Several soldiers jumped from the car and after an exciting struggle captured Joseph McCann, a young miner.

The cars proceeded again, but had not gone far when another crowd was encountered and the soldiers were again mounted and stoned. Half a dozen soldiers jumped off and captured three men, who, it is alleged, were urging the crowd to attack the troops. The men gave their names as John King, Timothy King and John Kelly. They were taken to camp at Manila Park, where, together with McCann and Mar-teen, they were placed under a heavy guard.

ROBBER GETS $3700.

Assaults a New Hampshire Station Agent and Steals an Express Package.

Manchester, N. H.—A powerfully built man, who is supposed to have arrived on the 8.40 train from Boston, assaulted the station agent and express agent at Goff's Falls as soon as the train loungers had left the depot and obtained a package containing $3700, which came via the American Express and was designed to pay the help at the Devonshire Mills.

A. H. McDermott, the station agent, was taken unawares, and could not give a satisfactory description of the robber, who ran over the Merrimac River bridge and escaped into the woods. The exploit was evidently carefully planned.

CIUDAD BOLIVAR BOMBARDED.

Government Warship Attacks the Town
Held by Insurgents—Many Killed.

Washington, D. C.—United States
Minister Bowen has cabled the State Department from Caracas, Venezuela, that a Government warship which recently arrived at La Guayra reports that for two days she bombarded Ciudad Bolivar, after which she withdrew,
having exhausted her ammunition.

Other reports say that many persons were killed or wounded. British subjects have asked that a warship be sent for their protection.

YAKUS ATTACK MEXICANS.

Thirty Indians and Eleven Soldiers Killed Including an Officer.

Hermosillo, Mexico.—A band of more than 300 Yaqui Indians a few days ago attacked a detachment of Government troops, commanded by Lieutenant Jose Berra, in the mountains southeast of Hermosillo. The battle was especially fought and finally resulted in the indians being repulsed. Lieutenant Berra and ten members of his command were killed more than thirty Indians were killed. Berra was a son of Miguel
M. Berra, the noted Yaqui leader.

MILLIONS BET ON RACES

$12,300,000 Wagered at Saratoga
During the Season Just Ended.

Bookmakers Did Not Keep the Harvest
They Expected—Large Individual Winnings—Whitney Complimented.

Saratoga, N. Y.—Twelve million three hundred thousand dollars is the most conservative estimate given by experts of the amount wagered at the Saratoga race track during the season which has just ended.

Senator Patrick H. McCarran is of the opinion that at least $500,000 a day, on an average, has been placed with the bookmakers. Bookmaker Joe Ul-man, who handled $129,000 one day and broke the record a few days later by handling $150,000, declares that on certain days nearly or quite $2,000,000 had been wagered. The McCarran and the Ulman statements are regarded generally as the conservative and the extreme.

These figures do not include any private bets which may have been made. The Gates, the Drakes and the Pittsburg "Phils" have hit the bookies
so hard at times that the sixty odd men who have done business for the twenty-two days have not reaped the harvest some of them expected. A careful observer of their doings said that he doubted if the bookies could count on more than two per cent profit at the track. This would give them only $254,000 to the good, out of which must be taken at least $100,000 for expenses.

The biggest individual winning on single day was scored by "Pittsburg Phil," when he cleared up $90,000.

John W. Gates, who has made miserable every bookmaker whenever he went down the line, achieved the distinction of winning the largest sum placed on a single horse. He cashed in $50,000 on High Chancellor the day
he left for Denver to wrestle with Osgood for control of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company.

John A. Drake has once or twice pocketed $40,000 as a day's winnings,
but he and other Westerners lost heavily by backing Articulate, a nag which has proved a sore disappointment to Chicago and St. Louis plungers.

At the close of the last day's racing
President Whitney exchanged congratulations with directors and others interested in the Saratoga Association upon the completion of the most successful season on record. For half an hour President Whitney, either acknowledged or dodged bouquets hurled at him by the Belmonts, Hitchcocks, Wilsons, Follansbees, Werners, Dwyers and Alexanders upon his admirable management of the affairs of the corporation.

Treasurer Andrew Miller estimates that when the books are balanced the profits will not be far from $130,000, against $76,000 in 1901. The usual five per cent dividend will be declared.
The surplus will be devoted to new yearling stables, training track and other improvements.

WHAT? CHANGE HER HAIR?

She Would Quit Uncle Sam's Employ
First, and Did.

Washington, D. C.—A young woman
presser in the Government Printing Office has given up her job rather than change the style of doing up her hair.

The foreman of the press room told her she must change it or quit, as it interfered with her duty as a presser.
She appealed to Private Secretary Ricketts, who is looking after affairs in the absence of Public Printer Palmer. Mr. Ricketts courteously discouraged her.

"I am sorry, madam," he said, "that you are having serious differences with Mr. McWharland. I would not attempt for anything in the world to suggest to you how to wear your hair, which, I am sure, is most attractive, but the complaint is that your hair interferes with the feeding of the presses and causes the spoiling of many sheets of paper."

The young woman went home.

"MILLIONAIRE JONES" WAS A MYTH

Boston-Chicago Mystery Explained as Ruse to Extort Funds.

Chicago.—The mystery surrounding the supposed death of "Philetus Jones, millionaire," of Boston, whose death notice recently appeared in Chicago newspapers, was cleared up by the confession of John A. L. Lee, a local real estate broker, that he had invented "Mr. Jones" in order to secure real estate commissions.

He planned a ruse whereby "Mr.
Jones" was to buy extensively of Chicago property for hotel purposes. An agreement was drawn up between the supposed Jones and a real estate owner and a commission was promised.
These promised commissions were offered as security for a loan. Suspicion was cast on Lee when the death notice appeared. In explanation, Lee, who is an old man, said that he felt sure he could have sold the property to some one if he had had time. It is said no prosecution will result.

LANDSLIPS KILL HUNDREDS.

Calcutta, India.—Heavy rains have caused the Rivers Bagmati and Vishnumati to overflow. Serious landslips have resulted and hundreds of persons in the cities of Bhatnagar and Patas have been killed.

The Bagmati and Vishnumati are tributaries of the Ganges. The inundated region is in the extreme north of Mindostana.

sembly, at Cape Town, South Africa.

Thirteen Fold and Area Almost Quadrupled—Statistics About Agriculture.

Washington, D. C.—A moving picture of conditions in the United States at decennial intervals from 1800 to 1850, and annually from 1850 to 1900, is presented in a monograph issued by the Treasury Bureau of Statistics.

The area has grown from 327,844
square miles in 1800 to 3,025,000 square miles in 1900, exclusive of Alaska and the islands belonging to the United States.

The population per square mile,
which was 3.6 in 1810, was 23.1 in 1902.

The total wealth has grown from $7,000,000,000 in 1850 to an estimated $94,000,000,000 in 1900, and the per capita wealth from $307 in 1850 to $1215 in 1900.

In 1800 the public debt was $15 per capita; in 1840 it had fallen to twenty-one cents per capita; in 1852 it was $2.07 per capita; in 1861, before the beginning of the war, $2.74, and then mounted rapidly until it became $76.98 per capita in 1866, gradually falling again after the war. It is $12.97 in 1902.

The money in circulation amounted to $13.85 per capita in 1860, and in 1902, $28.40 per capita, the highest point it has ever reached. Deposits in savings banks amounted to $1-138,576 in 1820, and $2,597,004,500 in 1901.

DEM EXEC CON. MEETING

The Democratic Executive Committee met at the court house last Thursday and canvassed the returns from the county, the details of which will be found in another place in this paper.

Congressman Howie was present and spoke some words of encouragement.

The committee ordered a primary to be held on Monday, September 15, that being the day set for the second State primary, providing one is to be held, which seems probable.

The resolutions passed by the committee will be found in the address to the people on the first page of this paper, but it should be added that the new executive committee is to be elected for a term of two years.

The committee is greatly encouraged at the outlook, and it is confidently expected that the ticket nominated on the 15th inst. will be triumphantly elected in November.

A resolution was passed that if the State committee find it necessary to hold a second primary on September 15, the managers of returning officers appointed for the county primary are authorized to act in the same capacity for the State primary.

The following are hereby appointed managers and returning officers to hold said primary election:

Beat 1—J. N. McKee, T. H. Williams, J. T. Davis, managers; O. Williams, returning officer.

Beat 2—box 1, J. H. Patton, J. M. Keitt, R. H. Gaines, managers; E. H. Lowe, returning officer.

Beat 2—box 2, S. A. Curry, James Garner, George Armour, managers; Hugh Henry, returning officer.

Beat 3—box 1, J. L. Williams, B. W. Garner, Wm. Walker, managers; W. W. Williams, returning officer.

Beat 3—box 2, J. C. Vasey, H. I. Honeycutt, Wm. Nix, managers; Walter Leclair, returning officer.

Beat 4—W. F. Calien, Tom Tyus, T. S. Phillips, managers; E. T. Gullaborn, returning officer.

Beat 5—John Gullidge, T. M. Mitchell, Walter Claughton, managers; Tom Pylon, returning officer.

Beat 6—B. L. Jones, Tom Falkner, Bob Atkinson, managers; Monroe Deason, returning officer.

Beat 7—box 1, Ed Smitherman, Monroe Rainey, G. W. Foshee, managers; Buck Bolling, returning officer.

Beat 7—box 2, N. W. Latham, W. H. Shoults, J. J. Hicks, managers; Tili Latham, returning officer.

Beat 8—box 1, Tom Parnell, N. L. Broadhead, W. J. Raddick, managers; R. M. Robuck, returning officer.

Beat 8—box 2, J. M. Walker, I. M. Thwell, J. E. McCullough, managers; W. W. Kilmer, returning officer.

Beat 9—E. F. Mead, W. P. White, Houston Price, managers; Floyd Jones, returning officer.

Beat 10—B. T. Calloway, C. H. Dancy, Joe Hanlon, managers; Warren Dennis, returning officer.

Beat 11—P. M. McKee, H. F. Mullins, A. T. Robinson, managers; Isaac Rutherford, returning officer.

DR. MELL SELECTED.

Alabama Professor Elected President of Clemson College.

Dr. F. H. Mell has been elected president of Clemson college, South Carolina, one of the largest and best endowed institutions in the South, and has resigned his position as professor of botany and geology in the Alabama Polytechnic institute and director of the experiment station. Dr. Mell has been a member of the faculty of this latter institution for almost twenty-four years, and is regarded as one of the South's most distinguished educators.

Selma Cotton.

During the cotton season of 1901-2, which came to a close Sunday night, Selma received 81,711 bales of cotton as against 69,232 for the preceding year. The actual stock of cotton on hand on September 1 was 1396 bales. With the extension of the Birmingham, Selma and New Orleans railroad from Martins to Myrtlewood several thousand more bales of cotton are confidently expected this year than last, but as the crop seems very short in this section the probability is that the increased territory will just about offset the short crop.

Found Dead in Church.

The body of Mrs. Mollie Talley, of Montgomery was found lying in the aisle of the First Christian church. A short time before she had been seen sitting on the steps of the church. It is thought she entered the church to escape the rain. Heart disease is supposed to have caused her death. For thirty years Mrs. Talley had been an active member of the congregation in whose edifice she expired.

No Sheriff For Hale County.

The statement is made at the governor's office that appointment of a sheriff in Hale county will not be made for several days yet, possibly not this week.

Dr. N. D. Richardson, a prominent young physician of Athens, and a son of a former well known physician of Nashville, has just received almost excellent appointment in the government service. He was given a position in the marine service as assistant surgeon with the rank of captain. His appointment dates from the 15th of August. He will go to Angel Island, Cal., where he has been assigned.

The North Alabama Agricultural school located in Athens, opened its doors for the twelfth session Monday and the largest opening ever yet was the result. One hundred and eighty-one persons matriculated. The faculty remains unchanged with the exception that Miss Brown of Mississippi is in charge of the music and elocution. Col. M. K. Clements is president.

In the recent wreck at Berry by far the greater percentage of those killed were those who were riding on the platform. Only one death has resulted since last report.

PROGRESS IN DIXIE

Some Figures from the Last Twenty Years.

IT IS NOW ENTIRELY RECONSTRUCTED

And There is no Limit to Its Immense Possibilities—Industrial News.

Marvelous as has been the progress of our whole country during the score of years from 1880 to 1900, yet the progress of our so-called Southern States has been even more wonderful. From the desolation and wreck of war and its results the South has worked up to a productivity today in its mills, mines, forests and farms in excess of $3,000,000,000 in value annually. The accompanying table will show the progress of each state during the decade from 1880 to 1890 and from 1890 to 1900. The totals for all the states are also given. If we add to the products of manufacturers and the farm the products of the mines and forests and take into consideration that the productions of 1902 are considerably in excess of those of 1890 and 1900, we shall find that the South has passed the $3,000,000,000 mark in productivity and is well started toward an annual value of $4,000,000,000. The value of farm products increased 100 per cent. during the twenty years, while manufactures increased over 200 per cent. The gain in number of wage earners was over 100 per cent., while the gain in wages was 200 per cent.

It was not till about 1880 that the South had recovered sufficiently to begin manufacturing on a substantial scale. At that time her agricultural products exceeded her manufacturing output by over $200,000,000. Now the situation is reversed.

Gradual resumption of anthracite coal mining is encouraging, although the output is not yet sufficient to have any commercial value. Business conditions are unsatisfactory at the strike centers, but reports from all other sections indicate unusually prompt revival after the summer vacation season with exception of large operations among dealers in the agricultural regions.

The scarcity of spot pig iron continues very acute and is only partially relieved by arrivals of foreign pig iron. After the recent rush to place orders for importation the market has quieted down somewhat, and we do not hear of any large transactions. For the time being the reports from the other side indicate a somewhat firmer market. There has been less contracting for domestic pig iron for 1903 delivery, largely because of the leading producers avoiding further commitments.

A United States bonded warehouse is being planned for Atlanta.

Medics Meet.

A meeting of the Tri-State Medical society will be held in Birmingham on October 6. The society is composed of medical men from the states of Georgia, Alabama and Tennessee. The most prominent physicians in the South are members of the organization. The session will probably last three or four days, and many hundreds of delegates will be in attendance.

IRON AND STEEL FIGURES.

Census Report Shows Capital of $599,530,484 Invested.

The census bureau has issued a bulletin on the manufacture of iron and steel in 1900. The report shows a capital of $599,530,484 invested in this industry in the 669 active establishments. This sum represents value of plants but does not include capital stock of corporations. The value of the products is returned at $804,034,919 to produce which involves an outlay of $11,741,788 for salaries of officials, clerks, etc.; $120,836,338 for wages; $32,274,100 for miscellaneous expenses, including rent, taxes, etc., and $522,431,701 for material used, mill supplies, freight and fuel. During 1900 there was a decrease of fifty in the number of active establishments and an increase of $176,845,640 in capital invested. The average number of wage earners in 1900 was 222,607, an increase of 51,426 since 1890. The production of iron and steel in 1900 amounted to 29,507,860 gross tons, against 16,264,478 in 1890.

Great veins of rich ore running 50 percent of iron have been discovered recently at Vado, in Norway, province of Tromsø.

An Iowa company has 1,000,000 barrels of oil stored at Beaumont, Texas, but owing to the oil famine it cannot be moved.

As the stocks of pig iron were very low at the opening of August, consumers are in an embarrassing position, and there is a growing disposition to refuse contracts. Imports are increasing and numerous plans are reported whereby the finished product may be exported in order to secure the tariff drawback. These operations promise no relief to domestic consumers, and the railways are especially anxious for supplies.

The census report shows a capital of $40,813,793 invested in the manufacture of locomotives in the twenty-eight locomotive works in the United States.

The Greenwood Mills, of New Hartford, Conn., will, it is rumored, move to Tallahassee, Ala.

Iron furnaces are suspending production because coke cannot be secured and it is evident that the rate of output at the opening of the next month will show a serious loss. The scarcity of fuel was expected at the few plants using anthracite coal, but has come as a shock to the coke furnaces, for the Connellsville ovens have steadily maintained a weekly production of 250,000 tons. Inadequate railway facilities are responsible and the situation is critical.

Notwithstanding some bad weather large crops are now practically assured.

Mr. J. A. McKnight, general manager of the Alabama Fair association, has received a letter from General Nelson A. Miles, of the U. S. army, expressing regret that owing to a contemplated visit to the Philippines he will be unable to visit Birmingham during the State Fair. General Miles states that he has watched the marvelous development of Alabama, and particularly of the Birmingham district, with the keenest interest and hopes to see the state continue to prosper.

HORRIBLE WRECK

On Southern Railway Near Berry Station.

TWENTY-SIX PERSONS WERE KILLED

While Eighty-one Were Injured, Many of Them Fatally.

A horrible wreck took place Monday morning one mile west of Berry, on the Southern Railway. The train was bringing an excursion from Greenville, Miss., to Birmingham. It was wrecked on a rough place on the road and the engine and six coaches, the latter filled with negroes, were completely turned over and demolished. Many of the victims were mangled horribly, some of them being in an unrecognizable shape. The train was making good time. Engineer Crook was at the throttle with a negro fireman. Conductor Veber was in charge of the train, and Trainmaster H. M. Dudley, of Birmingham, was aboard. At a point between Berry and Bankston, the engine left the track. It rolled over on its side. The negroes aboard began screaming at the top of their voices and the passengers became panic-stricken. It was several minutes before the wrecked cars and engine landed and then moans of the dying and mangled rent the air.

H. M. Dudley, trainmaster of the road, with headquarters in Birmingham, and a resident of this city was reported instantly killed. Engineer Crook was badly scalded, as was his negro fireman. They were taken out from under the wreck and the engineer died a short time after.

H. M. Dudley, who was killed, is a single man, about 30 years of age. He came from Selma about three months ago.

The accident was caused by a warped track. In all twenty-six were killed and eighty-one injured several of whom will die.

Robbery of Express on L. & N.

Early Monday night between Nashville and Franklin, Tenn., the local safe on the express car of the Louisville and Nashville train was rifled of its contents by two masked men, while Messenger A. B. Battle, covered by a revolver stood in the corner of the car with his hands above his head. The robbery occurred just after dark and according to his own announcement one of the principals was Gus Hyatt, who made a sensational escape from the Tennessee penitentiary on August 4 last, where he was serving a fifteen-year term for train robbery. Express officials estimate the loss at about $500, it being in packages taken in since leaving Montgomery, Ala.

The two men forced the messenger to ring the train down just before it entering the South Nashville yards, and quietly took their departure. No clue to the direction taken has yet been discovered.

The Seaboard Air Line railway has given an order for thirty-two new locomotives. This order includes twenty-two heavy constructed engines. It is understood that these engines are for use on the Birmingham extension, which, it is thought, will be in operation within the next twelve months.

The governor has made the following appointments; R. B. Hardy to be justice of the peace, Dallas county; D. B. Ruff to be notary public, Lowndes county; Charles W. Ray to be justice of the peace, Tuscaloosa county; A. L. Arnold, to be notary public and justice of the peace, Bibb county.

Almost Cut in Two.

A terrible accident which resulted in the death of K. Patent occurred Monday morning at Ensley, in the yards of the steel plant by an engine running over him. It seems that Mr. Patent was walking along the track in the yard when engine No. 7 came up behind him before he was aware of the danger. He was a young man of about 27 years of age, and unmarried.

ROOSEVELT'S TOUR.

He Continues to be Received with Ovations.

LEFT VERMONT FOR MASSACHUSETTS

Some of His Utterances as They Apply to National Matters.

East Northfield, Mass., September 1.—President Roosevelt today concluded his tour through Vermont at Northfield and is spending the night here at Northfield. The reception accorded him at Northfield was among the prettiest and most enthusiastic he has received in his tour. At the common he delivered a brief address in which he spoke of Abraham Lincoln as the man of the hour in the great civil war.

Labor Day was generally celebrated throughout the state wherever the train stopped, holiday crowds were out to extend the president a welcome. His remarks on the subject of labor were confined mostly to a tribute to the people of Vermont and he expressed his pleasure at being greeted by the representatives of organized labor, because he said, the typical American is the man who works.

The president began the day's journey at Burlington. He crossed into Massachusetts early in the evening and went to Norfolk to remain tonight as the guest of William R. Moody, son of the noted evangelist, Dwight L. Moody, at the Northfield hotel. He will go to Round Top to visit Mr. Moody's grave.

BILL ARP'S APPEAL

Strong Plea For the Perpetuation of Southern Valor.

WANTS ROSTER OF GEORGIA SOLDIERS

Tells of the Good Work Done by North Carolina and is Anxious that Georgia Law-Makers Take Some Action.

Cartersville, Ga., August 21.—Editor Constitution: I am not well and may not write many more letters for your readers, and therefore write this one to you to enlist your interest and hearty co-operation in a matter that is very near my heart, and I am sure would be as near to yours if you were twenty years older and had more time.

I have received the five volumes of history compiled and edited by Judge Walter Clark, now the chief justice of the state of North Carolina. This is no ordinary work. It is on a higher plane than any I have ever seen, and is to the land what "Service Afloat" is on the sea. For seven years of unremitting toil Judge Clark has worked on this labor of love without pay or reward save that which comes from the accomplishment of a sacred duty faithfully performed. Of course, he has had capable and willing co-operators who out of the 254 sketches wrote 179 of them. Judge Clark wrote all of the others, besides a full half volume (fifth) of graphic events and comments that concern all the southern states as much as North Carolina, and which includes the first published history of the North Carolina navy—the Albemarle and Shenandoah and Florida and some other smaller cruisers and blockade runners. It is worthy of mention just here that Commander Waddell, of the Shenandoah, was the last man to keep the Confederate flag at the masthead, for his vessel was in the mid-Pacific ocean and he did not know of the fall of the confederacy until the 19th of August, 1865, and had a sea fight with the enemy on June 4. The volumes are beautifully bound in gray and gold. The paper and the printing is of the best quality and their pages embellished with over 900 portraits and battle scenes. These portraits are, of course, a reproduction, eight to a page, of the old-time photographs that the mothers of the dead and living boys furnished to the engravers. These engravings were reproduced by that patriotic southerner, Major Patton, president of the University Publishing Company, New York, without cost. The volumes are quite large, containing 800 pages each. Judge Clark selected the best men to write the sketches of their regiments.

Truth of History Guaranteed.

What a guaranty of truth and culture when we see in this list of contributors such eminent and patriotic names as General D. H. Hill, General Cleggman, Governor Vance and his brother Robert, General Toon, Colonel DeRossett, Major Graham, Major Moore (who compiled the roster twenty years ago), Dr. Moses Hoge, of Richmond, and captains and lieutenants by the score. And there are ministers and privates mingled in whose work is well and ably done. There were eighty-four full regiments and twenty-eight battalions besides the state troops (home guards) and every regiment and battalion had one or more historians. It is a magnificent work and if I were a North Carolinian and lived far away I would purchase a set if I had to do without tobacco and whiskey for a month, for the price is only $5. There are 17,000 names indexed in these volumes and I would be sure that some of them were kin to me or my folks. What a wonderful state. Their long forbearing people twice sent a commission to Washington to plead for a peaceful solution and avoid war, but got no promise or consideration, and then they made war as one man—and all the women. They had only 115,000 of full grown men of 21 in the state, but they could not keep the boys out and 125,000 troops were enrolled. What a sad comment must come in here, for it is a matter of record that of these troops 41,000 were killed or died in the service. I have the old roster before me in four volumes containing 125,000 names and appended to every name are significant letters telling when he enlisted and where and what became of him.

Sounds an Alarm.

But why am I writing so earnestly about this? Because I wish our own state to do something of the kind before it is forever too late. It is alarming to read in Judge Clark's "Review and Conclusion" how many of his contributors died before they had finished their sketches and either he or some other had to take it up and complete it. Now the cost of the work to the state is $4 per volume, which is the actual cost of the paper, printing, binding and engraving. The greater portion is as readable and fascinating as a romance and will brighten up and fasten the patriotism of our young men, whether they be from North Carolina or Georgia.

Public Debt.
The monthly statement of the public debt shows that at the close of business August 30th, 1902, there was less cash in the treasury, amounting to $968,094.32, a decrease for the year of $5,818,646. This decrease was principally accounted for by a corresponding increase in the cash on hand.

President Roosevelt will visit Alabama this trip.

WANTS ROSTER OF GEORGIA SOLDIERS

Tells of the Good Work Done by North Carolina and is Anxious that Georgia's Law-Makers Take Some Action.

Cartersville, Ga., August 21.—Editor Constitution: I am not well and may not write many more letters for your readers, and therefore write this one to you to enlist your interest and hearty co-operation in a matter that is very near my heart, and I am sure would be as near to yours if you were twenty years older and had more time.

I have received the five volumes of history compiled and edited by Judge Walter Clark, now the chief justice of the state of North Carolina. This is no ordinary work. It is on a higher plane than any I have ever seen, and is to the land what "Service Above" is to the sea. For seven years of unremitting toil Judge Clark has worked on this labor of love without pay or reward save that which comes from the accomplishment of a sacred duty faithfully performed. Of course, he has had capable and willing co-operators who out of the 254 sketches wrote 179 of them. Judge Clark wrote all of the others, besides a full half volume (fifth) of graphic events and comments that concern all the southern states as much as North Carolina, and which includes the first published history of the North Carolina navy—the Albemarle and Shenandoah and Florida and some other smaller cruisers and blockade runners. It is worthy of mention just here that Commander Waddell, of the Shenandoah, was the last man to keep the Confederate flag at the masthead, for his vessel was in the mid-Pacific ocean and he did not know of the fall of the confederacy until the 19th of August, 1865, and had a sea fight with the enemy on June 4. The volumes are beautifully bound in gray and gold. The paper and the printing is of the best quality and their pages embellished with over 900 portraits and battle scenes. These portraits are, of course, a reproduction, eight to a page, of the old-time photographs that the mothers of the dead and living boys furnished to the engravers. These engravings were reproduced by that patriotic southerner, Major Patton, president of the University Publishing Company, New York, without cost. The volumes are quite large, containing 800 pages each. Judge Clark selected the best men to write the sketches of their regiments.

Truth of History Guaranteed.
What a guaranty of truth and culture when we see in this list of contributors such eminent and patriotic names as General D. H. Hill, General Cleggman, Governor Vance and his brother Robert, General Toon, Colonel Dorsett, Major Graham, Major Moore (who compiled the roster twenty years ago), Dr. Moses Hoge, of Richmond, and captains and lieutenants by the score. And there are ministers and privates mingled in whose work is well and ably done. There were eighty-four full regiments and twenty-eight battalions besides the state troops (home guards) and every regiment and battalion had one or more historians. It is a magnificent work and if I were a North Carolinian and lived far away I would purchase a set if I had to do without tobacco and whiskey for a month, for the price is only $5. There are 17,000 names indexed in these volumes and I would be sure that some of them were kin to me or my folks. What a wonderful state. Their long forbearing people twice sent a commission to Washington to plead for a peaceful solution and avoid war, but got no promise or consideration, and then they made war as one man—and all the women. They had only 115,000 of full grown men of 21 in the state, but they could not keep the boys out and 125,000 troops were enrolled. What a sad comment must come in here, for it is a matter of record that of these troops 41,000 were killed or died in the service. I have the old roster before me in four volumes containing 125,000 names and appended to every name are significant letters telling when he enlisted and where and what became of him.

Sounds an Alarm.
But why am I writing so earnestly about this? Because I wish our own state to do something of the kind before it is forever too late. It is alarming to read in Judge Clark's "Review and Conclusion" how many of his contributors died before they had finished their sketches and either he or some other had to take it up and complete it. Now the cost of the work to the state is $1 per volume, which is the actual cost of the paper, printing, binding and engraving. The greater portion is as readable and fascinating as a romance and will brighten up and fasten the patriotism of our young men, whether they be from North Carolina or Georgia.

Now, some of us old veterans wish the Constitution to start this ball in motion. Your great paper can do it. Find out how many veterans are members of the legislature and how many outsiders like Tip Harrison are

THE BANNER

LET THE PEOPLE RULE

CLANTON, ALA. THURSDAY SEPTEMBER 11, 1902

NO. 47

KIDNEY CURE.

There is no disease so insidious, so slow but sure, as kidney disease, or so wide-spread. The symptoms are so slight as to generally escape notice.

The first indications appear in the urine, with varied effects. The quantity may be increased or decreased; it is likely to be highly colored and scalding; it may be pale or thin, or thick and milky with a sediment. Later on more pronounced symptoms will be present, such as dizziness, bloating, etc., with marked bladder and urinary disorders.

Poisonous waste matter is collected by the blood from all parts of the system and carried to the kidneys, where it is separated and cast out through the urine. The kidneys deal with the blood only, deriving nourishment from it. Hence, if the blood is bad the kidneys are not only overworked, but are unable to do their duty. It is the plain duty of the blood purifier to purify the blood, and in so doing, to purify the kidneys and prevent such diseases as kidney disease and in so doing, to purify the blood, the kidneys are given new strength and vitality are given to the organs. The following letter tells a very old story.

THE KIDNEY, K.V., June 25, 1902.
The Dr. Harker Medicine Co., Dayton, O.
GENTLEMEN: I had a severe case of typhoid fever six years ago, which left my kidneys in bad order. I have tried a number of remedies and taken treatment from doctors, but Dr. Harker's Tonic has done more for me than anything else.

There are thousands of just such cases as the above that are treated without results because they are wrongly treated. Mr. Cordell's condition resulted from an exhausting fever; the kidneys, as well as the rest of the system, had been wasted by disease. No wonder Dr. Harker's Tonic promptly cured, because it purified and enriched the blood, and such blood carried new strength and vitality directly to the kidneys and to all the organs.

THE MAN ON THE CORNER

Some of the Signs We Saw, and Some We Saw Not.

"What's a cracker?"
You've heard the parrot cry.
And you know it is so instantly
that it's a fact.
And you know it is so instantly
that it's a fact.
And you know it is so instantly
that it's a fact.

It's strange how good men can deceive themselves when they have a mind to. I was talking to one of the Republican nominees (Mr. Alex. Glasscock) on Tuesday and he insisted he was a Populist, and if the Republicans liked to vote for him it was their business and not his. He said he had not authorized anyone to pledge him before the Republican convention, and I tried to make him understand that as he had been pledged, and had not repudiated that pledge, it was the same thing as if he had done it himself. But he didn't appear to be able to see it.

There was a rumor Sunday morning that the hotel at Verbena had been burned down, but luckily the rumor was false. An old shed, used as a warehouse, was burned down, but good work on the part of the citizens prevented the fire from spreading. The hotel is so popular it would have a severe loss not only to Verbena but to the whole county if the fire demon had destroyed it.

I hope to see a good turn out to the primary next Monday. Here's a time when every white man can safely feel that the election is in his own hands. There is not a man on the ticket but is well and favorably known and whichever of them may be nominated for the respective offices the people know they will make honest and efficient public servants when they are elected in November. Turn out and vote for the men you like best.

As the weather gets cooler, politics are warming up, and keeps the temperature equable, although we may expect an early frost will nip the Republican candidates in the bud. Some of them are willing already.

Since his resignation of the Sheriff's office, Mr. Moses A. Killgore has devoted his stupendous intellect to the political situation, and writes a letter offering himself as the Moses to lead the Populists into the Republican party. The treasurer told us in a former letter that he was the "same old Moses," but since he doffed his Populist article, and the sheriff's office was transferred to a Democrat, it is very doubtful if any Populist will recognize the "same old Moses" in his Republican skin. These cham-leon-like changes are confusing. As a leader for the Populists to follow, this Moses is a distinct failure, he is headed for the slough of despond and the swamp of oblivion.

Moses of old was a very wise man. He was found in a swamp, an innocent child. He grew up in grace, and by a straight path. The children of Israel he led from the wild. Our Moses to-day is not a wise man. He is found in a swamp, in error he started. The swamp he is in is called Republicanism. And from the straight path our Moses has departed. Our Moses of old when he had aught to write, knew how to do it, sure none could do better. Our Moses falls from grace, and Chilton Pope would invite. To follow his lead—see his blundering letter.

Kinchloe, Sept. 8, 1902
Editor Banner—Please allow me space in your paper to say a few words to the white men of Chilton county. We have had what is known as the Populist party in this county for the last ten or twelve years. Where did the men come from that made the Populist party? Is it not a fact that they came from the Democratic party? Most assuredly they did. Then why should there be so much said because some of us have seen fit to go back to the party that we were in before the Populist party was organized? How can we refuse to go back to the Democratic party when we see what a liberal proposition they have given to all. They have let down the bars and asks all white men to come out and vote who will agree to support the nominees. Just think of that, regardless of past party affiliations. Someone will be ready to say oh, the Democratic party will promise anything just to get you to vote their way, and then count you out to suit themselves. We will admit that has been done heretofore, but that time has passed, we have come to the days of honest elections; men can vote and have their votes counted as they were voted. Just look what the committee said, each candidate can have a friend to sit with the managers and see the ballots counted. Where is the fraud to come in? It is not there, and the committee is to be heartily commended for the course they have taken in the matter; they are men that have the welfare of the county at heart and not their own personal gain to advance. Every white man should come out and vote on the 15th and drop all past party differences and show the Democratic party that we are always willing to do the right thing when they meet us half way, and they have more than done that in this county. They have just given everything into the people's hands to do as they please. So the man that stands off and cries fraud is nothing more than a fraud himself. Now as for this move to carry the Populist party into the Republican party, that is all brought about by men who want an office and they know the Populist party is dead and they know also that they could not get an office in the Democratic party, so they want to combine with the Republican party just for office, not for the love they have for the Republican party. I am about like the children of Israel were when Moses went up on the mount to receive the laws of God. As for this Populist party I know not what has become of it; so let us all come together and make a new party and call it the conservative Democratic party of Chilton county. Success to the Banner.

Clanton, Sept. 6, 1902
Editor Banner—Will you please allow me space in your columns to express my opinion in regard to the political situation of the day.

It's my honest opinion that the Populist party has filled its mission, in other words, has done what it was intended for. I think now that it was intended for an educator for the people to show the evils practiced in the other parties. It's now a thing of the past. While I love its principles, I don't think it's best to try to hold it up any longer; so

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

FOR COMMISSIONER SECOND DISTRICT
JESSE A. CULP.

The friends of Jesse A. Culp hereby announce him as a candidate for Commissioner from the Second District, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

J. L. WILLIAMS.
We are authorized to announce the name of J. L. Williams as a candidate for Commissioner from the Second District, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

FOR SUPERINTENDENT OF EDUCATION
G. L. SPEER.

At the solicitation of many friends, I hereby announce myself a candidate for County Superintendent of Education, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

J. M. COLLIER.
We are authorized to announce the name of J. M. Collier as a candidate for County Superintendent of Education, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

FOR REPRESENTATIVE
T. V. CRUMPTON.

I hereby announce myself a candidate before the primary set for Sept. 15, by the Democratic Executive Committee with "bars down" to the white citizenship of Chilton county for Representative to the next General Assembly at Montgomery.

I am constrained to do this, as the white citizenship of the county is now aligned under the banners of the two old opposing parties of Republican and Democrat, and entering upon a political race in Chilton is not now as it once was, a race of brother vs. brother, when the Populists held a separate organization. So averse to strife of any kind am I that I am loath to enter it now, as I have high regard for the man who seemed destined to be my opponent.

Most candidates are "put out" and "urged" by their friends, so their "announcements announce," while some have really urged me, I feel sure I am not above the ordinary mortal and that vanity shared the honors with patriotism in putting me out, for one of my best friends, a good woman, who has the same "air name" as myself, urged me to desist.

As to local issues I make answer, As to stock law, if majority says none, I say none; as to cutting off a portion of West Chilton and giving it to Bibb, I say no; as to the road law, I hope to see and to get put through a better one than now exists on the statutes for the county that will give us better roads.

Should any issue arise as between the two parties, I will meet it by a canvass of the county, and dispose of it to the best of my ability.

I have lived in this county fifteen years and have been plain and above board politically as to my position, and have been conservative and tolerant to those who differed with me.

I pledge myself to do all I can to have railroad commission elected by the people and paid by the State. Yours to command
T. U. CRUMPTON.

A CARD.

Randolph, Sept. 6, 1902
Editor Banner—Please allow me space to state a few facts in regard to my friend J. L. Williams, who is a candidate for the office of county commissioner. I have known him intimately for twenty years, during which time I have found him to be a good citizen, a prominent member of the Baptist church, and is now our Sunday-school superintendent at Mulberry church. He has also been a true Democrat all his life; therefore I take pleasure in recommending him as a man altogether worthy of the confidence and support of the white voters of Chilton county. W. J. FLEMING.

Thorsby, Sept. 8, 1902
Editor Banner—Seeing the name of J. L. Williams for commissioner prompts me to write for the benefit of those not acquainted with him as I am. He is a Democrat true and tried and if elected, will be the right man in the right place.

A Certain Cure for Dysentery and Diarrhoea.

"Some years ago I was one of a party that intended making a long bicycle trip," says F. L. Taylor, of New Albany, Bradford County, Pa. "I was taken suddenly with diarrhoea, and was about to give up the trip, when editor Ward, of the Laceyville Messenger, suggested that I take a dose of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I purchased a bottle and took two doses, one before starting and one on the route. I made the trip successfully and never felt any ill effect. Again last summer I was almost completely run down with an attack of dysentery. I bought a bottle of this same remedy and this time one dose cured me." Sold by Hopkins drug Co., Clanton, and A. Horn, Thorsby.

The dog is advancing. A Missouri court holds that he has rights; that if he is abused, teased or in any way mistreated he has the right to employ his teeth in defense and retributive punishment. At this rate of progress many of the stand-by quotations will lose force and become inapt. Shylock as the sign of his complaints declared that on one occasion he had been called —dog. Since Canus has got the court with him dog may become a complimentary term.

President Roosevelt's visit to his summer home at Oyster Bay has caused the revival of some interesting facts as to the absence of other Presidents from the National capital. During his two terms, Washington was away from the capital (in New York and Philadelphia) 181 days, making two journeys to New England and the South, and passing some time in Mount Vernon. John Adams was away 385 days; Thomas Jefferson 796 days; Madison 637 days; Monroe 708 days; John Q. Adams 222 days; Van Buren 132 days; Tyler 163 days; Polk 37 days; Pierce 97 days; Buchanan 57 days. The record shows that official duties have become more exacting in lessening the times of absence of Presidents from Washington, although some of the most important executive acts have been performed away from the National capital.

The New York Press makes out the following interesting case against the predictions of astrology: "When we have a season of storm, earthquake, volcano, tidal waves and all varieties of unnatural conditions, as we style them, you will see the multitude of astrologists come out of their holes and whistle loudly. 'Ah, I told you so! It is so-so today. The land is festering with these so-called prophets who, advertising their 'fulfilled predictions,' catch the unwary, the credulous dabbler in the mysterious. But there is one basic fault with modern-day astrology: The heavens have changed since the rules of the art were formulated. Voltaire points out that the sun, which at the dawn of time was in the sign of the Bull, and that the astrologers of that day attributed to one cause of the storm which visibly belated no another."

Should street trees be owned and controlled by the city or by the abutting property owners? The weight of opinion among those entitled to speak with some authority on the question, thinks the Philadelphia Press is that municipal ownership of street trees is necessary for the best results, and is, besides, the natural condition of things. Washington city is a familiar example of a systematic and successful development of street shade trees on all the thoroughfares where trees are desirable. Street trees through private ownership are necessarily a thing of shreds and patches and subject to the caprice of unscrupulous owners and the barbarous butchery of vandals. Nevertheless, there are under private ownership some good results in wayside trees here and there, while public ownership is not always a success. City ownership and control of trees is the best if that control is enlightened and sympathetic.

Although the Russian serf has been set free, yet the peculiar laws of the country do not allow him much liberty. "While the peasant remains on the land," says the London New Liberal Review, "he has no separate economic existence and needs no passport; but so soon as he wishes to leave his village and seek his fortune elsewhere, he must have a passport. This passport is given him by the Mir. He must therefore have the permission of the Mir before he can leave his village, and this permission must be renewed annually so long as he continues to be a peasant—and it is not easy for him to alter his official social status. This is a survival of serfdom. In the days of serfdom it was possible for the country gentleman to put all his serfs, or individual serfs only, as the case might be, under what was called obrok. The peasant under obrok was freed from personal service, but in lieu of this a sort of tax was substituted. Peasants were allowed to go to towns and follow trades, but for this permission they had to pay a tribute in money or kind to their masters."

Fire at Rome, Ga.
Fire destroyed the Bowie-Turner stove works and ten dwellings occupied by employees of the stove manufacturing company. The loss is estimated at $60,000, with $25,000 insurance. The origin of the fire is unknown.

The Hopkins Place Savings bank of Baltimore, Md., has purchased from Tuscaloosa the entire issue of bonds at par, with interest at 5 per cent. Under the terms of the sale $124,900 of bonds will be issued to replace the present bonds. In this deal the city will save in interest some $1500 annually.

The board of trustees of the Confederate Memorial association held a meeting in Charlotte to outline a defense against the suit for $17,000 instituted by General John C. Underwood, superintendent and secretary of the association, for the recovery of money alleged by him to be due for commissions and salary. Funds of the association amount to $100,000.

A second primary will be held in South Carolina next Tuesday. A United States senator, governor and lieutenant governor are among officers to be elected.

Australia's Premier Here.
Australian Premier Barton, his wife and a party are visiting in this country on their way home from the coronation ceremonies. They visited Washington with a view to studying the plan of that city and its government as a model for a capital city in Australia.

The cattle receipts for the last seven months from the seven large cattle markets have decreased.

Hon. J. R. Wood of Tuskegee announces himself a candidate for speaker of the next house. He is mayor of his town and was once before a member of the legislature. He was nominated in the recent primary.

The Consolidated Coal and Iron company is vigorously rushing the work on the 250-ton furnace now in course of construction, and they hope to have it completed by January 1, 1903. The company has just completed fifty new coke ovens, and let the contract for fifty more.

At the meeting of the Teachers' Association of Jefferson county a resolution was adopted praising the magnanimous spirit which prompted J. G. Harris, a candidate for the nomination of superintendent of education, in his withdrawal from a second contest for the position, although he was justly entitled to another trial under the primary plan.

Dry weather in North Carolina and east Tennessee has caused growth of cotton to cease. There is complaint of rust and shedding. Corn is badly parched. Many streams are dried up.

More Steel Imported.
In addition to the large quantity of iron and steel recently shipped from Great Britain and the continent to the United States and Canada, the demand still continues and cargoes are spoken for daily.

Corn is so high in portions of North Carolina that farmers have been forced to sell cattle. They are being shipped to Chicago for fattening.

The death of Hon. John H. Porter of Coosa county removes a rather notable figure in politics. He was a farmer and a republican. He came to the legislature as late as 1898, and was in the constitutional convention as one of the few republicans.

The cold-blast furnace located at Round mountain, Cherokee county, on the Rome & Decatur and Chattanooga Southern roads, has been purchased by the Gordon Chemical company, and put in operation at once. They will turn out cold-blast charcoal iron and manufacture wood alcohol.

The Limestone Democrat, published in Athens, has changed hands again, this time Messrs. Fusch and Thach, who bought early in the year, having sold to R. H. Walker, who was formerly editor and owner of the paper, having sold about three years ago to Lester and Pettus, they in turn selling to Fusch and Thach. Mr. Walker has been engaged in newspaper work at Tuscaloosa and Meridian, Miss. He is cordially welcome back to Athens, where he was reared. The Democrat will remain democratic.

Rifle range for the Alabama National Guards is assured.

Fisher Milton, a negro, convicted of vagrancy, was sold into servitude for twelve months at Shelbyville, Ky., at public auction, to David Murphy, a respectable negro farmer. Murphy bid $20 for the prisoner, and states that he was not governed by sentiment in making the purchase, but that he thought he was getting the worth of his money and that he intended to force Milton to work hard.

Dothan New County Site.

One of the most important outcomes of the recent democratic primary will be the formation of a new county with Dothan as the county seat. The new constitution especially the size of new counties to six limits hundred square miles, but it makes a special exception in the case of territories to be taken from Henry, Dale and Geneva for the formation of a county with not less than five hundred square miles, and also provides that the old counties may be thus cut down to not less than five hundred.

The formation of this new county was the issue in the recent election in Henry which will furnish most of the territory for the new county, and the ticket in that interest won by a large majority. Indeed, many of the voters in portions of the county that will remain as Henry, voted that ticket, even Abbeville, the old seat, dividing her vote. The new county will have the flourishing town of Dothan as the county seat, and will be one of the best counties in the state. Much of the land is fresh, the timber having been cut off in recent years, while saw mills and turpentine orchards are busy preparing more land for farms. The population of the territory concerned increased more rapidly in the last ten years than that of Jefferson county.

Carrollton Short Line.

For several months the management of the Carrollton Short Line Railway has been accumulating cross-ties and other material for the construction of their proposed extension to Bridgeville, Ala., in the southern part of Pickens county, and the work of construction has been going on in a quiet way for several weeks. The company has definitely determined its course and will complete its line to Bridgeville as quickly as practicable. The new line will open up a heavily-timbered section and give an outlet to some of the richest agricultural lands in the valley of the Tombigbee river. The territory to be reached by this extension has heretofore been entirely dependent on the river for transportation of its products.

Appointments.

The governor has made the following appointments: W. D. Martin to be notary public at Ozark; James H. Wise to be notary public and justice of the peace, Morgan county; Thomas M. Searcy to be notary public and justice of the peace Henry county; George Washington to be notary public at Sanford; J. T. Murphy to be notary public and justice of the peace in Geneva county; James F. Echols to be notary public at Ensley; J. W. Roberts to be notary public at Gurley; John W. Reed to be notary public in Birmingham; A. J. Harris to be constable in Franklin county; George H. Farmer to be notary public at Gardner City.

State Superintendent of Education Gannett has appointed Prof. C. W. Simmons to fill the vacancy in the office of superintendent of education of Coffee county, caused by the resignation of Prof. J. A. Carney. Mr. Simmons is the nominee for the office in the recent primary.

John C. Watson has been appointed postmaster at Dearmanville, Calhoun county, vice William Williams resigned.

Western Teachers Scarce.

As a result of prosperous conditions and the promise of big crops in the West many young women who usually teach are reported to be staying at home, thus causing a scarcity of teachers in the western states.

Trolley Without Tracks.

At Franklin, N. H., a line of trolley cars is being installed which will run over an ordinary road without tracks, the current being taken from the overhead wire through a flexible cable. France and Germany each have a line of this kind in operation.

Tests of "bullet proof cloth" shields made by the navy department have resulted in a report against their adoption. They were found not to be as resistant as steel plate, and when wet they were double the weight of steel.

Carrying Water to School.

A singular and unprecedented feature of the opening of the public schools in Chicago was the carrying of water canteens by the children. This step was urged by the health department to avoid the spreading of typhoid fever with which the "raw" water is contaminated. The water department has ordered the supply of water in the schools cut off for at least two weeks.

THE MAN ON THE CORNER

One of the Sights He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.

The Populists on Lawl. sat.
The Republicans they jumped on.
Now one and all are Democrat
And will vote for T. U. Crumpton.
He is a clean, straight business man.
No politician with a lump on.
No every man a vote can give
For honest T. U. Crumpton.

After two days spent in the heated atmosphere of a Republican convention it is refreshing to get back to the pure Democratic air of Chilton county. I went up on Tuesday to Birmingham to have a look at the Republican convention. It was a notable gathering, a respectable crowd and an enthusiastic convention. From a Republican point of view there were some good speeches made, that of Senator Pritchard, of North Carolina, being especially interesting. There was not a negro present at any of the proceedings, and great jubilation was frequently expressed at this fact.

The primary last Monday passed over very peacefully and we now have a good ticket before the people. As far as is known Speer leads Collier and will be our next superintendent. Leeb Williams is the successful candidate for commissioner in the second district. It will take the official count to determine who have been elected on the executive committee. And now both sides are lined up for battle, and it's a clear cut fight between Democrats and Republicans. Let the fight be clean.

CLANTON HIGH SCHOOL.

Clanton, Sept. 17, 1902
Editor Banner—I attended the opening of Clanton High School Monday morning last and was indeed pleased in every particular. The opening was a decided improvement over last session, enrolling about twenty pupils more. Total now about eighty-eight.
Rev. Mr. Windsor, of Jemison, former teacher and co-worker with Prof. Collier, delivered an eloquent and able address, insisting among other things, that boys and girls should not drift, but have a purpose in life and pursue it. Following Bro. Windsor, Supt. J. W. Moore gave us one of his matter of fact and strong speeches urging the patrons to co-operate with their teachers and success would be the result of their labor. Then came Prof. Collier and Rev. Mr. Stevens, who, as usual, said many good things.
The prospect for the Clanton school is very flattering and it seems to me that Clanton is proud of her school, and I know she should be. I will say further that any peace community is fortunate to have Prof. Collier as principal, backed up by a corps of teachers such as has been associated with him at this time. We all know Profs. Collier and Dickinson, as they have been tried and found true, and the young lady teacher, Miss Garrett, who is to teach in the primary department, and Miss Moore, who has charge of the music, come to us so highly recommended that we feel each and every teacher equal to the demand in every way, and every emergency will be met. Let us all do our duty toward the school and all will be rewarded.
Respectfully,
E. B. DEASON.

A Boy's Wild Ride For Life

With family around expecting him to die, and a son riding for life, the recovery for consumption, coughs, colds, W. H. Brown, of Leesville, Ga., endured death's agonies from pneumonia, but this wonderful medicine gave instant relief and soon cured him. He writes: "I now sleep soundly every night." Like many others cures of Consumption, Pneumonia, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, all Throat and Lung troubles! Guaranteed bottles 50c and $1.00. Sold at Clanton Drug Co., and F. A. Gulledege, Verbena.

Take Laxative Bromo-Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25 cents.

Valley Creek, Sept. 15, 1902
Editor Banner—As it has been so long since I wrote you, I have concluded to send you a few items. The weather is cold and politics hot. Before this is in print the Hon. T. U. Crumpton will be nominated for Representative of Chilton county. It gives me great joy to see and know that Judge S. M. Adams and E. B. Deason and others have come over to the Democratic party. This is the right step and in the right direction. I wish to congratulate them in this wise move they have taken, and I truly hope that other Populists may do as Judge Adams and E. B. Deason have done. It is no harm, no shame nor disgrace to come back home to the old true Democratic party as it is the only true white man's party in existence.
SAME OLD MIKE.

Clanton, Sept. 15, 1902
To the Populists of Chilton county as one who has received official position at your hands, and as some of the other officials have publicly notified you as to where they were at, I deem it my duty through the same channel to inform you as to my political views. I do not care to write a two or three column article that at the end would leave you in doubt as to my position, nor do I think it necessary to give the whys and wherefores. I will simply say I am a Populist from principle and that I dearly love its precepts, but as an organization, at present I see no way of making it available, and as there will be but few county Populist tickets this year I think our best interests lie with the Republican party, therefore I shall vote and work for the county ticket nominated Aug. 23, 1902, and the State Republican ticket in November.
Yours respectfully,
ALEX G. DAKE.

A Communication.

MR. EDITOR—Allow me to speak a few words in favor of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I suffered for three years with the bronchitis and could not sleep at nights. I tried several doctors and various patent medicines, but could get nothing to give me any relief until my wife got a bottle of this valuable medicine, which has completely cured me.—W. S. BRUCKMAN, Bagnell, Mo. This remedy is for sale by Hopkins Drug Co., and A. Horn, Thorsby.

Macedonia.

Prof. G. L. Spier's school closed with a nice entertainment last Friday night. The programme was nicely gotten up, but the night was cool and windy, and the large audience was seated out doors; so the speakers could not be heard very well, though all seemed to be very well entertained.
Mr. J. A. Ward and Miss Livie Glass were married at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. J. D. Glass, last Sunday. Rev. J. H. Thomas tied the nuptial knot.
Rev. J. H. Thomas is conducting a series of meetings at this place this week.
The primary passed off very quiet last Monday.

A Sad Disappointment

Ineffective, liver medicine is a disappointment, but you don't want to purge, strain and break the glands of the stomach and bowels. DeWitt's Little Early Risers never disappoint. They cleanse the system of all poison and putrid matter and do it so gently that one enjoys the pleasant effects. They are a tonic to the liver. Cure biliousness, torpid liver and prevent fever.

The second session of the Normal School, with Professors Rasco and Johnston, principals, opened on September 1, with twice the number it opened with last year. Those who patronized this school speak of it in the highest terms, and the young boys and girls who are prepared here have taken an excellent standing in societies.

The principals have entered upon the work of the school this session with renewed energy and enthusiasm. The progress of the school has been marked by thoroughness of instruction and steady growth, and a full attendance is expected October 1. Profs. Rasco and Johnston are thorough and enthusiastic teachers, and I unreservedly commend them to parents who wish to give their boys and girls the best preparation for future life. The teachers and pupils met in the hall last Friday night and organized a Literary society.

Prof. Johnston paid Clanton a flying visit Wednesday.

Prof. S. R. Billingsley has gone to Evergreen church to begin teaching his singing school. We hope he will have great success.

Mr. Hill of Hillside, Ala., was in town last week looking for a boarding house. We think he will be in school in a few days; hope he will come and bring some more with him.

Rev. S. M. Adams preached at the first Baptist church of Thorsby Sunday at eleven o'clock, and Sunday night at 7:30.

A SCHOOL BOY.

Water Cure for Chronic Constipation.

Take two cups of hot water half an hour before each meal and just before going to bed, also a drink of water, hot or cold, about two hours after each meal. Take lots of outdoor exercise—walk, ride, drive. Make a regular habit of this and in many cases chronic constipation may be cured without the use of any medicine. When a purgative is required take something mild and gentle like Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. For sale by Hopkins Drug Co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

Jemison.

We hope that much good may be derived from the able prayers and sermons of Rev. Windsor and Preston during our protracted meeting.

Our young people went out and sang for Rockymount Sunday afternoon. We had a delightful time; ours is a jolly crowd anyway.

Misses Lida Oakley and Lillie Henry, two charming young ladies of Briarfield and Dry Valley, respectively, were the happy guests of our lovely little postmistress last Sunday. Come again, girls.

A Certain Cure for Dysentery and Diarrhoea.

"Some years ago I was one of a party that intended making a long bicycle trip," says F. L. Taylor, of New Albany, Bradford County, Pa. "I was taken suddenly with diarrhoea, and was about to give up the trip, when editor Ward, of the Laceyville Messenger, suggested that I take a dose of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I purchased a bottle and took two doses, one before starting and one on the route. I made the trip successfully and never felt any ill effect. Again last summer I was almost completely run down with an attack of dysentery. I bought a bottle of this same remedy and this time one dose cured me." Sold by Hopkins drug Co., Clanton, and A. Horn, Thorsby.

CLANTON, — A.A.

The latest Canadian immigration returns show that 64,000 people from European and American countries found homes in the Dominion last year. These figures establish a new record.

A census bulletin on "Needles and Pins" vouches for the interesting fact that upward of 68,000,000 gross of pins (a gross is 12 dozen) are made and used in the United States every year—not quite a gross of pins per annum—per capita of the population; and no body knows where they go to.

The British Parliament passed an act recently to protect wild birds; but, curiously enough, the only penalty attached to the robbing of a wild bird's nest is that the thief shall be deprived of his plunder. The purpose of the law is to discourage egg collectors, but with such a mild penalty their business is not likely to be suppressed.

In all but 11 of the 52 states and territories the male outnumber the female population. These 11 states are along the Atlantic seaboard. California contains the greatest excess of men, the recorded number being 156,000; Minnesota comes second, with 113,585; Texas third, with 109,000, and Pennsylvania fourth, with 106,971.

The first members of the new Order of Merit created by King Edward are Lord Roberts, Lord Kitchener, Lord Kelvin, Lord Lister, John Morley, the liberal statesman and distinguished scholar, George Watts, the most imaginative of living painters; Lord Rayleigh, the distinguished chemist, and Locky, the historian. The order starts well.

Professor Hartmann, a well-known German authority on modern literature, stated in a recent lecture that in no country in the world is literature in so healthy a condition as in the United States. The faults of taste, the habit of exaggeration, of loading the page with purple patches, sink into a comparatively unimportant place when it is considered how virile the style is, how searching and complete the treatment of a subject. Hartmann is of opinion that the modern American novel at its best is better than anything ever produced in England or France. For poetry the American people, he says, are not yet ripe. Before the nation as a whole can appreciate great poetry or bread a school of great poets, it must pass through much tribulation or trial.

Besides harboring the germs of typhoid and other diseases which get into it through the medium of sewage, the oyster, we are now told, has its own particular microbe. This has just been discovered by Dr. Zardo, an Italian physician, who states that while the oyster microbe has no harmful effects on a normal person, if the gastric juice is not strong enough to kill the germs, they may cause disease of the digestive passages. Cooking an oyster, while it kills the microbe, does not effect the poisonous substance that it produces, so that even stewed or fried oysters may not be free from harm. It may be seen that the poisonous qualities of oysters in the months without an "r" may possibly extend to other seasons of the year.

FIERCE FOREST FIRES

Sadly Devastating the Northwestern States.

Forest Fires.
Oregon forest fire smoke is much thicker though for the most part the fires have burned themselves out. Hundred of people have been made homeless, and the loss in timber and farm houses will be many hundreds of thousands of dollars. The smoke hangs so thick over the rivers that navigation is hazardous, and all boats are behind time. There is no prospect of rain.

The conditions in Washington are believed to be much worse than yet reported in the burned districts remote from the telephone and telegraph communication. Millions of feet of valuable timber have been destroyed in addition to an immense amount of farm property. The loss is appalling and cannot be estimated. People are destitute, homeless and without money, food or clothing and have called for aid. Five persons are known to have perished and many campers are missing.

To Store Coal Under Water.

English dock authorities are urging the government to adopt the plan of storing coal in docks under the water as the best of means of preserving its calorific power. Tests have shown that coal kept too long in ordinary storage loses more than half its heating value, while the water acts as a good preservative besides affording more room.

Fastest Steam Vessel.

The fastest time made by a steam vessel was that made by the yacht, Arrow, in a test on the Hudson river, September 6th. She steamed a nautical mile in one minute thirty-two seconds, which is at the rate of 39.13 nautical miles, or 45.06 statute miles an hour.

BOODLERS AT BAY SEEK VENGEANCE

They Plot to Assassinate Prosecuting Attorney.

DETECTIVES ON TO THEIR GAME

To Foil Robbers of St. Louis Bodyguard is Assigned to Protect Circuit Attorney.

A special from St. Louis says: So desperate have the boodlers become owing to the merciless crusade of Circuit Attorney Polk, that it is rumored a plot has been formed to assassinate that official.

The first inkling of the plot was made known Thursday, but only slight credence was given to the rumor. An investigation was started, however, and Friday positive evidence was secured that the circuit attorney's life is menaced by the desperate men who have robbed the city and fattened on public plunder or the dishonesty of the city's servants. It was demonstrated that a conspiracy was on foot to murder the man who has already sent two of their number to the penitentiary and threatens the liberty and entire careers of a score.

There was a hurried consultation in Mr. Polk's office when he appeared Friday morning. The chief of police laid before him the evidence of the plot. Other city officials were present and all united strongly in urging Mr. Polk to consent to being constantly guarded by one or more armed detectives and to take every precaution possible to guard against the knife or bullet of the assassin.

Mr. Polk strongly objected. He said that he had no fear for his personal safety; that boodlers had repeatedly tried to intimidate him before and nothing had come of it; that he had repeatedly served notice on boodlers through their agents that he was not afraid of them, and that he would not now gratify these enemies by accepting a bodyguard.

But he was finally persuaded that he must accept a bodyguard, since he had undertaken a great public service, which he was in a fair way to carry to triumph as no other man could, and owed it to the public, as well as himself and his family, to accept protection.

Detective McGrath was at once appointed to guard the circuit attorney, and will not leave him until all the boodling cases are ended.

Five policemen were designated to guard Mr. Polk's house at night, and Mr. McGrath is within call of the circuit attorney's bed room.

It is semi-officially stated that a clew to the men who hatched the plot is being worked on, and that some sensational arrests may follow. It is pointed out that should the circuit attorney be murdered, some prominent men who are now in serious jeopardy of their liberties and reputations might escape in the excitement following the crime.

MRS. DAUPHIN SKIPS OUT.

Grand Jury at New Orleans Indicts Her for Perjury.

Governor Heard, of Louisiana, Friday issued a requisition on Governor Odell, of New York, for the extradition of Mrs. M. A. Dauphin, who is wanted in New Orleans on a charge of perjury.

Mrs. Dauphin is the widow of W. A. Dauphin, late president of the Louisiana Lottery Company, and one of the most prominent women in New Orleans. After the death of her husband the Dauphins heirs contested the will and a prolonged legal battle followed. During a recent hearing before the district court it is alleged that Mrs. Dauphin gave false testimony regarding some financial transactions, and the grand jury returned an indictment against her for perjury.

When the grand jury began the investigation, Mrs. Dauphin quietly left the city, and it was learned later that she had been located in New York.

BIG MONEY TRUST.

Clique of Bankers Threaten to Control Finances of the World. Uncle Sam in the Way.

A New York special says: The appearance of the Morse syndicate banks of the American metropolis are practically under the control of four cliques, which absolutely dominate the money markets of this country. They are:

1. Rockefeller-Stillman group, fourteen banks and trust companies, with $60,000,000 capital, as much more surplus and about $240,000,000 of deposits.
2. The Morgan group, including the Chase and First National and Bank of Commerce and associated banks, with $50,000,000 capital, and an equal amount of surplus and $150,000,000 deposits.
3. The Mellon-Whitney group, headed by the Mellon Trust Company, with its $4,000,000 capital and surplus and $30,000,000 deposits and half associated banks aggregating $100,000,000 deposits.
4. The Morse group, headed by Charles Morse, the largest individual holder of bank stock in New York, comprising sixteen banks and trust companies, with a combined capital of $100,000,000 and aggregate deposits of $100,000,000.

These four great pools, syndicates or trusts, can and do make the borrowing rate for money exactly what they choose. They can lock up the money or flood the street with it, as they please, and thus assist a boom or cause a bear panic. The United States treasury alone stands between combined power for good and evil, and the great mass of business men of the country who do not have the ear and help of their directors.

Combined, as they are certain to be ultimately, they will dictate to the civilized world.

Secretary Shaw Takes Action.

The treasury department at Washington issued the following statement Saturday:

Secretary Shaw has made arrangements to release about $1,000,000 of the treasury holdings. He has had a list prepared of those national banks throughout the country that held free or pledged bonds at the date of their last report, and has made inquiry for others. After making allowance for changed conditions since last report, he expects this will release at $4,000,000. He has sent notices to all such that if they will send these bonds to the treasurer of the United States in packages of $50,000 or more, they will be designated as temporary depositories, and the face value of the bonds will be deposited with them to the credit of the treasurer of the United States. He has pursued this course in preference to designating depositories in the ordinary way, which compels them to buy bonds in the market at a large premium, thus paying out more for the bonds than they get from the government.

He has also decided to anticipate the October interest, amounting to about $4,200,000, and with this in view orders have been issued to the various sub-treasuries to cash such coupons as may be presented them for payment, and the treasurer of the United States has been instructed to mail checks for interest on the registered bonds. All this was decided upon some days ago and letters and telegrams prepared for Saturday's issue.

The secretary sees in present conditions no occasion for alarm.

Men in Florida Jail Admit Killing of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis.

Theodore Smith, one of the parties in jail at Bronson, Fla., charged with the murder of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Lewis, has confessed his crime and implicated George Faircloth, who is in jail at Gainesville.

Smith said Faircloth used the shot gun on the aged couple, while he shot them with a rifle.

The other three men in jail at Bronson had nothing to do with the killing, but were to have been parties to the robbery.

McKinley Memorial Services in Many Cities.

ANNIVERSARY OF HIS DEATH

People of Canton Pay Loving Tribute—Special Programs in Buffalo, Chicago, New York.

Judge William R. Day, delivered the chief McKinley memorial address at Canton, Ohio, Sunday in the First Methodist Episcopal church of which the late president was a member and in which the funeral was held September 19, 1901.

In addition to the tributes paid by Judge Day, who was secretary of state in the McKinley cabinet and a close friend and advisor to the martyred president, there was a general observance of the day in Canton, which claimed him as a native. From almost every pulpit there was reference in prayer or in address to him and his work. His favorite hymns were sung.

Although deeply touched by the fact that it was just one year ago that her husband died, Mrs. McKinley did not vary the programme followed by her for several months. Her usual trip to Westlaw cemetery was taken in the forenoon and she laid flowers on the casket that contains the remains of the nation's martyred chief. Mrs. Garret A. Hobart, who is her next of kin, went with her into the McKinley tomb and also laid a bouquet of flowers on the coffin.

The afternoon and evening were spent at the McKinley home. There the day there were many visitors at the McKinley vault.

Appropriate services were also held in Buffalo, Cincinnati, New York and Chicago.

There were special programs in many churches, including musical numbers to the martyred president. The principal speaker at one of the Chicago churches was Bishop Folger, who spoke in part as follows:

The anxiety which knows no government, and destroys rather than uplifts, was responsible for the death of President McKinley. We also have an anarchism of wealth, which is used not for the welfare of mankind but for its injury and oppression. The way to suppress anarchism is to keep in mind the sentiments of President McKinley and practice reciprocity at home first, and then abroad. Let there be reciprocity between capital and labor and a recognition of mutual rights. Let rights be given to employees, as American citizens. What a spectacle is made when in a conflict between capital and labor, men say: "There is nothing to arbitrate." Such action is akin to lawlessness. If we carry out President McKinley's idea of Christian reciprocity, however, all will be well.

Samoa Maid Intervenes to Save Life of Captured American.

E. M. Taylor, a well-known Manchester, Va., man, whose five year absence from home without explanation led his family to mourn him as lost, has just returned and tells a thrilling story of his three years' imprisonment by cannibals in one of the Samoan islands. That Mr. Taylor escaped death is miraculous, as several of his companions were instantly slain upon capture.

His escape is due to the fact that one of the chief's daughters—Yahve by name—became enamored of him, and, as in the case of John Smith, interceded for his life and was granted the boon by her father. Mr. Taylor, however, was imprisoned for three years, finally escaping and, swimming two miles, reached a tramp steamer bound for Honolulu.

GUSHER CHOKED OFF.

Flaming Oil Well at Beaumont Suddenly Extinguished.

The burning gusher at Beaumont, Texas, went out of its own accord, about 3 o'clock Sunday morning, and the oil field was left in darkness. It is believed that the well choked itself in some way, and that it will have to be cleaned before it will again produce. There was a big excursion Sunday to the field, but aside from the best machinery which marked the site of the various pumping plants and the piles of ashes, there was nothing to see.

Minor State Items.

General John H. Forney Dead.

Gen. John H. Forney, major general of the Confederate army in the civil war, died at his home in Jacksonville after an illness of ten days. He was colonel of the Tenth Alabama regiment until promoted. He is a brother of the late W. H. Forney, M. C., and son of Prof. Jacob Forney of the state university. He was 73 years of age.

General Forney will be buried with Masonic honors. Confederate veterans and daughters of the Confederacy will attend the funeral in a body. He leaves a widow and several children.

Two Killed in Fight.

In a shooting affray in Huntsville Sunday afternoon, Frank Blackwell was instantly killed, and John Scott was fatally wounded by Jess Durham. The tragedy is said to have been the result of old trouble and a rash bluff made by Blackwell. The three principals were all employees of the Dallas cotton mills. They met on West Clinton street and Blackwell cursed Durham and made a motion as if to draw a pistol. Durham had his pistol out in an instant and shot Blackwell three times, the last bullet penetrating the heart. Scott got mixed up in the fight and was shot once. Durham ran down the railroad to escape but was overtaken by Constable James, to whom he surrendered. He is in jail and refuses to make a statement. The three men were well known and bore good reputations. Blackwell and Scott were married and had children.

To Protect Capitol.

Governor Jelks has decided to have water pipes run over the capitol building as a means of protection in case of fire. Plumbers are now busy. There will be openings on each floor, and each cork will be supplied with a fire hose. The improvement has been long needed. Economy for the past year has left a surplus in the repairing and refurnishing fund sufficient to defray the expense.

Fire and Suicide.

Sunday morning the large lumber plant and sawmill at Juniata, four miles from Sylacauga, was totally destroyed by fire. The total loss will be over $10,000, with about $5,000 insurance. Besides the plant, four loads of lumber on the track near by were burned. The plant was owned and operated by F. H. Kaupp. About three hours after the fire occurred John Kaupp, a brother of F. H. Kaupp, and superintendent of the planing mill, committed suicide at his residence in Juniata by cutting his throat from ear to ear with a razor. He had been suffering with epilepsy and it is thought that it was during an attack that he took his life.

Howard college will open on the 14th. 140 pupils will attend.

The council of the protestant Episcopal church of Alabama will meet in special session in Montgomery Oct. 8, for the purpose of electing a successor to the late Bishop Barnwell.

State Appointments.

The governor has made the following appointments: To be notaries public: K. L. Martin at Geneva, J. L. Crawford at Dothan, T. M. Hender at Anniston, R. C. Reed at Brick and T. T. Charles at Montgomery; to be notaries public and justices of the peace: H. H. Henderson in Coffee county, John W. Robinson in Marion county, J. M. Dickinson in Lowndes county, Henry D. Smith in Lauderdale county and Gus on Darrett in Tuscaloosa; to be constable: W. S. Bryant in Marshall county.

Edward Talliaferro, of Mobile, was thrown from a Southern train at Driscoll, Ga., and seriously hurt.

Senator Morgan, in a letter to the Washington Post, strongly advocates legislation by congress of all corporations except those which are not engaged in combinations to control prices and injure the people's welfare.

Alabama Veterans Accept Gift.

The action of the camp of Confederate veterans in New Orleans in dedicating the contributions from the North which General Torrance and others are soliciting for the home at Mount Airy Creek finds no responsive echo here. Contributions in response to General Torrance's appeal are already coming in. Not a single Alabama veteran so far as heard from takes the New Orleans view of the matter. On the contrary, arrangements are being made for a joint meeting of the local camps, at which strong action will be taken to show General Torrance and other friends at the North that the veterans here are appreciative of the high motives which prompt the help now being extended.

1900 New Coke Ovens.

The scarcity of coke has greatly stimulated the construction of coke ovens in Alabama, and the number either completed recently or being built is not far from 1500. Ovens cost something like $350 apiece, which is an advance of about 20 per cent as compared with the cost of construction a year or two ago.

The Lacey & Buck Iron company has completed 100 at Tuscaloosa; the Alabama Consolidated Coal & Iron company completed twenty ovens and is starting to build seventy more at Lewisburg and is finishing 50 at Seale; the Sloss-Sheffield Steel & Iron company is building 200 at Flat Top; the Jenifer company is finishing fifty on its Blue Creek property; the Milner Coal & Railroad company will build 300 at Newcastle; the Central Iron company is building 250 at Tuscaloosa; the Republic Iron & Steel company has built this year at Thomas 200 or more, bringing its oven plant at that place up to 910.

Coke is now selling for $4.50 to $5.50 a ton.

Garnett Drank Carboic Acid.

Col. John G. Garnett, one of the most prominent Southerners in New York, a West Point graduate, colonel of artillery under Gen. Robert E. Lee, was found dead in a New York hotel. He had committed suicide by taking carboic acid. The body had been lying in the room for two days before it was discovered. Mr. Garnett was head of the St. James Publishing company and was at the time of his death engaged in writing a history of the West Point military academy.

Elmore Resigns.

The resignation of Solicitor B. P. Elmore of the First district, was as much a surprise as the removal of District Attorney Vaughan. The first notice of it was the appearance of J. H. Barefield and W. G. McCorvey, of Monroe, as applicants for the vacancy. It is said here that Elmore will go back to his Demopolis law partner, Harrison.

Appointed.

The appointment of R. L. Prince, nominee for superintendent of education in Bullock county was made instantly on receipt of the resignation of Prof. T. A. Craven, who has held the office for some years. He is an old teacher of great local repute, but his health has failed of late. Prince got more votes in the primary than all his opponents combined.

Prof. Berkstresser Dead.

Prof. J. B. Berkstresser, one of the best known insurance workers in the state, died at Dadeville after an illness of several weeks, aged 60 years.

J. L. Doyle, of Birmingham, was shot and seriously wounded by L. T. Lang, a member of the fire department.

Elaborate preparations are making for the 78th annual convention of Odd Fellows at Des Moines. A feature of the session will be the presence of a number of distinguished southerners.

The attendance at Alabama Polytechnic institute has reached the high-water mark, the number of students matriculating during the first week having eclipsed all previous records for the same time.

A fire destroyed $100,000 of buildings in Sonora, Tex. Insurance $25,000.

The Athens Cotton Mill company will merge with the Frise syndicate. This decision was reached at the meeting of the stockholders. The vote was unanimous and every stockholder was present in person or by proxy. This means that the mill will be doubled in capacity, and that it will run both day and night in the future. It is believed that this will become a much more profitable investment now for the stockholders.

Attorney General

REPUBLICANS IN STATE CONVENTION

Principal News Items of the State in Condensed Form
for Busy People.

There are thirty counties still to hear from concerning the second primary for nomination as attorney general. The returns are very slow in coming in. Garber's majorities in fourteen counties aggregate 5896, and in twenty-two others Wilson has a total majority of 4792.

Republican Convention.

The republican convention met Tuesday in Birmingham. There were about 400 delegates, all of whom were white. Negroes were denied admittance. Senator J. C. Pritchard, of North Carolina, addressed the convention.

Colbert's Wealth.

The total tax value of Colbert county, according to the official records of the tax assessor, for 1902, are $5,545,537, an increase of $226,773 over the assessment of 1901. Of this amount $739,525 is of personal property, against $725,638 in 1901.

Ready to Build.

The Alabama Steel and Wire association has filed a certificate of incorporation. Its authorized capital stock is $5,000,000. Several months ago construction plans were completed, but the site for the plant has not been selected, or rather not announced. It is believed by many persons, however, that the building will be erected near Bessemer. The Schuler control the rod and wire mill at Ensley. This mill has been drawing its steel supply from the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company's steel works at Ensley, but the contract with that company expires on January 1 and it is believed they will push the construction of their own steel mill with as little delay as possible.

DAMAGE SUITS

Founded on the Berry Excursion Train Wreck.

Suits for damages against the Southern railway on account of the Berry, Ala., wreck are piling up in the circuit and justice courts. The complete list filed up to Saturday afternoon, ("still there's more to follow") amounts to over $100,000.

The University Opens.

The University of Alabama opens with the largest number of matriculates it has ever had. The annex has more applicants than can be accommodated.

President B. F. Giles states that the prospects for the Alabama Central Female college, which opens September 24, are flattering. The faculty secured for the coming session is a capable one.

The North Alabama Conference college at Owenton is open. It is believed the attendance of the institution will be larger than in the history of the college.

On account of the personal friendship of attorney-general Knox and Gen. W. C. Oates, the latter may be offered the position made vacant by the removal of United States Attorney Vaughan. It is not known whether he will accept.

R. H. Henry, World's Fair commissioner for Mississippi, has visited twenty counties of the state and delivered over thirty addresses on the subject of Mississippi's representation at the coming exposition. Mississippi's appropriation for the World's Fair is $50,000, but there is now talk of doubling it.

It has recently been discovered that waste furnace slag is valuable as a fertilizer.

American Machinery Popular.

A feature of the export trade of the United States is the growing demand abroad for American machinery and a decline in the amount of iron and steel exported, the last owing to heavy domestic consumption reducing the number of exporters.

A large tannery, covering 33 acres, is now being built at Mineral Bluff, Ga., by eastern capitalists. It will employ 80 men.

Coal Mining Company.

A declaration of incorporation is filed by the Tussell Hill Coal company. The amount of the capital stock is given at $100,000. Two thousand acres have been acquired in St. Clair co., and it is surmised that this land will be transferred to the new company, which is in close alliance with the Central of Georgia. President Egan, of the Central, declines to make a statement in regard to the coal property, but in business circles, the matter is discussed with much interest.

The clearings of the Birmingham banks for last week amounted to $1,018,719.21, as against $719,423 for the corresponding week of last year. The clearings a week ago were $807,371. The big gain for the week just past tells of wonderful prosperity and is commented on in banking circles with great satisfaction.

Colonies for the Southwest.

A concerted plan to colonize the Southwest is being actively projected by the southwestern railway systems. When the arrangements are completed it is expected that hundreds of thousands of homeseekers will pour into the great Southwest tapped by these roads.

Southern Cotton Merger.

A report is current that a cotton mills have pledged to enter into a merger for the sale of their products through a common agency, the mills to continue to operate independently. Eastern capitalists are said to be at the head of the new scheme.

We Lead in Railways.

Recent figures show that a new railroad was first built in America seventy-four years ago 200,000 miles of track have been laid and are now in use. This is two-fifths of the mileage of the world and more than that of all Europe put together.

Mail at 248 Miles an Hour.

The Italian Minister of posts and telegraph has ordered an investigation of a plan by which letters are to be transmitted in aluminum boxes along overhead wires by electric motor at the rate of 248 miles an hour.

Electrical Works Increase.

Census statistics of the manufacture of electrical apparatus and supplies show that the 189 establishments recorded in 1890 have increased to 580 in 1900 and the capital invested has grown from $18,000,000 to $83,000,000. New York leads the list with 134 establishments, but Pennsylvania has the largest output, $20,967,581.

The price of coke in Chicago has jumped to the unprecedented figure of $12 and $13 a ton. One consequence of the advance is that small foundries are threatened with ruin, or with being forced to close down until prices drop. Even at this advanced price, however, all orders can not be supplied.

New Copper Combine.

A combination of the richest copper interests of the world has been effected; seven companies with a total capital of $97,600,000. The new concern claims that it will be able to send copper to New York at 2 cents a pound.

An association is formed to build a boulevard from New York to Chicago. Financial aid in the project is expected from several states and the national government. The distance is 850 miles.

Tom L. Johnson is stumping Ohio with a big circus tent.

Strongest Locomotive Yet.

A new tandem compound locomotive hauled a train of 105 loaded cars from DeWitt to Albany, N. Y., in eleven hours. The load consisted of 4,500 tons of freight. This is the greatest tonnage ever moved by a single locomotive. The increased power is gained by the use of steam four times.

World's History.

NEELY IS AFTER HIS LITTLE WAD

Admiral Schley has "Quit"— Asphyxiating Insects—
Porto Rico Coffee.

Secretary Shaw Releases $4,000,000.

Secretary Shaw has made arrangements to release about $4,000,000 of the treasury holdings. He has had a list prepared of those national banks throughout the country holding free or pledged bonds at the date of their last report and has made inquiry for others. He has also decided to anticipate the October interest, amounting to about $4,200,000, and with this in view orders have been issued to the various subtreasuries to cash such coupons as may be presented them for payment, and the treasurer of the United States has been instructed to mail checks for interest on registered bonds. He is well satisfied with his efforts to increase circulation which he decided upon in the early summer when present conditions were plainly preparing to meet an emergency which he does not expect, but which he thinks it is wise to provide against.

Neely Wants the $6,000.

Information has been received at the war department that C. F. W. Neely has instituted proceedings in New York to recover the $6,000 which was found upon him at the time of his arrest in Cuba. This money was in the possession of the postoffice department but when Neely was tried it was turned over to the war department as one of the exhibits in the case. It was sent to Cuba and returned to the United States and now is at the war department.

It is understood that the Cuban government has given an intimation that the money should be turned over to its treasury, but the pardon of Neely raises the interesting question whether that government has not forfeited all claim against Neely or the money found in his possession.

Schley Has Had Enough of Navy.

Rear Admiral Schley and Mrs. Schley have reached Boston after a summer outing in the Adirondacks. The rear admiral said: "Since my retirement from the service I have taken the keenest of delight in the privileges of a civilian and in the beauties of our country. You understand, I am retired and done. To me the navy is a thing of the past. Since my retirement, I am out of it, and done with it, after a life of service."

New Insect Destroyer.

A United States department of agriculture circular gives a new method of killing at once all objectionable insects in a house. The plan is to fill the house with a volume of hydrocyanic gas (prussic acid), which is fatal to all life. The test made in a home in Washington proved a perfect success, roaches, flies, bedbugs and moths dying in large numbers.

Kansas has been visited by several frosts.

Wonderful Jewel for Pope.

The count of Caerita, brother of the last king of Naples, has started a collection to buy for the pope the 28,000 grain Brazilian topaz upon which is engraved the "L at Supper." It is said to be the most wonderful of miniatures. $75,000 worth of diamond dust was used in the cutting.

Cotton Exports.

Figures prepared by the treasury bureau of statistics show that exports of cotton for the twelve months ending August 31 were 6,715,793 bales, valued at $284,279,190, against 6,639,931 bales, valued at $317,816,429 for the twelve months ending August 31, 1901.

Knox Coming Home.

Attorney General Knox and Special Assistant Attorney Russell left Cherrington Sunday to embark on steamer St. Paul. Mr. Knox said he would reserve his opinion of the Panama canal titles for President Roosevelt.

Brigadier General William H. Forwood, surgeon general of the army, was retired on account of age, September 6, and was succeeded by Brigadier-General Robert M. O'Reilly, of the department of California.

Rear Admiral Rodgers, senior squadron commander of the Asiatic station, has been recalled to this country and Rear Admiral Robley D. Evans becomes his successor.

OUR BUDGET OF HUMOR.

Inhumanities.

What strange contradictions
In life you will find—
Take a twelve-dollar hat
For a two-dollar maid.

Very Cutting.

Bibb—"I confess that my sole object
In life is to kill time."
Maud—"So that he can't tell any one your age, I suppose?"

Get Swift Answer.

"Now, my little girl, can you tell me
the quickest way to get to Mr. Oliver farm?"
"To run, sir."

A Money Hunter.

"And why, Jennie, did you tell Willie you wouldn't be his little wife?"
"Tause he didn't ask till he knowed
I had a new dime."

Resting on His Laurels.

"I think," said the placid person,
"that I will now rest on my laurels."
"That's another of those foolish phrases," said the man who is always finding fault. "It suggests the idea of a man who is trying to be comfortable standing on his head."

Doubtful.

"No," said the capitalist, "I shall not invest in your invention. I very seriously question its practicability and its importance."
"For what reason?"
"Because no one has come forward with a claim that you stole it from him."

Watch Owner's Pride.

"Then you do not regard him as trustworthy?"
"I should go so far as to say he is not trustworthy. But he is the kind of man who will set his watch at half-past eleven o'clock and then call your attention to the manner in which it keeps time when the twelve o'clock whistle blows."

The Modern Machiavelli.

"What is your opinion of oratory in modern politics?"
"It may be made very useful," answered Senator Sorghum. "Very frequently, for instance, a good strong speech against monopolies in general may divert suspicion from you and enable you to do a good turn for a corporation without risk or embarrassment."

His Protest.

"Aren't you sometimes pained to indignation by the law's delay and the insolence of office?" inquired the man who likes to quote.
"Well," answered the trust magnate,
"I am not so much bothered by the law's delay, but I must say that the arrogance of these public officials who say they are going to put us trusts out of business is something awful!"

Not Hard to Guess.

Mr. Ferguson was standing on the upper deck of the lake steamer, holding to a rope and watching the waves, when Mrs. Ferguson came hurrying up.

"George," she hurriedly exclaimed,
"Johnny is dreadfully sick!"
"Where?" asked the husband and father, preparing to go below.
"Where do you suppose he would be sick?" she asked, shrilly. "In a storm like this?"—Chicago Tribune.

Remember a Hero.

"Who is that fellow at the hat?"
asked the stranger, addressing the baseball enthusiast sitting next to him in the grand stand.
"That's Ringull," said the other.
"I thought so. I've got a warrant for his arrest on an old debt, and I shall have to serve it on him as soon as the game is over."
Just then Ringull made a three-base hit, bringing in two men, and the crowd went wild.
"Say," shouted the enthusiast, presiding a well-filled pocketbook, "Mr.
What's-your-name, what is the amount of your claim against that man?"—

The purpose of such a station is to investigate all the problems connected with the fisheries of these lakes throughout their whole extent, principally for the protection of the commercial fish.

A new method from Scotland is patented automatically on being plunged into the water. A perforated metal case holds materials for generating gas, together with a spiral spring held under tension by a strip of paper, and as the paper becomes wet it turns, releasing the spring, and this causes the mixing of the chemicals and the beginning of the gas-making.

It has remained for a New Orleans railway company to discover the decorative and advertising value of a snake stock. The height obviously renders it a conspicuous feature of the city's perspective, and when encircled with a spiral of incandescent lamps it stands out in the night a veritable beacon of light.

Experiments by the Government have shown that no matter what the process of cooking, meat loses a great deal of its bulk, owing to the evaporation of the water, which constitutes a large part of all flesh. This loss is greater in small pieces than in the larger ones. In a lean piece of beef weighing from one to one and three-quarters of a pound, the loss of weight was 45.6 per cent. while in a piece weighing from five to five and three-quarters pounds the loss was only 39.8 per cent. The loss of nutrition is not nearly so great, however, as that of the weight would seem to indicate.

The substitution of crude oil for soft coal as a fuel for both stationary and locomotive engines is steadily growing. If the cost of oil can be materially reduced the use of it will increase even more rapidly. Most of the fuel oils now come from the new fields in Texas and California, and the great drawback to their general use is the lack of facilities for regular and clean delivery. The oil producers say that if there were a line of tank steamers they could deliver oil in New York at thirty cents a barrel, and that would be equivalent to a supply of coal at one-third the normal price. Oil has many advantages over coal—it makes steam more quickly, keeps the pressure more even, emits no smoke, leaves no ashes and does not clog the flues. In the cost of handling, too, it has the advantage, for one fireman using oil can do the work of four using coal.

Home For Friendless Dogs. Washington has a home for friendless dogs. The dog farm is on the side of a fine hill, near the reservoir, and there is plenty of ground for the friendless animals to run around in, as well as comfortable buildings to shelter them when the weather is bad. Admission is easily gained. All any well-behaved dog has to do to get in is to run away from home and wag his tail when the policeman asks him if he has an owner. But such a dog goes in the free portion of the farm. For the dogs whose owners can afford to pay their board there is a large field separated from the free farm by a close wire fence. At night each dog boarder has a compartment all to himself. His meals are more elaborate and better cooked than are those of the charity guests. Every month or so the ladies who are interested in this charity give a dog party. The grounds are illuminated with Chinese lanterns and the visitors are told to be there at feeding time. The society people think it great fun to watch the charity curs fight for bones. At the last party over 500 persons were present.

J. Knott's Big Rhubarb Stalk. The London Journal of Horticulture says that Mr. J. Knott pulled up a stick of rhubarb in the rectory garden, Black Torrington, Devon, which measured twenty-one inches in length, six inches in girth at the smallest part and seven inches round at the largest part, while the longest rib of the leaf measured thirty inches in length, and the circumference of the outer edge of the leaf measured eighteen feet six inches. It is probable, however, that American growers can beat this. It seems that stalks this size, though not common, are occasionally seen.—Meehan's Monthly.

AMERICANS LIKE FROGS

They Now Eat Twice as Many as the French, So Cattle Proprietors Say. "The eating of frogs' legs is considered a la Française," said an up-town restaurateur, the other day, to one of his guests, "but as a matter of fact more frogs at the present time are killed for the table in this country than in France. I have no means of estimating how great the business of killing frogs for the market has grown in this country, but I am warranted when I say that twice as many are served for the American palate every day as on the tables of the French."

"In France the frogs are raised for the most part in what have been termed froggeries. Here they grow in our creeks and ponds, and are caught by the hook or spear. By the way, did you ever undertake to catch a frog?"

"Never did," answered the guest. "It is great sport," replied the proprietor of the cafe. "You think that you have got a whale on the end of your line. A fly or a piece of red rag will do for bait, and for that matter the bullfrog will grab at anything red with more avidity than an animate object. He is like his namesake in his inclinations toward this particular color. But when you have him on the hook don't let him drop into the water again, or the chances are that he will get a foothold and it will be impossible to extricate him. I have often hauled in a bullfrog which had in its mouth the broken ends of old hooks and other similar reminders of past attempts on its life."

"Much of the old-time aversion to the bullfrog has been overcome by a better knowledge of the little animal. Indeed, he is not half as bad as he has been made out to be. It has been said that he lives on flies and insects. The same thing can be said of chickens and all kinds of birds. I am sure his habits are not as indiscriminate and unconventional as that of the hog, and the Americans have become famous for the raising and eating of pork."—New York Tribune.

WISE WORDS.

A teacher is not a taskmaster. Good things always grieve bad men. The man who thinks leads the crowd. An iron key may open a golden door. Some men are born with the brakes set. Heroes never see themselves in the glass. Deep digging must go before high building. The love is not faultless that falters at a fault. The stream of life rises not above its source. Culture is not character, but character is culture. Logic will not illumine until it is on fire with love. You cannot estimate a man's message by the size of his mouth. The heart within to resist evil is better than a fence without. The only thing that comes to the man who waits is the dust from the processions. The problem is not to get an education out of politics so much as to get education into the politicians.—Ran's Horn.

A Conductor's Pleat.

"If the gloves that be," said a conductor on a Madison Avenue car in a dull moment, "would make it a misdemeanor for a woman to get off a moving car backward, fewer people would be injured, the company would save money and we conductors would not get gray so quickly. We all try our best to teach women how to get off a car, but many of them seem to be unable to learn such a simple thing as that."

When they fall and are hurt they blame us for it, of course. But what saddens me is the way they resent your efforts to teach them how to insure their safety. I turned one woman half way around on day in an effort to get her to step off in the direction in which the car was going. She slapped my face, assailed me good and reported me to the company as an important scandalous who ought to be in jail. If I hadn't caught her when I did she would have had a bad fall. Encouraging, isn't it? What did the company do? Oh, they understand such things all right."—New York Mail and Express.

Color of Torpedo Boats.

Germany has engaged in experiments to determine the best color for torpedo boats to lessen their visibility by day. Deep black has been in general use for the past twenty years, but now these smaller vessels are to receive a gray-brown color. Of course there is no single color that is best for all geographical regions, but this has been found the most effective for the purpose in the North Sea, and generally in northern waters. The German battleships are painted a gray-blue, as being the least visible by day, since with that color, they do not stand out in a marked way against the water, the sky, the coast or the powder smoke. The British gave their earliest torpedo boat destroyers a gray color, and the French tried that color on the warships years ago. Both nations, however, gave it up, because in some waters and under certain conditions of light the gray-brown was more readily visible than black. Nevertheless, Germany has now decided on it, after exhaustive experiments.

Hanged His Wife to a Tree.

Because Thomas L. Smith of Sneed, T. T., attempted strenuous measures in forcing his wife to believe in his righteousness, he is now in the Federal prison at Ardmore, held for attempted wife murder. Smith was charged by her with conduct unbecoming a faithful husband, and he hanged the woman to a limb of a tree in the back yard. In her efforts to free herself from the noose placed around her neck the woman succeeded in getting her arms above the rope when Smith jerked her from the earth, and left her dangling in the air, the rope around her waist. She was suspended thus until unconscious, and was cut down by neighbors who were passing.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

EVERY CHILD BORN INTO THE WORLD with an inherited tendency to distressing, disfiguring humours of the skin, scalp, and blood, becomes an object of the most tender solicitude, not only because of its suffering but because of the dreadful fear that the disfiguration is to be lifelong and mar its future happiness and prosperity. Hence it becomes the duty of mothers of such afflicted children to acquaint themselves with the best, the purest, and most effective treatment available, viz., THE CUTICURA TREATMENT.

Warm baths with CUTICURA SOAP, to cleanse the skin of crusts and scales and soften the thickened cuticle, gentle anointings with CUTICURA OINTMENT, to instantly allay itching, irritation, and inflammation, and soothe and heal, are all that can be desired for the alleviation of the suffering of skin-tormented infants and children and the comfort of worn-out, worried mothers. A single set is often sufficient to cure when the best physicians fail.

VOL. X CLANTON, ALA. THURSDAY SEPTEMBER 25, 1902 NO. 4

One of the funniest things going on now how few people will stick to it there are Populist nominees before the people. Talking to an old Pop the other day I put it to him in this way: "Suppose you knew a man who all his life had been a strong temperance man, and the Prohibitionists nominated him for their ticket, and as soon as he got the nomination he went out and got drunk. Would you still call him a Prohibitionist?" "Certainly not," replied my friend. "Well," said I, "it's exactly the same way with the Republican nominees. No one denies that they have been good Populists, no one denies that they were first nominated by a small faction of the old Populist party, but as soon as they got the Populist nomination they went out and got full of Republican ideas and notions, and judged themselves to support anything Republican. So, like our temperance man who gets drunk is no longer a Prohibitionist, our men are no longer Populists but Republicans, and that is a dead end fact, which all the talk in the world cannot get around." In the language of Burns, Anglicized, "I would some power the gift would give us to see ourselves as others see us."

A Sad Disappointment

Ineffective, liver medicine is a disappointment, but you don't want to purge, strain and break the glands of the stomach and bowels. DeWitt's Little Early Risers never disappoint. They cleanse the system of all poison and putrid matter and do it so gently that one enjoys the pleasant effects. They are a tonic to the liver. Cure biliousness, torpid liver and prevent fever.

e leaves are gently falling,
 and the winds are getting chill,
 more is heard the calling
 of the sweet tones of the poor-will.
 The summer days are fading,
 and early falls the night
 with harvest incense laden,
 making life a glad delight.

on let us all sing praises to Him who sends it all—seed time and the harvest,
 the Spring time and the Fall;
 Him who rules the universe
 at all our praises go—
 God, who reigns above us,
 from whom all blessings flow.

Water Cure for Chronic Constipation.
Take two cups of hot water half hour before each meal and just before going to bed, also a drink of water, hot or cold, about two hours after each meal. Take lots of outdoor exercise—walk, ride, drive. Make a regular habit of this and in many cases chronic constipation may be cured without the use of any medicine. When a purgative is required take something mild and gentle like Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. For sale by J. C. Hopkins Drug Co., Clanton, A. B. Thorsby.

Next Session opens Sept. 23.

OUR SOLDIERS' HEALTH.

Report Shows Considerable Improvement.

The report of the surgeon of the
for the year ending June 30 shows a gradual improvement in the
of the troops notwithstanding exposure of the tropical service in Philippines. The rate of discharge disability was 19.96 in 1901, as compared with 22.60 in 1900 and 16.69
the decade, and the death rate
all causes was 10.94 per 1,000
as compared with 22.74 and 11.91
previously.

Deaths from disease constituted 9.5
out of 1,000 of mean strength,
compared with 15.19 in 1900, and
from injury 4.36 as compared with 6.95.

During the year the mean strength of the army consisted of 97,491 men, of whom 81,886 were regulars. The death rate from all causes was 5.29 in 1,000 of strength in Cuba; 6.90 in United States; 7.61 in Porto Rico, 17.90 in the Pacific islands and China. Deaths from disease constituted only 3.21 per 1,000 in Cuba, 2.69
in United States and 2.40 in the Pacific islands and China, 59,526
the mean strength of the commands
in Porto Rico, 1,153; Cuba, 5,
the United States, 26,518; and in Pacific islands and China, 59,526.

Army Maneuvers.

Regular troops have been assembled at Fort Riley, Kansas, where they are now ready for the fall maneuvres which are to be conducted on large scale for the first time in fourteen years. Including the militia units the number will be nine thousand. The actual operations are to begin September 20.

Military O'Inton.

After inspecting the Canadian-American frontier on behalf of the war office, Colonel Townsend reports that the British fortifications are inefficient while the American fortifications are well equipped. The London Express states that there is but one cannon and shell factory in the dominion and that in case of war between Great Britain and the United States, Yankees could easily march over border and seize Canada.

They are always glad of suggestions that will make it possible at home, and not need for more pin money.

Of course, the home industries that must be studied and practiced under careful teachers, such as the beautiful basket work, the Abnakee quilt-making and the like, command high prices because of the excellent preparation, but there are many handicrafts that women learn from each other quickly, not requiring to attend classes for instruction, and giving the most profitable is lace-making.

A friend may spend an hour with another friend and learn from her how to make a table centre of Battenberg, Bouillabaisse, Venetian, Point Honiton
or some other of the prevailing braid laces, and by skill and industry may make some in the spare hours of a couple of weeks, or so that will bring from $1.00 to $2.00, according to size, workmanship and quality of materials used.

Table centres of drawn work bring from $1.00 to $2.00, drawn work pin embroidery from $1.00 to $5.00, and ones in Bat-ton only a little less.

These squares and round pieces are used especially on handsome bare table between meals, even more now than during the past, and have come to almost supersede the embroidered ones also the doilies.

But table embroideries have not "gone out" by any means—it is one of the very oldest arts, this, and only changes in its expression. These will always repay the worker whose actual handwork does not depend upon it, especially if by showing a sample of her work at the exchanges she can secure orders for them.

No every one can do nice hemstitch-ing and those who can may also get orders for hemstitching tablecloths, napkins, tray cloths, sideboard scarfs,
table sheets and pillows.

But most frequently the gentlewoman who seeks to add to a very modest income by home industries wishes to do only such work as may be executed and sent to the place of sale in an unobtrusive way, and this is easily done by making all sorts of small, dainty articles that modern living has evolved as necessities, and confining herself to those which sell quickest and most profitably.

Some women make the same sort of large pin cushions or little sacques and over again find a staple demand is made for their speciality. Finding that it pays better to make the same article in large numbers, after the demand is made, than taking chances on a varied assortment.

One girl who used her brush with water colors remarkably well made a little income doing dinner cards, copying Gibson girls with the consent of the artist, until the publishers issued a ban on all reproductions.

A clever girl can decorate tally cards profitably—there are such stacks of these used—making sketchy heads in various studies of the "whist woman."

Concerning "Make-Ups."

What a pity it is that women nowadays make up to the extent they do!
What is the use? For surely the pretty woman does not need "make-up," and the plain one only draws attention to nature's harsh dealings by having recourse to it.

And how few made-up women one sees who are anything but ill-painted!
Indeed, in this matter the old proverb,
"Practice makes perfect," gets complicated contradiction, for it is noticeable that the lower a face has been "beautiful" the less well it is done, a want of care in dealing with the delicacies of the art causing a general over-exaggeration culminating in a total disaster, which is to the beholder nothing but a revolting.

Before things had reached such a stage as at present, when quite young girls have recourse to the rouge pot, say Home Chat, it was only those who knew that their good looks were in the wane who called in such spickand-span aids.

The chief effect of this indiscriminate looking up is that "most women are not so young as they are painted"—or more correctly it is that, which comes to the same thing; for seeing the danger signals so glaringly displayed, one tends to the conclusion that charms which require so much emphasis must of necessity be almost lost.

Why not remember that no one but himself is deceived by your friendly coquetries? In these days of sham, the practice of honesty in appearance has become so rare as to give it to almost a new kind of attractiveness.

To Be Slim and Slender.

Very slender girls make a mistake in wearing the too tight belt. Sometimes the effect is positively unpleasant. That pulled-in look is especially evident at the front, and reminiscent of the days when a small waist measure was desired at any expense of comfort, looks or comfort.

It is easy to avoid this ugly look by wearing one's belts with double fronts.
This applies particularly to draped belts, though it may be used with any belt that boasts a lining.

All there is to do is to make the lining double at the front, the back and sides being made in the ordinary way.
The lining must be kept separate at the front, the one next the outer drapery continuing as a foundation for it—the inner one serving to fasten tightly around the waist to hold the back and sides firmly in place.

While not adding to one's apparent size, this gives a look of ease and grace impossible to the fair one who is in a stiff, business-like arrangement.

The Sweater Girl.

The sweater girl is out relieving her weight, for she must get lean by winter, and she knows that she must do as the boys do when in training. Perhaps the sweater girl wears the garment because it is becoming. It opens nowhere and is easy to put on, being pullable over the head, and requiring only a smoothing down.

For the girl who dresses in this way there are not many garments required. Next the skin there is a silk combination; then comes her shoes
and stockings and an outing corset.
Out of regard for feminine fancy she can wear a trifle in lingerie, if she so desires; and then comes her outing skirt and precious sweater, not forgetting that wonderful Panama hat, which in her special pride, with her dark binding and its fascinating quiff, sheark the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The outing girl does not remain idle all the time, and for the hours when she is under the trees she has pretty gowns in linen, with blue lines leading in point of favor. There are the most charming dresses in blue, trimmed with white satin wash ribbon, put on in Grecian design, and warranted to wash every time.

Widows and Mourning.

The mourning of fashionable widows does not extend over as long a period nowadays as heretofore. Indeed, her seclusion from general society is practically over at the expiration of two months.

Instead of being covered with crepe,
she is now permitted to wear as little crepe as she pleases during the first two months, and after that she may discard crepe altogether if she is so inclined, instead of wearing it nine months longer.

Then, again, she may wear a cap or not, just as she pleases, and her veil, instead of being crepe, may be of chiffon or crepe lisse from the commencement of her mourning.

After the first twelve months she gradually lightens her mourning to second mourning, instead of wearing dark mourning for two years, as has been the custom in the past.

Sweeping For Exercise.

Physicians recommend sweeping as being one of the most beneficial means of strengthening muscles and giving tone to the entire system, as it brings into action all of the important muscles of the body.

In sweeping the sweeping Delsarte exercise can be put into practical use,
as moving from left to right advance
left leg, bearing weight on ball of foot, inclined head toward it and torso slightly backward, while inclination hollows
the back at the waist line and raises the chest. As the right leg follows and bears the weight, the head inclines backward and torso forward, and there will be easy play of the ankles. Reverse the motion and sweep to the right. The strength used on the broom must come from the arms.—

For Women Without Taste.

Black is safe for the woman without taste—black all her accessories match despite her careless way of arranging her toilette.

Fashion Notes.

Plain dust coats in pale gray and fawn are very smart.

Black voile skirts to wear with skirt
waists are a useful investment.

Parasols of chene silk trimmed with lace and chiffon are very pretty.

Long coats of Irish point lace are very smart, as are also the bolero and knee jackets of the same.

Flowered lawn gowns with stitched bands of plain color as trimming, are very pretty and cool looking.

Hats of coarse straw, trimmed with folds of soft silk and a few quills, are very suitable and convenient for traveling.

One accordion pleated Empire gown is held in at the waist by a pointed belt of pink taffeta trimmed with real silver lace.

Green Renaissance over lettuce green changeable taffeta makes a very effective gown. Gowns of accordion pleated crepe or chiffon are very much worn.

Bearding coats of pongee, taffeta or mahair are made in loose flowing lines, with the half fitted back, and some of them are belted in at the waist with straps of the goods.

A very pretty garden party costume is made of accordion pleated green chiffon trimmed with coral guipure.

There is a yoke of coral chiffon and a ruche of the same at the bottom of the skirt.

A pretty gown for a brunette is buff
batiste embroidered in white dots.
Silk embroidery in dull shades of green and red is used as a garniture.

Black velvet tabs adorn the waist and sleeves.

One of the new autumn street gowns
is of mixed cheviot, with a pleated bodice and waist of dull red, brown peas de sole. Little smoked pearl bot-tons are set along the edge of the vest, and two large buttons trim each side of the collar. The skirt has coral gore and is cut with a pronounced flare at the bottom and has each seam lined with the brown peas de sole.

The Importance of Alaska

By Harrington Emerson.

SINCE 1866 five events have occurred that wholly change conditions in Alaska for the future. 1. In that year the Klondike gold discoveries were made and in 1897 and 1898
a great rush to and through Alaska began, resulting in a doubling of the population and in an output of gold from the Yukon region to date of $75,000,000. 2. In 1898 the Philippine Islands were acquired by the United States, giving importance to the direct route along the Alaskan coast between North America and the new possessions. 3. In 1899 gold was discovered on the bench at Nome, and this carried 30,000 people to this part of Alaska and resulted in an output of $5,000,000 in gold annually, or more than twice as much as all Alaska had previously yielded. 4. The Alaska salmon fisheries, in their infancy in 1896, have grown in 1902 to great companies, capitalized for $20,000,000 and with net earnings last year of more than $2,000,000, and employing 10,000 men. 5. Two railroads have been constructed in Alaska, one of which is in the extreme southeast, costing $4,000,000, earned last year over $5,000,000 net, and the other in the extreme northeast, near Nome, a little road five miles long, which earned $80,000 net. 6. Coal fields formerly superficially known have been explored and investigated, while new ones of great value have been discovered.

America Versus England in Traveling Accommodations

By William Howard Francis.

THE English arrangement of seats is such that one-half the occupants must always ride backward, and the available space for one's feet is usually so limited as to render necessary a nice mutual adjustment of the pedal extremities of all concerned. Most extraordinary of all are the racks for hand baggage—small arrangements with netting bottoms—surmounted by signs whereon it is written that disaster will follow an attempt to deposit anything other than "light articles" therein. The adjective "light" has so elastic a significance that the traveler hesitates about trusting so much as a shawl, or a hat to the insidious meshes of the net. The weighty impediments, such as grip-sacks and dress-suit cases, which every traveler must perform carry become dreadful nightmares to be huddled on the floors or carried on the knees, to the discomfort of one's neighbors or the misery of one's self.

A yet more serious deficiency is in the frequent lack of the most ordinary conveniences. Many of the carriages, especially those below first-class, have no toilet appliances, and unless one is so fortunate as to get a carriage with a side corridor (a partial adoption of the American idea), one is likely to have much needless discomfort added to the unavoidable fatigues of travel. It is true that certain English railway companies, notably the London and Northwestern, are doing much in the way of improvement through the adoption of a carriage modeled in certain particulars upon the American plan. The compartment division is partly retained, but a central aisle running the entire length renders communication possible and permits of a toilet room accessible to all. The carriage is yet among the luxuries, however, and is not general.—Lippincott's.

The Chinese Language in Commerce

By Charles Heuer, Consular Agent at Gera.

W HILE China is considered the land of promise for our manufacturers and farmers, the importance of the knowledge of the Chinese language is greatly under valued. I submit the details of a recent interview with a linguist who has given special attention to this subject. It is well understood that in order to enter into permanent commercial relations with a foreign country it is indispensable to know its language. When Russian industries began to develop, the Germans recognized that in order to engage in profitable trade in that country it was necessary to learn Russian, and there is now no country where the Russian language is so much taught as in Germany.

The Chinese language is ideographic. It conveys the idea and not the word for a thing, as the figure "3" represents the idea and not the word.
The Chinese have invented more than 40,000 marks for their writing. In the opinion of my informant, it will require only about 3000 marks for mercantile correspondence, and it will be easier to learn them than the words of an ordinary foreign language. Russian is more difficult for Americans than Chinese. It takes much longer to learn the spoken language, because of the variety of dialects; but any one can learn enough of the writings to answer ordinary purposes in a few months, and have his knowledge perfected by a linguist within about a year. An exact instruction in one of the Chinese languages can be given only by a Chinaman. This method has been adopted in Germany. Besides the professor for the theory of language, there are four Chinese linguists in the Oriental Seminary of Berlin, teaching the business style and the languages of Peking, Shanghai and Canton. It is not intended to fit pupils for the diplomatic service, but for commercial work.

That verdict set me thinking and I wondered upon what foundation that mother built her home, and how she developed the character of her children.

The majority of thinking, intelligent people are to-day grasping the meaning and importance of these two studies as they have never done before.

The world is beginning to realize the practical application of these vital principles in connection with manhood and womanhood.

The old idea that metaphysics and psychology were only poetry and romance is fast dying out, and the world of mind, of thought, with its subtle, far-reaching forces, is firmly and surely pushing its way to the front and its power is daily being demonstrated in character-building, in the home and in business.

We know that we are thinking beings, and that the seed-germ of all our acting is thought.

The law of thought lies at the root of your character, and it is the same law of thought that is influencing the character of your child.

It lies within the power of each one of us to build up a perfect character, when we realize that a thought precedes each act of ours, and our actions form our habits, and our habits form our characters.

So let us take heed to our thoughts.

The outer world is a picture of the inner world. If we have gloom and distress in our minds, we are related to the gloomy and distressful things in the outer world.

If we have brightness and hopes within us, then we see these blessings externalized.

If our thoughts are neither strong, happy nor wholesome, we cannot expect to express health and strength in our bodies.

Every thought we think has a definite effect on our bodies. As sorrowful and distressing things enter your life, if your mind is allowed to dwell on them, your body becomes weakened.

On the other hand, dwelling mentally on the bright and beautiful things that come into your life strengthens your body.

The whole world is turning more and more toward the search after health along mental or physical lines. Intelligent physicians everywhere are doing away with the use of medicine, and are, instead, giving advice as to diet and the making of hygienic suggestions.

Scientific minds are investigating the subject to-day as never before.

A DOCTOR ON DOCTORS' BILLS.

Editor: Pay Me Now, Not Tomorrow.
Charges Outright.

The question of fees will probably never be settled so far as strict determinations and absolute rules are concerned, but there are certain broad lines of sense and policy that may be accepted as guiding decision in the majority of cases. Charges, for instance, by one physician for treating the family of another, we think impolitic and unprofessional. If done it certainly should be agreed upon in advance.

In a recent case of a different sort a physician sent a bill to a girl patient which, in the subsequent adjustment, was practically admitted by the physician to be about five times too high.
This plan has been often pursued in the past by men who should have gone into ward politics or the "bucket-shop" business instead of medicine. We know of a number of instances in which such traders have charged a man several thousand dollars for services, well knowing they will get only one-fourth or one-tenth of the amount,
and they would be well satisfied if they got one-twentieth for the same service generally. Such a method is neither good business nor good morals.

The charge should be right to begin with, and no compromise accepted. Because physicians treat so large a proportion of the sick without payment, because so much of their life and energy must be given unrewarded to the advancement of their science, and because in a final analysis, their services cannot be rated in money values, they should be far better paid than they are.
But let us not assent to exorbitant charges, those in which greed is more than evident, and there should be no foolish haggling and reductions and compromises.—American Medicine.

"Snake Bite" Deaths.

A considerable proportion of the deaths in India annually attributed to snake bite are probably due to poisoning of another sort, says Navy and Army. The explanation is simple and interesting. When a man in an outlying village dies evidently from the effects of poison it is the duty of the headman of the village to take in, if not the body, at any rate the viscera,
for examination by the civil surgeons of the nearest civil station, which may be some thirty miles away. To avoid this tedious journey the name of the deceased is duly entered on the village records as having died from snake bite, and the entire village is afterward ready to swear that it saw the snake—
a karait a yard and a half long—which did the deed, and which was subsequently slain by several different people in several totally different sets of circumstances.

Game From the Arctic.

A company at Tacoma, Wash., is preparing to do an extensive refrigerating business between the Klondike regions and the markets of the East, by means of refrigerated vessels and cars. The company is taking advantage of a very peculiar situation. The residents of the Klondike region last year became satiated with the great amount of native game, and paid fabulous prices for beef, mutton and poultry from the States. This game rejected by the natives, such as caribou, moose, ptarmigon and Arctic hare, is regarded in high favor in the United States, and brings high prices here, so that the storage company above referred to will reap a big profit in exchanging meat products of these two widely separated countries.

The Great Nile Dam.

The great Nile dam at Assuan, which was begun four years ago, is nearing completion. The reservoir formed by the dam will cost $25,000, 000, but it will greatly increase the agricultural prosperity of Egypt by bringing waste districts under cultivation and enabling farmers to make two crops a year on wide tracts of land.

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS

FOR SEPTEMBER 25.

Review of the Preceding Twelve Lessons

For the Third Quarter, Book, VII, 1-19
—Golden Text, Deut. viii, 18—introduction and summary.

Introduction.—During the past quarter
we have had several important lessons.
The Lord certainly put forth every effort in behalf of His people. Their temporal and spiritual necessities were attended to.
Benevolence was provided, the commandments given, idolatry punished, a home erected for Jehovah, intercession promised, the promised land viewed by chosen men, a Prophet, His Moses, promised, and then, finally, Moses, the great lawgiver, was called to his reward without having completed his earthly inheritance.

Summary.—Lesson 1. Topic: Heavenly bread. Place: Sinai. The wilderness of the Israelites journeyed from Sinai to the wilderness of sin; they murmured against Moses and Aaron; they feared they would starve in the wilderness and hoped to be back in Egypt; the Lord promised to rain bread from heaven, directions were given regarding the gathering of the manna;
the Sabbath was to be observed, bread was to be given them, also; they were murmuring against the Lord, not against Moses and Aaron.

II. Topic: God's covenant with man.
Place: Mount Sinai. God spoke to the people with His own voice and gave them
the ten commandments. This season embraces the first four of the ten commandments. 1. Thou shalt not have no other gods before Me. 2. Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven image. 3.
Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain. 4. Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy.

III. Topic: The duties we owe to our fellow-men. Place: Mount Sinai. This season embraces the last six of the ten commandments. 5. Honor thy father and thy mother, that thy days may be long upon the land. 6. Thou shalt not kill. 7.
Thou shalt not commit adultery. 8. Thou shalt not steal. 9. Thou shalt not bear false witness. 10. Thou shalt not covet. The fifth is the only one with a specific promise attached. The tenth deals with the sin of the inner life. Covetousness is the great sin of this age.

IV. Topic: Israel's idol worship. Place:
Mount Sinai. After the ten commandments were given to the children of Israel
the Lord called Moses up

Take Care of the Stomach.

The man or woman whose digestion is perfect and whose stomach performs its every function is never sick. Kodo cleanses, purifies and sweetens the stomach and cures positively and permanently all stomach troubles, indigestion and dyspepsia. It is the wonderful reconstructive tonic that is making
so many sick people well and weak people strong by conveying to their bodies all of the nourishment in the food they eat. Rev. J. H. Holladay, of Holladay, Miss., writes:
"Kodo has cured me. I consider it the best remedy I ever used for dyspepsia and stomach troubles. I was given up by physicians. Kodo saved my life." Take it after meals.

SOME PERTINENT QUESTIONS FOR MR. REYNOLDS TO ANSWER.

Editor Banner—I see by the papers that Hon. L. H. Reynolds, of your county has become a full-fledged Republican. Lewis is a personal friend of mine, and I am sorry that he has seen fit to align himself with the party of high-tariff, gold standard, and protection to monopolies. I knew him before he entered politics, and knowing him always gave him credit for being sincere in his professions of belief in the doctrines of the Populist party. I cannot now understand why he has so suddenly and radically changed his views on the leading issues of the day, and I cannot really believe that he has forsaken the principles that guided him in his leadership of his people and for which they gave him their confidence. He certainly owes it to those confiding followers who have listened to his eloquent attacks on the very conditions he is now supporting to explain why he has deserted the party which has most energetically denounced the gold standard, most urgently cried for free trade, most persistently fought monopolies and trusts. I desire to ask my friend, through your columns, if he really believes in the policies of the Republican party?

Does he really believe in a high protective tariff, the present effect of which is to enable the manufacturing corporations to sell their products to the home consumers at a higher price than they charge for the same articles abroad; a tariff that has enriched the manufacturers of agricultural instruments while the raw product of the farm is unprotected; a tariff that has kept up the price of woollen goods while the crop of the Southern farmer must compete with the markets of the world; a policy that is keeping the price of sugar beyond the reach of the poor farmer in Alabama while his cotton is left to the mercies of foreign dealers who fix the price?

Does he really believe now in the perpetuation of the gold standard which he has so often told his people has made the banks richer and the people poorer?

Does he believe in the policies of the party which during six years of power has allowed the centralization of capital into gigantic trusts which are controlling the price of everything his people have to buy and likewise of everything they have to sell?

Does he really believe in paying to the steamships of J. Pierpont Morgan enormous subsidies to increase their profits while an appropriation for the Coosa river that would give cheap transportation to the people of Chilton county is refused?

Does he believe that the deposit of money by the Secretary of the Treasury in the banks of the country to enable them to lend it to the people at big interest is right?

These are a few of the policies which Mr. Reynolds will now have to defend. If he believes in them, he has simply joined hands with the political enemies of his poor but honest friends, and is leading them to their own hurt. If he does not believe in these policies I have mentioned, then he can have joined the Republican party but for the sake of office or revenge.

Republican policies are best for the pockets of some people, but not for the Southern farmer. Can my friend have forgotten his own struggles on the farm, as well as those of his people, in the fascinations of politics and in his eagerness to leave the party that has honored him before its last breath is drawn?

I have asked these questions through your columns that my friend may have a chance of answering them to the people who are more interested than I am.

F. W. Gist.

In Memoriam.

Died at his home August 10, 1902, Mr. J. T. Huett. He was born Nov. 4, 1874, and in the year 1887 he confessed to God and united himself with the Missionary Baptist church at Olive Branch and was a constant member ever since. He believed in God and strove to do his Master's will, through his trials and temptations. He ever clung to the blessed Word of God which he constantly read, the only theme in which we can get help and strength to bear our trials and troubles on earth. After an illness of nineteen days of typhoid fever and hemorrhages, the death angel crept into our home and called our darling one from us leaving us all lost, ruined and heart-broken. He said three days before his death that he was willing to go at his command, he did not mind laying down his life for a better one, but O, what a glorious thought, just a little while and we will meet where there will be no more parting and no more good-byes, when the evening shadows gather and the long day's work is done, when we reach the unknown country out beyond the setting sun, after all the dreary waiting in their peaceful rest to share, no more need of anguished parting, we shall know each other there.

His Bereaved Companions.

Beware of the Knife.
No profession has advanced more rapidly of late than surgery, but it should not be used except where absolutely necessary. In cases of piles for example, it is seldom needed. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cures quickly and permanently. Unequaled for cuts, burns, bruises, wounds, skin diseases. Accept no counterfeits. "I was so troubled with bleeding piles that I lost much blood and strength," says J. C. Phillips, Paris, Ill. "DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me in a short time." Soothe and heal.

Crops That May Partially Replace Corn.

From Bulletin No. 22, Ala. Experiment Station, Auburn, Ala., Sept. 11, 1902.—The corn crop of most parts of Alabama has failed. To take the place of corn there is need for the planting of a larger acreage of small grains and other forage crops than ever before. These crops should be planted earlier than usual and they should be fertilized with all the stable manure and lot scrapings obtainable.

Fall's work at Auburn have yielded about 50 per cent more than those sown after Christmas, and the former can be fed several weeks before the latter are ready. It usually pays to sow oats, the fall and to risk the danger of winter killing rather than to postpone sowing until just prior to winter killing. The danger of winter killing can be reduced by (1) sowing in October; (2) selecting a location protected on two sides by woodland, or on a southern slope; (3) drilling the seed on a well-maintained land in shovels furrows only half filled in covering the oats; or (4) by leaving the ground rough or ridged.

Not Doomed For Life.

"I was treated for three years by good doctors," writes W. A. Greer, McConnellsville, O., for Piles and Fistula, but, when all failed, Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured me in two weeks." Cures Burns, Bruises, Cuts, Corns, Sores, Eruptions, Salt Rheum, Piles or no pay. 25c at Clanton Drug Co., and F. A. Gullidge, Verbena.

DO YOU MOVE?

The world "do move." That is a much mooted question solved long ago.
A later discovery is, however, that other bodies "do move," the most important of which is The Montgomery Advertiser "Grandma" is actually alive; she still lives and moves.
Although The Advertiser has made some important moves in its long career, one of the most recent moves as well as important to the public is that on or about August 16, 1902, the new home, built for Alabama's foremost daily, will be occupied, and the great paper greatly improved, not only in facilities for production but in size and make up as well. The Advertiser's new home is the most complete plant anywhere in the South. When you come to Montgomery, call and be shown about it.
The campaign is upon us, the new crops are about here, you need The Advertiser every day. Drop a postal card and get a sample copy of the great Sunday edition free.
Just a postal card with your name and address will do. Don't forget it. Sixty-five cents will get The Daily and Sunday Advertiser for a whole month.

"It would pay more attention to their health we would have more happy wives, mothers and daughters, and if they would observe results they would find that the doctor's prescriptions do not perform the many cures they are given credit for."
"In consulting with my druggist he advised McEldred's Wine of Cardui and Edward's Black-Drum, and so I took it and have every reason to thank him for a new life opened up to me with restored health, and it only took three months to cure me."
Wine of Cardui is a regulator of the menstrual functions and is a most astonishing tonic for women. It cures scanty, suppressed, too frequent, irregular and painful menstruation, falling of the womb, whites and flooding. It is helpful when approaching womanhood, during pregnancy, after childbirth and in change of life. It frequently brings a dear baby to women that have been barren for years. All druggists have 50c bottles of Wine of Cardui.

A HEALTH POLICY

The system is from natural causes, debilitated or run-down, both in the spring and fall. The summer changes are always a test on the human organism. The blood becomes impure in the spring, and vitality lags in the fall. A little care, a little assistance, and nature will do the rest, as it is always trying to maintain health. Frequently the weakest organs will show the most disorder, and this often leads to wrong treatment.

For the debilitated condition of spring or fall, or any other time, for that matter, the right thing to do is to build up the whole system. It is not your stomach, or liver, or nerves alone that cause the trouble; you are weak all over and must have renewed strength and vitality. These you cannot get as quickly or surely or safely as by using

Dr. HARTER'S IRON TONIC

When you use Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic you are helping to renew the vigor of every fiber of your body. You are cleansing and enriching your blood; you are strengthening your stomach and increasing the digestive fluids; you are building up and renewing the activity of your kidneys and liver, and you are feeding and revitalizing your nervous system. You cannot do this without getting well, and you cannot take Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic without doing it.
The Dr. Harter Medicine Co., Chicago, O. GENTLEMEN:—I unhesitatingly recommend Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic, as I firmly believe it is the best tonic on the market to-day. Every spring and fall my system seems to be in need of a tonic, and for the past three years I have taken a bottle of your tonic twice a year.

THE MAN ON THE CORNER

Man of the Sights He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.

Kind friends: I invite you to come out with me to a town that's coming to town on the fourth of November, and you'll please to remember that the Rep-Pop breakdown. The chief actor, I'm told, is one Lewis the boy. He can twist, he can turn round and round. He's a wonder of tongue, many songs has he sung. And he'll dance the Rep-Pop breakdown.

There's a W. I'm sure that he cannot dance. Than to smile and look pleasant, ne'er from. He feels rather lonely and on this day only. He'll dance the Rep-Pop breakdown. O. Henry, my dear, I very much fear as a commissioner you'll never sit down. But on this occasion you will gaze on When you dance the Rep-Pop breakdown.

Ab. Alex, old friend, this song must not end. You love not the dance I'll be bound, But he'll pop it to you without any ado. When you dance the Rep-Pop breakdown.

There'll be others there, Bro. Edwards talks fair. He's a man who is seeking renown; To 'longness he'd go, but he'll ha! ha! and he'll ha! He'll dance the Rep-Pop breakdown. Others there'll be, but betwixt you and me. I'll leave you to guess who's the clown Our Muse, with a sniff, will scorn the sheriff. And he'll dance the Rep-Pop breakdown.

Last Saturday morning I met the Hon. L. B. Pounds and I said "Hello, Bro. Pounds, how are you, you are looking well." "Why yes," he replied, "Republicanism agrees with me." "Humph!" said I, "Looking at you again, Bro. Pounds, you are not looking so well as I first thought. You have not a healthy appearance. You are bloated and puffed up with Republicanism. You need cleaning out. In the meantime take a few Democratic pills and on the fourth of November we will give you such a dose that will do you good for the next four years." Bro. Pounds is alright when he's abed and asleep.

Another gentleman I had the pleasure of meeting last Saturday morning was the new Editor of the new Thorsby Times. His name is Dennis? No, I don't mean that slang expression signifying he's gone up, but that is his real name—Mr. J. D. Dennis of Indiana. We had met before, a few weeks ago, when he had told me he was coming to Thorsby to start a Republican paper. "How are you?" said he. "First-class, thanks," said I. "How are you? I see you are here." "Yes," he replied, "I am here with both feet." "Well," said I, "I'm glad you are here with both feet, for you will need them to walk out of Chilton county in a very short time." I was going to tell him some more, but he was in a hurry and would not wait to hear it.

Thorsby, Sept. 26, 1902
Editor Banner—Please allow me space in your paper to say a few words in regard to those who are talking about the Democratic party and about the one who has gone to the Democratic party. If they will follow that man and do as much for the advancement and for the good and welfare of the people as that one man, they won't have any room to say anything about that man who has done so much for the people of Chilton county. Understand that I am one who says nothing about my fellowmen and about the Democratic party and those who have gone to the Democrats. Old Pop.

West Macedonia.

We are away up here near the county line, several miles from Clanton, yet we are not asleep.

Crops generally are below the average.

Mr. Joseph Waldrop is one exception to the rule, he has a fine corn crop.

Mr. Clayton Edwards of Lily attended church service here on the third Sunday.

Rev. S. N. Waldrop preached a good sermon in the school house here on the third Sunday.

Mr. J. H. Morgan is preparing to erect a saw mill near this place.

Ma. S. N. Waldrop is preparing to erect a new residence.

Our community is a good one. Peace abounds among us, our citizens are thrifty, while we may not be up with other parts of the county in everything, yet we are far from being asleep. Success to the right, always. CRIS.

Goes Like Hot Cakes.

"The fastest selling article I have in my store," writes druggist C. T. Smith of Davis, Ky., "is Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, because it always cures. In my six years of sales it has never failed. I have known it to save sufferers from throat and lung diseases, who could get no help from doctors or any other remedy." Mothers rely on it, best physicians prescribe it, and Clanton Drug Co., and F. A. Guldge, Verbena, guarantee satisfaction or refund price. Trial bottles 10c; regular sizes 50c and $1.

Notice of Application For Pardon.

Notice is hereby given that I will make application to the Governor of Alabama for the pardon of Will C. Raspberry, who was convicted of an assault with intent to murder, at the Spring Term 1902, of the Circuit Court of Chilton county, Alabama, and sentenced to imprisonment in the penitentiary for a term of two years.

J. P. RASBERRY.

Forty Years' Torture.

To be relieved from a torturing disease after 40 years' torture might well cause the gratitude of anyone. That is what DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve did for C. Hasey, Geneva, O. He says: "DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me of piles after I had suffered 40 years." Cures cuts, burns, wounds, skin diseases, Beware of counterfeits.

WANTED.

82 acres of good farm land for sale, four miles east of Clanton, one-quarter mile north of Smith Ferry road; 32 acres improved, 50 timbered. Very good four-room dwelling, lot buildings moderately good; orchard good. For further information, call on G. W. BLA LUCK, at residence mentioned.

WANTED—Two men to board, nice room, rates reasonable. Also day boarders. Thoroughbred Langshan eggs for sale at Mrs. GEORGE CLANTON.

FOR SALE—550 acres of land. ALFRED POWELL, Clanton, Ala.

YOU KNOW WHAT YOU ARE TAKING When you take Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic because the formula is plainly printed on every bottle showing that it is simply Iron and Quinine in a tasteless form. No Cure, No Pay. 50c.

Have your Photo made by Lyon & Baxley, over the Post Office, Clanton.

Stricken With Paralysis.

Henderson Grimet, of this place, was stricken with partial paralysis and completely lost the use of one arm and side. After being treated by an eminent physician for quite a while without relief, my wife recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and after using two bottles of it he is almost entirely cured.—Geo. R. McDONALD, Man, Logan county, W. Va. Several other very remarkable cures of partial paralysis have been effected by the use of this liniment. It is most widely known, however, as a cure for rheumatism, sprains and bruises. Sold by Hopkins Drug Co., and A. Horn, Thorsby.

IN INDIANA we believe mixed schools are common. Is the Editor of the Thorsby Times in favor of mixed schools here that is, does he believe in white folks and negroes being mixed up socially as they are in the State he has just left?
Please answer?

We are greatly inclined to think that the "Dyed in the wool" Republican from Indiana has been misled by some of our strenuous Republicans. We say, deliberately, that there is no room in Chilton
county for a Republican newspaper.
A few interested men may promise beautiful things for the future, but it is not possible for a Republican newspaper to pay expenses without a heavy subsidy from some source or other.

NUMBER one of the "Thorsby Times" duly reached us in a roundabout way last Saturday. It is a five column, eight page paper, published at one dollar a year. As a general rule we are always delighted to welcome anything that promises to be of an educational nature, and that is really the province of a newspaper. The editor and proprietor of the Thorsby Times has just arrived from Indiana and probably is not posted on political matters here. The editor announced at the recent Republican convention that he was
"A Republican, dyed in the wool",
so that we are not in the least surprised to find at the head of the editorial columns, the Republican State ticket. That is as it should be. But we are surprised and grieved that the Times at the outset deliberately tries to blind and deceive the people of Chilton county by following the State Republican ticket with a deceptive announcement of a Populist county ticket. Will the Times kindly tell us, in its next issue (providing one comes out) what is Mr. L. H.
Reynolds? Is he not a member of the Republican State Executive Committee? And if he is, why is he masquerading as a Populist in Chilton county? Are not the other candidates the Times is announcing as Populist, Republicans? If not, why do they not repudiate their Republican nomination? We are simply trying to make these things plain, and surely each of the candidates can say, through a Republican, where he is at.

A MALICIOUS RESOLUTION.

Resolved, That we endorse the Thors-by Times, a newspaper worthy of our support, and we condemn the methods of the Banner in its slanderous misrepresentation of the Populist party. A party that has made the Banner what it is, except that they did not give it the Democratic fever. Now this is the way
Mr. Crichton is paying us for what we have done for him. We therefore request the chairmen of our campaign committee to notify Mr. Crichton that we still have a Populist party, and request him to correct the false report that the Populist party is dead.

W. H. FRAW, Chm. & Sec.

The above reached us by mail
Tuesday morning, just as it is reproduced, with the following addenda:

Thorsby, Ala., Sept. 28, 1908
Editor Banner—Dear Sir: I send you
the above resolution as per request of our committee. Yours truly,
L. B. FOWLER.

This being all the information at our command, we presume it was a resolution passed at the meeting held at the court house last Saturday by a few men posing as the Populist party of Chilton county.
The very wording of it discloses its false and malicious aspect, and as it is directed toward me personally I shall drop the editorial "we"
and answer it in person.

If a few men like to meet and endorse a paper of which they know nothing whatever, and can only take for granted that it purposes to follow a certain course, that is their own affair with which I have nothing to do.

When the statement that "The Banner in its slanderous misrepresentation of the Populist party" is made, I unhesitatingly denounce it as false, and ask for one solitary instance in which the Banner has ever misrepresented the Populist party; the word "slanderous" was probably introduced by the drawer of the resolution having no knowledge of the meaning of words, and a very slight knowledge of anything else.

Again, "A party that has made The Banner what it is," is also not true, and I will prove it, more especially as regards some of the gentlemen who passed the foregoing resolution. As individuals I have found many friends among the Populists during my ten years sojourn in Chilton county, to whom I cannot adequately express my gratitude. As a party, I should like to know what the Populist party has ever done for The Banner.
Some of the individual members of the party subscribed for The Banner; to those who paid their subscriptions I most heartily express my thanks; to those who are still due for subscription I respectfully ask that they pass a resolution to come and pay up—that is a resolution I can heartily endorse.
Do I owe one single copper cent to any one of the party, or are not some of the gentlemen who passed the resolution in my debt at this moment? Not only for subscription but for other matters. Pass another resolution to pay what you owe, gentlemen, and there will be something in it.

Two years ago a Populist caucus was held in the court house at Clanton. I was summoned before that caucus and told that The Banner was not Populistic enough, and that they (the caucus) must have a Populist paper in the county. I told the caucus that if they must have a Populist paper in the county
I had nothing to say against it, but if they did not recognize the fact that the Populist party was dead, I did, and as to publishing a Populist paper as before I WOULD NOT DO IT! Was not that plain and straightforward enough? Was there any "slanderous misrepresentation" about that?

In the next issue of The Banner
I took my stand with the Democratic party, and so long as Democratic principles are to be maintained with them I remain. There is no "slanderous misrepresentation" about that.

Some months ago the gentlemen who passed the resolution against The Banner discovered that what I had told them two years since was a fact—the Populist party was dead, and Mr. L. H. Reynolds told them in a meeting at the court house, last December, that the only thing for the Populists to do was to go into the Republican party. It was published in The Banner at the time. Any "slanderous misrepresentation" about that?

Subsequently in a letter, published in the Banner, Mr. Reynolds again advised the Populists to go into the Republican party, telling them
they need only call themselves Republicans to get recognition from the Republican party, but that they could still be in reality Populists.
Any "slanderous misrepresentation" about that? If there is,
Mr. Reynolds is responsible, not
The Banner.

A few weeks since it was generally conceded that what The Banner said was true—the Populist party was dead, and it was decided to leave it to a vote of the Populists in this county to say whether they desired to continue the Populist organization or to go into the Republican party. A primary was held and the result was in favor of continuing the Populist organization. Any "slanderous misrepresentation" about that?

As a further result of the primary the Populists then held a convention and nominated a ticket.
No sooner were the nominations made than the nominees (L. H.
Reynolds and W. H. Conway in person, and the others were vouchered for, and have never repudiated
it) went before the Republican convention and pledged themselves to support the Republican ticket—
National, State and Congressional.
That certainly was a "slanderous misrepresentation" of the Populist party, but The Banner did not do it.

This action of the nominees did not take well with the honest Populists, and it was found that the only possible way to bring them to vote for the Republican nominees was to try and make them believe that the Populist organization was still intact, and to this end a meeting was quietly called among the faithful (great heavens—the faithful!) for last Saturday. I refer you to their own resolution wherein they find it necessary "to notify
Mr. Crichton that we still have a Populist party." Any "slanderous
misrepresentation" about that?
Yes, there is, but it does not emanate from The Banner.

The fact of the matter is this,
and I call to witness; L. H. Reynolds, Alex G. Dake, J. W. G.
Kicker, Buckner Harris, Jr.—each and every one over his own signature—the Populist party is dead,
and the meeting held last Saturday to proclaim it is still alive was neither more nor less than a "slanderous misrepresentation" of the defunct Populist party, which is enough to make it turn in its grave
and denounce the body-snatchers.
Last Saturday's meeting was a delusion and a snare to entrap the honest Populist into the Republican party, with all its concomitant evils. Those evils will be duly set forth in The Banner. You have known me for ten years; you know that I have never "slanderously misrepresented" anyone or anything, and, God being my judge, I never will. To the best of my knowledge and ability I have always told you that which I thought was best, always recognizing that what is good for you is good for me, and that which injures you will also injure me; if after due consideration your judgment so dictates, vote the Democratic ticket. If you carefully weigh all the considerations and then want to go with the Republicans, all I can say is God be with you, but, and this is all that I ever have asked you to do is, DO YOUR OWN THINKING, and "slanderous misrepresentations" will never hurt you, and they will never be made by Yours very respectfully
FRANK CRICHTON.

Eight cents a pound is

Minutes of Teachers' Institute

Held for white teachers, at Macedonia church, Sept. 26th and 27th, 1908.

Promptly at the appointed hour,
10:30 a.m., Friday, Sept. 26, County Superintendent Prof. J. W. Moore arrived and declared the institute in session.

The devotional exercises were conducted by Bro. Parrish, pastor-in-charge of Macedonia church, who also tendered to the teachers, in the name of his people, a cordial welcome. The Supt. then named Prof.
Tidwell, who responded to the welcome speech, whereupon followed the assigned work of the program.

Prof. V. J. Gragg presented the first subject, "The importance of impressing moral lessons upon pupils," and was discussed by Profs.
R. B. Waldrop, P. M. McKee, J. W.
Moore, Bro. Parrish and others.
Prof. Gragg emphasized the importance of moral impressions in laying the foundation for an education, which view was heartily sustained and repeatedly emphasized by the other speakers.

The names of the teachers were next enrolled, as follows: V. J.
Gragg, R. B. Waldrop, P. M. Mc-Kee, E. E. Tidwell, W. A. McCreless, Misses Huffstutler, Julia Parrish, J. W. Moore and James F.
McCreless, after which the institute adjourned until 1:30 p.m.

At 1:30 p.m. the institute re-assembled, having enjoyed during the interval, the royal bounty of Macedonia's hospitable people.

"Educational advantages" was placed before the institute by Prof.
W. A. McCreless and briefly exhibited by Profs. McKee and Tidwell.

The next question, "Influence and responsibility of the teacher,"
was very entertainingly treated,
through the request of Supt. Moore, by Prof. Murphy of the Jacksonville Normal School, Jacksonville, Ala., who arrived at the noon hour and figured very prominently in the work of the remainder of the institute.

"Plans for making the schoolroom attractive and interesting"
was introduced by James F. McCreless and further discussed by Prof.
Murphy and others.

The teachers being assigned homes
for the night, adjourned until 9:00 a.
m. the following day.

Saturday morning the institute was encouraged by the arrival of the following teachers: Profs. R. A.
Rasco, W. E. Johnston, J. M. Collier, G. L. Speer, and W. P. Pattillo.

The devotional services being conducted the question "Should dia-gramming be taught before parsing" was very generally discussed by the teachers present, the conclusion being that they should go "hand in hand".

Prof. R. A. Rasco of the Thorsby Normal School argued "The needs of the rural schools" claiming the most essential needs to be closer and more efficient supervision and local taxation. The Co. Supt. Prof. J. W.
Moore endorsed Prof. Rasco's remarks in a short talk, and was succeeded by Profs. Collier, McCreless, and Johnston who spoke of Alabama's large percentage of illiteracy and small capita payment for educational purposes, further emphasizing the need of local taxation.

The Co. Supt. called for a song which was followed by two excellent recitations by Misses Dora Tison and Camille Johnston of the Thorsby Normal School.

"What is a good teacher?" was next set before the institute in a plain, practical way by Prof. J. M.
Collier of the Clanton High School.

At this time Prof. W. E. Johnston, of the Thorsby School who was billed for an educational address manifested his good sense by rendering a comic song instead of the address.

The institute voted to carry the next teachers meeting to Jensen.

The committee on resolutions offered the following resolutions
which were adopted:

Whereas, the good people of Macedonia have so heartily welcomed us in their midst, and have so kindly and hospitably entertained us during this session of our institute, therefore be it resolved;

1. That the thanks of the teachers of Chilton County are due and hereby tendered to these good people for these kindnesses.

2. That we also tender our thanks to Prof. Murphy of Jacksonville Normal School, for his presence among us and for his able and interesting talk to us.

The institute then instructed the secretary to submit a copy of the proceedings of this institute to both Clanton and Thorsby papers with a request to publish the same.

KILLED IN MOBILE.

Two Murders Reported from Our Gulf City.

A MINER CUT TO PIECES BY A TRAIN.

Short State News Items Boiled Down for the Busy Public.

MURDERED SLEEPING WOMAN.

Mrs. Helen Dickson, of Mobile, Found Dead in Her Bed Choked to Death.

Mrs. Helen Dickson was foully murdered early Sunday morning by some unknown person, supposed to be a negro, bent on criminal assault. Death was due to strangulation. Miss Helen Robertson, her niece, and her 8-year-old son, Albert, were in the bed with her at the time.

The murderer climbed into the room through a window. Mr. J. B. Robertson, father of Miss Helen, occupied an adjoining room; the door of which was left open when the family retired, but which the murderer closed and braced with a chair. He also carried into the house an ax from the woodshed. Miss Helen Robertson gave the alarm, waking her father. He found Mrs. Dickson gasping for breath and devoted all his attention to her resuscitation, without avail.

Miss Robertson says she was first aroused by some one at her throat, but she pushed him away, when he struck her with something she could not determine the nature of by the dim light.

Cotton Handler Killed.

William Godeau, a cotton handler, living at Cottage Hill, ten miles west of Mobile, was killed early Sunday by some unknown person. Godeau, becoming aware of a disturbance in his yard, went out to investigate. Directly afterwards two reports of a gun were heard and neighbors who rushed to the scene found Godeau dead with two bullet holes in his head. Suspicion points toward a negro between whom and Godeau there had been trouble.

Bread Winner Gone.

Green Salters, a white miner, aged 40, met a horrible death in the mines, at Adger Saturday. A train of tram cars jumped the track and onto the cross-ties on which he was working and crushed him to death. He leaves a wife and several children.

The Deadly Crossing.

Six people were injured Saturday day afternoon, several seriously, when a train of five cars was backed into a street car at the crossing of the Louisville and Nashville railroad in Birmingham. The saddest is the case of little Martin Colosia, five years old, who had both legs broken, the right knee badly bruised, his chest seriously bruised and his head cut and lacerated. All the injured will recover.

One thousand dollars was the net profits on three acres of strawberries in the state.

Opelika will have a street fair the first week in October.

The Line in Service.

The steam Alamo of the Mallory line, the steamer inaugurating the freight and passenger service between New York and Mobile, arrived at Mobile Saturday afternoon with one thousand tons of freight.

Medics Meet.

The fourth annual meeting of the Tri-State Medical association of Alabama, Georgia and Tennessee will be held in Birmingham October 7, 8 and 9. A large number of delegates are expected and the officers of the association in Birmingham are busy arranging for the programme and the banquet which will be given at one of the hotels.

The state fair management has decided to close the gates of the fair on Sunday.

Huntsville new $25,000 public school's corner stone was laid Saturday afternoon by the Junior Order of United American Mechanics. This was the first school in Alabama at which a corner stone was laid. Dr. J. L. Cooper, national vice-chancellor of Texas, was the orator of the occasion.

General Chaffee and Mrs. Chaffee will sail for San Francisco on the United States transport Sumner within a week.

SEVERE STORM SMITE

Different Parts of the World Suffer Greatly.

THE APPALACHIAN PARK SCHEME

Great Railroad Combine—The News of the World Condensed.

How in Augusta.

Augusta, Ga., was visited Saturday by a sudden and severe windstorm, followed by rain. Signs were blown down and branches of trees torn off, but no serious damage has been reported. A wire was blown across the street and persons were severely burned when they caught hold of it.

At the Antipodes, Too.

A severe storm burst over Sicily Sunday and many houses were destroyed. It is now believed that two hundred persons perished at Modica during the tornado. The village of Sortino has been practically destroyed and forty-three persons were drowned. The water rose in the church to a height of twelve feet. The total damage as the result of the tornado is expected to amount to over $2,500,000.

Tobacco War Ends.

The tobacco war has been ended by the amalgamation of the American and British interests. An official statement covering the details and subscribed by the officers of both companies will be given out later. The capital of the consolidation is $30,000,000 and it has an annual business of 4,000,000,000 cigarettes.

ATLANTIC COAST LINE

Wants Louisville and Nashville. Morgan is Willing.

Plans are afoot for the purchase of the Louisville and Nashville railway system by the Atlantic Coast Line. These plans are in process of consummation, and, if carried out, as they likely will be, will result in the merging of two of the greatest systems in the South.

The plan as outlined is for the turning over of the 308,000 Louisville and Nashville railroad shares now deposited with J. P. Morgan & Co., to the Atlantic Coast Line company, of Connecticut, a securities concern for the Atlantic Coast Line Railway company. The syndicate is to pay $150 a share, or $45,900,000 for the control, and is expected to deliver to the Atlantic Coast Line company the 308,000 shares. In payment, the syndicate shall receive, first, $10,000,000 in cash; second, $35,000,000 in 4 per cent collateral trust bonds of the Atlantic Coast Line company, secured by deposit of Louisville and Nashville stock; third, $5,000,000 in Atlantic Coast Line company's stock.

Extract Plant Burned.

A special from Big Stone Gap, Va., says: The large extract plant of the United States Leather company at this place was destroyed by fire. The loss will reach $150,000. The plant was built three years ago and was one of the best industries the town had. The fire originated from the friction of a wooden pulley.

Pipe Line for Kentucky.

The Standard Oil company has begun its million dollar pipe line in Kentucky, which runs from Parkersburg, West Va., through different receiving and pumping stations, to Somerset, Ky., a distance of 300,000.

Coal Mine Census.

An official report of accidents which occurred in mining coal in eighteen states and territories during 1901 gives the total number men injured as 3,643. The average number of tons mined for each life lost was 188,668. There were 443,544 employees in the coal mines of the United States in 1901 who made an average of 216 working days as compared with 448,582 men with an average of 212 working days in 1900. In 1901 145,309 men were employed in anthracite mines with an average working time of 196 days, and 340,235 men in bituminous mines with average working time of 235 days.

The clearings of the Birmingham banks for last week amounted to $1,233,361.27, as against $885,337.27 for the corresponding week in 1901. The clearings for the week ending Saturday, September 24, 1902—a week ago yesterday—was $902,000. The large increase is indicative of the solid prosperity of the Birmingham district.

Supreme Court Schedule.

Col. Ligon, clerk to the supreme court, has issued schedule for the call of the divisions at the ensuing term of the court as follows:

First division—Cases from the counties of Baldwin, Clarke, Mobile, Monroe and Washington, second Monday in November, 1902, and first Monday in April 1903, may continue one week.

Second division—Cases from the counties of Bibb, Choctaw, Dallas, Greene, Hale, Marengo, Perry, Sumter and Wilcox, second Monday after the fourth Monday in January, and the seventh Monday after the fourth Monday in April, 1903, and may continue one week.

AFTER MANY YEARS

On Tuesday, the furnace of the Southern Car and Foundry company at Gadsden, will be blown in. This furnace has been idle for ten years, and was thought to be worthless until Captain Elliott thought differently and purchased it for the Southern Car and Foundry company and there now stands one of the largest and best charcoal furnaces in the South. The electric plant has just been finished. There are fifty incandescent and twenty arc lights. The material for twenty barges has been delivered and work of constructing them will begin at once. The company will buy one of the boats now on the river for the present needs and later, build several. The rebuilding of this furnace is only a forerunner of the development that is soon to follow. As soon as the furnace is in satisfactory running order the company will begin the erection of another.

The Louisville and Nashville railroad company has had new seventy-pound steel rails, imported from Germany, laid between Flomaton and Pensacola, and will use heavier engines to haul export freight.

Appalachian Park.

A convention of the Appalachian National Park Association has been called to meet at Asheville, N. C., Saturday, October 25. The convention is for the promotion of the scheme to have congress appropriate funds sufficient to purchase about 10,000,000 acres of mountain timber lands in the Appalachian range in North Carolina, eastern Tennessee and Georgia, for a national forest reserve. Butherford Preston Hayes, son of the former president, is president of the association.

A railroad is projected from Appalachicola to River Junction, Fla.

In New Hands.

The William J. Gordon Chemical company of Cincinnati have purchased the Round Mountain furnace near Leesburg and will put same in blast at once. The furnace has been idle several years.

James Wilcox, alleged murderer of Nellie Cropper, at Raleigh, N. C., is granted a new trial.

Right On Will Be

Joseph Emers, a well known young man of Vickburg, Miss., Sunday afternoon shot and seriously wounded Miss Rosa Borodofsky, at Memphis, and, turning the weapon upon himself inflicted what is thought to be a fatal wound. Emers, it is said, had asked Miss Borodofsky to marry him. It is presumed that the young lady did not look with favor upon his suit and so informed him. He then fired at the girl, inflicting a serious wound in the chin. Emers then turned the weapon to his breast and fired, the bullet passing through the lungs. Physicians expect him to die.

Commander Sacrifices.

Lieutenant Commander William V. Bronough of the United States navy committed suicide Tuesday on the battleship Keokuk at the navy yard by blowing out his brains with a revolver. Friends of Commander Bronough believe that he was very much worried over the manifold duties of his position as commanding officer, which are considered to be more arduous than those of any other position or rank in the navy.

The cabinet has held a conference to consider a means of settling the great coal strike, but nothing has been definitely decided upon.

Bids were submitted for the stat printing Tuesday.

Seventy-five distinct earthquake shocks were felt in Mexico last week. At Santa Cruz a huge tidal wave leaped forward from the sea lifting thirty and fifty ton blocks like cockle shells and sweeping the Titan crane over into the sea. The wave invaded part of the town destroying some of its houses. The loss from the breaking down of the new sea wall and the sweeping away of the huge crane will be a half million dollars.

A second expedition has moved against the Moro position at Maein, island of Mindanao. It is in command of Capt. John J. Pershing of the Fifteenth infantry.

The protected cruiser Des Moines was launched at Quincy Point, Mass. She is the first large vessel to be built on the Bay State shore since the days of the frigate Constitution.

Departments at Odds.

The disagreement between the post office department and the bureau of printing and engraving at Washington continues and complaints are now made by the former that the bureau's postoffice work in favor of treasury printing. It is charged that the stamp books which have proved such a success in spite of the disparagement of the idea by the bureau are so poorly made that they may have to be given up.

Never Married on Earth.

A special from Stony Creek, Va., says: The dead bodies of R. B. Mitchell and Miss Mabel Lee, prominent young people of this place, were found in the woods near this place. They had both been killed by a pistol wound and the revolver was found lying between them. It is understood that the two left home to be married.

A new telephone line is nearly completed and will connect with all the towns in the Gaillard district with the main office at Yancy. The system is a toll line, but some of the merchants have secured rates to cover the entire territory.

BOERS' APPEAL FOR AID

Generals Botha, Delarey and De Wet Issue a Manifesto.

"Our Country is Completely Laid Waste, They Say—Contributions Asked to Alleviate Terrible Distress."

Amsterdam, Holland.—The Boer Generals Botha, De Wet and Delarey have issued a manifesto in the shape of an appeal to the civilized world. This document recalls how, after the terrible struggle in South Africa, and the Boers were compelled to accept the British terms of peace, the Generals were commissioned to proceed to England and appeal to the new Government to allow the distress which is devastating the colonies, and, in the event of the failure of the mission, to appeal to the civilized world for charitable contributions.

Continuing, the Generals say that having failed to induce Great Britain to grant further assistance, it only remains for them to address themselves to the people of Europe and America. After setting forth how sweet it had been, during the critical days they had passed through, to receive constant marks of sympathy, the Generals take this opportunity to express, on behalf of the people of the late republics, fervent thanks to all those who had assisted charitably the women and children in the concentration camps, prisoners, etc.

"The small Boer nation," goes on the manifesto, "can never forget the help it received in its dark hours of suffering. Our people are completely ruined. It has been impossible to make a complete inventory, but we are convinced that at least 30,000 houses on Boer farms and many villages were burned or destroyed by the British during the war. Everything was destroyed and the country was completely laid waste. The war demanded many victims, the land was bathed in tears, and our orphans and widows were abandoned. We are appealing to the world for contributions to assist the destitute and help in the education of children."

The Generals repudiate all desire to inflame the minds of the people, and declare: "The sword is now sheathed, and all differences are silent in the presence of such great misery."

They say the small amount given by Great Britain, even if multiplied tenfold, would not suffice to cover the war losses alone. "We solicit the hearty co-operation," concludes the manifesto, "of all existing committees in the various countries which we are on the point of visiting with the object of establishing a satisfactory organization."

UNEARTH A SMALL FORTUNE.

Two Young Men Consult a Chart and Dig Up $11,000 in Bills in Ohio.

Toledo, Ohio.—The neighboring village of Alexis has a matter that is puzzling the authorities. Two young men, giving their names as George L. Miller, of Philadelphia, and Henry Anderson, of New York City, after consulting a chart, dug up a package covered with oilcloth, in which was more than $11,000 in currency and bills. The money is supposed to be part of the spoils of several recent county bank and postoffice robberies.

The two young men on arriving at Alexis secured some implements for digging and went into the woods, where the money was unearthed. A couple of farmer lads followed them and were peremptorily ordered back. This whetted their curiosity, and they told to or three men in the community, and a small party followed at a distance and kept watch on the young men.

A local constable appeared on the scene and made the young men show what they had found. Before any action could be taken they boarded an east-bound train with their treasure and were gone.

HOPED ROOSEVELT WOULD DIE.

Indianapolis Policeman Relieved From Duty For an Alleged Remark.

Indianapolis, Ind.—Jesse Street, a bicycle man on the police force, was suspended by Superintendent Taffe and charged formally preferred against him to the Board of Public Safety for expressing the wish that President Roosevelt would die. Street had been on duty all day and was at the time with the emergency force at the station house under orders to go to the President's train at any moment that a call should come in. It is charged that he said to several patrolmen, after the President was taken to the hospital, that he wished the President would die. When his words were reported his star was taken from him.

BANK'S MONEY WENT ON RACES.

Missing Teller's Shortage Discovered to Be $100,000.

Paterson, N. J.—An investigation by the officials of the First National Bank discloses the fact that Walter Edge, a note teller, who disappeared two months ago, had stolen over $100,000. It was at first given out that the shortage was only $20,000. He had suspected, when he was summoned before the cashier, that his peculations had been discovered, and he left the bank building by a rear entrance, taking all the money in sight. The money he stole he squandered in stocks and in pool rooms in New York City, sending money each day by registered mail for bets on horses.

Tornado in Indiana.

A tornado swept across a section of Indiana. It covered a swath about two miles wide and destroyed farm dwellings, barns, growing crops and timber. The wind was followed by a hail storm.

Venezuela and England at Odds.

It was announced in London that diplomatic relations between Venezuela and Great Britain might be severed at any moment, the principal cause of the trouble being a dispute over the ownership of Petre Island.

GOV. ODELL RENOMINATED

Ticket Named by Republican State Convention at Saratoga, N. Y.

PLEGGED TO SUPPORT ROOSEVELT

Senator F. W. Higgins Second on the Ticket—The Platform Commends Roosevelt, Advocate State Purchase of Adirondack and Catskill Lands and Improvement in Canals—For Roosevelt in 1904.

Saratoga, N. Y., The Republican convention named its ticket for Governor, F. W. Higgins, of Saratoga, and for Lieutenant Governor, John G. W. Brown, of Madison. Contrasting with the ticket of Cortland, Engineer F. A. Johnson, and Jefferson, Judge of the Court of Appeals, W. E. Warner, of Saratoga. State Senator Ellsworth, who had been called to the attention of the committee on Roosevelt, who read the platform, which was adopted promptly.

Senator Loxton then moved for nominating Governor Odell, who was followed by John L. Rogers, of New York City, who seconded the nomination.

The only roll call of the day was on the question of Odell's nomination. Chairman Ellsworth, standing upon that, but abrogating the rule in the cases of other candidates.

Frank W. Higgins was named for Lieutenant Governor by acclamation, and so were the remainder of the candidates.

With the completion of the ticket came a flood of resolutions authorizing the appointment of committees, thanking the Citizens' Committee of Saratoga, the officers of the convention, etc. A committee, headed by Senator Platt, was named to notify the candidates, and it was announced that it would meet in Albany on October 2 for that purpose. The names of the members of the new State committee were announced, and at 1 o'clock p. m. the convention adjourned sine die.

The platform starts out with a tribute to McKinley, an endorsement of the National administration, favoring Roosevelt's renomination to the Presidency in 1904, praise for the Army and Navy for restoring order in the Philippines, and continues as to Cuba and the insular possessions.

"We favor the reciprocity with that new republic proposed by the Republicans in Congress, giving effective relief to Cuba and substantial benefits to our own people without harm to the American industry."

"We believe that our new possessions should be accorded such measure of self-government as their development, in the course of time, may require. We commend the Executive for laying the foundation of social order, education and local government in the Philippines. We commend the action of Congress in securing the fundamental and personal rights, in terms borrowed from the Constitution of the United States, for the election of a legislative assembly, chosen by the people."

Turning to State affairs, the platform warmly commends the administration of Governor Odell and advocates improvements of roads and the canals of the latter it says:

"The one obstacle to the prompt consummation of necessary improvements is the constitutional prohibition against long extensions of the bonded debt of the State. The alternative of direct yearly taxation upon the people."

"The Republican party, having already rendered a direct tax almost necessary, believes that these improvements should not be the cause of imposing such a tax upon the people and that without imposing unnecessary burdens upon individuals or other interests, there should be an extension of time in which payment of the principal and the money for the payment of the yearly interest should be provided."

"We favor, as the first step toward these improvements, an extension of the Constitution of the time within which such payments shall be made. To secure these preliminaries the consent of the people must be first obtained and we favor such legislation as will afford them an opportunity to pass upon these important questions."

"We believe that the policies inaugurated by a Republican Legislature and by a Republican Governor, who are giving to the State a better system of highways, should be continued. We believe in the enlargement and improvement of the canals to such an extent as will fully and adequately meet all requirements of commerce, the expense of such improvement, however, to be met through sources of revenue other than by direct taxation."

Protection is insisted and only condemnations of an oppressive nature are speedily adjudicated in cases in which courts are advocated, and in the case of State institutions the highest and without extravagance is supported. Governor Odell's changes in the management of these institutions are commended.

The conservation of the forest is urged, and the purchase of lands within the State is favored.

Four Killed in a Flood.—The Brooks and the McFarland trains settled an old feud at Indian Ford, and as a result four were shot dead and a fifth was wounded. The dead are William Ford and John Brooks, of the Brooks faction, and Eddie of the McFarland faction. Joe McFarland was wounded.

Finding Pole a Question of Honor.—Lieutenant Perry said the question of finding the North Pole was a question of money, and that money was the question.

Dog Police.
For some time the Ghent police have been using trained dogs to aid them in their avocations, and the plan has been attended with much success. It has, too, this advantage about it that the use of dogs has enabled the municipality to dispense with the use of more men who would otherwise have been needed. And a dog costs but 20 a day to feed. The training of the animals is found far less troublesome than was supposed, and there has to be taken in selecting dogs with a suitable disposition. They are specially employed in searching dark and narrow places difficult to reach where dangerous characters may be concealed. Their leaping power in scaling walls are found of great use. They are trained to pursue persons fleeing to the water to escape, and those who take to their heels.—London Chronicle.

A FIEND'S COWARDLY ACT.

Farmer, His Wife and Her Unborn Babe Shot to Death on Public Highway.

George Bundrick shot and killed John J. Shrouder Wednesday morning while the latter, with his wife, was proceeding in a buggy to their home near Raleigh, Ga.

Bundrick had claimed that a negro on Shrouder's place had stolen his pocket knife and had undertaken to arrest three of Shrouder's hands. Shrouder offered to pay for the knife in order that his farm force should not be interfered with at this time. Bundrick accused Shrouder of siding with the negroes. Shrouder said he would meet Bundrick as soon as he could take his wife home. They then parted.

Wednesday morning as Shrouder was going from the station with his wife, in a buggy, he met Bundrick in the road a short distance from the station and, without any warning, Bundrick emptied both barrels of a shotgun in Shrouder's face, killing him instantly. Bundrick either intentionally shot Mrs. Shrouder, or she was hit by stray buckshot from the load fired at her husband.

The shooting caused the horse to run away, and Mrs. Shrouder and her husband were thrown in the road.

Mrs. Shrouder, with her unborn babe, was mortally injured by the shot and the fall.

MATHIS AND LESTER DIE.

White Man and Negro Swing from Same Gallows in Mississippi.

At Oxford, Miss., Wednesday Will Mathis (white) and Orlando Lester, colored, were hanged for the murder of the Montgomery brothers.

On the 16th of last November, Deputy United States Marshals John A. and Hugh Montgomery went out 15 miles east of Oxford to arrest Will Mathis, upon the charge of illicit distilling. It was learned that the officers arrived at Mathis' about sundown and although it was Saturday, Mathis was engaged in killing a hog. He met the officers at his gate and they proceeded to read a writ to him and informed him that they would take him on to Oxford that night. Mathis requested them to let him finish cleaning the dog, so his wife would have something to eat while he was gone.

The officers went into the house and that is the last known of them, of which any one is sure, until their charred and mutilated bodies were found in the ashes of Mathis' burned house next morning.

The negro, Orlando Lester, was helping Mathis and Bill Jackson was also on the premises. The part each played in the tragedy has been told differently by each one concerned. Mathis claims that Whit Owens loaned the negro a gun and told him to shoot the officers, which he did against Mathis' will. Lester claims that he was sent for the gun by Will Mathis and that Bill Jackson did the shooting. Bill Jackson said he left before the killing took place and Owens has never made any statement at all.

After the Montgomerys were killed, Mathis took his wife to her father, Whit Owens, and returned with Owens and Lester and burned the house in order to hide the bodies of the two murdered men. The bodies were mutilated and burned, but no one will probably ever know the details.

BIRD DOGS.

Some of the Almost Human Work They Do in the Field.

Reading denotes that a dog is following a trail toward the birds by their footprints, as a man; in an analogous manner might follow a flock of sheep by watching their tracks. Drawing denotes that a dog is approaching birds by the scent in the air as a man might follow a flock of sheep by a long line of dust hovering over and around their trail. Drawing is considered a much superior manner to reading. It is commonly marked by greater accuracy, quickness of execution, and dash of manner. Pointing is the stoop which the dog makes when he has definitely located the birds, or when he thinks he has done so. It is the preliminary pause to accurately determine the whereabouts of the hidden birds before he springs to capture. If he misjudges and springs in the wrong direction, all his pains and labor come to nothing. In his training, he is encouraged to point, but is prohibited springing, so that after a time he makes his point and holds it stanchly. If by any act, willful or otherwise, he alarms the birds and they take wing it is called a flush. If the dog, when going up wind on game, flushes the birds, he commits an error; if under certain circumstances he flushes when going down wind the error may be excused on the ground that being up wind of them it was impossible to scent them and therefore impossible to know of their presence.—From Field Trials for Setters and Pointers, in Outing.

THE BABY GREBE.

A Beautiful Bird That Suffers To Help the Fashions.

When you see a woman with a band of white plumage almost invisibly united with blue and green and more strongly with golden brown ornamenting her hat, know that from one to six of these harmless, lovable, sweet voiced little grebes were stripped from chin to vent to supply it. And when you see that other woman wearing a cape the collar of which reaches above her ears and the skirt to her shoulders, and it seems to be made up of almost indiscernible sections the size of your hand, know that each section stands for the life of one of these charming little chattering. The breast of the grebe is its curse. Its feathers are so tiny and fine as to be almost spineless, so thickly set they stand on end, and so delicately colored as to render adequate description impossible. Crested grebes are killed without mercy for this little patch of rare feathering, and the little marsh ones do not escape. There is no bird slaughter for plumage more wanton, unless it be that of the grebe which takes the life of the brooding bird for a few beautiful feathers found on the shoulders only at nesting time and leaves the young to die as they may.—From Music of the Marsh in Outing.

A Lucky Black Opal.

A correspondent writes: "Apropos of your stories relating to strange 'cures' and the efficacy of 'charms,' perhaps the following may be of some interest. Many years ago a well-known public man of the present day was persistently dogged by misfortune. Try how he would he simply could not make headway, and to cap all his sorrows, the lady to whom he did the honor to offer his heart and hand refused him! In despair he went abroad during his wanderings he happened upon an old Indian fakir, to whom for some reason or other he gave an account of the troubles which ever seemed to beset him. The old man told him not to worry any more, as the only thing he need do was to get a 'black opal.' Thinking that there would, at all events, be no harm done by following this advice, the man of misfortune acted upon it. Very shortly afterward matters took a turn for the better, and gradually improved until the possessor of the lucky stone became a rich man. Afterward he returned home; once more he offered himself to the lady of his heart, who subsequently married him, and he now, as I have stated, occupies a prominent, not to say enviable, position."—London Chronicle.

A Pigeon's Mother's Wrath.

The pigeon breeder stood in his pigeon yard and in the blue sky above him a hundred of his birds flew this way and that. "Did you ever see a mother pigeon whipping a little one?" the breeder asked. "Well, that is a funny sight. The mother makes a low, quick sound in her throat, for all the world like 'You bad child! You bad child!' and then she beats the squab over the head with her wings. The squab squeals; the scene suggests a human mother boxing her child's ears. Sometimes the father interferes. 'I think, Mary,' he says, 'you have punished the poor child enough,' and with a reproachful manner he shoulders his wife gently away. It is usually her fault, you know, and she has no business to get angry. For the trouble all arises over the squab's feeding, when the mother puts the food in its mouth with her bill. The squab, being hungry, shuts down on the food too soon and hurts mamma. But she shouldn't get angry, for the little fellow hasn't hurt her on purpose."—Philadelphia Record.

The Sense of Humor.

I regard a sense of humor as one of the most precious gifts that can be vouchsafed to a human being. He is not necessarily a better man for having it, but he is happier one. It renders him indifferent to good or bad fortune. It enables him to enjoy his own discomfiture. Blessed with this sense he is never unduly elated or cast down. No one can ruffle his temper. No abuse disturbs his equanimity. Bored to not bore him. Humbug does not humbug him. Solemn airs do not impose on him. The mental gush does not influence him. The follies of the moment have no hold on him. Titles and decorations are but childish baubles in his eyes. Prejudice does not warp his judgment. He is never in conceit or out of conceit with himself. He abhors all dogmatism. The world is a stage on which actors strut and fret for his edification and amusement, and he pursues the even current of his way, invulnerable, doing what is right and proper according to his lights, but utterly indifferent whether what he does finds approval or disapproval from others. If Hamlet had any sense of humor he would not have been a nuisance to himself and to all surrounding him.—London Truth.

Mrs. Eckis Stevenson of Salt Lake City Tells How Operations for Ovarian Troubles May Be Avoided.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I suffered with inflammation of the ovaries and womb for over six years, enduring aches and pains which none can dream of but those who have had the same experience. Hundreds of dollars went to the doctor and the druggist. I was simply a walking medicine chest and a physical wreck. My sister residing in Ohio wrote me that she had been cured of womb trouble by using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and advised me to try it. I then discontinued all other medicines and gave your Vegetable Compound a thorough trial. Within four weeks nearly all pain had left me; I rarely had headaches, and my nerves were in a much better condition, and I was cured in three months, and this avoided a terrible surgical operation."—Mrs. ECKIS STEVENSON, 250 So. CLANTON, ALA. THURSDAY OCTOBER 9, 1902

NO. 51

THE MAN ON THE CORNER

Some of the Rights He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.

It always gives me pleasure to acknowledge any appreciation of my poor efforts to entertain you, and as the Thorsby Times appears to hold in high regard my jingles, which it honors by designating "poetry," I think it is entitled to a "poem" on its own account, and so it shall have one. Here it is:

O, the Times, the Thorsby Times, How easy it flings how glibly it rhymes It's price is a dollar, 't would be dear at two dimes.

The Republican road that it travels, the hill that it climbs Is not much in favor in these Southern climes.

CHORUS—(Altogether.) Tight times, tough times await the Times of Thorsby. Troubled times, fearful times before it goes to wreck, Tangled times, twisted times all this is before thee Before you, like the chicken, get it in the neck.

And Lewis is backing the Thorsby Times And whatever he says, the Times it chimes. It's really quite funny the way Lewis primes His new friend on the Democrats terrible crimes And what he has done for the people betimes.

CHORUS—(Altogether.) Trite times, trivial times, twaddling times of Thorsby. Tattered times, transparent times, you never can make a go, Touched times, tumbled times, trafficked times of Thorsby. Tight times and tooting times you're very much too slow.

And the two L's together are the props of the Times, As actors they'd flourish in gay pantomimes. I'll have to quit now for I'm hard up for rhymes There's nought I can think of but slimes and begrimes, And these we'll not mention in these ticklish times.

CHORUS—(Altogether.) Thoughtless times, thriftless times, throttled times of Thorsby. Tarnished times and tattered times at the election's state, Transient times, trashy times, tricky times of Thorsby, Chilton county needs you not, your name's already "Dinnia."

A Card From T. U. Crumpton.
Clanton, Ala., Oct. 8, 1902
Editor Banner—Please say that to-day for the first time I see Mr. Reynolds' invitation for me to meet him at a number of appointments in the Thorsby Times, and I could not have known it now, but I came to the Association and found it. Please say that I did not know of the existence of the paper until some one told me, and I sent a dollar to get it so as to see if what I heard was true as to the appointments. Please say I am still unwell, but I will avail myself of the invitation as often as my health will allow, and I wish he had written me personally.

Death of Mr. Durward Foshee.

Mr. Durward Foshee passed away to the better land Wednesday morning, after battling with fever for eight weeks at the home of his parents at Clanton, where all that devoted hearts could do was done for him. Durward was only 27 years of age; he was a great favorite with all, and always had a kind smile and cheery word for everyone. The funeral is arranged for Thursday afternoon. The bereaved ones have our deepest sympathy; their loved one is "not lost but gone before."

Lily, Sept. 30, 1902

Editor Banner—Please allow me space in your paper to state to the voters of Chilton county who supported me in the primary on the 13th inst., that I extend my sincere thanks to them for their support, and kindly solicit their aid in the general election. If elected, I will show a higher appreciation of their support in faithfully discharging the duties of the office to which I aspire, to the best of my ability.

J. L. WILLIAMS.

To the People of Chilton County:
I stated my views to the people of the county some weeks ago. I felt then it was my duty to let the people know where I could be found, and I had hoped that when I had made my position known that I would have no more to say in this county campaign. But I find the opposition instead of discussing the public issues, are discussing my position, and making statements that are misleading.

Mr. Reynolds says, in a letter published in the Thorsby Times, of October 2, 1902, "I thought it best to go straight into the Republican party and have only one organization." Now, Lewis, if you would stand by that proposition, "go straight into the Republican party" and not undertake to deceive the people, by pretending that we have a Populist party, men of all parties would have more confidence in you. Yes, to have gone straight into the Republican party would have been far more honorable than to have first told the people that the Populist party was dead, and when you found that some of us would not follow you and that quite a number of good men were halting, you went to work to get the Populist committee called together for the sole purpose of having them declare the Populist party intact. Now tell us when you were in earnest, when you were telling the people that the Populist party was dead and that they had best go straight into the Republican party, or when you now tell them that they have a party, and undertake to deceive them by referring to the committee that perhaps never would have met had it not been that you urged them to meet. The chairman refused to call it. Did you call? You ask the question, "Did not the same Republicans endorse Mr. Adams four years ago? Was he not proud to get their endorsement?"

You know that there was no Republican convention four years ago and that they did not endorse me. You belittle yourself to wonder if my not being put on the committee is the cause of my thinking that there is no committee, when you well know that I have never denied the formal existence of a committee. Neither have I denied presiding over the convention or the nomination of candidates. You know that I know that all this was done, and you know that it is the attitude of that same ticket toward the Republican party that caused me to refuse to support the ticket. You know that the Populist party in this county is being used to build up the Republican party, and you know that such was not the case when we co-operated with the Republicans heretofore. Then we had a State organization; now we have none, and you are on the Republican executive committee to execute plans to advance the interests of the Republican party and one of your plans is to cry aloud "I am a Populist" in the county and a Republican in the State. You wire in and wire out, but no man can tell whether the snake that made the track is going in or coming back.

We had quite a large crowd out on Sunday to hear a most excellent sermon by our worthy Pastor, Bro. Till Deason.

We have reorganized our Sabbath-school at this place; hope we will have a good attendance. Prayermeeting every Saturday night. We like to see all come out and carry on the good work.

Mr. Lee Hayes of Lily was with us Sunday.

Miss Manda Hall of Clanton is visiting her friend, Miss Belle McCary, of this place.

Mr. Robert Martin is in our midst to-day.

There was quite an excitement around here over a wild beast of some kind roaming about the woods. It has been seen several times by some of the boys, who say it resembles a panther; they shot at the beast and it ran off howling. Search is being made for whatever it is.

Report on County Treasurer's Books

State of Alabama }
Chilton County. }

To the Honorable S. M. Adams, Judge of Probate in and for Chilton county:

I, W. T. Callen, appointed heretofore by your Honor, under and by virtue of the requirement of section 1433 of the code of 1896, of Alabama, to examine the books and vouchers of the Treasurer of Chilton county, and to report the condition of the same, ask leave to report as follow, to-wit:

I have carefully examined said books, covered by the period of time, from the 10th day of July 1901, to the 10th day of September, 1902, inclusive of both dates, and I find that all money received by said Treasurer has been properly accounted for, and that all vouchers have been correctly entered, as required by law; that said books have been well kept, and are in good condition.

Respectfully submitted,
W. T. CALLEN, Examiner.

Forty Years' Torture.

To be relieved from a torturing disease after 40 years' torture might well cause the gratitude of anyone. That is what DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve did for C. Haney, Geneva, O. Stricken With Paralysis.

Henderson Grimes, of this place, was stricken with partial paralysis and completely lost the use of one arm and side. After being treated by an eminent physician for quite a while without relief, my wife recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and after using two bottles of it he is almost entirely cured.—Geo. R. McDONALD, Man, Logan county, W. Va. Several other very remarkable cures of partial paralysis have been effected by the use of this liniment. It is most widely known, however, as a cure for rheumatism, sprains and bruises. Sold by Hopkins Drug Co., and A. Horn, Thorsby.

"An address to the voters of Chilton county" is before us, but who is making the address is not stated. It may come from a Republican or from President Roosevelt, L. H. Reynolds or L. B.
Pounds, or it may be from some ignoramus who knows not of what he is speaking. There is nothing in the address to elucidate us. It is a wretched compound of the English language, without rhyme or reason, wretchedly printed, replete with errors, and shows an utter ignorance of the political affairs of Chilton county.

The only way in which it can be identified is by the imprint "Thors-by Times Print," so it may be presumed to have originated with the Thorsby Times.

There is nothing to be said against the Thorsby Times issuing an address to the voters of Chilton county, except ignorance, and the address itself displays an endless amount of that. We offer an apology to President Roosevelt, it could not have possibly come from that gentleman. We will not attempt to quote it, the phraseology is too bad, and the orthography fearful.

It is a miserable attempt to mislead the people of Chilton county, and as it has not the audacity to bear a proper signature, or even to say by whom it is issued, we can only treat it as an irresponsible production. When a man, or a number of men, desire to place facts before the people, it is nothing more than reasonable to presume they are willing to attach their signatures to the document, and when they decline to do so it is reasonable to suppose they cannot substantiate their claims. We do not believe that "an address to the voters of Chilton county" has ever before been issued to the people of Chilton county without signature of some sort except an imprint. When this "address," coming from the Lord knows where, is issued, it can only be considered as an attempt to mislead and betray.

Goos Like Hot Cakes.

"The fastest selling article I have

Smith of Davis, Ky., "is Dr. King's

Coughs and Colds, because it always cures. In my six years of sales it has never failed. I have known it to save sufferers from Throat and Lung diseases, who could get no
help from doctors or any other remedy." Mothers rely on it, best physicians prescribe it, and Clanton

bena, guarantee satisfaction or refund price. Trial bottles 10c; reg-

CONSISTENCY.

FOLLOWING is an extract from a letter of Mr. L. H. Reynolds in the Thorsby Times of last week:

Now let me say to the Populists, I gave you my views last December but you did not see as I did. I thought it best to go straight into the Republican party and have only one organization. Some of the leaders took issue with me and the result was we had a primary to get an expression from the people on this subject, and on August 22d when the vote was counted and the majority said
we would keep up the Populist organization, I said "boys, I'm with you," and that I would follow the Populist party down to the last ditch, and so I will.
You nominated your ticket and placed me at its head, and so help me God, your banner will not trail in the dust while I carry it. Now, all this rot about one man carrying you into the Republican party, let me say right here the people of Chilton cannot be led about by any one man and if some men will stay over here a while longer they will find it a hard matter to lead you in the Democratic party.

There you have it! And now
The Banner would like to ask where is the consistency of Mr.
Reynolds? He owns himself that he advised Populists to become Republicans; they voted against that proposition, and refused to go into the Republican party, so Mr.
Reynolds said "Boys, I'm with you." Did he stay? Not for many minutes! It really appears that if the Populists would not be persuaded by Mr. Reynolds to become Republicans in one way, he was determined to make them Republicans in another.

We have no argument to make against Mr. Reynolds being a Republican—that he has every right to be if he so desires. But he has no right to be posing as a Populist as well as a Republican, and it is this inconsistency we refer. On Friday night last, at a public meeting at Collins Chapel, Mr. Reynolds would neither say he was a Populist or a Republican, all he would say was that he was an "anti Democrat." Very well, then, we will allow that Mr. Reynolds is an "anti Democrat."

Have we come to such a pass in Chilton county that because Mr.
Reynolds is an "anti Democrat" that any Populist who ever believed in the principles of the Populist party is to be dragged into the Republican party? Because that is really what is meant by following Mr. Reynolds as an "anti Democrat."

Let him be an "anti Democrat," and let every other man who wishes to be fog himself with the same idea become a Republican, for that is the only logical sequence, but that is not the slightest reason why the true Populist should also become an "anti Democrat."

Time after time, again and again,
the charge has been made by Populists that the decadence of the Populist party was due to the fact that the "Democrats had stolen the Populist platform." Is not that so?
There's a heap of truth in that charge; the Democratic party has already incorporated some of the leading principles of the Populist party in its platform. Is that a reason for any Populist to turn Republican? And the probabilities are that the other principles of the Populist party will in due time become planks of the Democratic platform. The signs of the times point that way. Only a few days ago, the New York Democratic convention adopted a resolution that the government should assume control of natural monopolies. Is not that a Populist principle? Have you ever heard of the Republicans, anywhere and at any time, adopting one single Populist idea? Have you?

Then, if the principles for which you have been contending can only be carried through the Democratic party, is that a reason why you should go against that party and join Mr. Reynolds as an "anti Democrat?" If you really and truly believe in the principles of the Populist party, can you possibly bring yourself to vote for the Republicans? Men of Chilton, is it possible? No! Never! The question is absurd. No man who ever honestly believed in the principles of Populism can ever by any means be induced to go against those principles by voting for any Republican candidate. Democracy and Populism are synonymous. The honest Populist must of necessity be a Democrat, he cannot be anything else and true to his principles.

IN CALIFORNIA.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 30, 1902
I am now in Los Angeles, that is in the Spanish tongue "The Angels."
I feel sure had old De Soto come as far west as this city and found it in the improved condition that energy and pluck has made it, he would have found his "Fountain of Youth." But more of that later on.
I must say something of my journey from Salt Lake to this point. I could say more and more of that wonderful city of Salt Lake, but you may tire. The railroad runs north from Salt Lake, through Ogden so as to round the great Salt Lake before striking for the west.
We saw great white fields of pure salt, where it had been pumped out of the lake and allowed to evaporate. It looked like great fields of snow. It is decreasing in size yearly and there is no doubt but that it will finally dry up. In fact I feel sure that in the remote past this great lake of salt extended from the Rocky mountains in Colorado to the Sierra Nevada Range in California. The railroads here skirt what the geography puts down as the Great American Desert, that simply means a rainless expanse. The soil is absolutely fertile and water is all it needs. Some day the inventive Yankee will bring this much needed water and the desert will be the garden "of the great American." After 400 miles of this desolate land, we come to our first stream of water in Nevada.
We next enter the Sierra Nevada mountains and see our first timber for 2000 miles. We pass through eight tunnels and 42 miles of solid snow sheds and drop into the wonderful and far famed Sacramento Valley. We get into San Francisco at 11:30 p. m. and enjoy a delighful promenade for two hours before we succeed in getting a bed, so crowded is the city with Pythians.
The next day I spend in hunting up my father's cousin, Dr. H. J.
Crumpton, who came to this golden shore in 1848. I find him across the bay at Sausalito. As I grew to know more of him I found him like my lamented father in many respects.
His quiet, modest, genial manners,
a fine type of the old, old South and of its ante bellum glory. A true son of a people, and a time and a land, that never was, and never will be duplicated. In all history, past, present and to come. It took a time, an environment, a climate and a social fabric to produce his kind, and they have passed away and are for ever.
He tramped across the same desert waste over which palace cars brought me. He wielded a miner pick and shovel in the Sierra Nevada mountains. He brushed against the roughs and toughs of frontier civilization, and the odds and ends of camping life; but all of this did not rub away the inborn polish of his birth, or quench his love for his native health. The gold he dug was backwards sent to prop the "Lost Cause," that his arm could not reach; while his younger brother, W. C. H., tramped his way back to the Sunny South for a similar cause, the one that was "lost." No faded tale of spartan zeal can surpass this true one of those two brothers.
"Tom," said he to me, "let us walk up on this hill back of the city here, and we can get a good view of the ocean, the city of San Francisco and the bay."
I followed him. "Where is the hill said I." "There," said he, pointing to (what to me) was a mountain. "But," said I, "Cousin Kiah, that's too much for one of your years." "Why, my boy," said he, "standing as erect as an Indian, I am only 74, and if you

The Worst Form.

Multitudes are singing the praises
of Kodol, the new discovery which
is making so many sick people well
and weak people strong by digesting what they eat, by cleansing and sweetening the stomach and by transforming their food into the kind of pure, rich, red blood that makes you feel good all over. Mrs.
Crandall, of Troy, I. T., writes. For a number of years I was troubled
with indigestion and dyspepsia
which grew into the worst form.
Finally I was induced to use Kodol
and after using four bottles I am entirely cured. I heartily recommend Kodol to all sufferers from indigestion and dyspepsia. Take a dose after meals. It digests what you eat.

Resolutions of Thanks.

to Bro. S. M. Adams from Liberty Hill Baptist church.

Resolved 1. The Liberty Hill
Missionary Baptist church of Christ in conference, tender our heartfelt thanks to Brother S. M. Adams for his past ministerial labors in our midst.

Resolved 2. For his true and sound ministrations of the gospel of truth while he has been our Pastor and that we pray God's blessings upon him and his labors.

Resolved 3. That a copy of these resolutions be handed to Bro. Adams, and also be spread upon the minutes of this conference.

Read and adopted by the church
in conference, Sept. 27, 1902.

Respectfully submitted,
W. M. Wood.

Old People Have Their Troubles

Mr. Francis Little of Benton Harbor, Mich., is over eighty years of age. Since 1865 he has been troubled more or less with indigestion and constipation and has tried almost everything in use for those ailments. Last August he began using Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and was soon feeling much better. In a recent letter he says, "I have used three boxes of the Tablets and now think I am well." These Tablets improve the appetite and invigorate the stomach, liver and bowels. For sale by Hopkins Drug Co., and A. Horn, Thorsby.

cures Rheumatism

and all Liver, Kidney and Bladder troubles caused by uric acid in the system. It cures by cleansing and vitalizing the blood, thus removing the cause of disease. It gives vigor and tone and builds up the health and strength of the patient while using the remedy.

URICOL is a luminary in the medical world. It has cured and will continue to cure more of the above diseases than all other known remedies, many of which do more harm than good. This great and thoroughly tested and endorsed California remedy never disappoints. It cures infallibly if taken as directed.

Try it and be convinced that it is a wonder and a blessing to suffering humanity.

CONVICT SYSTEM PAYS.

Net Income, According to Report for 1902, $95,354.38.

The quarterly report of President Carmichael, of the state board of convict inspectors, was submitted to the governor Thursday.

The report closes with a financial statement for the fiscal year ending with August as follows:

Total receipts from all sources, 1902, $185,405.53.

Salaries of officers and employees, $24,879.94.

Current expenses, $30,287.11.

Cash in criminal cases, $34,247.80.

Supreme court cash, $536.30.

Total expenditures for all purposes, $90,051.15.

Net income for the year 1902, $95,354.38.

THE FIRST VICTIM

Of the Street Car Collision Dies of Her Injuries.

Miss Annie Mae Ward, of East Lake, died Saturday afternoon from the effects of the injuries she received when an East Lake street car was wrecked by L. and N. cars. Blood poisoning was the cause of death. It set in from the wounds she received about her hand in the wreck.

Miss Ward was considered one of the most beautiful young women in the neighborhood of Birmingham. Her injuries were at first not considered serious.

OIL CARS BURN.

L. & N. Freight Train Parts and Collision Causes Explosion.

The Louisville and Nashville railroad was tied up for a time Sunday morning on account of a wreck and fire at Newcastle. It seems that just as a freight train was about to stop at Cunningham switch for orders the coupling between two oil cars broke, and as the forward part of the train stopped the break-away crashed into it and the concussion exploded a tank of turpentine. In rapid succession the three remaining cars exploded with tremendous detonation. One tank was hurled a hundred yards up the side of the hill, striking a tree, three feet in diameter, and breaking it off at the roots. The blazing oil ignited the surrounding trees and in a remarkably short time the entire side of the hill was ablaze. Many ties were burned and rails warped, throwing the cars of blazing lumber and oil down the embankment. The crew managed to uncouple the remainder of the train and took it to a place of safety. Telegraph poles and wires were burned down and the road was tied up for miles.

The wrecking crew had nearly a hundred yards of track to lay.

The governor has appointed W. H. Brannen to be a notary at Troy, and G. T. Mulligan to be constable in beat 5, Lee county.

UNITED STATES IRON CO.

Reported to be After Sloss Furnaces at Sheffield.

It is rumored that overtures have been made by the United States Iron Company to obtain the furnaces and holdings of the Sloss-Sheffield Steel and Iron Company at Sheffield and Florence, with a view to consolidating these interests under one management.

The French ministry has just published a statement showing that French investments in Russia are nearly a billion and a half and in Spain over half a billion, out of a total foreign investment of six billions. This constitutes a powerful tie between France, Spain and Russia.

At Brewton the Cedar Creek Mill Co. has added a sash, door and blind factory to its plant.

The tenth national irrigation congress is in session at Colorado Springs.

It is said that a woman is leading the present uprising of the Boxers.

A total eclipse of the moon occurs October 10th.

Ex-Governor John B. Neil, of Ohio, is dead.

American orders for coal are flooding London.

$1,500,000 FACTORY

Promised for Huntsville by Eastern Capital.

A special from New York states that Massachusetts capitalists held a meeting in that city Saturday and decided to establish a $1,500,000 cotton mill at Huntsville. The name of the corporation has not been ascertained.

FELL FROM THE ROOF

And Bore His Partner to the Ground.

Breaking His Back.
While engaged in the construction of a building Monday morning C. O. Mattison accidentally slipped from the eaves of the roof, where he was standing, about thirty feet from the ground and fell squarely upon the head of W. J. Raper. When found Mattison was unconscious. Raper was crazed by the stroke. He is injured about the head and breast and the physician attending both states that he is probably fatally hurt. Both were carpenters, who contracted the building of the house, and while Raper was busy on the ground furnishing Mattison with material for the roof the latter fell and injured himself less than the man on whose head he landed.

LATER—Raper's back was broken.

New Court Opens.

The first session of the United States circuit court of appeals for the fifth judicial circuit, comprising the states of Texas, Louisiana, Alabama, Mississippi, Florida and Georgia, was convened in Atlanta Monday. Don A. Pardee presided. A bill was passed by the last congress authorizing that one session of this court be held in New Orleans. The first Monday in October was named as the date for the court's convening.

Died From His Wound.

Hamp Hanson died at Anniston Monday from a pistol wound received on September 24. The bullet from the left side, and it is thought it entered through both his lungs, the place the bullet came out in his right hand being in a direct line so as to pass through the lungs. His assistant has not been caught and the police have a very small description of him.

Released.

William H. Murphy, who shot and killed Constable L. F. Hollinquist in Birmingham last week, has been released. The evidence was that Hollinquist fired the first shot. It was also shown that Hollinquist held up John Calloway on the steps of the saloon and had also pointed his pistol at James Corbin in a threatening manner.

Revenue Collections.

The collections of internal revenue in the state of Alabama for the first quarter of the present fiscal year, which ended on the last day of last month, amounted to $109,847.19. The total collections for last year amounted to $426,836.47. It is thought that this sum will this year be exceeded by $60,000 or $70,000.

Hotel Reopened.

The Tavern, the big new Deatur hotel, which has been closed to the public for the past few weeks, will be reopened about November 1. Mrs. C. F. Wells, a practical hotel woman of Vicksburg, Miss., has leased the building. This hotel is the property of the Deatur Land Company, which company built it during boom days at an expense of $100,000. It is one of the finest hotel buildings in the entire south.

Dr. C. A. Cary, professor of physiology and veterinary science in the Alabama Polytechnic institute, intends holding a farmers' institute in Birmingham during the state fair.

Professor Duggar, of agriculture, is also making arrangements for the attendance of the majority members of his class. They will have the privilege of judging cattle which will be furnished for their inspection. This is calculated to give the students valuable experience.

It is definitely known that the Schulers have given orders for many castings for furnaces, including four improved slag pots, costing $1,800 each, seems to prove conclusively that they will build a furnace or furnaces somewhere, and it is more generally believed than ever that same will be located in Bessemer.

Sol Hagerdorn, of Tilden, found a burglar hiding under a counter in his store. In the ensuing encounter he was severely hurt, but the miscreant escaped.

The Woodmen of the World unveiled at Tuscaloosa last Sunday a monument to their late sovereign, M. G. Duncan.

Tuscaloosa is agitating the matter of erecting a new court house.

Ensley will issue bonds for a sewerage system.

Floating Palaces.

Designs for the two new Cunarders which will be built on the Clyde have not been completed. The tonnage, length and engine power depend upon the speed attempted, and until this is determined neither can designs be prepared nor tenders offered.

The gain in speed since 1840 has been about two and one-half knots each decade and every additional knot represents an enormous increase in the cost of construction and the consumption of coal. Engineers estimate that new steamers designed for a speed of twenty-four knots must be 750 feet long and cost about $4,375,000.

The fast German liners now afloat have averaged $3,000,000, but the Kaiser Wilhelm II, now under construction, will be still faster and will cost considerably more than $3,500,000. If the designers are required to produce 25-knot ships they will be forced to increase the length of the vessels and run up the cost above

"ORDER YOUR COFFIN,

I am Going to Kill You," Was His Threat.

Samuel Longworth, a car repairer, telephoned his wife from whom he was separated, to order her coffin, as he was going to kill her. He then proceeded to her home, in Irving Place, Shreveport, La. Longworth's brother-in-law, F. H. Fuller, met him at the entrance to the place and shot him dead. Fuller surrendered and was released on bond.

Nonunion Lover Rejected.

The young women of the Clerks' Union of St. Paul, Minn., have organized a league whose purpose is the rejection of attention from men who are not properly accredited union members. Their platform is short and concise, stating that "a union built for two should be loyal affiliated with a union standing for decent hours and proper compensation."

Spain's Young Ruler.

The members of Spain's Grand Order of Annonclade have agreed that it may become necessary in the interests of the preservation of the monarchy to induce the cortes to declare King Alfonso incapable of ruling and recall Queen Christina to the regency. The king's latest offense is the refusal to sign a decree which General Weyler, minister of war, submitted after its approval by a council of ministers.

The Real Reason.

A story is being persistently circulated in London parliamentary circles to the effect that Salisbury's resignation of the premiership was the direct result of the king's refusal to approve certain of Salisbury's nominations for coronation honors. A peerage for W. W. Astor was among the honors Edward declined to grant.

Mrs. Helen M. Grenfell has been nominated by the democrats of Colorado for the third term as state superintendent of education, and Mrs. Mary Bradford as regent of the state university. Mrs. Perceval French has received a third nomination by Idaho democrats as superintendent of education.

Paraguay's New President.

Colonel Juan Ezcurra has been elected president of Paraguay and Manuel Dominguez, former minister of foreign affairs, vice president.

Emile Zola's remains were laid to rest Sunday. Thousands of workmen followed the hearse. Dreyfus attended.

A picture of Mary Magdalene, bearing the signature of Titian and the date 1543, has been found in a cellar in Boston, where it has lain for a century or more. It was once the property of an old English family who lived in Boston fifty years ago.

The United States government has bought a site of 60 acres on the Blue Ridge, in Loudoun county, Virginia, for a school for the signal service. It is situated 60 miles from Washington and has an elevation of 2,900 feet above the city. It gives an unimpeded view of the Washington monument to be used in the drills.

BILL ARP'S LETTER

Bartow Man Recv's Interesting Epistle from an Iowa Friend.

HIS CORRESPONDENT IS ENLIGHTENED

He Respectfully Points Out Some Fallacies Entertained by Many of Our Friends Across the Line.

"Keokuk, Iowa, September 15, 1902.
—Major Charles H. Smith, Bartow, Fla.—Dear Sir: For several years past I have been reading your letters. I like very much your writings about the home life, the everyday events and the many little incidents of your experience, looking backward over a long and busy career."

"Although a stranger, of opposite politics and with many different views of life, your words have interested me and have many times touched my heart. I want to write to you my appreciation of it. I wish you could visit Iowa, so that I from this lifeless paper could see the man who is the people of a republican state. You would, no doubt, set your own feelings about the 'northerners.' You would find us warm-hearted and generous people as you have in Georgia."

"You would find a people that average in intelligence with any people on earth. If you could interview the fathers, mothers, brothers, sisters, or wives of those who had fallen in the war of the rebellion, you would find that these men, who had given their lives, had done so with a hatred toward their southern brethren, but you would find that the great reason for their sacrifice was in the cause of the union of all parts of this great country and liberty for all humanity. This is northern sentiment, and God, who rules wisely, ordered that the result would be as it is."

"It is certainly a great cause to have so many illiterate, low-lived negroes in your state; but how true is the Bible that you reverse, when it says, 'the gifts of the fathers shall be visited upon the children unto the third and fourth generations.' To my mind the 'forefathers' of Georgia sinned in purchasing and owning slaves, and now their children's children suffer the consequences."

"I trust you will receive these words as they are meant, with the greatest kindness and good will, and I wish you many more years of happiness with your good wife, children and grandchildren, and further hope that 'Bill Arp's Letter' will continue to visit us for very many years to come."

That is a good letter. A good man wrote it. I could neighbor with him and his folks and never say a word to give them offense. But I would teach them something they do not know—teach them gently line upon line, precept upon precept—here a little and there a little. Now, here is a gentleman of more than ordinary intelligence and education who does not know that the sin of slavery began in New England among his forefathers—not ours—and from there was gradually crowded southward until it got to Georgia, and that Georgia was the first state to prohibit its importation. See Appleton's Cyclopaedia (Slavery and the Slave Trade). He does not know that long after New England and New York had abolished slavery their merchantmen continued to trade with Africa and sold their cargoes secretly along the coast and never did but one reach Georgia and that one, 'The Wanderer,' was seized and confiscated and its officers arrested. 'The Wanderer' was built at Eastport, in Maine, was equipped as a slave in New York and officered there and a crew employed. He does not know that Judge Story, chief justice of the United States supreme court, when presiding in Boston, in 1834, charged the grand jury that although Massachusetts had freed their slaves, yet the slave trade with Africa was still going on and Boston merchants and Boston Christians were steeped to their eyeballs in its infamy. He does not know that when our national existence began the feeling against slavery was stronger in the southern states than in the northern. Georgia was the first to prohibit it, but later on the prohibition was repealed. New England carried on the traffic until 1845—and is doing it yet if they can find a market, and can get the run to pay for them. The last record of a slave caught in the act was in 1861 off the coast of Madagascar, and it was an Eastport vessel. The slave trade with Africa was for more than a century a favorite and popular venture with our English ancestors. King James II and King Charles II and Queen Elizabeth all had stock in it, and though Wilberforce and others had laws passed to suppress it, they could not do it. New England and old England secretly carried it on (see Appleton) long after slavery was abolished in the colonies. They could afford to lose half their vessels and still make money."

No, no, my friend. If slavery was a sin at all, which I deny, it was not our sin, nor that of our fathers, nor were we cursed with so many illiterate, low-lived negroes as you suppose. Our slaves were not educated in books as they were in manners and morals and industry, and, mark you, there was not a heinous crime committed by them from the Potomac to the Rio Grande. We did not have a chain-

SANG FOR A CONVICT in all of the land, and now there are 400 in the state of Georgia. Who is responsible for that? General Henry R. Jackson said in the great address he delivered in Atlanta in 1891: "During the four years of war when our men were far away from home and their wives and daughters had no protectors but their slaves, there was not an outrage committed in all the southland. Where does history present a like development of loyalty? Does it not speak volumes for the humanity of the master and the devotion of the slave? If I had power to induce my emotional nature I would erect somewhere in the center of this southland a shaft which should rise above all monuments and strike the stars with its sublime head and on it I would inscribe: 'To the loyalty of the slaves of the Confederate States during the years '62, '63 and '64.'"

But this will do for the first lesson to my friend. It may take some time—weeks or months—for us to harmonize, and we will not until we get the facts straight, but I know that he is a gentleman and I think more of Iowa and her people since I received his letter.

But my friend is lamentably ignorant about the condition of our negroes before the war and their condition now. I must resent any slanders upon our slaves. They were not low-lived. They were affectionate and loyal. I believe that our family servants would have died for my wife or for me or our children. They were born here and expected to die here. Tip was my trusted servant during the war and was twice captured and twice escaped. The last time swimming the Texas river in the night. But I have done for this time. For I am a poor man and the doctor says I must not strain my mind.—BILL ARP, in Atlanta Constitution.

TROOPS ORDERED OUT

Coal Will be Mined in Pennsylvania.

Monday's developments in the great strike were hurried movements of President Mitchell, of the mine workers, and Commissioner of Labor Wright, and the military call issued by Governor Stone. The governor called out the entire state guard and ordered them to duty in the anthracite regions. Part of his order reads:

"As tumults, riots, mobs and disorder usually occur when men attempt to work in and about the coal mines the general commanding will see that all men who desire to work and their families have ample military protection. He will protect all trains and other property from unlawful interference and arrest all persons engaging in acts of violence and intimidation and hold them under guard until their release will not endanger the public peace; will see that threats, intimidations, assaults and all acts of violence cease at once. The public peace and good order will be preserved upon all occasions and throughout the several counties and no interference whatever will be permitted with officers and men in the discharge of their duties under this order. The dignity and authority of the state must be maintained and her power to suppress all lawlessness within her borders be asserted."

"By order of

Governor and Commander-in-Chief.

Adjutant General."

The Association of Horticultural Inspectors of the United States and Canada, a branch of the Association of American Colleges and Experiment Stations, is in convention in Atlanta. The association will urge that a uniformity of laws be provided in every state of the union and in Canada that will protect trees shipped to orchards from nurseries from the San Jose scale and other diseases.

Double Crime.

A SEA-SICK STORY.

From Panama to San Francisco Bay. An unprecedented sea-sickness epidemic. The latest day out, a heavy morning fog. Up to the coast, and, raising his head, he said: "You ship is wrecked, sir, a ship wrecked for me, and a ship wrecked for you. The wreck responded, with a steady cry: 'Wreck here you've been wrecking all the while.'"

"It hasn't been 24," the miser answered. "I slept upon a deckhead who was sick. He's convulsed, and now here he is—stranger."

He always be won't realize it's morning."

HUMOROUS.

Hoax—I'm going to take a walk. Joux—Well, be careful not to get it when you are through.

"Experience is a great teacher." "Yes, and she never asks for her pay the tuition fee."

"I have only the most distant relatives." "Has the family run out?" "No, they have all become orphans."

Neil—I saw Mand Newkirk today. She was dressed to kill. Tom—I suppose, that's the reason she cut me dead.

Hobbs—Wigwag is always going to law about something. Stone—That's right. He's even going to marry a girl named Sue.

"But why did you ever go to him if you didn't want him?" "Because just at that time there wasn't any one else to be married."

Taylor (to mother who is giving a suit for her boy): Do you want the shoulders padded? No, no—No, mamma, tell him to put the shoulders on.

Helen—I have just refused to marry Mr. Gingley. Phil—Oh, that's a pity. "Because just at that time there wasn't any one else to be married."

A little boy was asked by his Sunday school teacher why a certain part of the church was called the altar. "Because it is where people change their names," he promptly answered.

Mother—Your schoolmaster can't teach a mean man as you make out. "I noticed his son has all the toys he possibly want." "Why those are what his father takes away from the other boys."

Toss—Don't you really believe in dreams? Joss—No, indeed, it's superstitious to believe in dreams, and, besides, it's a bad sign when you believe in them, for it usually brings you bad luck.

"What is the original idea in this novel of yours?" asked the publisher. "My hero and heroine hate each other so heartily," said the long-haired and full-fledged young author, "that they marry for revenge and make each other miserable for life."

Thavoo—Hello. Bleskerstreet—Have you any engagement for the evening? Bleskerstreet—No, Thavoo—Then come over and join us a select little luncheon we are going to give to Jocko, the most entertaining organologist you ever met.

MODERN AIDS TO NOVELISTS.
Manner in Which the Popular Writer Collects Their Material.

Just as rapidly as the public demands anything in large quantities nature supplies the mechanism which will gratify the want. At the present time there is an insatiable market for historical novels of all sorts and kinds. When, therefore, the historical novelist sketches out a plot, he would, if left to himself, require several months of hard study in some large library in order to obtain accurate material and local color. Creative genius does not enjoy research and investigation.

What he does, therefore, is to make a plot or scenario of his story and a requisition for material. This will include a description of the towns and cities and the times wherein the story is placed, pen pictures and anecdotes of any historical characters introduced into the piece, and a brief collection of the sayings, jokes, poems and popular songs of the period. He then goes to the libraries and interviews several professional bookworms who have lately developed this work into a recognized industry. These patient purveyors of information are known as the libraries as "the shadows of the novelist," who employ them. Their work is pleasant, but monotonous. Long practice has made them familiar with the books, so that they know exactly where to turn, which is a tenth of the battle.

One of them, a middle-aged but bright-eyed daughter of the Revolution, who has become a specialist in this field of work and calls herself a "Searcher for Novellists," showed me her order book and chatted with me about her work. "Mr. X—, who is writing a serial story in Barker's Magazine, wants ten jokes about General Israel Putnam. I sent him 15, which he will select 10. If I had done this, he would have growled and declared that any schoolboy could have gotten these from a FISH BONE."

How He Restrained Apprehensions. Among the puns treasured in the minds of Harvard men is one given by Edward Cummings, formerly a professor at Cambridge, and now a pastor in Dr. Edward Everett Hale's church, in Boston. At the close of one of his lectures Cummings was roundly applauded. Presently the stamping and clapping of feet were added to the other expressions of approval, and the old Massachusetts hall rang noticeably.

"Gentlemen! gentlemen!" called Professor Cummings in a tone of anxiety, "I fear these promises will bear out your conclusions."

Did I see Chinatown in San Francisco? Yes. 40,000 Chinese live in this city. 800 live in one house that I visited. The filth of the Chinese is simply marvellous. The worst quarters of that awful city Constantinople, with its thousands of dogs is no worse. They do not pretend to have such a thing as a chimney or stove pipe, to let out the smoke when they cook, but it goes up against the ceiling and long flecks of soot hang down from the ceiling. I went to their churches and saw their idols and their modes of worship. They burn a great deal of sweet smelling wood in the incense urns, and for which I was very grateful, as it relieved to great extent, the tension on my olfactory nerves. I went into the opium dens, saw them smoke that awful stuff until they fell senseless from the fumes to floor in blissful sleep. These people are no benefit to the country; their money is sent back to china, and the more I saw of foreign emigration that belongs not to our race the more I feel like raising a new flag and a new political plank, with "Anti emigration of alien races. This does not of course apply to the emigration of the caucasian.

I thought when I was in Rome, Italy, that all the handsomest women in the world were there; but I was wrong, they are handsomest, but all one type, the emboupoint brunette. Frisco can give you a type, style, size or shade, in the world, and everyone with a peachy complexion that this penetrating salt air gives. Do not suppose for a moment that this gold shore so famous for fruit and flowers has the warm balmy breezes of the Gulf of Mexico, like they that blow on the bay of Tampa, Fla., in around Manatee river, for you are wrong. The first thing I did was to buy me an overcoat and put on flannel underwear. Now that means along the shore of the Pacific ocean only. Back from the ocean or in a sheltered valley where the oranges grow, for California really is three long valleys running north and south, and the mountain chains running north and south. I saw the native ladies in white lawn and in apparent comfort, while I was wrapped in flannel underwear and overcoat; but I noticed too they generally had a wrap on their arm to put on the moment they seated themselves in the park, or ceased to exercise.

Later one afternoon recently two of our Normal School teachers went out for a stroll, and—well, when they found themselves there were away up in Lemmon. Yes, they are young men. Quite a number of new recruits entered the Normal and public school this week and all are sitting down to earnest work. The Normal School Literary Society will give a public entertainment Friday night week; an interesting program is being prepared. A great many families would move to Thorsby at once if they could secure houses. Why are not more houses built?

A Typical South African Store.

O. R. Larson, of Hay Villa, Sunday River, Cape Colony, conducts a store typical of South Africa, which can be purchased anything from the proverbial "needle to an anchor." This store is situated in a valley nine miles from the nearest railway station and twenty-five miles from the nearest town. Mr. Larson says: "I am favored with the custom of farmers within a radius of thirty miles, to many of whom I have supplied Chamberlain's remedies. All testify to their value in a household where a doctor's advice is almost out of the question. Within one mile of my store the population is perhaps sixty, and these, within the past twelve months, no less than fourteen have been completely cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. This must surely be a record for sale by Hoppel Drug Co., and A. Horn, Thorbay."

THE MAN ON THE CORNER

Some of the Sights We Saw, and Some We Saw Not.

Now here is the ticket you should all learn to vote. The Demos you can carry, but the Reps you can't tote. When your ballot you get, to the booth you'll all join. And each Democrat mark with a cross in his turn. Begin at the top, vote for Jinks then forthwith A. What business have you with a Rep who's named Smith? Take Cunningham next, make a cross neat and plain. What business have you with a Rep who's named Lane? And then comes Tom Heflin, there's none of 'em smarter. What business have you with a Rep who's named Karter? Next comes Maury Wilson, your vote he must get. What business have you with a Rep named Armbricht? And now comes Tom Sowell, a vote we can spare 'un. What business have you with a Rep named McNaron? Craig Smith is a good one, so a cross you'll mark down. What business have you with a Rep who's named Brown? Our people's unit, they all dote on Hill. What business have you with a Rep named Fonville? For Agricultural Commissioner, Poole's the man you have caught on. What business have you with a Rep who's named Morton? And how for Congress, there's nothing retarded. What business have you with a Rep named Edwards? And then comes Tom Crumpton whose faith all men hold. What business have you with a Rep who's named Reynolds? Prof. Speer's the next man on the list that will score. What business have you with a Rep who's named Moore? Sam Curry's the man with whom you will stay. What business have you with a Rep named Conway? Let Williams you'll vote for as sure as the clock. What business have you with a Rep named Glascock? Now there is the ticket, cut it out and remember. It's the one you should vote on the fourth of November in this year of grace nineteen hundred and two. And if you don't vote it may the good Lord help you.

I have heard Judge Adams make many speeches, and he always makes good ones, but I am bound to say that the speech he made at the court house last Saturday was the best he ever made at any time or at any place. He surpassed himself, and the only thing I am sorry for, is that ever man in Chilton county was not there to hear it. It was a forceful and logical exposition of politics as they are to-day, nothing was overdrawn, and the reasons he gave for the rise and fall of the Populist party were clear and convincing to all but those who are determined not to be convinced. Facts are stubborn things, and the Judge hammered fact upon fact in showing that the present effort to maintain a distinct Populist organization at this time is nothing but a delusion and a snare to entrap unwary Populists into the Republican party. It was a great speech, and I sincerely hope the Judge will find time to repeat it all over the county.

My friend, the Thorsby Times, is an antiquary, he loves to forget the present and live in the past. He wants to know about the establishing of The Banner ten long years ago, and as you know all about that, I am not going to waste time and space in telling him. When he wants to know what my forefathers were up to a century or two back, I expect they had a good time and did lots of mischief, but as the ancestors of nine-tenths of the people of Chilton county are the same as mine we are all on the same boat and won't resuscitate them even for the benefit of the Times. Then he fires a lot of forefathers at me. Let your unfortunate forefathers rest in peace, man. I never did them any harm, and feel kind of hurt at your insinuating all that dead crowd at me. Goodness! Fancy digging (continued on 3d column, page 4)

Editor Banner—The stalk of corn which I send you was planted June 4th, and was plowed very little, only receiving six furrows to the row after planting. It is 10 feet 1 inch to the first ear. This shows what the Mexican June corn would do with good cultivation.

Pleasant Grove.

Everything lovely, and we hear the chimes of wedding bells. Misses Lily Thomas and Rena Wright attended church at Mars Hill the first Sabbath. Married, the 8th inst. Mr. Sam Reynolds and Miss Eula Freeman. The church here at the last meeting called Rev. Mr. Thomas to the pastorate for the next year. Bro. Smitherman, the retiring pastor has done a good work, and it is with regret that we part with him. Bro. Smitherman's early life was spent in this community, hence we are deeply interested in his success. Rev. Mr. Thomas is assisting Rev. Mr. Smitherman in a series of meetings at Mars Hill. We noticed several visitors present at the last church service here, among whom were Mr. James Raspberry of Mulberry, and Rev. W. M. Wood of Liberty. The little child of Mr. George Dawson had the misfortune to get her leg broken, but we learn that she is doing very well. The gold question continues interesting here, we learn that Mr. Martin Franklin has struck it rich. Our reverend friend, Mr. Champion has recently held quite a successful meeting at Shady Grove, Bibb county, there were about twenty additions to the church. The cemetery here is well cared for, indeed this community is one of the best, energetic, public spirited, and going to the front. The church has just purchased some large beautiful lamps which will be quite an addition to the church furniture; and while we embellish church buildings, let us advance into the increasing light, and let human creeds and preconceived opinions be buried in oblivion, and come humbly to the Holy Book seeking the truth only, then we will not need so many church houses of various titles in a small territory, but one large building for all the worshippers seeking the truth only. Let the light shine.

CRUSHED TO DEATH.

On Sunday afternoon last Mr. Dalton Yancey Lowe, a son of Mr. E. H. Lowe, of Jemison, a conductor on the Southern Railroad, was crushed to death while coupling cars on his train at Brookside, thirty miles west of Birmingham. Death was instantaneous. The remains were brought to Clanton Monday morning and interred in the cemetery, a number of Oddfellows and other friends attending the last sad rites. Rev. I. Windsor conducted a short funeral service. Dalton was a young man of twenty-one and unmarried. Our heartfelt sympathy is extended to the bereaved family.

DEATH OF REV. W. B. DENNIS.

The death of this reverend gentleman occurred at his home at Plantersville last Thursday morning from a stroke of apoplexy. He had been conducting services at the church at Billingsley where he was seized, and after a few days succumbed to the stroke. A few years ago he was pastor of the Methodist church at Clanton and had legions of friends wherever he was known. A good man has gone to his reward, after a long life spent in the service of the master, who will mercifully aid the widow and children to bear their loss.

Our country friends are especially invited to call and see us.

Maplesville.

Miss Mamie Latham is with her friend here, Mrs. Dr. Claughton. Master Fred McCarthy is visiting friends in Stanton.

The ladies going to Sunday-school feel under many obligations to Master Albert Gore for his assistance in getting over Byrds creek.

Miss Gilmer has left for her home near Montgomery to the regret of the many friends she made here by her genial manners.

Mes. James Rouse and Burke of Stanton have been visitors of Mrs. Myrk Smitherman here.

Mr. Davenport's family from near Lily have moved into town.

There is much interest being taken among our good citizens in our school that is planned to open the 20th. Miss Florence Adair of Uniontown has been elected as teacher.

Miss Johnnie Adams, a most charming young lady friend of Miss Maud Gilmer, has visited her at Mrs. Glover's, as has also C. H. Dansby of Verbena.

Services were held in the Methodist church the 2d inst. by Rev. Abernathy, P. E., who is filling the appointment made by Rev. W. B. Dennis, but whom God, in his own judgment, called to heaven. Bro. Abernathy was guest of Mrs. M. DuBose.

We sincerely hope ye editor is not so worried politically that you can't enjoy our fine fall vegetables.

Thorsby.

Rev. S. M. Adams delivered two fine sermons at the first Baptist church at this place last Sunday and Sunday evening. There has been a great many comments made in his sermon that he delivered Sunday evening, and we think as long as Bro. Adams preaches such sermons as that, that he will have a good attendance.

The Thorsby Literary Society will give a public entertainment next Friday evening at or near 7 o'clock. Everyone is invited to come.

Mr. S. R. Billingsley returned last week from Evergreen, where he has been teaching a vocal school for twenty days.

Some of our people attended the Clanton Association and have never returned, viz.: Miss Turner Belle Mullins and Mr. Bartley Billingsley. Are they lost, strayed or stolen? Please inform us in the next issue of the Banner.

Forty Years' Torture.

To be relieved from a torturing disease after 40 years' torture might well cause the gratitude of anyone. That is what DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve did for C. Haney, Geneva, O. He says: "DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me of piles after I had suffered 40 years." Cures cuts, burns, wounds, skin diseases. Beware of counterfeits.

Thorsby.

Thorsby is going right ahead, many new buildings are going up, another church is being erected, the waterworks are being extended, franchises for telephone and electric lights have been granted by the city council, the Normal School is well patronized, the cannery and other factories are a big thing for the town, The Thorsby Times, the new republican weekly, is making things still more lively, and everybody wants to move to Thorsby.

Desirable building lots are already scarce and there is a big demand for houses. We need 25 more houses in Thorsby at once, and in another year we will need 50 more.

In order to make room for this expansion I have been induced to put upon the market a couple of my tracts located right in the heart of the city, the finest residence property in Thorsby. I will sell these tracts as a whole, or subdivide them into smaller tracts or lots to suit the purchasers. If you want a safe and profitable investment there is nothing better, if you want a choice residence location with magnificent view of all the surrounding town and country there is nothing to equal it. As the town grows, this property is bound to enhance in value. If you have the cash, buy now and double your money.

For particulars call on, or address the owner, K. G. FAEGRE, Thorsby Ala.

MARRIED

Thursday, Oct. 9, 1902, 5 p.m., at the residence of Rev. J. E. Champion, the home of the bride's parents, Mr. Tom Dawson and Miss Dovie Champion, Rev. J. H. Thomas united the two souls and made two fond hearts beat as one. Their many friends join in wishing this popular young couple many years of happiness. May your deeds in this life be such, that when your summons is called to join that innumerable caravan, that they will in after years rise phoenix-like to bless mankind is the sincere wish of your friend J. H. A.

His Life In Peril.

"I just seemed to have gone all to pieces," writes Alfred Bee, of Welfare, Tex., "billousness and a lame back had made life a burden. I couldn't eat or sleep and felt almost too worn out to work when I began to use Electric Bitters, but they worked wonders. Now I sleep like a top, can eat anything, have gained in strength and enjoy hard work." They give vigorous health and new life to weak, sickly, run-down people. Try them. Only 50c at Clanton Drug Co., and F. A. Gullledge, Verbena.

Stricken With Paralysis.

Henderson Grimes, of this place, was stricken with partial paralysis and completely lost the use of one arm and side. After being treated by an eminent physician for quite a while without relief, my wife recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and after using two bottles of it he is almost entirely cured.—Geo. R. McDONALD, Man, Logan county, W. Va. Several other very remarkable cures of partial paralysis have been effected by the use of this liniment. It is most widely known, however, as a cure for rheumatism, sprains and bruises. Sold by Hopkins Drug Co., and A. Horn, Thorsby

The first frost of the season fell
Wednesday morning.

In Indiana the Socialists have nominated a negro for congress.

PUBLIC speaking everywhere, Congressman Bowie will speak at Cooper and Verbena to-morrow
(Friday) and at Jemison and Cane Creek on Saturday. Other appointments will be found on page 8.

A TOTAL eclipse of the moon, visible in this part of the world,
occurs to-night, (Thursday) beginning about a quarter past ten o'clock, and ending a little before two on Friday morning.

The Soldiers' Home at Mountain
Creek is the enterprise of Camp Jeff Falkner, and Oct. 26 will be the first anniversary of its organization.
The camp asks that in every city,
town, hamlet and country neighborhood of the State the ladies shall gather that day and give an entertainment of some sort for the home.

As the election approaches it is apparent that the people are getting more thoroughly interested, and are posting themselves on the particular issues of this campaign.
The election is only two weeks from next Tuesday, and in the meantime every man who wishes to vote intelligently will have an opportunity to learn the true facts
by attending the speakings announced for all over the county.
When the truth is told, and cold facts are put before an intelligent people, they will always listen to reason. Appeals to passion and prejudice are not features of our Democratic speakers, and while the opposition indulges in the rehashing of old grievances, more especially harping on past election irregularities, every man of common information knows all that is past and gone for ever; it cannot and will not be tolerated in the future, and there is no fear of its being attempted.

The line is clearly marked, and every man must take into consideration that the way in which he votes has a direct bearing on the happiness and prosperity of himself and those who come after him.
A vote for the Republican party is against his best interests, and a vote for the Democratic ticket means a continuance of that party in power which has done so much for the white man in Alabama, and which, under our new constitution will continue to advance the welfare of the State.

CONGRESSMAN BOWIE ON THE CONSTITUTION AND THE RE- PUBLICAN PARTY.

Hon. Sydney J. Bowie, democratic congressional nominee from this district, has just returned from a canvass of Cleburne county. He spoke at eight places in the county and is very much gratified at the good crowds and the great interest manifested by the democracy of that county. He thinks the county is in splendid shape and will give a substantial majority for the entire ticket.

In a conversation today Mr.
Bowie said "I notice that the Republican leaders in opening their canvass at Ft. Payne have decided to make an attack upon the new constitution as the key-note of their campaign. This was to be expected and is an issue which we gladly accept. The new constitution has given us white supremacy by law.
It has given us an absolute assurance of honest elections. It has given us reduced taxes. It has given us better schools. It has given us less frequent legislatures.
It has consolidated our State and national elections. It has abolished the evils of local legislation and re-established home rule in local affairs. Other blessings which might be mentioned have followed in the wake of the new constitution.
"In the face of these manifold virtues it seems a little peculiar that in selecting their point of attack upon the new constitution, they have omitted to complain of anything that was new and have confined their criticism to that which was old. It would seem that if the new constitution is to be fairly criticized, it would be upon the things which are changed and not upon the things which are unchanged."

"The precise point of attack is the basis of representation. This basis was found in the old constitution. It is found in the constitution of 1868. It is found in the constitution of the United States.
It is found in the organization of the electoral commission and the House of representatives.

"But the amusing feature of it all is that these men who are now straining their lungs to their utmost capacity in denouncing this provision in our new constitution had not a word of condemnation for it when it was found in the old.

"In the work of revising the old constitution, the Democratic party had no aid, assistance or comfort from the Republican party. With the single honorable exception of Mr. Lane, not one of them raised his voice in behalf of calling the Constitutional convention or of the ratification of the new constitution after it was framed. A few may, and doubtless did vote for it, but the vast majority of the "Lily whites" were up in arms and open hostility against the whole movement. Mr. Vaughan the State leader and chairman of the party, declared his opposition to the new constitution because he said he favored manhood suffrage.

"What Republican leader except
Mr. Lane gave any real aid or comfort to the reform and redress of evils which cried aloud for correction? Where, by speech or by pen, did they lead in the agitation of this movement? The basis of representation against which they now enter their solemn complaint was fixed in the old as it is in the new. If no change was needed in that basis then, how happens it that it becomes of overwhelming importance now? If they could get along very well with the legislature as it was then constituted, what makes it so dangerous now?

"The truth is that if we abandon the population basis of representation in our legislature we cut all the ground from under the feet of our representatives in congress, who have up to this time successfully resisted the passage of the famous Crumpacker bill. The position assumed by Mr. Smith in his associates is identically in the State
the same as that assumed by Mr.
Crumpacker at Washington. If we desire to cut down by half the representation of Southern states in the electoral college and in the house of representatives and still further swell the power of the northern states in the Union at our own expense, the surest and best way to do it is to follow in the leadership of the "lily whites." But if we wish to preserve our rights in the Union and maintain our dignity and our proper influence we will continue to walk in the well beaten paths of our fathers.

"The people of Alabama have a better constitution than they have ever had before and they will not turn it over to the tender mercies of tinkers who have swallowed for forty years the camel of negro equality and now strain at the gnat of a legislature apportionment based upon population."

them all up, after they have been buried for centuries, and throwing them at poor little me, for whom Mr. Reynolds is so sorry he don't know what to do, but I hardly think he is so sorry as to want you to throw dead folks at me. But, say, Mr. Times, let us go a little farther back. Don't you know that your ancestors, Adam and Eve, were turned out of the garden of Eden for their transgressions?
Yes, they really were. Read your Bible, man. it will do you good,
and as it goes back to the beginning of the world, and you like ancient history, you will find it very interesting. Go to Judson Strook and he will sell you a good one cheap.

"The fastest selling article I have
in my store," writes druggist C. T.
Smith of Davis, Ky., "is Dr. King's
New Discovery for Consumption,
Coughs and Colds, because it always
cures. In my six years of sales it has never failed. I have known it
to save sufferers from Throat and Lung diseases, who could get no
help from doctors or any other
remedy." Mothers rely on it, best physicians prescribe it, and Clanton

Rev. J. H. Thomas is our pastor for this succeeding year. The Sabbath school at this place is progressing very nicely and has increased an interest in the work among some of our young people. It is conducted by Mr. Dawson. Miss Dulcie Champion is secretary and treasurer; Prof. J. H. Anderson, Mrs. Champion and Mr. I. D.
Wright are teachers for this quarter.
Prof. Anderson will take up his school next Monday, success to him.
The wedding bells have been ringing merrily in our community
the past week and would continue if there were more of our boys of age.

The "gold fever" is raging in this vicinity again. We learn that a rich gold mine has recently been opened up on Mr. Alex Glasscock's land by Hand Bros. and Mr. Martin Franklin.

Mr. Albert Patterson and family visited Mr. Martin Franklins family Sunday.

Miss Lillie Franklin visited her
Mrs. J. A. Wright last Sunday.

Mrs. Maggie Merchant and her father C. C. Crumpton visited relatives in Bibb county the past week.

Mr. Filmore Dawson and Miss Susan Cost took a flying trip to Clanton Sunday and peeped into the court house where the ceremony was performed that frightened the young couple so bad that they did not return to their residing place until Monday. We wish this young couple a long and prosperous life together.

Success to the Banner.

DONE FOOD

Soft and crooked bones mean bad feeding. Call the disease rickets if you want to. The growing child must eat the right food for growth. Bones must have bone food, blood must have blood food and so on through the list.

Scott's Emulsion is the right treatment for soft bones in children. Little doses every day give the stiffness and shape that healthy bones should have.

Bow legs become straighter, loose joints grow stronger and firmness comes to the soft heads.

Wrong food caused the trouble. Right food will cure it.
In thousands of cases Scott's Emulsion has proven to be the right food for soft bones in childhood.

The Worst Form.

Multitudes are singing the praises
of Kodol, the new discovery which
is making so many sick people well
and weak people strong by digest-
ing what they eat, by cleansing and
sweetening the stomach and by
transforming their food into the
kind of pure, rich, red blood that
makes you feel good all over. Mrs.
Cranfill, of Troy, I. T., writes. For
a number of years I was troubled
with indigestion and dyspepsia
which grew into the worst form.
Finally I was induced to use Kodol
and after using four bottles I am
entirely cured. I heartily recommend Kodol to all sufferers from indigestion and dyspepsia. Take a dose after meals. It digests what you eat.

Rockymount.

The holiness meeting which has been running for the past few days is quite a success; we had quite a large crowd here last Sunday and had some good singing in the meeting; among the singers present were Profs. Murphy, Durham and others.

Prof. Durham will teach a normal music school at Jemison to begin some time in November. Durham's music schools are destined to become the most popular schools in the south. If you want to learn how to sing correctly and right,
don't miss the school; get ready and take it in. J. N. N.

Old People Have Their Troubles

Mr. Francis Little of Benton Harbor, Mich., is over eighty years of age. Since 1865 he has been troubled more or less with indigestion and constipation and has tried almost everything in use for those ailments. Last August he began using Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and was soon feeling much better. In a recent letter he says, "I have used three boxes of the Tablets and now think I am well." These Tablets improve the appetite and invigorate the stomach, liver and bowels. For sale by Hopkins Drug Co., and A. Horn, Thorsby.

MALARIA AND YELLOW JACK

(From E. V. Smith, January 14, 1902.)
"The widow of Dr. Lammie, who, in the employ of the Government, went to Cuba, was inoculated with yellow fever through mosquito bites, and died. The above tells of the real cause of the disease, all of which proved conclusively that the familiar mosquito is the dangerous vehicle for carrying Malaria, 'Yellow Jack,' and other malarial fevers."

Those who are exposed to mosquito bites should take precaution. It is the fighting element of the blood and provides nature with efficient resistance to ward off disease. If the blood is impaired or impoverished, or if there is weakness, it means that the fighting qualities of the blood have been lowered, and consequently there is danger. If you would escape, keep the blood pure and properly nourished with

NO. 1

THE MAN ON THE CORNER

Some of the Signs He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.

It is really very funny how some folks will call you "Honey" if with them you will every time agree. But if you dare to say they're wrong they will sing another song. And anything but civil will they be.

Now, there's Lewis, you all know him. Tomorrow week you're going to throw him.

He used to think me sweet as sweet could be.

But now I'm not his honey.

And the Times gets all his money. (?) And I'm the worst man ever he did see. (Except Judge Adams.)

If I should say Lewis, dear, you're the man that we all fear, you're the one great man living here, you know.

He would call me "Honey," pretty. And he'd go to Cincinnati. And he'd bring back with him great big chunks of "dough."

But I must say he is mistaken. All his friends he has forsaken. And at present goes his lonely, weary rounds.

In the days that's past and done, his friends he measured by the ton, and now he only measures them by pounds.

Last Saturday morning there was trouble and tribulation among the few Republicans that are to be found in Clanton. The "Chinese Puzzle" had not arrived for them to worry over its contents, and it was feared it had vanished with the eclipse. After a while a gentleman rode up to The Banner office on a bicycle with a package of papers which he said Mr. Dennis had sent to the Editor of The Banner. I was a little surprised at that, although nothing much surprises me nowadays after Mr. Reynolds' surprising attempt to rush the Populists into the Republican party. I suggested to the gentleman that probably his package was intended for the postoffice, but he insisted he was told to bring it to the Banner office. I told him if he liked to leave it with me I would do what I could with the papers, but if he would open it and the papers were addressed then I would know he was certainly mistaken and he could carry them to the post office. He opened the package and my conjecture was right, they were all addressed and he took them to the postoffice. But I always like to be accommodating, and if Bro. Dennis will send me a package of the Chinese Puzzle I will honestly give them out to any person who will call for them, together with a copy of The Banner, so that a comparison can be made. Send along your Chinese Puzzles, brother! I may perhaps offer a prize for the best guess at what your jumble means or is supposed to mean.

It is very evident that our cotton crop is woefully short; if there was ever any doubt about it that doubt is now dispelled, and it looks very much as if the bulk of our cotton was already on the market. The season opened early and for the first few weeks receipts kept away ahead of last year. But it did not last, and a comparison of the receipts at this time point conclusively to a very light crop. At this time last year 2789 bales had been marketed at Clanton; this year only 1872 bales have been received here, a difference of 917 bales in favor of 1901. It is generally known that the crop is mostly picked, and there is not a great deal more to come in. Very few of our planters are holding back their cotton, they have not got it to hold. If the same conditions exist in the remainder of the cotton belt it is plain that this season's crop will be abnormally short, and what is keeping the price at the present low level is a mystery.

Jemison, Oct. 20, 1902
Editor Banner—Things are getting quite lively in political circles in and around our little town.

On Monday night, 13th inst., Messrs. Curry and Crumpton came and made it warm for the "Lily Whites," and on Saturday, 18th, Hon. Sydney J. Bowie preached straightout Democratic doctrine for a couple of hours, and without any "mud slinging," too, his speech being a regular "eye-opener" and vote winner, but ah! that was all moonshine to the feast we are to have on Thursday night, 23d inst., for then we are to have with us Hugh McElderry and M. W. Whitley of the "Lily Whites," and Frank S. White, the "Noblest Roman of all" the Democratic hosts in the State, as well as several local—that is Clanton county speakers. We are not expecting to sleep any that night, and Mr. Editor, you are most cordially invited to be with us and enjoy the fun, for fun indeed it will be to see how easily Frank White will clean up the "Lily White" Rep-Pops.

Notwithstanding all this political "music in the air," Jemison is moving smoothly along, upward and onward. Jemison Institute is receiving new pupils each week and is increasing in interest as well as in numbers; the school is in fine shape, and is getting in some of the best work we have ever had here in the school line.

The Odd Fellows have broken ground for the erection of their new two-story building, and E. H. Lowe will, within a few days, begin building a nice residence on the lot adjoining that of the Odd Fellows, and move his family into the house as soon as completed.

Why can't some of our enterprising citizens build a number of good houses to rent or sell to the many men who are wanting to come to Jemison? Twenty-five families could be added to Jemison and fifty to seventy-five pupils added to our school by January 1st, were there houses here for them to occupy.

Clanton, Oct. 21, 1902
Editor Banner—Allow an observer to make some comments. How much longer will the people of Clanton county be swindled by agents? Last spring along came the cultivator agent, sold his machine for fifty dollars. One man told me he would take thirty dollars for his, as it was of no use to him. The book and the tomb stone agents I am told they are making good collections. A book agent collected over four hundred dollars in one day. The tomb stone man must have collected twice that amount. It seems that the agent's pass word is "I don't live in Alabama." Immediately our people are ready to purchase their goods by giving an iron clad note. One of our own citizens couldn't sell the same goods at half the amount. This money never benefits our people, for it is carried out of the State. Yet we cry of short crop and low priced cotton. Thus you see the surplus that should be left with our people is gone to enrich others. When the fruit tree man and the tax collector get their share there will be nothing to start a new year.

A Typical South African Store.
O. R. Larson, of Bay Villa, Sundays River, Cape Colony, conducts a store typical of South Africa, at which can be purchased anything from the proverbial "needle to an anchor." This store is situated in a valley nine miles from the nearest railway station and twenty-five miles from the nearest town. Mr. Larson says: "I am favored with the custom of farmers within a radius of thirty miles, to many of whom I have supplied Chamberlain's remedies. All testify to their value in a household where a doctor's advice is almost out of the question. Within one mile of my store the population is perhaps sixty. Of these, within the past twelve months no less than fourteen have been absolutely cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. This must surely be a record." For sale by Hopkins Drug Co., and A. Horn, Thorsby.

Ten is now to all intents and purposes a French dependency. A recent decree announces that no expenditures by the Bey and members of the royal family will be legal unless approved by the French resident general. This step is in line with the convention of 1862, by which France administers the country and collects the taxes in the name of the Bey.

There are so many so-called accidents resulting from children playing with matches it might be wise to impose a penalty on those who tolerate this brand of carelessness. If parents were brought up with a round term for permitting their youngsters to indulge in this dangerous pastime there would be fewer fires and cases of burning for the newspapers to record.

The figures of the United States census for the industries of the music trade, have aroused much discussion and considerable doubt is being thrown on their accuracy. This seems to be a case where figures do lie, says Musical Age. The census report says over 170,000 pianos were manufactured in 1900. A well-known authority in the trade places the figures for that period at 130,000 instruments, a discrepancy of 40,000 pianos, from the government report.

There is nothing more pathetic than the blasting of an ambition at the moment of realization, reflects the Philadelphia Record. The fate of a victim of a shipwreck who is drawn back into the surge when within arm's length of the shore which he had made a superhuman battle to reach moves us more than that of those who perished out of sight or without effort. The poor artist who dies on the eve of the day when fame knocked on his door; the soldier who falls by the last volley, after peace had been made, but before the fact had become known to those in the field—these are the step-children of Fortune whose vicissitudes appeal to our uttermost compassion.

Several of the Western States are sorely troubled by the rapidly increasing colonies of prairie dogs, which are amazingly prolific. Considerable rewards are offered for their destruction, but it is not likely in any event that these vermin will become so serious a plague as rabbits were some years ago in Australia, when the tempting prize of $50,000 was offered for the discovery of a thoroughly practical and satisfactory means of relief. Comparatively little has been heard of late in this part of the world of the pests which did so much damage in Australia.

Of course rash and improvident marriages are a mistake, and are apt to lead to unhappiness and regret. But it is a mistake, too, to think that marriage is not worth some risks and considerable sacrifices, remarks Harper's Weekly. Persons who want a sure thing must be content with small dividends. Persons who put off marrying until they can marry without any inconvenience are very apt to put it off too long. Marriage is a deep-sea voyage, and should start betimes. As for the folks who want to hug the shore, let them hug the shore. No doubt it is safer, but the profit is less and the sport inferior.

With the spread of American influence in distant parts of the world, the work of the government scientific bureaus is rapidly widening. The coast and geodetic survey has lately been busy charting the coasts of Alaska and the Philippines. Without accurate charts the growing commerce nourished by the development of the mineral wealth of Alaska, and the rich and varied resources of the Philippines, could not be safely conducted. An idea of the amount of charting and surveying to be done may be formed from the fact that our knowledge of a large part of the coast of Alaska is still based on the information obtained by early explorers and navigators, while in the Philippines the existing charts are said to be really Oriental in their untruthfulness.

KILLED HIMSELF

Captain Davidson, of Selma, Suicided Sunday.

Captain Joseph W. Davidson, one of the oldest and most highly esteemed conductors on the Southern railway and a citizen greatly liked by all, suicided Sunday night at his home in Selma. After sitting a while with his family he stated that he would go up stairs and take a bath. A few minutes later a pistol shot was heard and then the jar of a body falling heavily to the floor. Investigation showed Captain Davidson had placed a revolver above his right eye and fired, the bullet penetrating his brain and causing instant death. The fatal shot had been fired while standing at the head of the stairs. A wife, three daughters and a son survive him.

Still True to Him.

Alice J. Miller, the sweetheart and betrothed wife of Jim Younger, who committed suicide in St. Paul Saturday night, and to whom the suicide left an affectionate note, said:

"Jim wrote me under date of October 16, stating that he had given up all hope and was out of work. Saturday he telegraphed me: 'Don't write.' He was driven to this act by his persecutors. I am his wife, understand, spiritually. No scandal has ever been attached to my name. But before God he is mine and mine alone. My life work will be to place him right before the world. I have wired the authorities to cremate his body. It was his request."

Miss Miller is 30 years of age and wrote a history of the police and fire departments of St. Paul and did work on the Salt Lake Herald during the political campaign of 1890.

Younger's body has been embalmed and will be kept until Mrs. Etta Rollins, of Dallas, Tex., sister of the Younger brothers, has been heard from. When alive Younger frequently expressed the wish that his body be cremated when he died. This plan will be carried out.

Appointments.

The governor has appointed: I. L. James to be notary public and justice of the peace at Hillsboro; J. G. Hendricks to be notary public at Ironton; R. G. Jones to be notary public and justice of the peace at Shopton; J. A. Wyles, Jr., to be notary public and justice of the peace at Thompson; John Fred Armstrong to be notary public and justice of the peace in Jackson; J. L. Garrett to be notary public at Andalusia, and John W. Johnson to be notary public at Tusculum.

Substantial Bait.

Prominent Huntsville business men held a meeting and took preliminary steps for the organization of a company to build a railway and wagon bridge across the Tennessee river near Whitesburg. The bridge will be erected mainly as an inducement to the Louisville and Nashville railroad to build a road from Oneonta to Hobbs island, giving Huntsville direct connection with Birmingham and the Alabama coast fields. Those interested in the enterprise will also see what can be done toward obtaining a right of way for the projected road.

Indictment Found.

The coroner's jury which has been in session since Saturday investigating the mysterious murder of Richard Newman at Decatur returned a verdict of willful murder and charged C. R. Chapman, who was recently employed by the city as superintendent of street work, with the crime. Chapman was arrested and lodged in jail to await trial.

Where is the Line?

Attorney General Guion, of the state of Louisiana, et al, filed a motion in the United States supreme court for leave to file a bill of complaint against the state of Mississippi for the determination of the water boundary line between the two states. The line involved is that along the eastern boundary of the lower part of Louisiana, and the settlement of the question is rendered important because of the oyster industry of that section.

The boom in strawberry culture in south Alabama, where the single community of Castleberry has put in three hundred acres, continues to spread. Brewton has caught the fever and a strawberry club has been organized there with a membership of fourteen and still growing. Each member pledges himself to put in so many acres, and at last accounts twenty acres were pledged.

The amount of bonds purchased by Secretary Shaw under his recent offer and received at the treasury department up to noon Monday was approximately $11,000,000.

James Thompson, one of the men shot in the Littleton trouble, is dead.

RACE TROUBLES

Result Seriously in Etowah County.

As a result of a clash between whites and negroes at Littleton Sunday night one man is missing and believed to be dead, while others are seriously wounded.

The casualties: Joe Thompson, white, shot in bowels, serious; Ira Creel, white, missing with Thompson; John Baer, negro, shot in heel and thigh, serious; W. T. Tolbert, who shot Thompson, shot in best series.

The trouble grew out of an effort made by a negro woman to push Joe Thompson, a white man, from a trestle.

The people feared serious trouble and at once telegraphed Sheriff Burgin at Birmingham. Deputies were at once dispatched from Birmingham, armed with Winchester rifles.

State Fair.

Every department of the Alabama State Fair Association was paid off Saturday. It is the first time in the history of a state fair in Alabama that such a thing has happened.

The State Fair Herald has appeared. An edition of 35,000 copies are being sent out over the field covered by the fair.

The following is a list of the days and the names by which they will be known:

Thursday, October 23—Governor's Day.

Friday, October 24—Suburban Day.

Saturday, October 25—Old Soldiers' and Children's Day.

Monday, October 27—Alabama Day.

Tuesday, October 28—Birmingham Day.

Wednesday, October 29—Elks' Travelers' Protective Association and Societies' Day.

Thursday, October 30—Ladies' Day.

Friday, October 31—Confederate Home Day.

Friday, October 31—Confederate Home Day.

Saturday, November 1—Union Labor Day.

Monday, November 3—Negro Day.

Engineer Killed.

James Little, an engineer on the Southern railway, Mobile division, met a horrible death Saturday at Belle El-Jen while on a freight train which was backing into the place and was wrecked by colliding with a loaded car which stood on the main line. Little had been sick for the last few months and was going to Blocton. He was riding in the caboose when the train struck the loaded car. Four cars were demolished and Little was caught in the wreckage.

Mysterious Death.

At Decatur Saturday Richard Newman, a street car driver, was found dead with a bullet wound in his left chest near the region of the heart. Who fired the shot is not certain, but it is supposed there is a woman in the case. The coroner's jury has been investigating.

New Bank.

The Central Trust company of Mobile has been organized with a capital of $250,000. F. B. Merrill is president. The company will do a general banking and trust business.

The next annual meeting of the Society of Civil Engineers may be held in Birmingham. Many prominent citizens have expressed a desire to have this meeting held in Birmingham, stating they would lend every possible aid in entertaining the visitors should they come.

Etowah county will vote on the dispensary question.

At the quarterly meeting of the Tennessee Valley Medical society at Gurley the following officers were elected for a year: Dr. E. J. Conynton, of Decatur, president; Dr. B. E. Graham, of Gurley, first vice president; Dr. T. E. Dryer, of Huntsville, secretary and treasurer. The next quarterly meeting will be held in Decatur.

The clearings of the Birmingham banks for the week ending Saturday were $1,110,590.43, as against $899,706.66 for the corresponding week of last year.

A special from Lake Village, Ark., says that in a fight between officers and whisky boat men Sheriff Strong and Deputies William Wallace and Parker Bawner were seriously shot. A posse of armed men have gone to the scene of the trouble.

Russia has produced more oil than the United States since 1897.

Slight earthquake shocks were felt in Tennessee Saturday.

WORLD OF INDUSTRY

Thousands More Spindles for Huntsville.

The announcement that the Merrimack Manufacturing company will establish a cotton mill in Huntsville at a cost of $1,650,000 has been officially confirmed, and the action of the directors has been ratified by the stockholders. The company has in operation a mill with a spindle capacity of 25,000 and the investment amounts to $800,000. The new mill will have a capacity of 75,000 spindles, bringing the total up to $2,450,000. This is within $50,000 of the amount that was agreed upon by the company three years ago for investment in the South.

The present mill of the company has been in operation two years and has been a profit maker.

Across the Continent.

The great Gould Scourti's company is about ready to be announced. It will be incorporated in the latter part of December or early in January. Its capital will be about $800,000,000 in bonds, preferred stock and common stock. Missouri Pacific will be the capital feature of the new corporation and will get the richest space in the prizes to be distributed. Here are the companies that will be combined, their bonds being counted as part of their capitalization: Missouri Pacific, capital $207,214,250; mileage operated, 5,350; Wabash, $137,081,000, mileage 2,307; Texas and Pacific $93,452,893; mileage 1,570; St. Louis and Southwestern $66,500,000; mileage 1,293; Lake Erie and Western $34,553,000; mileage 892; Denver and Rio Grande $125,619,500; mileage 1,073. Totals $664,422,643, 13,145.

Then there is the Western Maryland, which will give the outlet to the Atlantic ocean at Baltimore. The Pacific ocean is reached through a traffic agreement with the Southern Pacific. Early in January Mr. Gould will be able to ride from the Atlantic to the Pacific over his own lines.

Coal Statistics.

Statistics of coal labor now being prepared by the geological survey show an increase since 1890 of 15 per cent in the number of men working in anthracite mines. The increase in the bituminous mines is 77 per cent. The number of accidents in the anthracite mines has been double that in the bituminous regions. Notwithstanding that the price of coal rose from 95 cents to $1.10, the output advanced from 219,974,667 tons in 1893 to 293,298,516 tons in 1901. In 1901 485,544 men were employed, while in 1898 there were only 401,221.

At a conference of lumber dealers in Atlanta, Ga., preliminary steps were taken for the organization of the largest combination of lumber manufacturers in the world. A national association will be formed at a meeting called for December 9 and 10 at St. Louis. The Atlanta conference represented an annual output of 5,500,000,000 feet of lumber.

The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad, which on account of disagreement with the Union Pacific had begun operation on an independent road to the Pacific coast, has abandoned this project and entered into a traffic agreement with the Union Pacific whereby it will enjoy the use of the latter tracks to the coast.

The St. Paul railroad completed the purchase of 25,000 acres of rich coal lands in Illinois for $2,000,000. The purpose of the management, it is said, is to supply the road with coal for all time to come.

Robert Le Bandy, of Paris, gave $1,600 to Paris university to found a scholarship for two French professors to spend a year at Chicago university.

Contracts have been let for a $500,000 gymnasium for Stanford university, California, and a library to contain 1,000,000 volumes, besides twenty-four departmental libraries. One million dollars' worth of buildings are now under construction.

Government statistics show a decrease of $188,668,294 worth of the four principal articles of export during the nine months ending September 30, as compared with preceding years. They are breadstuffs, provisions, cotton and mineral oils.

The wife of the archbishop of Canterbury, in calling a conference of temperance societies to deal with the question of inebriety among English women, gives statistics to show that of 13,200 incurable drunkards in London, 8,900 are women. In ten years previous to 1897 death among women from chronic alcoholism increased 144 per cent. The growing habit of using all volatile eau de cologne and other perfumes is given as the cause among the upper classes.

Abolition Engines.

The census office has just issued a special report on the manufacture of locomotives during the census year. During the census year 2,774 locomotives of all classes were built at the twenty-eight establishments whose chief product is locomotives. This output had an aggregate value of $21,121,003. In addition 272 locomotives, valued at $3,276,393, were constructed at twenty-six railroad shops making a total of 3,046 locomotives, valued at $20,207,456, built in fifty-four establishments during the census year.

In 1890 there was built 2,409 locomotives, at an average value of $8,190 while the 2,774 built in 1900 averaged $8,777. This increase is due in part to changes in size and construction. The increase in the number built is attributed mainly to the foreign demand for American locomotives, the number exported in 1900 being 525, compared with 161 in 1890.

In 1890 the average weight of locomotives was 92,000 pounds exclusive of the tender. In 1900 the average was 129,000 pounds.

Eight days is probably the shortest time in which an engine has been built, starting with the raw material and constructing all the parts, but an engine has been assembled and speeded ready to run in twenty-four hours.

Retaliation.

It is reported that the coal companies expect the labor arbitration commission to decide that the coal miners are entitled to an advance in wages, and they will therefore advance the permanent cost of coal not less than 50 cents per ton. It is understood that a permanent increase in the price of coal will be considered imperative if the demands of the miners are granted. The increase is certain to be large enough to compensate the roads for the enormous losses they have incurred by reason of the strike. Taking the normal output of the anthracite mines at 50,000,000 tons per annum, an increased profit of 50 cents per ton would amount to $17,500,000 should the miners be allowed 15 cents per ton additional wages.

Russia's Big Bill.

In connection with the restoration of railway lines between Shanghai-Kuan and Nin-chwang, China, the Russians have presented a bill for 3,000,000 rubles or $194,500,000, for the work done and protection afforded during the Russian occupancy. Chinese officials are indignant at the size of the bill and the bad condition in which the line is left.

A $5,000,000 company has been formed to erect a turbine wheel power plant on the Potomac river near Washington, D. C., to furnish electricity to Washington and adjoining localities. Within two years 25,000 horse-power will be ready for use.

The great meat packers' combine planned some time ago has been perfected and the new enterprise will be launched December 1. It will rank next to the steel trust as the second largest merger ever effected.

The people of Cuba observed very generally Friday, October 10, as the anniversary of the beginning of the struggle for independence in 1895. A monument to the memory of Americans who assisted Lopez in 1895 was begun at Havana. President Palma granted pardons or reduced sentences and the congress voted $30,000 for the relief of soldiers and soldiers' widows.

In a proclamation urging the people to hoard their supply of coal for the colder weather, Mayor Roddenbeck, of Rochester, N. Y., suggested that it might be well that both schools and churches be closed that the poor might have better chance of fuel.

An examination will be held soon in Boston of candidates for teachers of millinery in the public schools.

The report of the money order division for the last fiscal year shows an average daily increase of $150,000 in the amount of money transmitted.

Americus, Ga., is making an effort to secure the college to be erected by the Macon Presbytery, offering a valuable site for the buildings and $5,000 in cash.

The monument to the confederate dead has been completed in LeGrange, Ga., and will be unveiled on the 30th.

The sultan of Bacloed, island of Mindanao, Philippines, has rejected all friendly advances of the American commanders and in a defiant letter demands war, saying he wishes to maintain the Mohammedan religion and does not desire the friendship of the foreigners. He is fortifying his strongholds and General Sumner is preparing to capture and reduce them.

WASHINGTON NOTES

Matters of Interest among the Law Makers.

Gov. Sewell, of Guam.

Accompanied by his family, Captain William E. Sewell, United States navy, has sailed for Guam, to assume the governorship of that island. The supply, which was Commander Pillsbury's flagship during the recent naval maneuvers, has handsome quarters for the governor. There is also a suite of rooms for the accommodation of his family. The ship will be used as a floating residence for the governor and his family while he remains at the post.

Soldiers' Quarters.

A suggestion from the California legislature, that soldiers now housed in the state penitentiary, be allowed to build temporary quarters for the winter, has been adopted by the legislature. The quarters, which claim that they are not to be permitted to build quarters, is done by union labor. The quarters, it seems, are willing to build quarters, but a small addition to the budget, while the war department is without funds with which to build quarters. The issue is under discussion.

Will Visit Mississippi.

At Jackson, Miss., a letter was received stating positively that President Roosevelt has not abandoned his idea of coming to Mississippi this fall, and that he "expects to be the guest of Governor Longino before congress meets." The president will find hospitable greeting and plenty of bears about the governor's razor delta plantation.

Dead Letters.

The annual report of the dead letter office shows a total receipt of 9,300,000 pieces of mail matter, an increase of 9 per cent over last year. Of letters and parcels opened 50,809 contained money amounting to $48,498 and 50,874 commercial papers valued at $1,399,094.11; 168 letters had no addresses and 156,841 were held for postage.

Diplomatic Promotions.

Henry L. Wilson, minister to Chile, has been appointed minister to Greece, and John B. Jackson, first secretary to Berlin, has been promoted to be minister to Chile.

Surgeons Needed in Navy.

Surgeon General Rixey in his annual report says that the force of naval surgeons is inadequate and recommends the establishment of a women's corps. He also advocates the appointment of dentists for the navy and wants 100 more medical officers. He advocates permanent hospital ships.

Army Reduction.

The war department issued an order Wednesday decreasing the number of strength of the regular army to 100,000, the legal minimum. Its present strength is 65,000. The reduction will be made gradually as terms of enlistment expire.

Debt in Europe.

New York bankers have disclosed that they owe $125,000,000 in Europe and that their credit there is near bankruptcy. New York National City bank is threatened by stock brokers for calling loans too weak and unsettling quotations.

Price of stoves is increased 10 per cent at a meeting of the Manufacturers' association at Chattanooga.

CLANTON, — ALA.

Tanks is now to all intents and purposes a French dependency. A recent decree announces that no expenditures by the Bey and members of the royal family will be legal unless approved by the French resident general. This step is in line with the convention of 1882, by which France administers the country and collects the taxes in the name of the Bey.

There are so many so-called accidents resulting from children playing with matches it might be wise to impose a penalty on those who tolerate this brand of carelessness. If parents were brought up with a round term for permitting their youngsters to indulge in this dangerous pastime there would be fewer fires and cases of burning for the newspapers to record.

The figures of the United States census for the industries of the music trade, have aroused much discussion and considerable doubt is being thrown on their accuracy. This seems to be a case where figures do lie, says Musical Age. The census report says over 170,000 pianos were manufactured in 1900. A well-known authority in the trade places the figures for that period at 130,000 instruments, a discrepancy of 40,000 pianos, from the government report.

There is nothing more pathetic than the blasting of an ambition at the moment of realization, reflects the Philadelphia Record. The fate of a victim of a shipwreck who is drawn back into the surge when within arm's length of the shore which he had made a superhuman battle to reach moves us more than that of those who perished out of sight or without effort. The poor artist who dies on the eve of the day when Fame knocked on his door; the soldier who falls by the last volley, after peace had been made, but before the fact had become known to those in the field—these are the step-children of Fortune whose vicissitudes appeal to our uttermost compassion.

Several of the Western States are sorely troubled by the rapidly increasing colonies of prairie dogs, which are amazingly prolific. Considerable rewards are offered for their destruction, but it is not likely in any event that these vermin will become so serious a plague as rabbits were some years ago in Australia, when the tempting prize of $50,000 was offered for the discovery of a thoroughly practical and satisfactory means of relief. Comparatively little has been heard of late in this part of the world of the pests which did so much damage in Australia.

Of course rash and improvident marriages are a mistake, and are apt to lead to unhappiness and regret. But it is a mistake, too, to think that marriage is not worth some risks and considerable sacrifices, remarks Harper's Weekly. Persons who want a sure thing must be content with small dividends. Persons who put off marrying until they can marry without any inconvenience are very apt to put it off too long. Marriage is a deep-sea voyage, and should start betimes. As for the folks who want to hug the shore, let them hug the shore. No doubt it is safer, but the profit is less and the sport inferior.

With the spread of American influence in distant parts of the world, the work of the government scientific bureaus is rapidly widening. The coast and geodetic survey has lately been busy charting the coasts of Alaska and the Philippines. Without accurate charts the growing commerce nourished by the development of the mineral wealth of Alaska, and the rich and varied resources of the Philippines, could not be safely conducted. An idea of the amount of charting and surveying to be done may be formed from the fact that our knowledge of a large part of the coast of Alaska is still based on the information obtained by early explorers and navigators, while in the Philippines the existing charts are said to be really Oriental in their untruthfulness.

KILLED HIMSELF

Captain Davidson, of Selma, Suicided Sunday.

Captain Joseph W. Davidson, one of the oldest and most highly esteemed conductors on the Southern railway and a citizen greatly liked by all, suicided Sunday night at his home in Selma. After sitting a while with his family he stated that he would go up stairs and take a bath. A few minutes later a pistol shot was heard and then the jar of a body falling heavily to the floor. Investigation showed Captain Davidson had placed a revolver above his right eye and fired, the bullet penetrating his brain and causing instant death. The fatal shot had been fired while standing at the head of the stairs. A wife, three daughters and a son survive him.

Still True to Him.

Allice J. Miller, the sweetheart and betrothed wife of Jim Younger, who committed suicide in St. Paul Saturday night, and to whom the suicide left an affectionate note, said:

"Jim wrote me under date of October 10, stating that he had given up all hope and was out of work. Saturday he telegraphed me: 'Don't write.' He was driven to this act by his persecutors. I am his wife, understand, spiritually. No scandal has ever been attached to my name. But before God he is mine and mine alone. My life work will be to place him right before the world. I have wired the authorities to cremate his body. It was his request."

Miss Miller is 30 years of age and wrote a history of the police and fire departments of St. Paul and did work on the Salt Lake Herald during the political campaign of 1890.

Younger's body has been embalmed and will be kept until Mrs. Etta Rollins, of Dallas, Tex., sister of the Younger brothers, has been heard from. When alive Younger frequently expressed the wish that his body be cremated when he died. This plan will be carried out.

Appointments.

The governor has appointed: I. L. James to be notary public and justice of the peace at Hillsboro; J. G. Hendricks to be notary public at Ironton; R. G. Jones to be notary public and justice of the peace at Shopton; J. A. Wyles, Jr., to be notary public and justice of the peace at Thompson; John Fred Armstrong, to be notary public and justice of the peace in Jackson; J. L. Garrett to be notary public at Andalusia, and John W. Johnson to be notary public at Tusculum.

Substantial Bait.

Prominent Huntsville business men held a meeting and took preliminary steps for the organization of a company to build a railway and wagon bridge across the Tennessee river near Whitesburg. The bridge will be erected mainly as an inducement to the Louisville and Nashville railroad to build a road from Oneonta to Hobbs Island, giving Huntsville direct connection with Birmingham and the Alabama coal fields. Those interested in the enterprise will also see what can be done toward obtaining a right of way for the projected road.

Indictment Found.

The coroner's jury which has been in session since Saturday investigating the mysterious murder of Richard Newman at Decatur returned a verdict of willful murder and charged C. R. Chapman, who was recently employed by the city as superintendent of street work, with the crime. Chapman was arrested and lodged in jail to await trial.

Where is the Line?

Attorney General Guion, of the state of Louisiana, et al, filed a motion in the United States supreme court for leave to file a bill of complaint against the state of Mississippi for the determination of the water boundary line between the two states. The line involved is that along the eastern boundary of the lower part of Louisiana, and the settlement of the question is rendered important because of the oyster industry of that section.

The boom in strawberry culture in south Alabama, where the single community of Castleberry has put in three hundred acres, continues to spread. Brewton has caught the fever and a strawberry club has been organized there with a membership of fourteen and still growing. Each member pledges himself to put in so many acres, and at last accounts twenty acres were pledged.

The amount of bonds purchased by Secretary Shaw under his recent offer and received at the treasury department up to noon Monday was approximately $11,000,000.

RACE TROUBLES

Result Seriously in Etowah County.

As a result of a clash between whites and negroes at Littleton Sunday night one man is missing and believed to be dead, while others are seriously wounded.

The casualties: Joe Thompson, white, shot in bowels, serious; Ira Creel, white, missing, was with Thompson; John Baer, negro, shot in head and thigh, serious; W. T. Tolbert, who shot Thompson, shot in head, serious.

The trouble grew out of an effort made by a negro woman to push Joe Thompson, a white man, from a trestle.

The people feared serious trouble and at once telegraphed Sheriff Burgin at Birmingham. Deputies were at once dispatched from Birmingham, armed with Winchester rifles.

State Fair.

Every department of the Alabama State Fair Association was paid off Saturday. It is the first time in the history of a state fair in Alabama that such a thing has happened.

The State Fair Herald has appeared. An edition of 35,000 copies are being sent out over the field covered by the fair.

The following is a list of the days and the names by which they will be known:

Thursday, October 23—Governor's Day.

Friday, October 24—Suburban Day.

Saturday, October 25—Old Soldiers' and Children's Day.

Monday, October 27—Alabama Day.

Tuesday, October 28—Birmingham Day.

Wednesday, October 29—Elks' Travelers' Protective Association and Societies' Day.

Thursday, October 30—Ladies' Day.

Friday, October 31—Confederate Home Day.

Friday, October 31—Confederate Home Day.

Saturday, November 1—Union Labor Day.

Monday, November 3—Negro Day.

Engineer Killed.

James Little, an engineer on the Southern railway, Mobile division, met a horrible death Saturday at Belle Elven while on a freight train which was backing into the place and was wrecked by colliding with a loaded car which stood on the main line. Little had been sick for the last few months and was going to Blocton. He was riding in the caboose when the train struck the loaded car. Four cars were demolished and Little was caught in the wreckage.

Mysterious Death.

At Decatur Saturday Richard Newman, a street car driver, was found dead with a bullet wound in his left chest near the region of the heart. Who fired the shot is not certain, but it is supposed there is a woman in the case. The coroner's jury has been investigating.

New Bank.

The Central Trust company of Mobile has been organized with a capital of $250,000. F. B. Merrill is president. The company will do a general banking and trust business.

The next annual meeting of the Society of Civil Engineers may be held in Birmingham. Many prominent citizens have expressed a desire to have this meeting held in Birmingham, stating they would lend every possible aid in entertaining the visitors should they come.

Etowah county will vote on the dispensary question.

At the quarterly meeting of the Tennessee Valley Medical society at Gurley the following officers were elected for a year: Dr. E. J. Conynton, of Decatur, president; Dr. B. E. Graham, of Gurley, first vice president; Dr. T. E. Dryer, of Huntsville, secretary and treasurer. The next quarterly meeting will be held in Decatur.

The clearings of the Birmingham banks for the week ending Saturday were $1,110,590.43, as against $899,706.66 for the corresponding week of last year.

A special from Lake Village, Ark., says that in a fight between officers and whisky boat men Sheriff Strong and Deputies William Wallace and Parker Brawner were seriously shot. A posse of armed men have gone to the scene of the trouble.

Russia has produced more oil than the United States since 1897.

Slight earthquake shocks were felt in Tennessee Saturday.

WORLD OF INDUSTRY

Thousands More Spindles for Huntsville.

The announcement that the Merrimack Manufacturing company will establish a cotton mill in Huntsville at a cost of $1,650,000 has been officially confirmed, and the action of the directors has been ratified by the stockholders. The company has in operation a mill with a spindle capacity of 25,000 and the investment amounts to $800,000. The new mill will have a capacity of 75,000 spindles, bringing the total up to $2,450,000. This is within $50,000 of the amount that was agreed upon by the company three years ago for investment in the South.

The present mill of the company has been in operation two years and has been a profit maker.

Across the Continent.

The great Gould Security company is about ready to be announced. It will be incorporated in the latter part of December or early in January. Its capital will be about $800,000,000 in bonds, preferred stock and common stock. Missouri Pacific will be the central feature of the new corporation and will get the richest space in the prizes to be distributed. Here are the companies that will be combined, their bonds being counted as part of their capitalization: Missouri Pacific, capital $207,214,250; mileage operated, 5,370; Wabash, $157,081,000, mileage 2,367; Texas and Pacific $93,452,803; mileage 1,570; St. Louis and Southwestern $66,500,000; mileage 1,293; Lake Erie and Western $34,555,000; mileage 892; Denver and Rio Grande $125,619,500; mileage 1,073. Totals $664,422,643, 13,145.

Then there is the Western Maryland, which will give the outlet to the Atlantic ocean at Baltimore. The Pacific ocean is reached through a traffic agreement with the Southern Pacific. Early in January Mr. Gould will be able to ride from the Atlantic to the Pacific over his own lines.

Coal Statistics.

Statistics of coal labor now being prepared by the geological survey show an increase since 1890 of 15 per cent in the number of men working in anthracite mines. The increase in the bituminous mines is 77 per cent. The number of accidents in the anthracite mines has been double that in the bituminous regions. Notwithstanding that the price of coal rose from 95 cents to $1.10, the output advanced from 219,974,667 tons in 1893 to 293,298,516 tons in 1901. In 1901 485,544 men were employed, while in 1898 there were only 401,221.

At a conference of lumber dealers in Atlanta, Ga., preliminary steps were taken for the organization of the largest combination of lumber manufacturers in the world. A national association will be formed at a meeting called for December 9 and 10 at St. Louis. The Atlanta conference represented an annual output of 5,500,000,000 feet of lumber.

The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad, which, on account of disagreement with the Union Pacific had begun operation on an independent road to the Pacific coast, has abandoned this project and entered into a traffic agreement with the Union Pacific whereby it will enjoy the use of the latter tracks to the coast.

The St. Paul railroad completed the purchase of 25,000 acres of rich coal lands in Illinois for $2,000,000. The purpose of the management, it is said, is to supply the road with coal for all time to come.

Robert Le Bandy, of Paris, gave $1,000 to Paris university to found a scholarship for two French professors to spend a year at Chicago university.

Contracts have been let for a $500,000 gymnasium for Stanford university, California, and a library to contain 1,000,000 volumes, besides twenty-four departmental libraries. One million dollars' worth of buildings are now under construction.

Government statistics show a decrease of $188,668,294 worth of the four principal articles of export during the nine months ending September 30, as compared with preceding years. They are breadstuffs, provisions, cotton and mineral oils.

The wife of the archbishop of Canterbury, in calling a conference of temperance societies to deal with the question of inebriety among English women, gives statistics to show that of 13,200 incurable drunkards in London, 8,300 are women. In ten years previous to 1897 death among women from chronic alcoholism increased 144 per cent. The growing habit of using sal volatile, can de cologne and other perfumes is given as the cause among the upper classes.

At a Glance.

The census office has just issued a special report on the manufacture of locomotives during the census year. During the census year 2,774 locomotives of all classes were built at the twenty-eight establishments whose chief product is locomotives. This output had an aggregate value of $21,121,063. In addition 272 locomotives, valued at $3,276,393, were constructed at twenty-six railroad shops making a total of 3,046 locomotives, valued at $20,397,456, built in fifty-four establishments during the census year.

In 1890 there was built 2,409 locomotives, at an average value of $8,199 while the 2,774 built in 1900 averaged $7,777. This increase is due in part to changes in size and construction. The increase in the number built is attributed mainly to the foreign demand for American locomotives, the number exported in 1900 being 525, compared with 161 in 1890. In 1890 the average weight of locomotives was 92,000 pounds exclusive of the tender. In 1900 the average was 129,000 pounds.

Eight days is probably the shortest time in which an engine has been built, starting with the raw material and constructing all the parts, but an engine has been assembled and tested ready to run in twenty-four hours.

Retaliation.

It is reported that the coal companies expect the labor arbitration commission to decide that the coal miners are entitled to an advance in wages, and they will therefore advance the permanent cost of coal not less than 50 cents per ton. It is understood that a permanent increase in the price of coal will be considered imperative if the demands of the miners are granted. The increase is certain to be large enough to compensate the roads for the enormous losses they have incurred by reason of the strike. Taking the normal output of the anthracite mines at 50,000,000 tons per annum, an increased profit of 50 cents per ton would amount to $17,500,000 should the miners be allowed 15 cents per ton additional wages.

The great strike of coal miners,

ted to a commission appointed by the President of the United States.

"The Record of Republican Rule," is an interesting article in another part of this issue, which should be carefully considered by every voter. The figures given are for articles needed in every home,
and the increased prices are nothing else than an extra tax caused by the tariff.

The Registrars will sit in the court house at Clanton on Friday

purpose of registering all those who 1902, or those who by reason of physical disability, or unavoidable absence from the county, were unable to register at the former appointments.

The position of the Republican party on national policies is well known. It stands for a high protective tariff, and has inaugurated and maintained a system which has increased the cost of living 41 per cent, and has steadily reduced the purchasing power of a day's labor.
It has advanced the price of every article of necessity which the farmer and the laboring-man has to buy.
It has declared boldly and unequivocally for a gold standard of value,
and is lending the surplus accumulated by the tariff to the banks free of interest that they may lend it to the people at a profit. It is fostering a system of trusts and combines that enables the manufacturer to sell goods at home at from 13 to 261 per cent higher than abroad, and it favors the payment of a subsidy to ships in which to carry the goods over the water. With 300 mighty trusts violating the law it has never prosecuted but one combination and that a labor union.
Every candidate of this party must subscribe to these policies, and they are so far removed from the Populist belief that surely no Populist can support them. The well known position of the Democratic party
upon the reverse side of the above mentioned policies must appeal to your favorable consideration of its candidate. Mr. Bowie has served all the people of his district well and faithfully, and his time in Washington has been at the command of every man who asked for it.

VOLUME ELEVEN.

With this issue THE BANNER
commences its eleventh volume.
During the ten years of its existence it has grown steadily in public favor and every year has increased its list of subscribers. From small beginnings it now has attained respectable dimensions, and for some months past we have never issued less than ten hundred and eighty copies each week.

For several years THE BANNER was the only paper published in Chilton county, and it was our constant aim to give to each and everyone a fair and impartial hearing, and as far as practicable publish all shades of opinions sent to us. Democrat, Populist or Republican was never refused admission to our columns if space permitted.

In the discussion of public affairs THE BANNER has always advocated to the best of its ability everything which was conducive to the best interests of the people. We never attempted to lead, and we never attempted to drive. We offered the best advice in our power and left it to you to decide every question for yourselves, knowing full well that with calm and deliberate reason, the people of Chilton are thoroughly capable of reaching a just conclusion on any subject.

With the decline of the Populist party, and the knowledge that every Populist would of necessity have to choose between the Democrats and the Republicans, THE BANNER naturally returned to the Democratic party, and we are proud to know that a large majority of the people of Chilton have endorsed that return by continuing their support. We do not mean to say that all our subscribers necessarily agree with our editorial opinions,
but they recognize the fact that THE BANNER honestly endeavors to set before them things as they are; we give you the news items,
you form your own opinions; we tender our best advice, you decide whether it suits you or not.

To those who have been with us from the beginning we offer our heartfelt gratitude for their untiring support; to those who have subsequently become acquainted with us we are profoundly grateful for their assistance, and to those who have recently become known to us we earnestly hope and trust that the future will develop that their trust is not misplaced.

To one and all, whether you are with us or against us, we say let us all pull together for the upbuilding of Chilton county first, Alabama next, as well as for the Union which embraces all.

The State Normal School at Jacksonville, opened its twentieth session October the first with the largest attendance known since its establishment as a normal school.
Students are here from every section of the State, many counties being represented in the enrollment while other students are coming daily. Prof. Eugene M. Murphy has been installed as teacher of English in the place of Prof. L. W.
Payne, who is studying at the University of Pennsylvania. President Daugette is highly gratified at the opening and expresses his belief that the attendance will exceed that of any previous year in the history of the institution.—Age Herald.

Thorsby has a new Republican paper and its editor's name is Denis. That will be the name of the paper after the November election.
In make-up and composition it looks like a Chinese puzzle.—Montevallo Sentinel.

A RINGING ADDRESS.

To the Voters of Alabama:

The Democratic party calls upon its members and earnestly asks the help of all conservative voters in the State to elect its ticket in the coming election so as to insure the best legislation to finish and crown its great work of constitutional reform, and to obtain the most efficient, economical and wise administration of the laws. Its nominees for office are honest, intelligent and capable men who are worthy of confidence and support. Those of them who are now in office, whether State or Federal, have demonstrated by actual service their fitness for the positions they seek.

The party's record in the past is its best claim to the support and confidence of our citizens, and that record is written upon the statute books and shines in its administration of State affairs, of which it has had full control for more than a quarter of a century. It derived its right to administer the government from the white people of the State and pledged to do so it has maintained white supremacy in all the counties. Economy and a due regard for taxpayers have marked its appropriation for governmental purposes, and honestly prevails in the expenditure of public funds. The laws have been framed with intelligence and executed with ability.
No favoritism obtains toward the strong or great and there has been no failure to protect the weak. Upright and learned judges sit upon the bench in all the courts and justice is neither bought nor sold. The Democratic party is responsible for these conditions and it still remains, as it has always been, true to the principles of liberty, of self-government and the rights of the citizen.

When it became necessary in order to rid our State of intolerable political conditions to advocate a change in our fundamental law, our party boldly took the initiative and advocated the calling of a Constitutional Convention. That convention was held and the new Constitution was submitted to the people for ratification or rejection. Good Democrats favored its ratification and good Democrats favored its rejection, but it was ratified and is now our organic law. There is no reason why the differences which arose between the white people on that issue should any longer exist. Our party remained true to its promise that no
white man should be denied registration. The Republican party did not aid in the adoption of the new constitution, but opposed it and is now criticizing its provisions. By attacking that instrument, the Republican party has again made it an issue and our party will not retreat before its assailants. Many new and beneficial provisions have been incorporated in the new Constitution,
among which may be mentioned:
The plan adopted to insure white supremacy; the provisions to secure honest elections; larger appropriations for the public schools; a reduction of tax rate; fewer sessions of the Legislature; abolition of the evils of local legislation. These and many other important changes were wrought by the new Constitution.
But our opponents do not take exceptions to these. They, or at least their nominee for Governor, in his opening speech, assailed the new Constitution because it provides for representation upon the basis of population. The basis of representation in the new Constitution is identical what it was under the old constitution, which was the first constitution adopted after the Democrats got control of the State government.
The basis is identical with what it

The Worst Form.

Multitudes are singing the praises
of Kodol, the new discovery which
is making so many sick people well
and weak people strong by digest-
ing what they eat, by cleansing and
sweetening the stomach and by
transforming their food into the
kind of pure, rich, red blood that
makes you feel good all over. Mrs.
Cranfill, of Troy, I. T., writes. For
a number of years I was troubled
with indigestion and dyspepsia
which grew into the worst form.
Finally I was induced to use Kodol
and after using four bottles I am
entirely cured. I heartily recommend Kodol to all sufferers from indigestion and dyspepsia. Take a dose after meals. It digests what you eat.

There is no disguising the fact that Bowie is very popular in this county. The people know that he has served them faithfully and they delight to honor him. It is a matter of common knowledge among our people that Bowie is the ablest man that this District has sent to Congress since the death of the lamented Forney who represented the old Seventh which now forms a part of this district. His record as an able, fearless debater,
his untiring and energetic labors for the interest of his district, his knowledge of the needs of our people and his persistent and earnest efforts to obtain them have won for him the esteem and admiration of our people to such an extent that he will carry this county by an overwhelming majority in November.—Edwardsville Standard News.

Old People Have Their Troubles
Mr. Francis Little of Benton Harbor, Mich., is over eighty years of age. Since 1865 he has been troubled more or less with indigestion and constipation and has tried almost everything in use for those ailments. Last August he began using Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and was soon feeling much better. In a recent letter he says, "I have used three boxes of the Tablets and now think I am well." These Tablets improve the appetite and invigorate the stomach, liver and bowels. For Sale by Hopkins Drug Co., and A. Horn, Thorsby.

was in the construction of 1868, which was the constitution adopted and promulgated by the Republican party while in power. The same basis is found in the constitution of the United States, and is the one on which the electoral college is based and the one upon which we elect Representatives to Congress. The doctrine, as old as our Government, that there should be no taxation without Representation, must be ignored if any other basis be adopted. And it speaks well for the new constitution and bad for the Republican party that the only provisions which they criticize are those which have been in the old constitution for years. If the basis was wrong, why was not the wrong discovered in 1875 or 1868, or when the constitution of the United States was adopted? From time to time, efforts have been made in congress looking to the reduction of the South's representation in congress and the electoral college. This was notably true in the bill known as the Crumpacker resolution. And who knows but that the Republican attack on the representation basis in the new constitution is not another move in the direction of accomplishing the nefarious purposes of the Crumpacker bill?

The Republican party is organized in this State, and is seeking the suffrages of our people. Its leaders have announced the purpose to make that party "respectable." There is certainly room for improvement in Alabama over what it has been, for in the past it has been held together by the "cohesive power of public plunder." It had absolute control of the State government during the period elapsing between the end of the war and 1874 when an outraged people hurled it from power. Its acts during that period make the darkest pages in all our history; corruption stalked in high places and venality seems to have afforded a passport to political favor. When that party took charge of affairs in our State, it found a State debt of $3,500,000. When it went out of office and in less than ten out of the hard earnings of the poorly paid teachers. As a consequence there was no public schools in the State, save in localities where they were sustained by private subscription. This utter disregard of the right to have public funds honestly and economically applied was ended more than twenty-five years ago and the conditions then prevailing will, it is to be hoped, never be duplicated, but the Republican party still remains true to its record in extravagant expenditure of public money. Its policy is to raise all the money it can by iniquitous taxation and to spend it with reckless indifference to the burdens of the tax-payers. If the country was startled a few years ago by what was known as a billion dollar congress, what is to be said and done when we have a billion dollar session of congress? The last session of congress appropriated the people's money including the appropriation for the isthmian canal and contracts authorized to be entered into in addition to specific appropriations to an amount exceeding one billion of dollars.

The differences between Democratic and Republican administration in this regard can best be shown by a comparison of the appropriations for the fiscal year of 1896 when Democrats had control of the government with appropriations for the fiscal year 1903 while Republicans are in power.

The agricultural bill shows an increase of $1,905,210. The army bill shows an increase of over $68 - 000,000 a sum four times greater than were the appropriations for the support of the military establishment for the year 1896

The diplomatic and consular act shows an increase of $383,466. The District of Columbia act shows a decrease of $2,800,000. The fortification bill shows an increase of $5,394,000. The Indian bill shows an increase of $381,000. The legislative, executive and judicial bill shows an increase of $3,506,000. The Military Academy bill shows an increase of $2,163,000. The naval bill shows an increase of over $49,000,000. The post-office bill shows an increase of $49,000,000. The sundry civil bill shows an increase of 13,550,000. For deficiencies there is an increase of $18,000,000. Other increases were made and in short, comparing all appropriations under the last Democratic congress with those during the late session of a Republican congress, we find that the latter exceed the former by over $500,000,000. And these appropriations and authorised contracts call for the expenditure of public moneys are in excess of the estimated revenues of the government to an amount approximating $400,000,000.

So it is we affirm that the record of the Republican party in its manipulation of public funds in Alabama finds it counterpart in the record of that same party in national affairs in 1902. Time has not abated its ardor in that direction. Where is this money to come from except from the pockets of the taxpayers?

Natural Anxiety.

Mothers regard approaching winter with uneasiness, children take cold so easily. No disease costs more little lives than croup. It is a task so sudden that the sufferer is often before human aid before the doctor arrives. Such cases yield readily to One Minute Cough Cure. Liquidifies the mucus, allays inflammation, removes danger. Absolutely safe. Acts immediately. Cures coughs, colds, grip, bronchitis, all throat and lung trouble. F. S. McMahon, Hampton, Ga.: "A bad cold rendered me voiceless just before an oratorical contest. I intended to withdraw but took One Minute Cough Cure. It restored my voice in time to win the medal."

A large crowd is expected at Clanton on Saturday at the public speaking when the Republican nominee for governor is to be here.

The system is, from nature's custom, debilitated or run-down both in the spring and fall. The immune elements are always a little weaker in the human organism. The blood becomes impure in the spring, and vitality impure in the fall. A little care, a little maintenance, and nature will do the rest, as it is always trying to maintain health. Frequently the weakest organs will show the most disorder, and this often leads to wrong treatment.

For the debilitated condition of spring or fall, or any other time, for that matter, the right thing to do is to build up the whole system. It is to put your stomach, or liver, or nerves alone that cause the trouble; you are weakened all over and must be renewed strength and vitality. You cannot get so quickly or surely as by using safety as by using

When you use Dr. Haster's Iron Tonic you are helping to renew the vigor of every fibre of your body. You are cleansing and enriching your blood; you are strengthening your stomach and increasing the digestive fluids, you are building up and renewing the activity of your kidneys and liver; and you are feeding and revitalizing your nervous system. You cannot do this without getting well, and you cannot take Dr. Haster's Iron Tonic without doing it.

CLANTON, ALA. THURSDAY OCTOBER 30, 1902

NO. 2

THE MAN ON THE CORNER

Some of the Sights He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.

I will sing you a song, like a good Democrat, addressed to the boys who don't know where they're at. If you're a Dem you're alright, if a Rep you're all wrong. It's the Pop that I'm after in singing this song.

The Dems and the Reps they could never agree. And the Pop used to think he was best of the three.

But his party is dead, so where shall he belong?

I do hate to see a Pop ever go wrong.

There's just two ways to go, and betwixt you and me.

A true Pop can't be Rep, they won't mix, don't you see?

Protection, high tariff, why there you must stop.

All that you can't swallow if you e'er were a Pop.

The other way is quite plain, it's as clear as the day.

The Dems have your platform so with them you'll stay.

Your Reps we don't want, and we tell 'em quite flat.

When a Pop ain't a Pop he's a good Democrat.

And Lewis can tell you the way how to flop.

Sometimes he's a Dem, then a Rep, then a Pop.

Next Tuesday we're going to cause him to flop.

And henceforth he will stay and attend to the shop.

There was a goodly crowd in town last Saturday morning, and the court house was comfortably filled to hear Hon. J. A. W. Smith, Republican nominee for Governor, expound the principles of Republicanism and offer reasons why the people of Chilton should support him and his ticket. Col. Robt. H. Knox, an old time Republican, was chairman of the meeting and, with this exception, Mr. Smith's most prominent supporters were all of the new breed of Republicanism.

Mr. Smith is not by any means an orator, and he made a quiet, uninteresting talk for an hour and ten minutes. He indulged in none of those high-flown, reckless charges against the Democratic party with which Mr. Reynolds and others of his kind are wont to regale us. He spoke like a gentleman, and as a gentleman, and therefore commanded and received the earnest attention of those he was addressing, but otherwise his speech apparently made no impression. Among other things he said was: "That the constitutional convention was called for the sole purpose of giving the people of Alabama honest elections." And that is a very good argument indeed why all should vote to retain the Democratic party in power, and assist them in this meritorious cause.

Ex-Congressman M. W. Howard is a speaker of an entirely different calibre from Mr. Smith. He appeals to the weaker side of human nature. He causes one to laugh at the moment, and, if his advice is followed, to weep in the future, when he will be far away and unable to console us with his funny tales. Mr. Smith endeavors to convince you with fair argument on the justness of his cause; Mr. Howard tries to carry you with him by narrating comical anecdotes at which one can but laugh, but have in them nothing of a convincing nature. Mr. Howard made one remarkable statement: "The Populist party is not dead, only resting."

Then what, in the name of common sense, is he so busily engaged in trying to get the Populists to go into the Republican party for?

Jemison, Oct. 27, 1902

Editor Banner.—If M. W. Whatley and Lewis Reynolds would go all over the State making such speeches as they made here on last Thursday night, they would certainly help the Democratic ticket in the November election. Just such speeches are the very things to disgust all voters who think for themselves, and cause them to vote the Democratic ticket, even if they had not intended to do so.

Whatley in his insane attempt to disparage the new constitution, asserted that the new constitution's basis of representation is wholly unjust, because Dallas county with only about 2000 voters is given two representatives and one senator, while many of the white counties, each with two, three or four times as many voters, were forced to the basis of one representative and one-half to one-third a senator, when he well knows that the basis of representation is the population as shown by the census of 1900, and not the constitution of the State. He spreads himself making just such misrepresentations as these, knowing that many of his hearers do not know any better, and by this means he can make a few votes for his ticket.

Then Lewis Reynolds got up here in his own home precinct and asserted that the new constitution has disfranchised 160 white men in Chilton county, when he well knows that the "new constitution" has not disfranchised a single white man in Chilton county nor in the State of Alabama. Yet he will assert that this is a certain fact, and that hundreds of white men all over the State are disfranchised by the new constitution and, at the same time loudly vociferating and reiterating that he never tries to deceive the people, that he has never, in any manner tried to deceive the people or misrepresent things in any particular, yet, he, with brazen effrontery, asserts here at his own home, before people who have honored and supported him heretofore, people, many of whom he knows will believe whatever he says regarding the new constitution, things which he is well aware that quite a number of those listening to him know to be untrue and know that Lewis Reynolds knows them to be untrue. Suppose I fail to avail myself of the opportunity God has placed before me for my salvation, would Lewis Reynolds say that God made me purposely to damn me? There would be equally as much propriety in such assertions; if a white man fails to avail himself of the opportunity the new constitution has placed before him—that is, if a white man is too trifling to pay $1.50 towards the education of the rising generation, he ought to be disfranchised. L. H. Reynolds well knows that if any white man in Alabama is disfranchised that it is a voluntary act on the part of such man; Lewis Reynolds well knows there is not a white man in Alabama, worthy the name of "white man," who cannot get $1.50 to pay his poll tax if he so desires. Just such "bosh," just such misrepresentations, will disgust sensible men in other places as it did here. It is a certain fact that Lewis Reynolds lost votes by his speech at Jemison last Thursday night. There are parties here who, although differing with him politically, had the utmost confidence in Lewis Reynolds up to last Thursday night, parties who were utterly dumbfounded and disgusted by some of his utterances here that night; parties who did not believe that he would make such assertions until they heard him. This is one reason why I say that if Lewis will make such speeches all over the county, that T. U. Crumpton will represent Chilton county in the Pleasant Grove.

The beautiful autumn is here, when the works of nature so sweetly invites us to contemplate the Creator's goodness.

We are expecting to hear the wedding bells again in this wide-awake community.

Mrs. Wright and Mrs. McCrary recently visited in West Chilton.

Mrs. Cochran has been visiting near Clanton.

Messrs. Smitherman, Thomas and Ward are taking in the State Fair.

The gold question is running it, it is next to politics; really we think the noise is greater.

The crops will soon be gathered.

The sad intelligence of the death of Mr. John Lowery of Clear Creek has reached us. Mr. Lowery once resided in this community.

We sympathize with Judge Honeycutt in the death of his aged mother.

The series of meetings conducted by our retiring pastor, Bro. Smitherman, at Marshall, a neighboring church, were quite successful, there were sixteen added to the church by baptism.

Mr. John Hubbard has the contract for carrying the mail from Hubbard to Jemison.

Mr. J. M. Price recently visited relatives near Thorsby.

A few more days and the din of politics will cease. Then we should not get excited over the trend of politics in present governments where the golden rule is not in power. But let us be more interested in earth's rightful coming king, who will take to himself His great power to rule the nations. Then the golden rule will be in force. "Thy kingdom come, thy will be done in earth as it is done in heaven."

We learn that Commissioner Glascock has sold some of his property to the Gold Mining company.

Mrs. and Mrs. W. H. Wyatt visited relatives near Providence Sunday.

We are glad that Mr. W. B. Cox, who has been sick for several weeks, is improving; we hope he will soon recover. Our sympathy is for him in his afflictions, but God does all things well.

Autumn has come and the little squirrel may hide or they will be killed. Messrs. W. H. Wyatt and B. H. Robinson went hunting on the river Saturday and killed just six of the little squirrels.

Thorsby.

Thorsby is going right ahead, many new buildings are going up, another church is being erected, the waterworks are being extended, franchises for telephone and electric lights have been granted by the city council; the Normal School is well patronized, the cannery and other factories are a big thing for the town. The Thorsby Times, the new republican weekly, is making things still more lively, and everybody wants to move to Thorsby.

Desirable building lots are already scarce and there is a big demand for houses. We need 25 more houses in Thorsby at once, and in another year we will need 50 more.

In order to make room for this expansion I have been induced to put upon the market a couple of my tracts located right in the heart of the city, the finest residence property in Thorsby. I will sell these tracts as a whole, or subdivide them into smaller tracts or lots to suit the purchasers. If you want a safe and profitable investment there is nothing better, if you want a choice residence location with magnificent view of all the surrounding town and country there is nothing to equal it. As the town grows, this property is bound to enhance in value. If you have the cash, buy now and double your money.

THE STATE TREASURY GROVER CLEVELAND ELECTRICAL MINING ILLITERACY CENSUS. WHEELS OF INDUSTRY GOOD ROADS PEC

Report of Its Condition for the Last Year.

State Auditor Sowell has made public the following statement that shows the condition of the state treasury at the close of the fiscal year, September 30, 1902:

1901—
Oct. 1, by balance in treasury $ 488,497.39
By cash paid into the treasury from all sources during year 2,908,714.37
By warrants in favor of soldiers and widows returned to the auditor and cancelled 4,915.19
To warrants drawn on the state treasury during year $2,691,667.25 1902—
Sept. 30 to balance in treasury 710,495.70
$3,402,120.95 $3,402,120.95

Oct. 1 by balance in treasury $ 710,495.70
By cash in treasury above $ 729,351.86
By outstanding warrants 18,892.16
$ 729,351.86 $ 729,351.86
The outstanding warrants, if paid, would make the balance in the treasury as above stated.

Once More a Defendant.

R. D. Coffman, a justice of the peace at Brookside, and Fred Estes, also of Brookside, were arrested and placed in the Birmingham jail on a charge of murder. They are accused of killing George Johnson at Warner's mines, about two weeks ago.

Johnson, whom it is said was shot by Coffman and Estes, died last Wednesday. He was shot through and through at Warner's mines on the night of the 18th.

Coffman denies the charge and says he is being persecuted by Coroner Paris.

Coffman was tried here several months ago on a charge of killing the Rev. J. D. Bradford, the Methodist minister at Brookside and was acquitted.

Located at Gadsden.

The new blast iron furnace and steel plant to be erected by the Alabama Steel and Wire company, owned by the Messrs. Schuler, will be located in Gadsden.

The company proposes erecting four blast iron furnaces and a big steel plant. Only one furnace and the steel plant will be erected at once, however. The company may expend $3,000,000 before their plans, as already outlined, are completed.

The erection of this furnace and steel plant, to be followed by the construction of four or five other furnaces at the same place, may attract several other large plants, so it is figured that no less than $10,000,000 in all will be expended in and about Gadsden.

A party of representative men from Kansas City are inspecting southern cotton mills with a view of bringing their observations to bear on a large cotton mill project for Kansas City. They spent some time at the Avondale mills. From Birmingham they go to Atlanta and from Atlanta to Augusta.

"I do not think that I am betraying any confidence when I say that Major General Sam Young will be next lieutenant general of the army," said Major General Corbin. General Young would have about a year to serve in that grade if he is made lieutenant general.

Attempted Murder.

Miss Queenie Parr, who resides in East Birmingham, had a narrow escape from death at the hands of a would-be assassin Saturday night. She was shot at three times while in the door at her mother's home, and every one of the shots came within a few inches of striking her. It is believed that the shots were fired by some one who was inspired by jealousy.

The Sloss-Sheffield's No. 4 furnace at North Birmingham, which has been undergoing repairs since October 15, will be in operation again this week.

Willie Beaver, a sawyer in a pencil factory at Paint Rock, accidentally saved one of his fingers off Saturday.

The past week saw the opening of the sugar grinding season in the southern states. The yield is below the average, but a plentiful supply of labor, a prospect of good weather conditions and fair prices for the product make the outlook satisfactory.

Will Make Political Speeches in the East.

For the first time since he left the White House former President Cleveland will take the stump in a political campaign and speak at a democratic rally in Morristown, N. J., on the evening of October 20. He will address the voters for the benefit of the party in general in Morris county and particularly to help the canvass of Dwight C. Glanagans, nominee of the fifth district.

Elizabeth Cady Stanton Dead.

Elizabeth Cady Stanton, the woman suffragist, died Sunday at her home in New York. Old age was given as the cause of death. She was conscious almost to the last. About a week ago Mrs. Stanton began to fail rapidly. This became more noticeable last week and then it was known to the family that her death was only a question of days or hours.

The Three in Session

Emperor William will arrive in England in November and by that time it is expected King Carlos of Portugal also will be a guest of King Edward. There is every reason to believe that the meeting of the three monarchs will result in important international understandings, especially as regards South Africa, and more particularly Delagoa bay, which is so vitally important to Great Britain as an outlet for newly acquired colonies. The Portuguese government appears willing to transfer some portions of its South African territory to British rule. Germany, however, is understood to be strenuously opposed to British trade securing such an advantage—at any rate, unless Portugal is willing to placate Germany by granting her some similar concession, and it is believed that before the emperor and King Carlos leave England a bargain will be arranged.

President Hadley, of Yale university, in addressing the Connecticut State Teachers' Association on the subject, "The present rate of expenditure in public schools is much too low," said that the American people could not afford to persist in this course. He mentioned some of the disappointments connected with popular education as follows: The persistence of gambling, the lack of any successful method of overcoming intemperance, the failure of universal suffrage to produce good government in large cities, the quality of popular theaters, the nature of daily reading matter supplied to the public, the tenacity of the spoils system in the civil service, and the increasing frequency of labor strikes.

Big College Offer.

At a meeting of the teachers and college trustees of Columbia university it was announced that John D. Rockefeller had offered to give $500,000 to the college, provided that the college could raise $100,000 to pay off the debt of the institution and $250,000 besides.

Newspaper Purchases.

C. P. J. Mooney, for six years managing editor and editor of the Commercial-Appeal and widely known in newspaper circles throughout the country, has tendered his resignation. It is understood that Mr. Mooney will go with Frank A. Munsey, who is establishing a chain of newspapers in the principal cities.

Heavy rains have done great damage in Georgia.

Indianapolis' grand jury has found twenty-five indictments for body stealing.

The Louisville Commercial and its evening edition, The News, have been purchased by an eastern company. The consideration was not announced.

A Swede named Johnson was so determined to reach America that he stowed himself away on board ship and then removed a body from a coffin, crawled in and smuggled himself into port.

The London Chamber of Commerce Journal reports a marked reduction in the wages of labor in England. It is estimated that the net decrease in the wage bill last year was about $7,920,000, compared with a net increase of $30,000,000 in 1900. This foreshadows a relapse from the prosperity of the last few years.

Crushed Under Coal.

Sam Roberts, a white miner, aged about 45 and with a family, was killed Friday in the mines at Pinekey City by falling coal. He was in his room in the mine when the coal fell without the least warning. Co-laborers in the mines gave him every assistance, but it was to no avail, so he was in the throes of death before he could be reached.

To be Inaugurated in Walker County.

The Corona Coal and Iron company, which operates mines at Corona, Patton, Coal Valley and Lookhart, is installing a $50,000 electric plant at Corona, which will include coal cutting machines, known as chain cutters. These cutters will be the first electrical devices of the kind ever operated in Alabama. It is understood that similar devices will be installed at Nauvoo later on. It is said that the company which is furnishing the plant made a special effort to start at Corona on account of the exceptionally favorable conditions of the seam of coal there. Two electric locomotives will also be operated at Corona, and it is said they are to be models of modern ingenuity. The company has built already 600 houses for its miners and many more houses are in course of construction. The number of men employed is already very large, but it is said that at least 200 additional men are needed; possibly 250.

Brewton Milling.

The Cedar Creek Mill company of Brewton will build a sash and door factory as an annex to their large saw mill plant. The factory will cost between $17,000 and $20,000 and will be completed about March or April, 1903.

The company claims that it can make doors cheaper than any factory yet erected. It proposes to make use of the pine slabs which, instead of being destroyed or used as fuel will be resawed so that it will be good material for the manufacture of doors. If this method can be carried out successfully it is estimated that doors can be turned out at a fabulously low price.

Timber has overlapped all records in price, bringing now 17 1/2 cents per cubic foot. The company has just refused a contract for the year's output of its plant on the guarantee price of 17 1/2 cents. The company is cutting day and night and is averaging a great output.

Director Owen sets a high value on a set of newspaper files just received at the history department. They are bound volumes of the Shelby Sentinel running from September 9, 1875, to June 8, 1902. Also unbound files from August 3, 1893, to November 2, 1899. The department makes a specialty of newspaper files, taking the view that they embody and preserve the real history of the people. This presentation is by N. A. Graham, of Calera, who edited the Sentinel.

Land has been donated to the Tennessee and Alabama railroad, which is to be built between Florence and Clifton, Tenn., by the Bellamy Planing Mill company, the Alabama State company and the Tennessee Valley Fertilizer company. The people of this section are intensely interested in the new road and the promoter promises that the work of construction will begin at an early day.

Alabama Gets the Banner.

With the hymn, "God Be With You Till We Meet Again" and the benediction the great convention of the national W. G. T. U. in Maine ended. The meeting place for next year has not been decided upon, but the belief is general that it will be held in some city of the middle West. New Orleans and Portland, Ore., asked for the convention in 1905. The prize pro rata membership flag was presented to the Alabama union.

The Southern Car and Foundry company has completed one large barge and has launched it and will soon have two more in the water. These barges will be used to haul wood to the furnace of this company.

New Power Co.

The Merchants' Light and Power company of Montgomery completed its organization with a capital of $100,000, nearly all of which has been paid in. The company will at once erect the necessary buildings. The street car company has bought half of it and will cover 130x300 feet with new brick car barns and repair shops. It will not for the present go into the residence part of the city.

A Carrollton, Ga., woman was granted two divorces in one day last week.

A revolution in the photographic art is predicted by European photographic journals on account of a new developing process which does away with the tedious dark room work. Plates are allowed to soak in the developer for hours or even over night with best results. The new solution costs almost nothing, thus having the advantage of economy in many ways than one.

Turtle Shell as a Pension Witness.

The census office has issued a statement giving a compilation of figures regarding illiteracy among children of immigrants and children of natives. The statement says:

"Confining the comparison to children between the ages of 10 and 14 years in the United States as a whole 95.6 per cent of the native white children of native parents and 90.1 per cent of the native white children of foreign born parents are able to read and write.

"This surprising difference in favor of the children of the foreign born population is due largely to the fact that the children of foreign born immigrants live mainly in the northern and western states where the public school systems have already reached a high degree of efficiency, while great numbers of native white children of native parents live in the southern states and in that region about 10 per cent of such children are illiterate. When the comparison is carried out by geographic divisions the difference between the two classes in each part of the United States, except the South Atlantic states, is found to be much less than in the whole country. Yet these figures indicate that in every region except the north Atlantic states the illiterate children of immigrant whites are a larger per cent of the whole number of such children than the illiterate children of native whites are of all children of native whites.

"This is partly explained by the clustering of immigrants and their children mainly in the cities and towns, while the native white children of native parents live more generally in the rural districts.

"It will be noticed, however, that the foregoing figures relate exclusively to immigrants who have been in the country long enough for their children born there to have reached the age of ten years."

How Young America Stands in the Schools

The grand total of 17,290,230 pupils attending the public and private schools of this country is recorded in the annual report of United States Commissioner of Education William T. Harris for the year ended June 30. This is an increase of 278,520 over the previous year. Besides these nearly 500,000 were enrolled in the special night and trades schools of the cities. Value of school property rose to $576,963,089, excluding colleges. The expenditure per capita was $2.93 as compared with $1.64 in 1870 and $2.83 last year.

United States Consul Evans forwarded to the pension bureau in Washington what is probably the most curious voucher of identification ever filed in a pension case. The voucher consists of the shell of a field tortoise with the name "Bob Williams" scratched on the under side. It was sent to Consul General Evans from Christ Church, New Zealand, where the applicant for pension is now living, and is accompanied by letters and affidavits which explain that the soldier's real name is William Wright, but that he enlisted under the name of Williams. Wright or Williams says in his application that he caught the tortoise during the Shenandoah campaign and afterwards gave the shell to Mrs. Mary Johnson, of Port Henry, Essex county, New York, who kept it until recently, when Wright decided to apply for a pension and sent to New York for the shell in order to identify himself as "Williams" under which name he served.

Andrew Carnegie was formally installed as rector of St. Andrew University, Scotland, Wednesday. In his address Mr. Carnegie declared that England's industrial supremacy had been lost forever. Honorary degrees were conferred on Ambassadors Choate and White, Professor Graham Bell, Henry White and Mr. Carnegies.

Attorney General Knox has decided that if the United States should accept the offer of the new Panama Canal company, submitted last spring for the sale of the canal for $40,000,000, it would receive through the parties in interest a valid and unencumbered title to the property. This decision was arrived at after a thorough and exhaustive investigation of the situation in Paris, first by Special Attorney Charles W. Russell and later by the attorney general himself. The attorney general formally submitted the opinion to President Roosevelt today. It makes about 300 pages.

A dispatch from Winnipeg, Canada, said an army of 1,000 Kumbukobers were marching toward Yanton to demand food of the authorities. They have threatened to burn the town if their demands were not complied with.

Ho Yew, Chinese consul at San Francisco, says that Minister Wu Ting-fang is not to be recalled from Washington, as reported, but will remain in his present capacity indefinitely.

Continue to Move and Grind Out Big Profits.

There will be in blast in Georgia within a few months one of the largest coke furnaces in the South and the only one in Georgia which will have a capacity of 200 tons of pig iron per day. The Georgia Iron and Coal company is rehabilitating its furnace plant at Rising Fawn, Ga., which, it is expected, will go in blast early in the new year. The company is also extending its operations at its coal mines, coke ovens, iron ore mines and limestone quarry to provide ample supply of raw material for its furnace needs. The very large quantity of iron ore which has been going into other states to be made up into pig iron will now remain and be smelted into iron in Georgia, thus saving an immense profit which has been yearly going to Alabama and other states where furnaces are situated. The daily pay roll of this company will amount to about $2,000, thus bringing to Georgia no less than $730,000 yearly.

The Georgia Iron and Coal company was chartered in 1873, and has owned and worked extensive brown hematite and gray specular iron ore and manganese ore lands. It required until a reorganization in 1900 the properties of the Walker Iron and Coal company, consisting of the Rising Fawn furnace and about 9,000 acres of coal and iron ore lands, the properties of the Castle Rock Coal company and the Dade Coal and Coke company, consisting of 23,000 acres of coal lands, the properties of the Bartow Iron and Manganese company and the Iron Belt Railroad Mining company, consisting of about 15,000 acres of brown hematite and gray specular iron ore and manganese ore lands.

Coal Situation.

The coal situation in the United States has drawn attention to a parliamentary paper just issued, dealing with the consumption and production of coal in Great Britain and elsewhere. The production of coal last year in the United Kingdom is given as 219,047,000 tons; in the United States, 260,929,000 tons; in Germany, 108,417,000 tons; in France, 31,613,000 tons, and so on.

It is pointed out that the amounts produced in 1901 were in most cases less than in the preceding year, although the production of the United States still continues to increase, and has now for three consecutive years exceeded that of the United Kingdom.

The total known coal production of the world (exclusive of brown coal) is now nearly 700,000,000 tons of 2,240 pounds per annum.

The very slight rise in price which has accompanied the enormously increased output of the United States in recent years is striking.

The Chattanooga Southern railroad has recently purchased 15,000 acres of fine mineral land within 12 miles of Gadsden. This land consists of some as fine coal lands as any in the state. It is the intention of the Chattanooga Southern road to develop the mines to their fullest capacity.

The boring of the oil well at Roberts has been abandoned by the contractors. They bored to a depth of 800 feet and have a huge stream of artesian water, but no oil was promised. The local stockholders will lose nothing, as the contract of the Beaumont syndicate was to reach a depth of 2,000 feet.

Because of bad weather conditions the year's vintage throughout Europe is far below the normal in quantity and of doubtful quality. French vintage is estimated at 880,000,000 gallons. In 1901 it was 1,364,000,000 gallons. A rise in the price of wines is the result.

Against the Trust.

The independent steel men of the Pittsburgh district made one of the largest purchases of iron ore ever recorded Tuesday, headed by the Crucible Steel Company. It comprised a tract of iron lands in northern Michigan and Minnesota valued at $88,000,000. This purchase is believed to be part of a plan to oppose indefinitely the steel trust.

The Herreshoff, Bristol, R. I., ship designers who built former defenders of the America's cup, have received the order for next year's defender.

Whittier's Home.

The Whittier homestead, at Haverhill, which was damaged by fire last week, is to be restored to exactly the old lines, says a Boston dispatch. The ancient furniture and the desk of his grandfather on which Whittier wrote his first verses, and as it happened also the last poem he ever wrote, will go back where it stood two generations and perhaps three before his birth.

Want a State Tax of 50c $100 Valuation.

A levy for roads was introduced by the North Alabama Good Roads association Tuesday. The association convened in Birmingham, and before the end of the session a resolution was adopted that it was the sense of the body that the constitution of Alabama should be amended so as to authorize a special tax of 50 cents on every valuation of $100, the tax to apply to a fund to build and keep in repair court houses, jails, bridges and public roads.

This session of the association was the first held since its organization, and a number were present and lively interest taken in the talks.

Before adjournment a motion requesting all of the probate judges of north Alabama to send the secretary a statement of the number of miles of both good and bad roads in each county was carried. These statistics will be used by the association to further the interest of good roads.

Addresses were made to the association by R. R. Poole, commissioner of agriculture; John Craft, of Mobile, president of the South Alabama Good Roads association; J. P. B. Jackson, road supervisor of Jefferson county, and others.

In his speech Commissioner Poole said there was no good reason why there should not be good roads in every part of the state. He said he considered the question of good roads one of the greatest importance, and that people could no longer do without them. He stated that probably the most important subject discussed at the national farmers' convention recently held in Macon, Ga., was that of roads. He urged those present to ask the legislators to do their duty toward good roads in Alabama. In concluding he said he hoped every one present would attend the State Good Roads convention in Montgomery next month.

Iron Committee.

The Southern Iron committee, composed of the tariff representatives of the railroads carrying pig iron from the southern field, saved several hundred thousand dollars in the aggregate to the iron companies by suspending the rule for an advance of 50 cents a ton on freight rates.

A statement of the action of the committee at its October meeting, held at the Hotel Hillman, follows:

"That on all sales made between January 1 and June 1, 1901, and properly registered by W. A. Moody, agent, rates in effect at that date of sale will be protected until December 31, 1902.

"Second That on all sales made June 1, 1902, to September 4, 1902, inclusive, rates in effect at date of sale will be protected to December 31, 1902, inclusive.

"Third. That on all sales made on and after September 5, 1902, and properly registered, the rates in effect September 15 will be protected to March 15, 1903, not later."

Shooting near Troy.

News comes from Troy of what is thought to be a double killing at Spring Hill. Henry Johnson, white, and a negro named Prior had a dispute, and both being armed they opened fire on each other, Johnson shooting Prior in the neck, killing him instantly. The negro as he fell shot Johnson in the upper portion of the chest and it is thought that he is fatally wounded.

The plant of the Forest Hardwood Manufacturing Company at Little Rock, Ark., was partly destroyed by fire, entailing a loss of $100,000, which is well covered by insurance.

General Uribe Uribe has been captured with considerable army supplies.

Hurt by the Train

J. R. Povey, a car inspector on the Southern railroad, was badly bruised while working on a car. He was under a car when the engine struck it, dragging him quite a distance. Both of his lower limbs were badly bruised and he will be laid up for several weeks. While his wounds are painful, they are not serious.

William J. Bryan's special train in Colorado ran into a caboose and derailed it. No one was hurt, but the wreck obstructed the track for some time.

Because of the attitude of the Chinese government in regard to recent loan outrages, resulting in the death of the English missionaries, Lewis and Bruce, the British minister and entire staff returned the invitation of the emperor to attend a reception to the diplomatic corps October 15. They acted with full consent of authorities at London. All other countries were represented at the reception.

The company will at once erect the necessary buildings. The street car company has bought half of it and will cover 150x300 feet with new brick car barns and repair shops. It will not for the present go into the residence part of the city.

Crushed Under Coal.

Sam Roberts, a white miner, aged about 45 and with a family, was killed Friday in the mines at Flomick City by falling coal. He was in his room in the mine when the coal fell without the least warning. On-laborers in the mines gave him every assistance, but it was to no avail, as he was in the throat of death before he could be rescued.

To be Inaugurated in Walker County.

The Corona Coal and Iron company, which operates mines at Corona, Patton, Coal Valley and Lookhart, is installing a $50,000 electric plant at Corona, which will include coal cutting machines, known as chain cutters. These cutters will be the first electrical devices of the kind ever operated in Alabama. It is understood that similar devices will be installed at Nauvoo later on. It is said that the company which is furnishing the plant made a special effort to start at Corona on account of the exceptionally favorable conditions of the seam of coal there. Two electric locomotives will also be operated at Corona, and it is said they are to be models of modern ingenuity. The company has built already 600 houses for its miners and many more houses are in course of construction. The number of men employed is already very large, but it is said that at least 200 additional men are needed; possibly 250.

Brewton Milling.

The Cedar Creek Mill company of Brewton will build a ash and door factory as an annex to their large saw mill plant. The factory will cost between $17,000 and $20,000 and will be completed about March or April, 1903.

The company claims that it can make doors cheaper than any factory yet erected. It proposes to make use of the pine slabs which, instead of being destroyed or used as fuel will be re-used so that it will be good material for the manufacture of doors. If this method can be carried out successfully it is estimated that doors can be turned out at a fabulously low price.

Timber has overleaped all records in price, bringing now 17 1/2 cents per cubic foot. The company has just refused a contract for the year's output of its plant on the guarantee price of 17 1/2 cents. The company is cutting day and night and is averaging a great output.

Director Owen sets a high value on a set of newspaper files just received at the history department. They are bound volumes of the Shelby Sentinel running from September 9, 1875, to June 8, 1902. Also unbound files from August 3, 1893, to November 2, 1899. The department makes a specialty of newspaper files, taking the view that they embody and preserve the real history of the people. This presentation is by N. A. Graham, of Calera, who edited the Sentinel.

Land has been donated to the Tennessee and Alabama railroad, which is to be built between Florence and Clifton, Tenn., by the Bellamy Planing Mill company, the Alabama State company and the Tennessee Valley Fertilizer company.

The people of this section are intensely interested in the new road and the promoter promises that the work of construction will begin at an early day.

Alabama Gets the Banner.

With the hymn, "God Be With You Till We Meet Again" and the benediction the great convention of the national W. G. T. U. in Maine ended. The meeting place for next year has not been decided upon, but the belief is general that it will be held in some city of the middle West. New Orleans and Portland, Ore., asked for the convention in 1905. The prize pro rata membership flag was presented to the Alabama union.

Turtle Shell as a Pension Witness.

The census office has issued a statement giving a compilation of figures regarding illiteracy among children of immigrants and children of natives. The statement says:

"Comparing the comparison to children between the ages of 10 and 14 years in the United States as a whole 93.6 per cent of the native white children of native parents and 99.1 per cent of the native white children of foreign born parents are able to read and write.

"This surprising difference in favor of the children of the foreign born population is due largely to the fact that the children of foreign born immigrants live mainly in the northern and western states where the public school systems have already reached a high degree of efficiency, while great numbers of native white children of native parents live in the southern states and in that region about 10 per cent of such children are illiterate. When the comparison is carried out by geographic divisions the difference between the two classes in each part of the United States, except the South Atlantic states, is found to be much less than in the whole country. Yet these figures indicate that in every region except the north Atlantic states the literate children of immigrant whites are a larger per cent of the whole number of such children than the literate children of native whites are of all children of native whites.

"This is partly explained by the clustering of immigrants and their children mainly in the cities and towns, while the native white children of native parents live more generally in the rural districts.

"It will be noticed, however, that the foregoing figures relate exclusively to immigrants who have been in the country long enough for their children born there to have reached the age of ten years."

How Young America Stands in the Schools.

The grand total of 17,299,330 pupils attending the public and private schools of this country is recorded in the annual report of United States Commissioner of Education William T. Harris for the year ended June 30. This is an increase of 278,820 over the previous year. Besides these nearly 500,000 were enrolled in the special night and trades schools of the cities. Value of school property rose to $576,963,080, excluding colleges. The expenditure per capita was $2.93 as compared with $1.64 in 1870 and $2.83 last year.

United States Consul Evans forwarded to the pension bureau in Washington what is probably the most curious voucher of identification ever filed in a pension case. The voucher consists of the shell of a field tortoise with the name "Bob Williams" scratched on the under side. It was sent to Consul General Evans from Christ Church, New Zealand, where the applicant for pension is now living, and is accompanied by letters and affidavits which explain that the soldier's real name is William Wright, but that he enlisted under the name of Williams. Wright or Williams says in his application that he caught the tortoise during the Shenandoah campaign and afterwards gave the shell to Mrs. Mary Johnson, of Port Henry, Essex county, New York, who kept it until recently, when Wright decided to apply for a pension and sent to New York for the shell in order to identify himself as "Williams" under which name he served.

Against the Trust.

The independent steel men of the Pittsburgh district made one of the largest purchases of iron ore ever recorded Tuesday, headed by the Crucible Steel company. It comprised a tract of iron lands in northern Michigan and Minnesota valued at $68,000,000. This purchase is believed to be part of a plan to oppose indefinitely the steel trust.

Whittier's Home.

The Whittier homestead, at Haverhill, which was damaged by fire last week, is to be restored on exactly the old lines, says a Boston dispatch. The ancient furniture and the desk of his grandfather on which Whittier wrote his first verse, and as it happened also the last poem he ever wrote, will go back where it stood two generations and perhaps three before his birth.

Ho Yow, Chinese consul at San Francisco, says that Minister Wu Ting-fang is not to be recalled from Washington, as reported, but will remain in his present capacity indefinitely.

Continue to Move and Grind Out Big Profits.

There will be in blast in Georgia within a few months one of the largest coke furnaces in the South and the only one in Georgia which will have a capacity of 200 tons of pig iron per day. The Georgia Iron and Coal Company is rehabilitating its furnace plant at Rising Fawn, Ga., which, it is expected, will go in blast early in the new year. The company is also extending its operations at its coal mines, coke ovens, iron ore mines and limestone quarry to provide ample supply of raw material for its furnace needs. The very large quantity of iron ore which has been going into other states to be made up into pig iron will now remain and be smelted into iron in Georgia, thus saving an immense profit which has been yearly going to Alabama and other states where furnaces are situated. The daily pay roll of this company will amount to about $2,500, thus bringing into Georgia no less than $730,000 yearly.

The Georgia Iron and Coal company was chartered in 1873, and has owned and worked extensive brown hematite and gray specular iron ore and manganese ore lands. It required until a reorganization in 1900 the properties of the Walker Iron and Coal company, consisting of the Rising Fawn furnace and about 9,000 acres of coal and iron ore lands, the properties of the Castle Rock Coal company and the Dade Coal and Coke company, consisting of 23,000 acres of coal lands, the properties of the Bartow Iron and Manganese company and the Iron Belt Railroad Mining company, consisting of about 15,000 acres of brown hematite and gray specular iron ore and manganese ore lands.

Coal Situation.

The coal situation in the United States has drawn attention to a parliamentary paper just issued, dealing with the consumption and production of coal in Great Britain and elsewhere. The production of coal last year in the United Kingdom is given as 219,047,000 tons; in the United States, 260,920,000 tons; in Germany, 108,417,000 tons; in France, 31,613,000 tons, and so on.

It is pointed out that the amounts produced in 1901 were in most cases less than in the preceding year, although the production of the United States still continues to increase, and has now for three consecutive years exceeded that of the United Kingdom.

The total known coal production of the world (exclusive of brown coal) is now nearly 700,000,000 tons of 2,240 pounds per annum.

The very slight rise in price which has accompanied the enormously increased output of the United States in recent years is striking.

The Chattanooga Southern railroad has recently purchased 15,000 acres of fine mineral land within 12 miles of Gadsden. This land consists of some as fine coal lands as any in the state. It is the intention of the Chattanooga Southern road to develop the mines to their fullest capacity.

Shooting near Troy.

News comes from Troy of what is thought to be a double killing at Spring Hill. Henry Johnson, white, and a negro named Prior had a dispute, and both being armed they opened fire on each other, Johnson shooting Prior in the neck, killing him instantly. The negro as he fell shot Johnson in the upper portion of the chest and it is thought that he is fatally wounded.

Want a State Tax of 50c $100 Valuation.

A levy for roads was introduced by the North Alabama Good Roads association Tuesday. The association convened in Birmingham, and before the end of the session a resolution was adopted that it was the sense of the body that the constitution of Alabama should be amended so as to authorize a special tax of 50 cents on every valuation of $100, the tax to apply to a fund to build and keep in repair coast houses, jails, bridges and public roads.

This session of the association was the first held since its organization, and a number were present and lively interest taken in the talks.

Before adjournment a motion requesting all of the probate judges of north Alabama to send the secretary a statement of the number of miles of both good and bad roads in each county was carried. These statistics will be used by the association to further the interest of good roads.

Addresses were made to the association by R. R. Poole, commissioner of agriculture; John Craft, of Mobile, president of the South Alabama Good Roads association; J. F. R. Jackson, road supervisor of Jefferson county, and others.

In his speech Commissioner Poole said there was no good reason why there should not be good roads in every part of the state. He said he considered the question of good roads one of the greatest importance, and that people could no longer do without them. He stated that probably the most important subject discussed at the national farmers' convention recently held in Macon, Ga., was that of roads. He urged those present to ask the legislators to do their duty toward good roads in Alabama. In concluding he said he hoped every one present would attend the State Good Roads convention in Montgomery next month.

Iron Committee.

The Southern Iron committee, composed of the tariff representatives of the railroads carrying pig iron from the southern field, saved several hundred thousand dollars in the aggregate to the iron companies by suspending the rule for an advance of 50 cents a ton on freight rates.

A statement of the action of the committee at its October meeting, held at the Hotel Hillman, follows:

"That on all sales made between January 1 and June 1, 1901, and properly registered by W. A. Moody, agent, rates in effect at that date of sale will be protected until December 31, 1902.

"Second. That on all sales made June 1, 1902, to September 4, 1902, inclusive, rates in effect at date of sale will be protected to December 31, 1902, inclusive.

"Third. That on all sales made on and after September 5, 1902, and properly registered, the rates in effect September 15 will be protected to March 15, 1903, not later."

MR. EDWARDS, the nominee of the Republican party for Congress, of this district, has addressed a circular letter to the voters of the district, asking for their support. In this letter he plants himself squarely on all the policies of the Republican party, and mentions especially his belief in a high protective tariff, in the policy of imperialism as being practised by his party, and in the gold standard to the perpetuation of which his party is committed, and in all the rest of the Republican policies which have been breeding trusts, increasing the cost of living, and putting the profit of labor into the pockets of the corporations. Of course no Democrats will agree with him in these views,
and he will get none of their votes.
No true Populist can follow him along these lines of national politics, and none of them should allow themselves to be led into voting for him. Mr. Edwards has been a Democrat, then a Populist, and now a Republican. He left the Democratic party because they would not continue in office. He was nominated for office by the Populists and left the State in the midst of the campaign, leaving his party without a standard bearer.
Now he is a Republican for the purpose of getting himself in line for a slice of Federal pie. Mr. Bowie, the Democratic nominee, stands squarely for the very opposite of the policies enumerated above, and has already shown his ability and readiness to serve all the people of the district in a manner which is not open to the least complaint.
Every Democrat should make it a point to go to the polls, and give him an endorsement, and every Populist ought to vote for him in the absence of a candidate of their own party.

To the Voters of Chilton County:

The Republicans in this campaign have labored hard to arouse your prejudices against Democrats. They have charged us with disfranchising white men which they know we have not done. They have charged us with changing the law that gives white children the white poll tax, and negro children the negro poll tax, when they know that the law on this point has not been changed. They charge the Democratic party with discriminating in the interest of the black counties and against this county in the distribution of the school funds, when they know that any advantage that the black counties may have in this particular is due to the difference in value of the 16th sections, these sections having sold at a high price in the black counties and at a very low price in this county, and that the school fund is largely derived from the interest upon the price at which these sections were sold, a condition which the Democratic party is and always has been unable to in any wise control or change.

They say the Democratic party does not intend to give the people fair elections, when they know that in order to do so, the dominant faction in the Democratic party—the black belt—has surrendered the control of the party, and that to perpetuate fair elections in this State the Democratic party has provided in the new Constitution for the most severe penalties for election frauds.

They claim to be a lily white party, when they know they have gone hand in hand with the negro for more than thirty years in politics and that the National Republican party to which they must bow still stands by the negro and throws upon his disfranchisement. Republicans have never tried to disfranchise the negro. The President of the United States in all his power stands opposed to negro disfranchisement. When we consider these facts how can Mr. Reynolds claim that the negro question is a dead issue? Republicans wrote one Constitution for Alabama—that of 1868. In that Constitution they deliberately disfranchised white men and required white men who applied for registration to swear that they would not try to disfranchise a negro. See Constitution of 1868.

They say the Republicans have endorsed the Populist ticket in this county, when they know such is not the case, and that instead of dealing with the Populist Committee appointed to confer with the Republicans, the Republicans nominated Mr. Reynolds upon his pledge of faith in and support of Republican principles and nominees.

They say Mr. Reynolds has been faithful. He has made speeches for Populist, Democrats and Republicans and is now a member of the Republican State Executive Committee. He failed to answer roll call 50 times, and failed to vote 89 times in the late Constitutional Convention.

Beware of the Republican Beat walker who has been engaged to electioneer with you and to induce you to vote for Mr. Reynolds, the Republican nominee and leader, under the false claim that he and his ticket are Populists.

Politically there is not a principle of the Populist party which the Republican party accepts. "Equal rights to all and special privileges to none," is met by the Republicans with special favors to the few without regard to the rights of the many.

Natural Anxiety.

Mothers regard approaching winter with uneasiness, children take cold so easily. No disease costs more little lives than croup. It's a tack is so sudden that the sufferer is often beyond human aid before the doctor arrives. Such cases yield readily to One Minute Cough Cure.
Liquifies the mucus, allays inflammation, removes danger. Absolutely safe. Acts immediately. Cures coughs, colds, grip, bronchitis, all throat and lung trouble. F. S. Mc-Mahon, Hampton, Ga.: "A bad cold rendered me voiceless just before an oratorical contest. I intended to withdraw but took One Minute Cough Cure. It restored my voice in time to win the medal."

Dalton Yancey Lowe

The subject of this sketch, a young man twenty-one and a-half years old, was killed on the Southern railroad, near Blossburg, Ala., by being crushed between two cars,
on Sunday evening, Oct. 12, 1902.

Dalton Lowe was a young man
well-beliked by all who knew him;
he was punctual in business and temperate in his habits, not even knowing the taste of intoxicating drinks. He was honest and trustworthy, meriting the confidence reposed in him by his employers, he having been made a conductor on the Southern railroad before he was twenty-one year old. His untimely death was a terrible shock to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Lowe, of Jemison, who have the sympathy of the entire community in their sad bereavement.

AGRICULTURAL

Trials Crops.
The largest trials crops have been obtained where fertilizers were applied liberally, and in every case the increased crop more than paid for the additional expense of fertilizers. The plants do not use all of the fertilizers the first year, and the succeeding season assists in the gain from the application.

Salt as a Fertilizer.

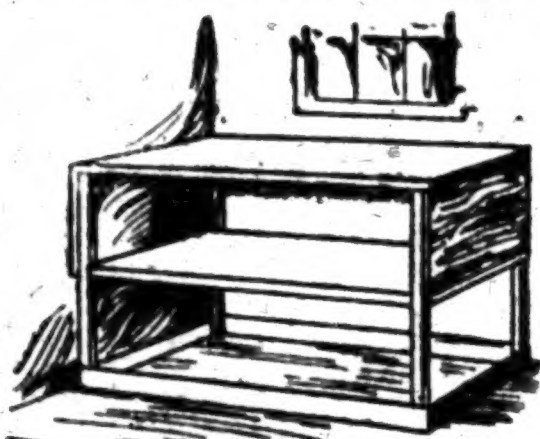

There are many inquiries about salt as a fertilizer. Salt is rarely of any use as a fertilizer proper. The elements of which it is composed are found in most soils in sufficient amounts for all except for such plants as asparagus, whose natural home is by the seaside. But salt is found in practice to have much more value than would be supposed. Its effect is best on rich land in vegetable matter, which the salt, in the small amounts usually applied, helps to decompose. In larger quantities salt is a preservative from decomposition, but no farmer would think of applying enough to injure his land.

Worms as Soil Renovators.

Earth worms are not soil formers, for they are seldom met with in soils that are destitute of organic matter. They are simply renovators. Every time a worm is driven by dry weather, or any other cause, to descend deep, it brings to the surface, when it empties the contents of its body, a few particles of fresh earth. At the same time it fertilizes the subsoil by opening up passages which encourage the roots of plants to penetrate deeper, these passages being lined with excreted matter, which provides a store of nourishment for the roots. On meadow land Darwin found these worm casts amount annually to eighteen tons an acre, and on good arable land to about ten tons.—American Fertilizer.

A Small Work Bench.

A small work bench is very convenient for doing small jobs of repairing. Get a long, deep, but narrow, empty grocery box and mount it upon legs upon its side as shown. This provides not only a work bench, but a shelf below it for keeping tools. The cover of the box can be hinged to the front for the purpose of keeping the tools more secure. There is not a farm in the country that can afford to be without at least a small bench on which to make repairs and to construct the small articles needed in carrying on farm operations.—New York Tribune Farmer.

Growing Blueberries From Seed.

The Maine Agricultural Experiment Station reports that they have found it comparatively easy to grow blueberries from seed. They used good potting soil, to which leaf mould had been added, washed the seed from the pulp, and allowed it to freeze during the winter, then sowed it in the spring thickly on the surface of the soil, packed it down with a board and covered with a slight sprinkling of soil. They were handled once, and later in the summer were transferred to a cold frame, where they were covered with litter during the winter. The next spring they were transplanted into beds, shaded until established and made a good growth during the summer. They say the low blueberry, "Vaccinium pennsylvanicum," will fruit in three or four years, while the high bush, "Vaccinium corymbosum," requires from four to six years. We think the shortest period they name for either is at least a year too long, but will not dispute the matter. Both these varieties are relatively easy to transplant either from swamps or upland, and they may be propagated by grafting or division of the roots. As we called attention to the possible cultivation of the berries several years ago we feel an interest in this matter, and hope to see them grown as commonly as strawberries and blackberries are now.—The Cultivator.

Systematic Storing of Humus.

One of the greatest advantages I obtain from a cover crop is the constant storage in the soil of humus. A soil rich in humus is also a soil properly drained. In many soils the lack of humus permits the best elements of fertility, no matter in what form applied, to leach out and go to waste. Sometimes they merely leach down to the subsoil, but even there they are wasted to most crops. Our surface-feeding crops will not go down to the subsoil after rich humus or fertility leached down there, because of a too porous and open surface soil. The cover crop plants the humus in the surface soil, and thereby holds the fertilizing elements of potash, phosphoric acid and nitrogen. They are held there in a position where the roots of the plants can most readily reach and utilize them.

Any cover top will do this work. Some, of course, answer the purpose much better than any others, but a crop that furnishes an abundance of green foliage will in time fill the soil with rich humus. Therefore cover crops have been used by me continually for systematic storing of humus in the soil. My land is so open and porous that nearly all fertilizers would quickly leach through if it were not for this practice of planting cover crops to prevent the waste. Humus in the soil gives strength and vitality to plants. It furnishes the bone and marrow to the soil, and makes it rich in possibilities. When the soil is drained steadily year after year, and no new humus added, it becomes lifeless, and no amount of artificial fertilization will compensate for the loss.—S. L. Andress, in American Cultivator.

BRAZILIAN AVOCADOS.

Increasing Popularity of the Alligator Pear.

The increasing popularity of the avocado, or alligator pear, has brought the Brazilian variety into great prominence of late. As a matter of fact, the fruit is not a pear at all, but belongs to the laurel family. The chief authority on the subject is a picturesque West Indian, who imports these exotic dainties, and who is an enthusiast on the subject.

"The avocado," he said, "is food and medicine, as well as refreshment. When nature made it, she intended it as the highest development of the vegetable world. It is delicious, but not cloying. It has its own characteristics, but will gratefully accept all other flavors. For this reason it is the only fruit which can be eaten plain, with pepper and salt, with lemon juice and sugar, or with a salad dressing. New Englanders have made it into a successful pie, which, to be candid, I do not recommend, because I think pies are barbarous; and Brazilians cook it into a marvelous custard pudding. The peculiarity of the pulp is that it contains a large amount of fixed oil, which gives it a nutritive value superior to the olive and the peanut, and makes it almost equal to the egg.

"Though a stranger in New York, it is known and loved in every tropical and sub-tropical city. It is grown in the West Indies, Central and South America, Hawaii, the Far East, North America, Eastern and Western Africa. Some enterprising Frenchmen have a small orchard not far from Palm Beach on the Florida Coast, and in Southern California there are hundreds of trees now bearing. The finest variety is not the Mexican or the Venezuelan, or even the Chinese, as is claimed by travelers, but the Brazilian, and of these the very best come from the Island of Marajo, at the mouth of the Amazon, just opposite to Para. The fruit is of a lustrous, almost vitreous green. The skin is very tough, rather than hard, so much so that it should be cut with a hard steel knife."—New York Post.

Jobs for Official Hens.

Now, the question of employing hens in the Government service under civil service regulations has come up for official consideration, owing to a letter addressed to the Civil Service Commission by an official of the United States Geological Survey.

It seems that hens are necessary and indispensable assistants in certain kinds of Government work, and there is no reason why they should not be duly classified, like charwomen, female copyists and other Federal employees of the gentler sex. There is no question of President Roosevelt's authority to extend over them the blanket of the civil service under existing law, and it is undeniable that certain important advantages would accrue from the regularizing of the chicken branch of public work.

For it should be understood that Uncle Sam utilizes a very great number of hens' eggs in the course of a year. It is most important that they should be fresh, and that the supply of them should be regular. The situation in this regard was clearly explained in the letter written a few days ago by the official above mentioned.

The Government maintains a number of photographic laboratories in Washington, all of which require regular supplies of fresh eggs. These are used in so-called "wet plate."

What It Means to "Corner" Grain.

Corners in grain are made possible by a scarcity of cash grain, due to drought, large shipments abroad, inability to move grain held by farmers, simultaneous big purchases on the part of a number of large buyers, and numerous other agencies. The most successful corner is usually the one that is most natural; that is, the least forced. For this reason the big wheat corner of '81 (run by the same syndicate that failed so signally in '87) is regarded as the most successful corner in the history of the board in the amount of grain handled and the actual profits resulting from its termination. With 30,000,000 bushels of wheat in hand this syndicate closed with the price at $1.40 a bushel; and the soundness of their calculations was proved when, subsequently, the price of wheat actually advanced ten cents beyond this figure.—The Pilgrim.

Books and Bacteria.

It seems remarkable that disease is not more frequently disseminated by books which are circulated through the medium of our public libraries, says London Health, as experiments have shown that various bacilli live for a greater or less length of time in them. The germ of diphtheria will live for twenty-eight days, while that of tuberculosis remains virulent for over 100 days. The attention of librarians should be called to these facts, and all books before being taken from public libraries should be thoroughly disinfected.

POPULAR SCIENCE

Arcturus, the hottest star of the celestial bodies, gives us as much heat as does a standard candle six miles away. This fact was ascertained by the radiometer—an instrument which will show the amount of heat given off by a man's face 2000 feet away.

Replying to the more or less popular theory that comets are simply swarms of meteoric stones, a Fellow of the Royal Astronomical Society recalls the brilliancy—almost increased—of Arcturus as it was seen in 1838 through thousands of miles of the very nucleus of Donati's comet. The mist from a frog pond would have blotted out the star altogether.

Chemists are discovering that there are gases in the composition of the atmosphere other than those which have long been recognized. There are besides argon and helium, which have been known for some time, neon, crypton and xenon. The chemical relations of these substances are now being determined, and their atomic weight varies from that of helium, which is four, up to that of xenon, which is 128.

The radiations of radium have proved to be of rare value in medicine. It is found that a metallic screen interposed between the eye and a vital containing radium in no way prevents the healthy eye from seeing it. If the retina of a blind person be healthy, it will be affected by radium rays even though the cornea be opaque to light rays. Consequently the radiations from radium can be used to discover whether or not the retina of a blind person is healthy.

It is announced that Professor Markwald, of the Berlin University, has discovered a new element of extraordinary radio-active energy. He found it in uranium ore, from which he separated it by an electrolytic process. It occurs in the minute proportion of one gramme per ton of ore. The rays it emits are similar to those of radium, but differ from the latter in that they are almost completely absorbed by paper and glass. A porcelain tube charged by rubbing immediately lowers its charge when a minute particle of the new element is brought near it. Apparently no name has yet been given to it.

How the electric waves used in wireless telegraphy follow the earth's curvature is still an unsolved problem. E. Lasher supposes that the waves run along the surface of the earth, and especially of the sea, in the same manner that they follow a wire, and that part of the electric energy enters the earth's surface as part of it penetrates the surface of the wire. A suggested test of the theory is signaling between two balloons, when the difficulty of communication should increase with the height. The electrical oscillations being at right angles to the wire or earth's surface, another interesting experiment would be the sending of signals up a precipice, using both horizontal and vertical antennae.

In Jail, Out Still a Son.

Sentimentalists in song and comedians in ill-timed jests have not succeeded in cheapening the "mother" idea out of its beauty and pathos. It is an idea that will outlast all the jests and jolts of time.

The newest mother story—in which there is neither a joke nor any sentiment but the truest—comes from West Virginia. Edward H. Williams is in the jail at Hinton, convicted and sentenced to a twenty years' term for murder. His aged mother lies ill at Princeton. "Once transferred to prison he will never see her again. The other night Williams broke jail. He worked his way through the mountains to his old home and bade his mother farewell. Then, six days after his escape, he presented himself again at the jail door.

A New Use For Paper.

Paper gloves and stockings are now being manufactured in Europe. As to the manner in which the former are made little is known, but the stockings have been carefully examined by experts, and they are loud in their praise of them. Let no one assume, they say, that these stockings, because they are made of paper, will only last a few days, for they will really last almost as long as ordinary stockings.

The reason, they point out, is because the paper of which they are made was during the process of manufacture transformed into a substance closely resembling wool, and was then woven and otherwise treated as ordinary wool. The price of these paper stockings is low, which is natural, since paper is much cheaper than cotton or wool.

Made Insane by a Snake.

Rendered insane by seeing a snake, Andrew Murock, of Audenried, was taken to the Asylum for the Insane. Murock was picking huckleberries one hot day recently. He had complained to a companion of being affected by the heat, and shortly afterward he encountered a five-foot blacksnake. The sight of the reptile threw Murock into an agony of terror, from which he never recovered.—Philadelphia Record.

ALABAMA OIL FIELD

Company Organized to Develop it on Large Scale.

An important deal was closed at Decatur last week looking to the future development of the oil fields. The North Alabama Standard Oil and Gas Company, which owns some 10,000 acres of valuable oil lands about Falkville and other parts of Morgan county, contracted with the Great Southern Oil and Development Company to sink oil wells on the former's property on the profit sharing basis. The new syndicate has subscribed $100,000 for the purpose of drilling and testing the field, and work will commence just as soon as the machinery can be secured.

The syndicate is composed of both American and English people who have been engaged in a quiet manner for some time getting the matter shaped up. Some time ago the North Alabama Standard Oil and Gas Company sunk a well at Falkville, going to the depth of about 2,000 feet and found some oil. The expert said oil in paying quantities would have been found had the drill gone deeper. It was impossible to go deeper at that time, however, as the machinery the company was then using was too light to sink the well deeper.

Johnston on the stump.

Former Governor Johnston has gone east to make a series of democratic speeches in Massachusetts and Connecticut in the interest of democratic nominees for congress in those states. He goes at the solicitation of Chairman Griggs, of the national democratic congressional campaign committee, who does not agree with Senator Morgan's theory that it will not be to the interests of the democratic party to control the house next year, for fear of the charge that they had hindered legislation. Governor Johnston will make his first speech at Hartford.

The Schulers.

From what can be heard it seems that the Schulers are going to locate their furnaces and steel mills outside the district at last. Some days ago the lands of the Gadsden Land and Improvement Company at Gadsden were sold and bought in by Captain J. M. Elliott, president of the Southern Car and Foundry Company. It was reported at the time that he was acting for the Schulers. Since then it is understood the electric light plant at Gadsden has been bought and also other property. These are said to be the property of the Schulers, and it is further stated that the plants' material which has been contracted for will go there. The Schulers own a big body of ore land already near Gadsden.

H. A. Walker, the railroad expert from England, who recently completed a tour of inspection in this country, has just reported to the London and North-western railroad that human life in America, whether of passengers or employees, is not so well protected as on English railroads. His figures show that twice as many passengers are carried on British lines as on American, though the latter have nine times as much mileage, nevertheless the much larger proportion of accidents occurs in America. He attributes this to unprotected grade crossings.

The independent steel men of the Pittsburgh district made one of the largest purchases of iron ore ever recorded Tuesday, headed by the Crucible Steel Company. It comprised a tract of iron lands in northern Michigan and Minnesota valued at $68,000,000. This purchase is believed to be part of a plan to oppose indefinitely the steel trust.

Sir Francis Laing, physician King Edward, is not a fatalist. He takes a liberal view of the human life. He is credited with giving general advice "Do as you like, what you like, drink what you like and smoke what you like, but do everything in moderation." The crests of long life he sums up in two words: "Conservation of energy, operation and system. The greatest of the three is the conservation of energy. And you must not worry. It is all." The rule is simple and sensible.

Mrs. Tupman, a prominent lady of Richmond, Va., a great sufferer with woman's troubles, tells of her cure by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—For some years I suffered with backache, and was running down pains, leucorrhoea, and falling of the womb. I tried many remedies, but nothing gave any positive relief.
"I commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound June, 1901. When I had taken the first half bottle, I felt a vast improvement, and have now taken ten bottles with the result that I feel like a new woman. When I commenced taking the Vegetable Compound I felt all worn out and was fast approaching complete nervous collapse. I weighed only 98 pounds. Now I weigh 109 pounds and am improving every day. I gladly testify to the benefits received."
—R. C. THOMAS, 423 West 30th St., Richmond, Va.

When a medicine has been successful in more than a million cases, it is just as sure to yourself to say, without trying it, "I do not see how it could help me."

Surely you cannot wish to remain weak and sick and discouraged, exhausted with each day's work. You have some derangement of the feminine organism, and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you just as surely as it has others.

W. H. Pelham, Jr., 108 E. Baker St., Richmond, Va., says: "DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I must say that I do not believe there is any medicine to compare with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I return to you my heartfelt thanks for what your medicine has done for me. Before taking the Vegetable Compound I was so badly off that I thought I could not live much longer. The little work I had to do was a burden to me. I suffered with irregular menstruation and leucorrhoea, which caused an irritation of the parts. I looked like one who had consumption, but I do not look like that now, and I owe it all to your wonderful medicine."

"I took only six bottles, but it has made me feel like a new person. I thank God that there is such a female helper as you."

Be it, therefore, believed by all men who are ill that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the medicine they should take. It has stood the test of time, and it has hundreds of thousands of cures to its credit. Women should consider it unwise to use any other medicine.

Mrs. Pinkham, whose address is Lynn, Mass., will answer cheerily and without cost all letters addressed to her by sick women. Perhaps she has just the knowledge that will help your case—her to-day—it costs nothing.

ANTHRACITE'S DOWNS AND UPS.

Remarkable History of Coal That the Public at First Refused to Use.

Anthracite coal, which we are all so anxious to get just now, was less than a century ago, when the first efforts were made to market it, denounced as a fraud. The people of those days declared that it was impossible to burn such "stone." At the close of the eighteenth century, in 1701, the Leigh Coal Company tried in vain to sell in Philadelphia the new fuel which had been found on its property in Carbon county. Several attempts were made to burn anthracite, but for a long time the results were uniformly unsatisfactory. Finally, in 1815, the secret was accidentally discovered. Tests had been made in a rolling mill at Schuylkill. After repeated attempts to make it burn by means of frequently raking the fire, the workmen gave up the experiment in disgust, filled the furnace with the worthless "black stones" and left it. Returning a few hours afterwards they were amazed to find a fierce fire with a terrible heat, and thenceforward the problem of burning anthracite was solved.

But the people were slow to believe that it was possible to get heat by burning black stones. As late as 1833 one Charles Miner wrote as follows: "While we pushed forward our labors in the mine, hauling coal, building arks, &c., we had the greatest difficulty to overcome of inducing the public to use our coal when brought to their doors, much as it was needed. We published handbills in English and German, stating the mode of burning the coal, either in grates, stoves or in stoves. Numerous certificates were obtained and printed from blacksmiths and others who had successfully used the anthracite. Mr. Cist formed a model of a coal stove and got a number cast. Together we went to the several houses in the city and prevailed on the masters to allow us to kindle fires of anthracite in their grates erected to burn Liverpool coal. We attended at blacksmiths' shops and persuaded some to alter the 'trotter,' so that they might burn the Leigh coal; and we were sometimes obliged to bribe the journeyman to try the experiment fairly, so adverse were they to learning the use of a new sort of fuel so different to what they were accustomed to."

But even these methods were slow to overcome popular prejudice. It was only when through a sudden rise in the price of charcoal, the manufacturers began to use anthracite that the new fuel found its way into favor. —Toronto Mail and Empire.

The Making of Marbles.

Nearly all the agate marbles that wear holes in the pockets of all schoolboys on earth are made in the State of Thuringia, Germany, says the Philadelphia Public Ledger. On winter days the poor people who live in the village gather together small square stones, place them in moulds something like big coffee mills, and grind them till they are round. The marbles made in this way are the common china painted china, glazed china and imitation agates. Imitation agates are made from white stone and are painted to represent the pride of the marble-player's heart—the real agate. The agate printed china marbles are of plain white stone, with lines crossing each other at right angles painted upon them. Glass alleys are blown by glassblowers in the town of Lauscha, Germany. The expert workmen take a piece of plain glass and another bit of red glass, heat them red hot, blow them together, give them a twist, and there is a pretty alley with the red and white threads of glass twisted inside in the form of a letter S. Large twisted glass alleys with the figure of a dog or sheep inside are made for very small boys and girls to play with. But the marbles that are most prized are the real agates.

A Flirtatious Macaw.

"Bob," the Brazilian macaw that occupies a cage in the birdhouse at the Zoological Gardens, was responsible for a case of mistaken identity and a young lady's blushes.
Keeper John Geiger, who is in charge of the birds, was tending a sick parrot when a young lady from Georgia entered the birdhouse. Just as soon as she came in sight, Bob, who swears very clearly, called out, "Hello! How do you do?" The young lady from Georgia blushed a deep red, thinking it was Keeper Geiger.

Then Bob called out, "What's the matter? Are you mad?" Geiger looked up from his work to find the young lady's eyes upon him. Seeing the mistake, she said frankly: "Do you know, I thought that was you who spoke to me at first."

Keeper Geiger then made Bob say all his pet phrases, and as the young lady was leaving Bob called after her: "You're a peach! Come back! You're a peach!"—Philadelphia Press.

In Florio's Shoes.

I welcomed Florio Vincenzo when he came over to become one of us. He had no doubts of the future, for he wooed the Goddess of Good Fortune boldly. Florio is fourteen; he came from Palermo. He traveled light. When he opened his cheap paper valise, it was apparently empty, save for a pair of discredited and disreputable old shoes. Florio bowed, cap in hand, and his white teeth flashed as he smiled suavely: "I am a poor man, nobleman, seeking my fortune." There was an odor that an old inspector knew. He picked up one of the shoes and extracted from it, after some manipulation, a creased and crumpled hunk of Bologna sausage. The other shoe was stuffed with a soft sticky and aggressively fragrant mass of Italian cheese. These articles and a sum of Italian money equivalent to about $1.50, and the clothes he stood in, formed the basis on which Florio expected to rear his fortune.—World's Work.

GOVERNOR OF OREGON

Uses Pe-ru-na in His Family For Colds and Grip.

CAPITOL BUILDING, SALEM, OREGON.
A Letter From the Executive Office of Oregon.

Peruna is known from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Letters of congratulation and commendation testifying to the merits of Peruna as a cathartic remedy are pouring in from every State in the Union. Dr. Hartman is receiving hundreds of such letters daily. All classes write these letters, from the highest to the lowest.
The outdoor laborer, the indoor artisan, the clerk, the editor, the statesman, the preacher—all agree that Peruna is the cathartic remedy of the age. The stage and rostrum, recognizing cathartics as their great enemy, are especially enthusiastic in their praise and testimony.
Any man who wishes perfect health must be entirely free from cathartics. Cathartics are well-nigh universal, almost omnipresent. Peruna is the only absolutely safe cathartic. A cold is the beginning of cathartics. To prevent colds, to cure colds, is to cheat cathartics out of its victims. Peruna not only cures cathartics, but prevents. Every household should be supplied with this great remedy for coughs, colds and so forth.
The Governor of Oregon is an ardent admirer of Peruna. He keeps it continually in the house. In a recent letter to Dr. Hartman he says:
STATE OF OREGON,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
SALEM, May 9, 1902.
Dear Sir:—I have had occasion to use your Peruna medicine in my family for colds, and it proved to be an excellent remedy. I have not had occasion to use it for other ailments.
Yours very truly,
W. M. Lord.
It will be noticed that the governor says he has not had occasion to use Peruna for other ailments. The reason for this is most obvious. He has a family, for colds, and it proved to be an excellent remedy. I have not had occasion to use it for other ailments.
Yours very truly,
W. M. Lord.

A Substitute For Paper.

It is stated that experiments with aluminum as a substitute for paper are now under way in France. It is now possible to roll aluminum into sheets for thousands of an inch in thickness, in which form it weighs less than paper. By the adoption of suitable machinery these sheets can be made even thinner, and can be used for book and writing paper. The metal will not oxidize, is practically fire and water-proof and is indestructible by worms.

MAPLESVILLE, ALA.

A RINGING ADDRESS

The Republican party still insists upon a high tariff. The intelligence of the people has long ago exploded the Republican theory that the foreigner pays the tax levied by the tariff. We all know the consumer pays it. The protected industries reap the benefits and the people bear the burdens. We know also that the "infant industries" which were supposed to need protection, have grown into mighty combines and powerful trusts that need restraint rather than protection. We know also that these same trusts while levying tribute on the citizenship of our country by means of the tariff, sell their products in foreign markets at less than they can sell them at home. The present high protective tariff fosters monopoly and unless a small market is better than a large one, the restrictive policy of the Republican party cannot be permanently beneficial to either the capitalist engaged in productive industries or to employees or to the country at large. The Democratic party favors that policy which encourages trade and opens the markets of the world to our products as the best policy for all, and it favors a reform of the present tariff laws. It has been well said, "with over $500,000,000 in the treasury of the United States, it is folly, aye, it is almost criminal to further resist a modification of the present exorbitant tariff rates. No good reason can be urged why such a revision should not be undertaken."

Our people should remember that in this election they are to elect Congressmen as well as State officers, and at every vote for a Republican Congressman is a vote to continue the burdens of taxation; to ratify the reckless use of public revenues and to help build up and sustain illegal and hurtful combinations and trusts.

The Democratic party favors and fosters the public schools of the State. It has, from the time it came into power, made the public school system an object of zealous solicitude. It has gradually and as the revenues of the State allowed, increased the school appropriation, and the new constitution expressly requires that there shall be appropriated to public schools each year, an amount which on present property values approximates $600,000, and which must increase as tax values increase. More than this, the new constitution provides a method whereby local taxation for public school purposes may be had. And differing from the Republican party and its methods in this State, our party not only appropriates the money for the schools, but sees to it that the funds reach their legitimate destination.

Our party favors honest elections and is solely responsible for the only legislation which insures them. That legislation, the new constitution, provided the plan which has been effectual in eliminating the vicious element from our electorate. Negro domination is no longer to be feared and white supremacy is established by law. If there is any virtue in having two white parties in Alabama, be it said to the credit of the new constitution that it has made it possible for two such parties to exist. But the work of the Democracy is not ended. The foundation has been laid by the new constitution.

A VOTER.

Randolph, Ala., Oct. 20, 1902
Editor Banner—As it is going the rounds that L. H. Reynolds is to loan me money, and that I am to vote for him, I want to say it is false. In the outset, as the drouth has cut off both feed and money crops, I will have to borrow money to get along with, and I spoke to him for it, but there was no politics in it at all. I neither buy nor sell votes to either men nor party, so it is false. Now I am not taking sides with nor against anybody, but want the truth in all things, so that all who hear it may know better.

Jemison, Ala., Oct. 27, 1902

Editor Banner—Believing it is being talked all over the county by Mr. L. H. Reynolds that all his door-neighbors will support him in the coming election, we, the undersigned citizens of Jemison wish to state that this is a great mistake. Out of about 50 voters inside of the incorporation, at least 40 will support Hon. T. U. Crampton for Representative, because we feel we need a man who will be recognized in the House of Representatives. We do not believe there will be exceeding six votes cast for Mr. Reynolds inside the incorporation of the town of Jemison.

We feel that we have been "disfranchised" in the House of Representatives long enough. How long it has been! Oh! how long! (Signed) Thomas Harrison, J. M. Keitt, C. H. Durham, E. H. Lowe, J. H. Harrison, E. W. Attaway, E. M. Ray, R. H. Gaines, W. T. Hand, J. H. Patton.

The Worst Form

Multitudes are singing the praises of Kodol, the new discovery which is making so many sick people well and weak people strong by digesting what they eat, by cleansing and sweetening their food into the kind of pure, rich, red blood that makes you feel good all over. Mrs. Cranfill, of Troy, I. T., writes. For a number of years I was troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia which grew into the worst form. Finally I was induced to use Kodol and after using four bottles I am entirely cured. I heartily recommend Kodol to all sufferers from indigestion and dyspepsia. Take a dose after meals. It digests what you eat.

A Typical South African Store

O. R. Larson, of Bay Villa, Sundays River, Cape Colony, conducts a store typical of South Africa, at which can be purchased anything from the proverbial "needle to an anchor." This store is situated in a valley nine miles from the nearest railway station and twenty-five miles from the nearest town. Mr. Larson says: "I am favored with the custom of farmers within a radius of thirty miles, to many of whom I have supplied Chamberlain's remedies. All testify to their value in a household where a doctor's advice is almost out of the question. Within one mile of my store the population is perhaps sixty. Of these, within the past twelve months no less than fourteen have been completely cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. This must surely be a record." For sale by Hopkins Drug Co., and A. Horn, Thorby.

The excitement incident to traveling and change of food and water often brings on diarrhea, and for this reason no one should leave home without a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. For sale by Hopkins Drug Co., and A. Horn, Thorby.

A HEALTH POLICY

The system is from natural causes, debilitated or run-down both in the spring and fall. The seasons' changes are always a tax on the human organism. The blood becomes impure in the spring, and vitality lags in the fall. A little care, a little assistance, and nature will do the rest, as it always trying to maintain health. Frequently the weakest organ will show the most disorder, and this often leads to wrong treatment.

For the debilitated condition of spring or fall, or any other time, for that matter, the right thing to do is to build up the whole system. It is not your stomach, or liver, or nerves alone that cause the trouble; you are weakened all over and must have renewed strength and vitality. These you cannot get so quickly or safely as by using

When you use Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic you are helping to renew the vigor of every fiber of your body. You are cleansing and enriching your blood. You are strengthening your stomach and increasing the digestive fluids you are building up and renewing the activity of your kidneys and liver, and you are feeding and revitalizing your nervous system. You cannot do this without getting well, and you cannot take Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic without doing it.

CHICAGO, ILL., Nov. 28, 1901.
The Dr. Harter Medicine Co., Chicago, O. Gentlemen:—I unhesitatingly recommend Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic, as I firmly believe it is the best tonic on the market to-day. Every spring and fall my system seems to be in need of a tonic, and for the past three years I have taken a bottle of your tonic twice a year. Most truly, J. F. FRANKLIN.

THE DRAUGHT'S BLACK-DRAUGHT THE ORIGINAL LIVER MEDICINE

A sallow complexion, dizziness, biliousness and a coated tongue are common indications of liver and kidney diseases. Stomach and bowel troubles, severe as they are, give immediate warning by pain, but liver and kidney troubles, though less painful at the start, are much harder to cure. The Draught's Black-Draught never fails to benefit diseases of liver and weakened kidneys. It stirs up the torpid liver to throw off the germs of fever and ague. It is a certain preventive of cholera and Bright's disease of the kidneys. With kidneys reinforced by The Draught's Black-Draught thousands of persons have dwelt immune in the midst of yellow fever. Many families live in perfect health and have no other doctor than The Draught's Black-Draught. It is always on hand for use in an emergency and saves many expensive calls of a doctor.

Mullins, S. C., March 10, 1901.
I have used The Draught's Black-Draught for three years and I have not had to go to a doctor since I have been taking it. It is the best medicine for me that is on the market for liver and kidney troubles and dyspepsia and other complaints. Rev. A. G. LEWIS.

NO. 3

THE MAN ON THE CORNER

of the Sights He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.

The election is over, the election is done. The Demos are behind, and the Reps. they have won. They get down to business every one. One is elected, Lord help us. One consolation, the majority's small. A little more work and there'd been none at all. Letting down easy, not much of a fall. Though Lewis is elected, Lord help us, Pop I have known him for many a year. As a Rep. I suppose he will rip, roar and roar. Will give me much pleasure to watch his career. Once again he's elected, Lord help us.

And Chilton has gone. Republican. It was a near squeak, though, no one is surprised. Mr. Reynolds will make one of a few republican members in the legislature without any power or influence to accomplish anything. Mr. Moore has always made a Populist superintendent of education, and no doubt will prove efficient Republican officer.

Alex Glascock will take considerable Populist experience as a commissioner and will probably do well as a Republican as he has as a Populist. Henry Conner is something of an independent Republican, and will most likely prove an independent commissioner.

Some 1575 votes were cast in the county at the election on Tuesday. This means that about nine hundred registered voters for some one or another took part in the election. About five hundred, I am told, did not pay their poll tax, and were ineligible to vote, and it is supposed that the other hundred were not interested enough to take time to go and vote.

Some changes are taking place. Hart & Middleton have dissolved partnership, and I understand Mr. Middleton will open on his own account Dec. 1. Mr. Johnson has decided to go to Coosa. H. T. Stacy & Co. of Elmore, have started a confectionery and fine groceries business, and Mr. Ruffin, of Elmore, has opened up with a stock of general merchandise.

On Monday morning, at the residence of his mother-in-law, Bamma Stephens, at Clanton, after a short illness, Otis was only about twenty years of age, and was married a few months ago. He was buried in the cemetery Tuesday. Much sympathy is expressed for the young widow.

W. A. Middleton has been appointed Quartermaster with rank major on the staff of Gen. Jno. A. Sanford, commanding First Alabama Division, United States Volunteers.

Energy.

The people are all about done gathering in this section of country. We had a nice entertainment at Mr. Elias Clark's last Sunday night. Mr. W. H. Wilson and Miss I. B. Clark paid friends of Coosa a pleasant visit last Friday and returned Sunday evening.

Mr. B. F. Clark returned home last Sunday evening with his wife and met many of his friends at home; our best wishes for them and hope their future life will be one of pleasure; may the blessings of God be with them. Lookout for another wedding at Energy.

Farmers are busy gathering those that are not done are nearly done. We have a good teacher at Enter Prize, school is increasing every day. Our Sunday school is still alive; we hope for a better one in the future. We are glad that so many Chambers folks are moving to our county. Mr. Ben Clark brought his bride home Sunday; we wish for them a long happy life. We are glad that Mr. Luther Davis is improving; hope he will soon be up again. Mrs. Starnes is visiting Mrs. Davis. Miss Della Williams was visiting relatives here last week. The singing at Mr. Clark's Sunday night, was enjoyed by many.

A Thanksgiving Dinner.

Heavy eating is usually the first cause of indigestion. Repeated attacks inflame the mucous membranes lining the stomach, producing a swelling after eating, heartburn, headache, sour risings and finally catarrh of the stomach. Kodol relieves the inflammation, protects the nerves and cures catarrh. Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia, and all stomach troubles by cleansing and sweetening the glands of the stomach.

Union Grove.

This place, like all others, is suffering from bad crops, farmers say they had just twice as much cotton last year at this time. But the majority of them have enough corn to last them all winter. Prof. Foster B. Williams of Thorsby is conducting a fine school here, new scholars are added every week, and many are predicting that this will be the best school ever taught at Union Grove. Mr. Wilson Sorrell is attending court in Clanton this week. There is Sunday-school at the Church every Sunday morning and preaching every fourth Sunday, everyone is invited to attend. Miss Nellie Dorminer, of this place, will attend the Normal Musical Institute at Jemison, conducted by Prof. Robert Durham. At the speaking in the school house Wednesday night, a new stove was mentioned, and the people readily donated enough money to get a handsome one and will be installed in the school house next week, this will be welcomed by the Prof. and his pupils. Miss Neilly Honeycutt has been indisposed but will be able to attend school Monday.

Let us all begin to ask God, the one who has all power to bless us with bright sunshine and rain that the earth may send forth her fruits to the laborer. We are sorry to say Miss Turner Belle Mullins is quite sick; we hope she will soon recover. Quite a number of young people met at Mr. E. H. Parrish's Sunday evening and had a real nice song service.

Messrs. M. D. Wyatt, W. H. Wyatt, J. W. Maddox and T. Wyatt all spent three days in the low-lands and on the hills and bluffs of Coosa river, and while there, killed eighteen squirrels, fifteen rabbits, four birds, one turkey weighing 20 pounds and one duck, and all had a merry time.

Mr. John Culp and Mrs. Roda Mims and little niece from Mulberry, visited relatives Mr. and Mrs. Parrish Saturday and Sunday. Success to the Banner.

To such parents who wish to come to Thorsby to educate their children we will give special rates on choice building lots within short distance of dormitory and college building. Call at our office or address

THE CONCORDIA LAND AND IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION.
THORSBY, ALA.

Thorsby.

Thorsby is going right ahead, many new buildings are going up, another church is being erected, the waterworks are being extended, franchises for telephone and electric lights have been granted by the city council, the Normal School is well patronized, the cannery and other factories are a big thing for the town. The Thorsby Times, the new republican weekly, is making things still more lively, and everybody wants to move to Thorsby.

Desirable building lots are already scarce and there is a big demand for houses. We need 25 more houses in Thorsby at once, and in another year we will need 50 more.

In order to make room for this expansion I have been induced to put upon the market a couple of my tracts located right in the heart of the city, the finest residence property in Thorsby. I will sell these tracts as a whole, or subdivide them into smaller tracts or lots to suit the purchasers. If you want a safe and profitable investment there is nothing better. If you want a choice residence location with magnificent view of all the surrounding town and country, there is nothing to equal it. As the town grows, this property is bound to enhance in value. If you have the cash, buy now and double your money.

For particulars call on, or address the owner,
K. G. FARRER.

CLANTON, — A.M.

There is evidently need of a sure taste and a higher culture in English literature than is shown today. Possibly the new British academy may help in establishing a higher standard. But granting that it may accomplish some useful results, one must observe that other considerations than its youth will keep it from ever securing an influence equal to that of the Paris institution.

"If I had 100 or 1000 children," says E. Benjamin Andrews, chancellor of the University of Nebraska, in a recent lecture, "I would want every one of them to play football. If they were strong enough, and to play it hard and strenuously. Boys ought to be trained in strenuousness. That is the great value of football; it is a school of endurance, courage and resolution."

By the will of the late James Osborne the city of Seattle, Wash., was made the legatee of the testator, whose property was to be sold and the funds held in trust until the city should agree to appropriate a like amount for the erection of a municipal building. The estate has just been settled, and the amount which the city will realize is estimated at $65,000.

Although there is an anti-duelling law in Germany, and although Emperor William has professed hostility to the ancient and barbarous institutions, both the law and the profession are mere mockeries, as seen by many succeeding events. The greatest encouragement given to duelling in any country in many years has the pardon by Emperor William of Lieutenant Hildebrandt, who "killed his man" not long ago and was sent to prison.

A Canadian firm recently placed with the Montreal and Toronto newspapers an advertisement of a new nursing bottle it had patented and was about to place on the market. After giving directions for use the advertisement ended in this manner: "When the baby is done drinking it must be unscrewed and laid in a cool place under a tap. If the baby does not thrive on fresh milk it should be boiled."

No one can now hesitate to admit, says the London Hospital, that the elementary schools of England are the great central exchanges at which diseases of diverse kinds are distributed from house to house and from street to street. A medical officer found, in one school forty-three percent of the pupils afflicted with pediculi and contagious diseases, such as itch, and ringworm, "the prevalence of which already threatens to bring education to a standstill in some towns."

Down in Georgia the other day, in the good city of Macon, they were telling of experiences during the earthquake disturbances of 1886. This was given by an old town official: "The council was in session that night, and when the quake shook the city hall from basement to attic the councilmen ran out, thinking the house would topple over. The minutes of the meeting, as can be seen by the records, conclude with the following sentence: 'On motion of the city hall the council adjourned.'"

Prophecies, even when the prophets are politicians, sometimes come true. Here is a notable Gladstone utterance which we can now look back upon as quite prophetic, remarks the London St. James Gazette. Speaking or writing 25 years ago of the "menace which, in the prospective development of her resources, America offers to the commercial pre-eminence of England," the Grand Old Man predicted that America, and America alone "can, and probably will, wrest from us that commercial primacy. We have no title, I have no inclination, to murmur at the prospect. If she acquires it, she will make the acquisition by the right of the strongest; but, in this instance, the strongest means the best. She will probably become what we are now, the head servant in the great household of the world, the employer of all employed; because her service will be the most and ablest. We have no more title against her than Venice, or Genoa, or Holland has had against us."

A FOREIGN COUNTRY

Brooklyn Judge so Decides About Cuba.

A decision which was interpreted as signifying that the island of Cuba was "a foreign country," as understood by the United States constitution, from the time of the evacuation of the island by the Spaniards up to the establishment of the new republic, has been handed down by United States Judge Edward B. Thomas, of Brooklyn. The judge holds, therefore, that all crimes committed in Cuba during the military rule of the United States on the island are subject to the jurisdiction of the courts of Cuba. The law department in Washington will receive a copy of the decision, which is the outcome of the case of Joseph Asala, a sailor on the ship Potomac, charged with killing John Orlin while the vessel was cruising in the waters about Haiti last July.

New Treasurer.

Hon. Thad B. Lampton, the newly appointed state treasurer of Mississippi, will file his official bond in the sum of $250,000 and take charge of the office at once. Heretofore the treasurer's bond has been in the sum of $100,000, with personal surety permitted, but at the last session the legislature increased the bond to $250,000 to be made in a guaranty company, and provided that the state should pay the premium thereon.

It has leaked out that Governor Longino was apprised in advance of Mr. Carlisle's forthcoming resignation and he offered the place to two other persons before Mr. Lampton was selected. The first tender was made to Colonel A. E. Jennings, of Water Valley, inspector of ordnance on the governor's staff, and a prominent merchant. The second was to Mr. W. D. Porter, cashier of the Farmers' and Merchants' bank at Oxford, who likewise declined it, neither of the two gentlemen desiring to take such tremendous risk in return for a small amount of honor and a salary of $2,500 per year.

The office of treasurer is generally looked upon throughout Mississippi as having a "hoodoo" attachment, a view that is somewhat substantiated by the fact that the state has had three treasurers in three years, and the office has been productive of more scandals and sensations than any other office in the state.

Wage Scale Increase.

The anthracite strike commission has officially decided that if any change is made in the rate of wages of the men it shall date from November 1st. This announcement was made by the commission through Recorder Carroll D. Wright. The recorder of the commission stated that this resolution was adopted by the commission because it felt that it was important to make its investigation deliberately, and that it might be well in order to relieve itself from pressure from any source which might cause undue haste, to inform the operators and the miners that should the investigation and deliberation following it warrant any change whatever, either in the way of increase or reduction of wages, such change should be from a certain date, thus enabling all parties to facilitate their calculations.

Lieutenant Emory Winship, one of our naval heroes who carries five medals in his body as a result of his pluck, has been retired on account of rheumatism.

A young white man named Mormeter S. Owen, 20 years of age, was killed Thursday at Mary Lee mines by a falling stick of timber used in a construction in which Owen was engaged as carpenter. He died on the way from the mines to the hospital. His head was crushed.

Fatal Hunting Expedition.

A fatal shooting affray in which one man was killed and another dangerously wounded occurred a half mile north of Green Hill Wednesday afternoon. A party of five men were on their way from Lawrenceburg to Muscle Shoals canal on a hunting and fishing trip. They had been imbibing freely and quarreled. Suddenly Will Belew and Ned Nelson rolled out of the wagon and opened fire upon each other. Nelson died on the spot, but Belew is still alive and may recover.

John Cooke has bought from Messrs. McGormack and Nolan the Mountain Valley mine, near Oakman, and is now operating it. George Dickinson is the superintendent.

General Leonard Wood, who has spent the past two months in Europe, sailed for New York aboard the American liner St. Louis Saturday.

FORGERIES WRECK IT.

New Orleans Grain Company Goes to the Wall.

President F. J. Odendahl, of the F. J. Odendahl company, limited, one of the largest grain exporting firms in the United States, has issued a circular which follows a widely circulated report of alleged forgeries on the part of a prominent officer of the firm, amounting to between $150,000 and $175,000, and at the present time banks are known to hold the company's paper:

Comptoir National d'Escompte de Paris, $70,000; Hibernian Banking and Trust company, $50,000; Louisiana National bank, $15,000; Commercial National bank, $4,300.

The Odendahl Commission company has done an enormous grain exporting business and for years has been in the habit of borrowing large sums from ten days to a month on unindorsed notes secured by bills of lading, ware house receipts and blanket insurance policies. It is alleged that advantage has been taken of the high credit of the firm to borrow immense sums from banks on forged bills of lading and ware house receipts and that this has been the cause of the failure. F. J. Odendahl, president of the company, was formerly president of the New Orleans board of trade and is one of the best known business men in the South. The company bought extensively in Kansas City, St. Louis, Chicago and other cities.

No warrant has been issued for the arrest of the official alleged to be responsible for the failure of the firm, and he is reported to have left the city.

Ownership of News.

Judges of the United States court of appeals at Chicago have decided that the Western Union Telegraph company has a right of property in the news which it gathers and that such right does not cease when the news is published on tickers rented to patrons. This decision forever enjoins several companies who have been using the quotations in question.

Northwestern Prosperity.

James J. Hill, head of the big northwestern railroad merger, in a speech before 13,000 farmers at Crookston, Minn., said the object of the railroads was to increase prosperity in the northwest and that they did not want to increase the 7 per cent dividend. He cited a reduction in rates to shippers and an increase in wages of employees in proof of this statement.

No More Licking.

Harry E. Gavitt, of Topeka, Kans., has recently invented a machine to be used in sealing envelopes automatically. Envelopes of various thicknesses are put into a hopper and one at a time is fed forward to be sealed. A sponge automatically supplied with water moistens the flap and the feeding is regulated by a spring gauge which is self-adjusting and allows an opening to correspond with the thickness of the envelope.

Some of the measures taken by Japan to prevent the spread of the bubonic plague which made its appearance in Yokohama October 6 are a bounty placed on rats, some 2,000 of which have been killed, the building of a high board fence to inclose the infected quarters and the removal of the populace to temporary homes on new grounds at the government's expense.

The annual reunion of the Georgia division of the United Confederate Veterans was held in Columbus last week with 2,000 old soldiers in attendance. General Clement A. Evans was re-elected division commander. Colonel A. J. West, of Atlanta, was again named brigade commander. The next meeting will be held in Augusta.

The Marconi Wireless Telegraph company has secured a site for a station at Eaton's Neck, Long Island, the first of a series to be built along the sound for the convenience of yachtsmen who, while cruising in these waters, can keep in communication with New York at all times.

At the Georgia convention of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, held in LaGrange, the beautiful monument erected by the association was unveiled with beautiful exercises. Hon. Lionel C. Levy, of Columbus, delivered the address. Six scholarships have been secured by the organization.

At the Tuesday meeting of the American section of Alliance of Reformed churches, in session at Philadelphia, it was asserted that in New York city only 9 per cent of the population belonged to evangelistic churches and in Brooklyn only 10 per cent. Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman advocated more home mission work in the big cities and the immediate appointment of a co-operative committee.

How to Succeed.

In an address at the dedication of the Colored Manual Training school at Washington Booker T. Washington dwelt on the importance of teaching the colored youth that it is more important to become a first rate worker with his hands in some useful trade than to become a second or a third rate lawyer or teacher. He said the public schools should produce more workers and fewer talkers. Brains and skill, he added, must be put into the common occupations if the race would prove its value in the community, and not be supplanted by foreigners.

Don't Like His Ways.

The British parliament smashed J. P. Morgan's "tube" scheme, leaving his rival, Yerkes, triumphant temporarily. Parliament is apparently afraid it is becoming Morgan's cat's paw and so ruthlessly cast out Morgan's tube plan. It is well known that the reason why one group of the projected tubes were sold to Morgan's rival was because a promoter became angry at Morgan's London partner, Clinton Dawkins, when the latter compelled him to wait, hat in hand, for an audience. The promoter felt humiliated and sold the control to Yerkes, who doesn't hide himself from visitors behind a shield of flunkies.

To add to Morgan's troubles the authorities of the South Kensington museum have ordered the removal of all loan collections, including several of Morgan's. The authorities suspect that certain collectors have been using the museum for the purpose of saving charges in private ware houses.

Big Teachers.

The Chicago medical examiners have announced that a teacher should be large physically in order to be a success, as bulk is regarded as a prime pedagogical factor. This is causing no end of amusement among the educational papers of the country.

No More Pie.

The New York school board has taken up the question of the luncheons served in the high school lunch rooms of the city. Principals and teachers are to confer in order to provide more simple and nourishing food. Unhygienic cakes and pies are to be barred out.

To Wig Wag Frosts.

The Electrical World says it is proposed to use electric light signals by night and flags by day to warn the fruit growers of southern California as to approaching frosts during the months of February, March and April.

Royal Visitors.

King Edward contemplates sending the prince and princess of Wales to represent him at the St. Louis fair. Prince Henry will pay a second visit on the occasion of the unveiling of the monument of Frederick the Great at Washington next May.

Emperor William has given approval to German participation in the St. Louis fair and ordered the appropriation of the necessary funds. The Peruvian government has appropriated $5,000 for an exhibit at St. Louis.

King Leopold of Belgium has accepted the invitation of the St. Louis exposition committee to visit the exhibition in 1904.

Mail advices from the Orient say that the cholera epidemic continues to claim many victims in China, Japan, Egypt and the Philippines. In the latter country since March last 7,000 cases have occurred with a mortality of 75 per cent. In Japan 4,829 cases with 1,650 deaths have been reported. Nanking, in China, reports 40,000 deaths and Shoo-Yanghsien 3,000 cases a day.

Drs. Bond and Monette, on Ward's island, New York, are testing the effect of certain colors as a cure for insanity. A color treatment ward has been set aside so that the surroundings of the patients may be arranged in different colors. Black is the treatment for acute mania. The melancholy patient lives in a red room. Blue and green are for the boisterous. White and violet for the mildly insane.

The city charter of Atlanta prepared by the citizens' committee of forty-nine is presented to the general assembly for ratification.

President Castro, of Venezuela, with 5,000 men, has continued to occupy his position at Victoria, while the revolutionists hold positions not far away. Discord is said to exist among the latter and Castro has attacked them at several points. Reinforcements have been sent to him.

Ten miles from Boise, Idaho, is reported the discovery of an enormously rich body of gold ore.

English Navy.

The British admiral has given to private concerns contracts for three war ships described as "scouts." They will have a speed of 25 1/4 knots, engines of 17,000 horse power and sea boat qualities superior to torpedo boat destroyers. H. O. Arnold Forster, secretary of the admiral, says forty-seven ships are to be stricken from the navy as ineffective and the construction of submarine vessels is to be taken up with energy. He said a council was to be called to consider the utilizing of the great mercantile marine resources and the civil population to aid the naval service in giving Great Britain powerful protection even in the absence of the channel fleet.

Live Forever.

Carl Snyder, in the November Harper's Magazine, reviews the recent experiments of Professor Loeb and Professor Matthews, dealing with the principle of life and asserts that it is within the possible to arrest the growth of the physical organism and thus bring about the realization of Ponce de Leon's dream of everlasting youth. All depends on the action of the cellular ferments which may be reversed at will.

To Learn Buddhism.

Eleven children, whose average age is ten years, arrived from Santiago, Cuba, en route to Point Loma, California, to join the Universal Brotherhood. The immigration officials have been asked to hold the children as possible objectionable aliens for special inquiry. The children are in charge of Dr. Gertrude Van Pelt, who intended to accompany them to Point Loma. A temple for teaching children the Buddhist religion is said to have been established there. The children were all thinly clad and felt the cold northern air keenly when they arrived.

Negro for Collector.

Activity on the part of republicans in urging the appointment of Dr. W. D. Crum, colored, for the position of collector of customs at Charleston, has aroused much feeling among business people.

According to Washington advices, Crum is one of the favorites and republican leaders are working in his behalf at the capital. Many white republicans have applied for the office, and while no formal action has been taken here to defeat the nomination of Crum, it is said that steps will doubtless be taken.

Heretofore the citizens have accepted the assurance from the administration that none but white men would be appointed to the more important federal offices, and remembering this promise not much has been said. The indorsement of Crum by the district republican convention and the fact that influential leaders in Washington are supporting him, has led to the belief that he may yet be squeezed in.

Having been converted to the Christian Science belief, an old soldier in Kansas who had been drawing a pension for twelve years for rheumatism and stomach trouble voluntarily relinquished his pension, saying that he no longer believed in the existence of disease.

The Methodist missionary convention held last week at Cleveland, Ohio, announced the receipt of $312,000, which sum it will endeavor to raise to half a million before the November 12 convention at Albany.

The American board of commissioners for foreign missions opened its ninety-third annual meeting at Oberlin, Ohio, with all debt canceled and a balance, after an expenditure of $540,000 during a year in which thirty-seven missionaries had been sent forth. The cornerstone of the memorial arch to perpetuate the names of the missionaries who fell in the boxer war was laid.

The revolt of certain Berber tribes in the interior of Morocco, due to the dissatisfaction with the modern improvements introduced by the present sultan, is believed to have endangered the lives of British and American missionaries resident there.

In the last week or two the prices of peppermint, spearmint and tansy, which form the essential oils used by candy manufacturers, have advanced nearly 100 per cent in price, due to a cornering of the crop in the vicinity of Kalamazoo, Mich., which comprises nearly 75 per cent of the world's supply of these ingredients.

The British Pacific cable was completed on Thursday, according to Sydney, Australia advices, and was officially opened Friday.

It was officially announced Thursday that the Morgan ship combine or International Mercantile Marine company is to pay $53,000,000 for the White Star Steamship company, part in cash, part in stock.

Rail Road Purchase.

The fact is confirmed by a prominent official of the Southern that the purchase is consummated of the Tennessee Northern, the Harriman and Nashville and the Knoxville and Ohio railroads, all of them coal roads with a total mileage of 110 miles.

The Knoxville and Ohio reaches all important mines at Coal Creek and Johnson. The Tennessee Northern is only 13 miles long and runs from Lenoir, Tenn., on the Knoxville and Ohio, to Lafayette, where there are important coal mines and a large steel plant, as well as hundreds of saw mills. The Harriman and Nashville runs from the town of Harriman, Tenn., to Petros, where the coal mines are operated by hundreds of contracts. After making these purchases the Southern also proposes to build from Lafayette to Middlesboro, Ky., through another coal territory.

Not Quite Hard.

The current number of the Southern American states that only 42 per cent of the pig iron of the country is the output of the United States Steel corporation, showing that the iron and steel industries are far from monopolized by the steel trust. 50.1 per cent of rolled products, or 12,319,327 tons in the trade's proportion of the manufacture of iron.

The students of the different home colleges spent Halloween in a riotous fashion. After leaving the theaters they joined forces and marched through the main streets, throwing stones at street cars. "They tore down signs, broke glass windows, thereby causing heavy damage to some of the big stores. Mounted police charged them with the result that a number of students received serious injuries. Six of them were arrested."

The lake submarine torpedo Proteus was successfully launched. The Proteus is designed for harbor defense. She is 60 feet long, 11 feet beam and has a displacement of 65 tons submerged. Her motive power is electricity when submerged and gasoline when cruising. The trap door is her bow which enables a diver to leave the boat for the purpose of cutting cables or mine connections. Her builders believe she can destroy the submarine defense of any harbor in the world.

The agent of an English syndicate has arrived in Mexico with the intention of forming a $30,000,000 combination of Mexican cotton mills.

The price of crude oil has been steadily advancing and Indiana oil men predict it will go to $1 a barrel. During the month of October 445 wells were completed in that state alone.

Wheat in the state of Washington rose to the unusual figure of 74 cents a bushel. Light receipts and the knowledge that there is much less grain in the farmers' hands than usual at this season are given as reasons.

It is reported that plans are under way for a merging of the Pittsburgh coal company and the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke company, forming the strongest bituminous concern. The purpose is said to be to economize and end trade rivalry.

Jerusalem is suffering from a cholera scourge.

At the opening of the Bulgarian assembly Tuesday the speech from the throne declared incontestable proofs of the czar's friendliness and expressed the hope of better international relations through the realization of treaties guaranteeing the peaceful development of the Balkan peninsula.

Alien Children Ahead.

A census office statement says that in the United States as a whole 93.8 per cent of children of foreign born parents are able to read and write. This surprising difference in favor of the immigrant population is attributed to the fact that it is located mainly in the north and west, where schools are better, but the comparison when carried out by geographical sections is still in favor of the immigrants except in the north Atlantic states.

The southern league baseball suits have been dismissed.

It has been decided to establish wireless telegraphy apparatus at all stations and on all passenger trains of the Italian railroads. King Victor Emmanuel has appointed Signor Montecavallo, of the Order of Merit.

The Southern railway has put a thirty-three hours schedule between Chicago and New Orleans.

To The Public.

Allow me to say a few words in praise of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I had a very severe cough and cold and feared I would get pneumonia, but after taking the second dose of this medicine I felt better, three bottles of it cured my cold and the pains in my chest disappeared entirely. I am most respectfully yours for health, RALPH S. MAXWELL, No. Thirty-seventh St., Wheeling, Va. For sale by Hopkins Drug Co., and A. Horn, Thorsby.

T. J. HUBBARD, Tax Collector.

If you are bilious and seeking advisors, Take DeWitt's Little Early Risers. Just before going to bed. You will find on the morrow, You are rid of your sorrow. That's all; just enough said.

These famous pills do not gripe, but move the bowels gently and easily, cleansing the liver. Their tonic effect gives strength to the glands, preventing a return of the disorder.

Cured of Piles After 40 Years.

Mr. C. Haver, of Geneva, Ohio, had the piles for forty years. Doctors and dollars could do him no lasting good. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured him permanently. Invaluable for cuts, burns, bruises, sprains, lacerations, eczema, tetter, salt rheum, and all other skin diseases. Look for the name DeWitt on the package—all others are cheap, worthless counterfeits.

BIG REVENUE CASE

Won by Mississippi Against the Railroads.

The supreme court of Mississippi Monday affirmed the decision of the Illinois central court in the celebrated back tax suit against the Illinois Central road wherein the state revenue agent obtained a judgment against the company for back taxes, interest and damages aggregating about $700,000.

The opinion was one of the lengthiest ever handed down by the court and its reading consumed one and one-half hours. The judgment is a clean cut victory for the revenue agent, both on the law and the facts, and the case will be immediately carried to the United States supreme court for final decision.

The taxes for which judgment is secured are on the Louisiana, New Orleans and Texas, and Natchez, Jackson and Columbus branches of the system from 1880 to 1891, inclusive. The case has been in litigation since 1894.

Post Office Service.

The annual report of Robert J. Wynne, assistant postmaster general, urges that in view of the success of the rural free delivery establishment and its future possibilities, the recommendation for $12,650,000 in estimates for that purpose is reasonable. The amount is an increase of a little more than $5,000,000 over the amount of last year.

The advisability of erecting public buildings for the establishment of branch post offices in cities is discussed and the plan is endorsed as economical to the government. The report says the establishment and extension of pneumatic tube service will make it necessary to secure permanent sites for stations in the large cities. In the city delivery service a plan is proposed whereby in the larger cities sub-carriers shall receive at least $30 a month and in the smaller cities $25 a month. Sub-carriers cannot now count on a fixed income.

New Gun All Right.

Gen. William Crozier, chief of the bureau of ordnance, in his annual report to the secretary of war, says the improved musket has been completed and tried with very satisfactory results, the various changes not only improving the weapon, but cheapening and accelerating the production. The rod bayonet is said to lie in the fact that it lightens the weight of the gun and dispenses with the bayonet and bayonet scabbard now in use, and in the place of which attaching tools may be carried by the soldier. The new piece weighs but a little less than 9 1/2 pounds, considerably lighter than the German and the Mauser, yet has greater velocity and greater penetration. The construction of 5,000 of the muskets has been authorized.

Unusual Case.

A. C. Avary, one of the democratic nominees for the North Carolina senate, declines to take a certificate of election. Owing to a trifling irregularity, the vote of a precinct which gave his republican opponent a majority was not counted, and it was said that Avary was elected by 8 majority. He is an ex-associate justice of the supreme court.

A hot reply has been sent by the L. and N. to the Kentucky railroad commission. It characterizes the complaint as a "mere fishing bill" and disputes the jurisdiction of the commission.

A long distance telephone line between Birmingham and Atlanta will be commenced at Anniston in a few days.

John Bull After Coaling Station.

Advises received from Fiji state that the British government is preparing to establish a naval coaling station on the island of Suvarrow, in anticipation of the construction of the Isthmian canal. Suvarrow island is to the eastward of Samoa and north of the Cook island. The government of Fiji will import to those islands 750 East Indians as contract laborers for the sugar and other industries there, applications for that many having been approved.

A $200,000 cotton mill will be erected at Jacksonville.

The president has appointed John S. Webb postmaster at Tuskegee, Ala., vice Joseph O. Thompson, appointed collector of internal revenue of Alabama.

The memorial tower erected at Minneapolis in memory of Bishop Whipple was dedicated Tuesday with imposing services. The fund for the tower was raised by subscription, many prominent people of England and America contributing, besides the colored people of Eatonville, Fla., and the Sioux and Chippewa Indians. The chimes were given by the wife of the late bishop.

Northern Sweden is threatened with famine as a result of the cold wet summer. Crops are a failure and the government is asked to send food to man and beast. Railroads are carrying cereals and fodder free of charge to the stricken districts.

Suit to force payment of North Carolina railway bonds is brought by South Dakota bank.

Nellie Corcoran after a sleep of twenty days in New York, is dead. All efforts to rouse the girl failed. Some thought she was hypnotized.

The recent election in Honduras, in which there were three candidates for president, failed to give a majority for any one. Since the constitution requires a majority to elect, the choice in the case will be thrown into the congress.

The Philippine commission has authorized the construction of a standard gauge electric railroad and of a lighting and power plant. Specifications will be exhibited at Manila and Washington.

COLLECTOR REMOVED

Mr. Julian H. Bingham Steps Down and Out.

Julian H. Bingham, collector of internal revenue for the district of Alabama, has been removed from his office and Joseph O. Thompson appointed to succeed him. Mr. Thompson, who gets the place, is a brother of Congressman Thompson, of the Fifth district. He is a democrat and was recommended by Booker Washington. Mr. Thompson lives at Tuskegee.

There is no cloud on Mr. Bingham's official or private character as a citizen and it is "simply the stamp of the administration's disapproval of the late convention and punishment regretfully given."

Jack Tars Wanted.

The most crying need of the navy, according to the annual report of Admiral H. C. Taylor, chief of the bureau of navigation, is more officers to man our warships. He declares that the preparations now going on for the mobilization of the fleet for the winter maneuvers in the West Indies has brought the department face to face with the critical conditions, due to the lack of officers, which, he says, has reached such a point as to be dangerous to the efficiency of the fleet. He says that the number of officers on board the ships of other navies, although as a matter of fact, our ships require more officers than other navies because we are compelled to man our vessels with green crews who have little or no knowledge of sea life.

He submits a table showing that the present needs of the naval service require 1,600 officers, while the number on the navy list, including midshipmen after graduation, is only 1,023, or 577 short.

Won't Have It.

The following is self-explanatory: "Wilkesbarre, Pa., Nov. 2, 1902. "W. B. Wilson, 1103 Stevenson building, Indianapolis:

"Replying to your inquiry concerning the use of my name by the press as an aspirant for the presidency of the American Federation of Labor, I desire to say that I am in no way responsible for the circulation of these rumors, and while it is the duty of every man to serve the cause of labor in any position in which he can be most useful, and while I appreciate the honor of being mentioned for this office, I firmly believe that I can be of more real service in my present position, and if any attempt is made to present my name for the presidency of the American Federation of Labor at New Orleans convention, you will favor me by saying that under no circumstances would I accept the election. (Signed.) "JOHN MITCHELL."

Isle of Pines.

The president has asked the secretary of war to make a report on the situation regarding the Isle of Pines, as it was at the time of the withdrawal of the United States from Cuba, and also on the government of that island during the time the United States was in control of Cuba.

It is said that the condition of affairs on the island was so bad that United States Minister Squiers had virtually advised a delegation of American Pine islanders, who recently called on him in Havana to take the matter into their own hands and establish a provisional government.

Former Governor Black created a sensation in Molineux trial when he said: "All the evidence in this case points away from Molineux and to another man. There was a crime and there was a motive, and the motive points to Harry S. Cornish."

General Chaffee is home from the Philippines.

With more than half of Mississippi's cotton crop picked and marketed, only two gins have been destroyed in the state during the season from a total of over four thousand gins in active operation. The season has been a remarkably lucky one for the gins, and the loss by fire is phenomenally low.

Fire in a tower of the East river bridge at New York, 335 feet in the air, wrought $500,000 damage before burning itself out. It was too high to be reached by the water power.

Spain's cabinet has resigned.

The Valley Iron Co., at Battelle, will erect two hundred cottages for operatives. Three hundred coke ovens are under way and will be completed by January and a 200-ton furnace is building. The lumber used by the company is sawed in its own mill.

King Edward was sixty-one years old Sunday.

Bankers Meet.

The twenty-eighth annual convention of the American Bankers' Association assembled in New Orleans Tuesday, beginning a three days' session. This is the largest aggregation of financiers in the history of the country. Fifteen hundred delegates registered and nearly 500 visitors and ladies. Seven special trains, a dozen private cars and every regular train for the past three days has been engaged in bringing the crowd, which has taken complete possession of the St. Charles hotel, the headquarters, and overflowed into every other hotel in the city. The first day's session was carried out in accordance with the program with one exception.

Coahoma county, Mississippi, boasts of a remarkable animal freak in the shape of an eight-legged pig, born on the King and Anderson place, about seven miles from Friar's Point. The pig died, but has been preserved in alcohol. The eight legs are perfectly formed and the pig was in every way a complete specimen of the hog family. There were five other pigs in the litter, all perfectly formed.

It is said an effort is being made to prevent the confirmation by the senate of the appointment of Judge Thomas R. Roulhac as district attorney.

An explosion of illuminating gas in New York wrecked a store and injured thirty-nine persons, several of them seriously.

The Chattanooga Southern is surveying a new route out of Gadsden. It is reported that it may go to Birmingham.

Sagasta is again entrusted with the formation of a new Spanish cabinet. It is said Weyler will not be in it.

The war department announces that Christmas presents sent to the Philippines will be subject to duty.

Gold was discovered in paying quantities near Christians, Randolph county. Graphite appears with it.

Tallahassee falls now supply Montgomery with electric power.

On Transports.

In the annual report of General M. I. Ludington, quartermaster general, the most interesting feature is what he has to say regarding the transports, in view of the desire in some quarters to dispose of them. He says that the ships are fitted up in the best possible shape for the transportation of troops and that foreign nations have asked for plans of the fittings with a view of improving their transports. The report continues: "Nearly every ship sailing from Manila had on board about one hundred sick who were provided with every attention and comfort in the transport hospitals that would be found in any well regulated hospital ashore. Not one life has been sacrificed by reason of any fault in the fittings or accommodations upon the army transports."

"It would be wise policy to retain as a part of the equipment of the army to be economically cared for and kept in such condition so as to be promptly available for any emergency which may arise requiring the transportation of troops on the ocean."

To Invade England.

An enterprise of great moment to Manchester, England, has been planned by a syndicate of New York capitalists. It is the purchase of eighty acres of land on the Manchester ship canal, upon which to construct wharves and dock for the convenience of ocean-going steamers, and to erect warehouses for the storage of cotton and other produce. The company owning the dock and warehouses will furnish mercantile and financial machinery enabling American holders of cotton or other produce to sell it directly from the warehouse in Manchester to the English spinner and making it possible for spinners on this side to hold cotton in stock until required for consumption, without looking up an equivalent amount of capital. It is intended to establish similar warehouses at Havre, Bremen and one or two European ports.

Shot His Brother-in-Law.

Jeff Maxwell was shot and instantly killed Friday night at Anniston by Will N. Lawson, his brother-in-law. The men had been at outs for several months and Lawson had left the vicinity to prevent a difficulty with Maxwell. Maxwell is a son of J. H. Maxwell, owner and proprietor of Calhoun county's largest distillery. Lawson claims that Maxwell was advancing upon him with a knife when he shot him with a pistol. The bullet pierced Maxwell's heart. Lawson was employed as head distiller at Maxwell's still. He is known as a quiet, inoffensive man. Maxwell is known to have made several threats against Lawson and had tried, it is said, on two former occasions to kill him.

BILL ARP'S LETTER

Barrow Man's Championship of the Bad Boy is Approved.

COMMENT FROM A SCHOOLTEACHER

Solomon Was Probably Joking When He Wrote: "He that Spareth the Rod Hateth His Son," and the Practice is Almost Obsolete Now.

In a recent letter I took the part of the bad boys and said they must not be given up. That letter has provoked a most intelligent comment from a western school teacher, who has been teaching boys for twenty years. He says that his so-called bad boys almost invariably turned out to be his best boys, best scholars, and best men, and he never punished one with the rod. His illustrations are very apt, entertaining and instructive for he is no ordinary teacher, but is a highly cultured gentleman, and writes a beautiful letter. His letter contained several pages and was eagerly perused. He says I am a believer in the rod, but it has been my lot to have to use it mostly, but lightly, on mamma's pets—the good boys who never did anything wrong. He does not believe in moral turpitude or total depravity, but that all natural instincts are good, and that evil is only an abuse or misuse of the good, and he has never seen a human being who would not at times perform some kind of office for another, never expecting a reward. Once upon a time, the story goes, a little girl was watching a sculptor as he put the finishing touches upon an angel he had chiseled from a block of marble, and she exclaimed: "Oh, what a beautiful angel you have made!" "No," said the sculptor, "the angel was already in the marble. I have only chipped away the rough stone that hid it."

So it is with every man—there is an angel there, though too often hidden by the stony covering. The skillful sculptor could find it.

This reminds me of an incident that happened many years ago in Rome while I lived there. It was on Sunday while a great freshet was inundating a portion of the town. A poor boy, the son of a widow, had rowed his little boat out in an eddy to catch some wood that was floating down. By some mischance his boat was caught by the current and he was carried rapidly down the stream. His mother had seen it all and ran down the bank screaming for help. Many people ran along with her, but could do nothing. It was near a quarter of a mile to the junction where scores of men and boys were watching the surging waters. As the little boat neared the bridge pillar and capsize and the boy disappeared with the boat. In an instant it came to the surface again and the boy was seen clinging to the chain at its end. "Save that boy, somebody!" Said one, "I'll give $5 to save that boy." Said another, "I'll give $10." "I'll give $20," said another, but nobody dared to venture. The mother cried in agony, "Won't somebody save my boy?" Just then a young man was seen rushing wildly down, throwing off his coat and shoes as he came and parting the crowd, he ran down into the water and struck out boldly for the boy. He got him, and clasping one arm around his waist swam with the other and laid him at his mother's feet. He was limp and speechless, but alive. Putting on his shoes and coat, the young man walked quickly away. But he was known to most of those present. He was a barkeeper and his moral standing was not good, for he was profane in speech and his associates were the sports and drinking men of the town. He was under the ban, but there was an angel in him somewhere. He knew the poor widow and he knew the boy—and he scorned to accept any reward. I have often ruminated over that heroic deed and wondered.

My school teacher friend says that the difference between a bad boy and a good one is that the stone is harder to chip from the former, but gives a finer and more durable polish when the rough outside is chiseled away, but the good boy's angel is found in chalk, and soon crumbles and decays. He tells of Bob, the worst boy ever taught. It was far out in western Texas, and when the school was made up it was predicted that Bob and the teacher would have a fight in less than a week. He was fully apprised that Bob was wicked and cursed like a sailor and would fight at the drop of a hat and drop it himself. Bob's father was dead and his mother an invalid and very poor, but Bob loved her and was kind and good to her and cooked the breakfast before he went to school, which was two miles away. He always hurried home after school to chop the wood and bring water and help her with the frugal supper. The teacher's punishment of his pupils when it had to be given, was keeping them after school and requiring them to get their lessons. Bob very respectfully asked to be allowed to go home to wait upon his mother. He behaved very well for a week, but his bad day came and he did not study at all. He seemed to be ready for a row. The teacher told him mildly, but firmly that he must stay in until he got his lesson. He gave a look of defiance and shut up his book. My friend says: "It was one of the trials of my life. I pretended to be reading a book, but I was only thinking. In half an hour Bob opened his book, but I saw tears in his eyes. After a while he said, 'I can't study now. Please, sir, let me go home. It's getting dark and mother will be scared. She's all alone and sick. Please, sir, I will get this lesson tomorrow, and I won't be bad any more.' Well, I was just overcome, and I took him in my arms and we wept together. Never did Bob give me any more trouble and all the neighbors wondered. I verily believe that if I had whipped him he would have been ruined by it. After his mother's death he enlisted in the army and won his stripes, and he writes me occasionally, and always thanks me for the kindness I showed him at school."

I believe that the use of the rod in our public schools has been generally abandoned. The punishment of refractory pupils is now just what it is in our colleges. Expulsion, suspension, monthly reports of conduct and progress. Patrons seem satisfied with this and the general verdict is that Solomon was joking. My friend Fort was as hostile to whipping children as is Dr. Holderby, of Atlanta, and when I quoted Solomon, who said, "He that sparreth the rod hateth his son," he said, "Well, Solomon was mad when he wrote that. With all of those wives he must have had three or four hundred children, and the little rascals were always tagging after him and begging for candy, or a knife or a doll, or something, and they climbed up his legs and felt in his pockets and pulled his hair, and it was pappy this and daddy that, until he got desperate and wrote that verse. I don't take everything for granted that Solomon says, nohow. A man who was as big a fool about women as he was, needn't tell me about whipping children. He didn't know how to raise Rebekah, who succeeded him, for he said to the children of Israel, 'My father chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with scorpions.' That's the kind of a boy he raised with his rod."

But after all and before all it is the home influence that moulds the child, for that is constant and enduring. The angel that was within Bob was uncovered by his mother's love. Some mothers send their little children to school as to a nursery, to get them out of the way or because they cannot manage them at home, while others put up for them a nice lunch and kiss them a sweet good-bye and fondly watch for their return. Our children had to go more than a mile to school when we lived on the farm. They had to cross the creek on a foot log and then through a field up a long hill and then down the hill until out of sight. It was my daily pleasure to watch them go and come, and feel that they were safe.

And now our eldest daughter is going to leave us—going to Winooski, Carolina, to live, where her husband has found profitable employment. They have five children, some of whom were our daily visitors and made us happy when they came. What shall we do now? We thought that this exodus of our children was over. My wife and I are growing old, and it grieves us to lose our children and grandchildren. But this is the common lot. There is nothing true but heaven.—BILL ARP, in Atlanta Constitution.

THE way of the "lily white" is hard.

THE U. S. supreme court will soon pass on the suffrage clause of the new constitution, in the case of a negro from Montgomery.

THE removal of Julian H. Bingham from the office of collector of internal revenue for the district of Alabama is another instance that the Republican party does not favor
the "lily white" movement, whatever may be the sentiment of the white Republicans in this State.
Postmaster-general Payne says:

"Neither the administration nor the Republican party of the north will stand for the exclusion of any section of our people by reason of their race or color, when in other respects such citizens have complied with the laws and are eligible under the law to full and free participation in political action and are of a high standard of political character. In other words, there are now a hundred colored men in Alabama who come up to the requirements of the recently adopted
State constitution and are eligible in political affairs and the action of the Republican State organization, referred to in arbitrarily excluding them is not approved, no more than such action would be approved if it were taken in Ohio or Indiana."

SOME interesting comparisons may be made on the result of the election with others of recent years.
So far as the State is concerned it is evident that the great majority of the people are content with the Democratic party in power and have no wish to try the experiment of Republican rule. It would not have been surprising had the Republicans polled twice the number they did, but it is somewhat remarkable that with all their exertions they only managed to poll a little over twenty thousand. A gratifying feature of this election is that not a single charge of fraud has been raised, and this alone justifies the new constitution, and emphasizes the wisdom of the Democratic party in giving it to the people and thus obviating devious election methods.

In this county, two years ago,
Mr. Reynolds polled 1322 votes for State Senator, this year he received 825 for the Legislature, a loss of 497. In the election of 1900 there was a total poll of 2073, this year
the total is about 1650, a falling off of 423. Had these 423 gone to the polls it is more than probable that fully two-thirds of them would have voted the Democratic ticket, which would easily have elected it.

Mr. Bowie in 1900 received 560 votes for congress, this year he gets 664, a gain of 104, which is gratifying.

Supt. J. W. Moore, in 1900, received 1378; this year he gets 884,
a loss of 494. Mr. Alex Glasscock, in 1900, got 1357, this year 843, a loss of 514.

All things taken into consideration it is evident that the Democratic party has gained considerably and with honest elections assured in the future, and the beneficent working of the new constitution, it has taken on a new lease of power, which will secure it against any efforts put forth by the Republicans for another generation at least.

Government Report of the Cotton Crop.

Sir—I have the honor to make the following report by states and territories of the quantity of cotton ginned from the growth of 1902 up to and including October 18, 1902:
The total crop ginned up to and including Oct. 18, 1902, was 5,985, 472 bales. Of this number Alabama reports 558,785 bales from 3, 854 ginneries. Texas reports 1, 781,797 bales from 4,509 ginneries.
The estimated percentage of the total crop is, in Alabama 60.1 and in Texas 70.4.

The above statistics of the quantity of cotton ginned were collected through a personal individual ginnery canvass of the cotton states by 828 paid local special agents of Census Office. The estimates of the percentage of the total crop ginned to and including October 18th is based on the estimates of these local agents who are instructed to confine their estimates to the territories canvassed
by them and to the knowledge gained therefrom. The office assumes no responsibility for the accuracy of these estimates. This report will be followed by a second, showing the cotton ginned up to and including December 13th, and a third and final report to be made in the early spring, will cover the total crop of the season. The final report will distribute the crop
by counties, segregates the Dolan and Sea-Island cottons, show number of round and square packages and give weights of same.

Very respectfully,
S. N. D. NOKIN, Chief Statistician.

The Vote in the State.

The voting for Mr. Smith may reach 20,000, but it is exceedingly difficult to say how much of this vote should be credited to the lily whites. Fully one-half of the vote was cast in ten counties that have heretofore cast heavy populist votes—in counties like Chilton, DeKalb, Etowah, Shelby and St.
Clair. If to these are added Marshall, Blount, Clay, Walker and Geneva, we have fully one-half of the lily white vote. The rest of that vote cast in 55 counties will not average 200 votes to the county. In Russell but 3 lily white votes were cast; in Sumter, 6, in Dallas, 7; in Wilcox, 3; and in Hale none. It is ridiculous to call such an organization one of the great state parties.

The chances are that 20,000 lily
white votes were made up of 20, 000 populists who will yet return to the Democratic party; of 5000 discontented factionist who will also become after a while good Democrats, and of 5000 lily whites, pure and simple. An accurate analysis is impossible, but the true blue lily white vote did not probably exceed 5000 in the state, and the stream of administration cold water now turned on it will soon scatter it altogether.—Age-Herald.

Consumption

Salt pork is a famous old-fashioned remedy for consumption. "Eat plenty of pork," was the advice to the consumptive 50 and 100 years ago.

Salt pork is good if a man can stomach it. The idea behind it is that fat is the food the consumptive needs most.

Scott's Emulsion is the modern method of feeding fat to the consumptive. Pork is too rough for sensitive stomachs.
Scott's Emulsion is the most refined of fats, especially prepared for easy digestion.

Feeding him fat in this way, which is often the only way, is half the battle, but Scott's Emulsion does more than that. There is something about the combination of cod liver oil and hypophosphites in Scott's Emulsion that puts new life into the weak parts and has a special action on the diseased lungs.

A sample will be sent free upon request.
Be sure that this picture is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

THE LILY WHITES.

The "lily whites" of the south
were soundly drubbed on Tuesday, and nobody who believes in fair play
and straightforward dealing in politics will regret it. They deserved that fate, if men ever did in this world. Cheek may be looked for in the political game, and it sometimes wins, but just such a display of that article as was made by the men who organized and led the "lily white" movement in the campaign
just closed has seldom been witnessed.

Some had previously been democrats, but had come out of the democratic party, as they claimed, because of faith in the republican national policies. They were sensitive on the subject of their association, and stipulated that their local allies must all be white men. The beneficiaries for years, as they frankly confessed, of violence and fraud at the polls, they now stood forth as the champions of "respectability"
in politics, and modestly offered themselves as leaders in inaugurating a new order of things. A little weary of the bait of X stuffing and falsified tally sheets which had characterized local elections for so many years, and in the fruits of which they had willingly shared, these superior spirits now demanded a change of parties for the south. But, of all things, it must be "respectable."

Strangely enough, among those who responded to this remarkable call were a few men who had all their lives been republicans, had never apologized for their affiliations, had been active in the advocacy of their party's principles, and personally had profited by their activity.
They had advised the negro—and often to his advantage and uplifting as a citizen—had accepted his support and attained some distinction at home. But now they were willing, in an effort to hold on to what the negro had helped to bestow upon them, to cut his political acquaintance unite for future work with his open and avowed enemy. They grasped the hands of the men whom they had repeatedly denounced for all the crimes in the political calendar, and by whom they had been in-turn as roundly denounced, and soaped up and declared ostentatiously for "respectability."

The whole thing, of course, got to be riotously absurd. The more that thoughtful people reflected upon it the less use they had for it, and what they did to it when election day rolled around is luminously displayed in the returns from Virginia, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and North Carolina, where the stupid little comedy was enacted.
The southern problem is difficult and unfortunate. The best friends of the south may well wish for a change down there. But it is certain never to be brought about by an alliance between hypocrisy and ingratitude.—Washington Star.

SHOE! SHOE! SHOE!

Where will I get my shoes this winter? That is a question a great many are asking themselves just
now. In answering this there are three important things to consider,
namely: 1st the wear of the shoe,
that is, the lasting quality of the shoe. 2nd the fit, 3rd the price of the shoe. We have solved this question for you we think. Out of several hundred pairs of shoes which we have sold the past year we have
not had one dissatisfied customer
to express himself thus: "The test

so, the test of a shoe is wearing it."

Why We Shake Heads.

To shake heads at a person is rightly regarded as a sign of pity, but very few know that this motion arose.

According to a French ethnologist,
whenever two men met, former times
they were accustomed to hold up their right hands in front of them as a sign that they had no intention of attacking each other. This mark of courtesy, however, did not prove sufficient in all cases, for a man may hold up his right hand and yet keep a dagger concealed in it, and therefore the custom for the two right hands to grasp each other, as only thus could full assurance be given that no weapon was concealed in either of them. Formerly, therefore, this gesture was the token of loyalty and friendship, was one of reciprocal distrust.—New York Herald.

If you are bilious and seeking advisors, Take DeWitt's Little Early Risers. Just before going to bed, You will find on the morrow, You are rid of your sorrow—That's all; just enough said.

These famous pills do not gripe, but move the bowels gently and easily, cleansing the liver. Their tonic effect gives strength to the glands, preventing a return of the disorder.

Like Any Other Man.

The following story is told in reference to Mr. Lowell's second marriage: At the time when rumors of the event became current among his friends one of them, a staunch admirer of the first Mrs. Lowell and a firm believer in her husband's permanent widowhood, took it upon herself to deny the gossip every time it met her. Finally, however, the announcement came to her from such extremely good authority that her faith was shaken.

She wrote frankly to Mr. Lowell that she had heard the reports and persistently denied them, but now began to doubt her right to do so. She begged him to let her know the true state of affairs, whether she was to believe him a never-to-be-remembered husband or, after all, "just like any other man." The answer was prompt and brief: "Dear Madam—Yours, like any other man."

They Don't Like It. "There's a queer thing about Italian laborers," said a contractor who employs a great many of them, "and that is that they absolutely refuse to work in the rain. Stop a minute and think. Did you ever see a gang of them working in the streets, digging trenches or doing any other manual labor in the rain? Well, you never did and probably never will. Just as soon as a shower sets in, no matter how slight, they will scramble for cover. If the rain continues, they will soon complain of feeling sick and knock off for the day. One fellow will have a sore throat, another will be doubled up with pains in his stomach, and others will suddenly acquire severe ailments of all sorts. It is useless to attempt to do anything with them, and pretty soon they will all go trooping home."—Philadelphia Record.

True Dream.

"The other night I took a nap on the sofa and dreamed something sharp was going through me." "Did the dream come true?" "Yes; when I awoke I found my wife had gone through my pockets. I guess she is sharp enough."—Chicago News.

Cured of Piles After 40 Years.

Mr. C. Hasey, of Geneva, Ohio, has the piles for forty years. Doctors and dollars could do him no lasting good. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured him permanently. Invaluable for cuts, burns, bruises, sprains, lacerations, eczema, tetter, salt rheum, and all other skin diseases. Look for the name DeWitt on the package—all others are cheap, worthless counterfeits.

I have a full line of Spectacles. If you have trouble with your eyes come and see me. Don't pay 65 dollars for a sewing machine when you can buy a New Royal at half price. Send 26 cents in stamps and one old machine needle and I will send you one dozen of the right kind. Don't ruin your machine with bad oil; I have the kind you need, only 10 cents per bottle. L. D. THE DORFORD'S BLACK DRAUGHT THE GREAT FAMILY MEDICINE

The Dorford's Black-Draught has saved doctors' bills for more than sixty years. For the common family ailments, such as constipation, indigestion, hard colic, bowel complaints, chills and fever, biliousness, headaches and other like complaints no other medicine is necessary. It invigorates and regulates the liver, assists digestion, stimulates action of the kidneys,
purifies the blood, and purges the bowels of foul accumulations. It cures liver complaint, indigestion, sour stomach, diarrhoea, chills,
rheumatic pains, sciatica, backache, kidney troubles, constipation, diarrhoea, biliousness, piles, hard colds and headache. Every druggist has Dorford's Black-Draught in 25 cent packages and in maintenance for $1.00. Never accept a substitute. Insist on having the original made by the Chattanooga Medicine Company.

I believe Dorford's Black-Draught is the best medicine on earth. It is good for any and everything. I have a family of twelve children, and for four years I have kept them on foot and healthy with no doctor but Black-Draught. A. J. GREEN, Illinois, La.

CLANTON, ALA. THURSDAY NOVEMBER 20, 1902

NO. 5

THE MAN ON THE CORNER.

One of the Rights We Saw, and Some We Saw Not.

In the long winter nights when we gather around the fire, as it blazes, listening to the winds moan. There comes the conviction no such joy can be found as around the fireside with the old folks at home. And the tales that are told and the songs that are sung. The memories recalled of the loved ones who roam. They gladden our hearts and they silence the tongue. While we list to the talk 'round the fireside at home. And the old man will tell of the days that are gone. The old lady will smile with the fond thoughts that come. And the young ones will plan a bright time for the morn. All around the fireside with the old folks at home.

We have been having a glorious spell of Indian summer weather, and at last it begins to look as if winter was really coming. It has turned a little colder, we have had some rain, and the sky is overcast and gloomy, threatening more rain. At night, after the day's work is over, it is pleasant to draw the chair up to the fire and recount the exploits of the day, and make anticipations for the future. On a chilly night there is something sympathetic about a fireside, and even if you do feel a little hard about your neighbor, the fire seems to thaw your hard feelings and you tell your grievances in a modified spirit. Winter may be dreary, but it has its compensations, like every other season, and one of its greatest charms is the fireside at night.

And next week brings court once more, with lots of visitors and a busy time for a few days. Fortunately we have no big cases and none of such a nature as to cause hard feelings; consequently everyone meets everyone else with a pleasant smile and are honestly glad to see each other. Really, court time at Clanton is more of a sociable gathering than anything else, and most men are glad to be drawn on the jury, knowing they will be able to meet old friends with nothing to mar the pleasure of the meeting. Make the Banner office your headquarters, we shall be glad to see you.

Everyone in the State of Alabama agrees that the last election was fair and honest—no, not every one, for I am told there is one solitary individual in Clanton who is rashly asserting that the Democrats stole it. Now, brother, be reasonable, and don't let your prejudices run away with you. The chairman of our Republican campaign committee says the election was perfectly fair and honest, and upon my word I really believe he is as well posted as you are. If you know of any fraud anywhere, or by any person, bring it to the notice of the public, and if you do not, then refrain from accusing the Democrats of that of which they are guiltless. Be fair, brothers, above all things, before accusing others of unfairness.

Although, on account of the shortness of crops in this section, our people are somewhat pushed, business is pretty good in Clanton, and there is not a vacant store or dwelling house in town, while all the time there is a number of enquiries for premises. This speaks well for the prosperity of Clanton.

Normal Music Institute.—A session of 20 days will begin at Clanton, November 17th. E. D. Durham, Principal.

Jemison, Nov. 15, 1902
Editor Banner.—Was Judge Adams right when he said that what Populists were left in this county, co-operating with the Republicans, would be overshadowed by the Republicans and receive no credit for what they did in voting the ticket? Yes, he was right, and now that the election is over, Mr. Cook, the chairman of the Republican state campaign committee, counts all the votes cast against the Democratic ticket, Republican votes. So we can all see now that Adams was right, and some of us who are not so well informed as to politics would always do well to look before we jump, one other thing Mr. Cook says, we had an absolutely fair election. I hope our friends who voted the Republican ticket will believe this since Mr. Cook said it. That is another thing Adams said in his speeches that he believed that we would have fair elections from now on and that being accomplished there was no further issue between Democrats and Populists. As the days go by the events prove that Judge Adams has judgement and that he knows when the battle is fought and the victory won. I believe with him, that our hope is in the Democratic party for any child knows that the Populist party is a thing of the past, and that Republicanism will never amount to anything in Alabama.

A Thanksgiving Dinner.
Heavy eating is usually the first cause of indigestion. Repeated attacks inflame the mucus membranes lining the stomach, producing a swelling after eating, heartburn, headache, sour risings and finally catarrh of the stomach. Kodol relieves the inflammation, protects the nerves and cures catarrh. Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia, and all stomach troubles by cleansing and sweetening the glands of the stomach.

Pleasant Grove.
Such lovely Autumn weather, while fair "Luna" makes the nights resplendent with her mellow light. We have a profusion of fine fall vegetables Mrs C C Crumpton is visiting her daughter at Eolin. Messrs Will Cottingham and Luther Smitherman of Bibb, have located in this community. Judge Honeycutt is building a new residence. Mr D H Hodgins has been in Birmingham for some days for the treatment of his eyes. Mr J L Thomas and daughters visited in North Clanton last week. Nature smiling so beautifully, and everybody busy and peaceable, is enough to enable us to catch a glimpse of the beautiful Sabbath to be, when the nations will learn war no more; when swords shall be beaten into plough shares, and spears into pruning hooks, the time of which Prophets have spoken and poets have sung; the glad millennial years, earth's coming glory, "when the knowledge of the Lord shall cover the earth as the waters cover the sea" FREE LANCE

Thorsby.

We are very thankful for such beautiful weather as we are having. Mr. Foster White is improving. Our little town is building rapidly, two more churches are being erected and several dwellings have been recently. Mr. Harps and family are occupying the Keyeison house. Mr. Victor Fagre who has been attending a business school in Birmingham has returned home. Prof. Speer made a business trip to Deatsville last Saturday. Misses Lilly and Agnes McCrelles of Jemison were in town last Friday morning. Mr. Rich of Coosa county an old confederate visited Mr. Stanley and family last Saturday and Sunday, he was on his way home from the reunion. PAULETTIE.

Evergreen.

The young people of Evergreen met last Friday night and organized a literary society. Everybody is invited to come and take part in the next meeting to be held next Friday night and will open promptly at 7 o'clock. Come one, come all. Rev. Ponder filled his regular appointment here Monday night and delivered quite an able sermon. Mr. Henry Williams is quite sick with lagrippe and his speedy recovery is hoped for by his many friends. Prof. A. L. Grant, one of Evergreen's most amiable young men, and who has charge of a school at Brierfield, visited his parents last Sunday. Mr. Fate and Adam Courtney of Enterprise attended services here Monday night. Mr. J. J. Grant attended the Reunion, also Mr. and Mrs. B F Gardner. The top crop of cotton is beginning to open and the farmers are looking more hopeful. EVERGREEN GIRL.

Thorsby.

To such parents who wish to come to Thorsby to educate their children we will give special rates on choice building lots within short distance of dormitory and college building. Call at our office or address THE CONCORDIA LAND AND IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION. THORSBY, ALA.

Thorsby.

Thorsby is going right ahead, many new buildings are going up, another church is being erected, the waterworks are being extended, franchises for telephone and electric lights have been granted by the city council, the Normal School is well patronized, the cannery and other factories are a big thing for the town, The Thorsby Times, the new republican weekly, is making things still more lively, and everybody wants to move to Thorsby.

Desirable building lots are already scarce and there is a big demand for houses. We need 25 more houses in Thorsby at once, and in another year we will need 50 more.

In order to make room for this expansion I have been induced to put upon the market a couple of my tracts located right in the heart of the city, the finest residence property in Thorsby. I will sell these tracts as a whole, or subdivide them into smaller tracts or lots to suit the purchasers. If you want a safe and profitable investment there is nothing better, if you want a choice residence location with magnificent view of all the surrounding town and country there is nothing to equal it. As the town grows, this property is bound to enhance in value. If you have the cash, buy now and double your money. For particulars call on, or address the owner, K. G. FAEGRE. Thorsby, Ala.

Macedonia.

The little evergreen Sunday-school at this place is still moving along nicely. Would it not be more pleasing in the sight of our dear Redeemer for us to go to the place of worship on Sunday than to go visiting and keep some one away from the Sunday-school? Why don't you come and join our Sunday-school, or come and be with us? We will not keep you long. Why or how can you hold malice? Do you ever expect to pass the shining portals of heaven when you do nothing for the cause of Christ? So please come to Sunday-school in the morning, and then go visiting in the evening. Why not help to build up our community instead of breaking it down? Just join hands and march along together. So do unto others as you wish to be done by is my prayer. JOLLY BOY.

NOTICE.

As I have sold out my business, I request all who are indebted to me or the late firm of Stewart & Middleton, will call in and settle at once. Respectfully, C. J. STEWART.

NATHANIEL GREENE

Is Now at Rest in Johnson Square, Savannah.

The reinforcement of the remains of General Nathaniel Greene, the revolutionary hero, and his son, George Washington Greene, took place in Savannah Friday in the presence of a distinguished gathering that included visitors from other states. The ceremonial address was delivered by Colonel Am Bird Gardiner, president of the Society of the Cincinnati in Rhode Island, who was at the head of the committee that discovered the remains of General Greene some eighteen months ago.

The ceremonies were conducted under the auspices of the Georgia Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution. The exercises began with the unveiling of a memorial tablet of bronze that is to mark the old vault in the colonial cemetery. The tablet was erected by the descendants of General Greene, of whom there were about twenty present at the ceremony. The monument is in the shape of a Roman sword and occupies a position in Johnson square. The corner stone of the monument was laid by General Lafayette when he visited Savannah in 1824. There was at that time a plan on foot to erect a monument to both General Greene and Count Pulaski.

A monument had been erected to General Greene's memory, there remained until the spring of 1901 a great deal of doubt as to the exact spot in which he was buried.

The Rhode Island Society of the Cincinnati took up the search last year and Colonel Am Bird Gardiner was sent to Savannah to pursue the investigation in person. On March 3, 1901, Colonel Gardiner and several associates began the work, and the following day while examining the Mossman vault a coffin plate was discovered upon which part of the name of Greene could be discerned. Some buttons were also discovered, but no sword was found.

The coffin plates were subjected to treatment. On the one on which a portion of the inscription had been deciphered the full inscription was brought to light. It was as follows: "Nathaniel Greene, Obit. June 19, 1786. Age 41 years."

AZTEC TREASURE

In Fabulous Quantity Discovered in Mexico.

A remarkable story, duly authenticated, of the discovery of hidden Aztec treasures has been reported to the Mexican authorities.

The statement, which is concurred in by several reliable witnesses, that a party of Americans headed by an archaeologist expert, Heverick, arrived at Yucatan several weeks ago and went into the mountains. The archaeologist obtained his bearings by means of a chart which he claims to have copied from an Aztec stone tablet in the national museum in the City of Mexico. He located a vast cavern in a mountain near Yucatan. Immense stone images stood about this chamber. In one end was a handsome altar above which burned a bright flame, supplied by a natural gas from a crevice in the wall.

In a chamber adjoining this main temple was found a great store of ornaments and utensils belonging to the Aztecs or some other pre-historic race.

Twelve burrows were required to transport the articles taken from the cave to San Blas, where they were shipped to San Francisco, accompanied by the Americans.

As such articles cannot be removed from Mexico without the consent of the government an investigation is in progress.

$10,000 Awarded.

A $10,000 verdict was returned in favor of the plaintiff in the damage suit for $20,000 of R. A. S. Freeman against the Central of Georgia railroad company. The suit has attracted considerable attention. Freeman claimed a freight train ran over his at Alexander City a year ago and that both of his feet were cut off.

COMPLETE TO HATTIESBURG.

But Is Going Further and Will Be Independent.

The line of the Mobile, Jackson and Kansas City road is complete to Hattiesburg, Miss. It is learned that plans have been made for a survey of the road across the northern state line of Mississippi, and it is inferred that Memphis is the probable destination, though no authoritative announcement to this effect has been made as yet. It is officially declared that the road is to be entirely independent and will not be in any way controlled by the Frisco, Illinois Central or any other system.

Benjamin F. Egan, a brother of President John M. Egan, of the Central of Georgia railroad, has been lost in Montana and not yet located. He was a member of a hunting party which was caught in a terrific snow storm.

It is reported in Iowa that Speaker Henderson will be a candidate for governor against Governor Cummins at the republican state convention next spring.

ALABAMA CONVICTS

Will work Coal Mines for the State.

The state of Alabama has decided not to lease its convicts to coal operators, as has been the custom heretofore, but at the expiration of the present lease in January it will use the convicts in mining coal for itself, or in other words, putting them on about the same footing as free labor. This decision was reached at a conference held in the capitol Saturday between Governor Jelks and the board of convict inspectors and the coal operators.

The operators express themselves as satisfied with the new arrangement, and will bid Tuesday for convict labor. The state hereafter, instead of hiring out its convicts at so much per month, will in a sense go into the contracting business, and will mine coal on its own account, the coal operators paying so much for the coal as mined, the operators retaining the control and general supervision of their mines. The only new officials which the state will need by this arrangement are a few mine foremen, the operators agreeing to furnish stockades as heretofore.

The state asks for bids per ton for mining coal and carrying the coal to the mouth of the river, the contract to run for three years and an additional one or two years, at the option of the bidder at the time the contract is executed.

The state to furnish the tools, explosives and such other things as free miners now furnish in mining coal; the state to have entire charge and expense of the feeding and clothing and general maintenance of the convicts, including the care of the ill; the state to otherwise control them in the mines and out and to work them by its own agents.

The contractor to furnish and operate the tramways, cars and hoisting apparatus and such machinery as they now furnish in their mines operated by free miners; the state to have its own mine foremen or pit bosses, subject to the general direction of the company's mining engineer.

Where a contractor is working or desires to work county convicts, the same agreement will hold as above, with this additional agreement: that state convicts are to be worked in separate rooms from county convicts and are to be housed under a different shelter and fed in a different place. Also the mining company and the state must agree upon a division of the costs of the guard.

Seriously Shot.

A serious shooting affray occurred Wednesday night at Albertville at the home of Jasper L. Goodwin. Some one came to the house and called him out and began at once firing on him, shooting him three times, one ball passing through his body just above the heart. Leeman McKnight has been arrested charged with the shooting. Mr. Goodwin is dangerously wounded and his recovery is doubtful.

Skull Fractured.

Tow Dawsey, a young man who lives near Abbeville, was dangerously hurt at Dothan Saturday while bicycling. In some unaccountable manner he was thrown from his wheel, striking the ground, fracturing the skull from one temple to the other.

Bank Clearings.

The clearings of the Birmingham banks for last week amounted to $1,284,787, against $1,195,821 for the same period last year.

New Bank.

A charter was issued by the secretary of state for the Farmers' bank at Uniontown, in Perry county. The capital stock is $50,000, divided into 5,000 shares of $10 each.

St. Louis is chosen as the meeting place of the National Good Roads association on April 26-30, 1908.

New Brick Company.

A declaration of incorporation has been filed by the Birmingham Sand Brick Company. The new company is capitalized at $10,000, and will do a general lumber and manufacturing business. The plant of the concern will be operated in Autauga county.

Perry Captured.

William Perry, the negro who is accused of killing King Farmer, eighteen months ago, was apprehended Saturday by the sheriff at Anniston. He made a vicious fight for freedom, cutting the officer and hiding in the vault of the county register. He was finally captured, and for fear of mob violence was spirited away.

Eighth District—Richardson, democrat, 7,935; Jackson, republican, 1,859.

Ninth District—Underwood, democrat, 6,782; Miller, republican, 1,703; Lemon, socialist, 195.

EXTENSIVE IMPROVEMENTS.

Tennessee Company is Making Them at Henry Ellen.

The Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company has started work on the extensive development of the coal fields in the vicinity of Henry Ellen. It is intended to open mines which will have a daily output of 1,500 tons of coal.

The Central of Georgia, the Southern railway and the Seaboard Air Line will build extensions to the new mines.

The intentions of the Tennessee Company are to put up a colliery of no mean proportions. The coal in that region is first class and it is believed that the gases which have interfered before with the operations in that locality will be overcome.

In the same neighborhood the mines in which the Central of Georgia railroad will be interested are also to be located. Operations by them will be started shortly. Additional property is being secured, and it is the intention to secure enough coal for the road's supply right from this point. With what the Tennessee company will develop in the vicinity of Henry Ellen it is believed that a big mining settlement is about to be established.

Two Months Overdue.

In connection with the statement of Admiral Taylor as to the great shortage of officers in the navy, it is remarked as an interesting fact that Naval Constructor Hobson has overstayed his last leave of absence by more than two months. It is a condition of things said to be due in some way to the attitude of the president, who is said to sympathize with Captain Hobson's desire to be placed on the retired list in order that he may get a foothold in Alabama politics. It is thought that Hobson would not so long overstay his leave were he not sure that no adverse action on the part of the authorities would ensue. It is known that no official order extending his leave of absence has been made. At the expiration of the last leave of absence granted him, Captain Hobson was ordered to report for duty at the Pensacola navy yard. The fact that he has not done so is taken to mean that there is some sort of understanding between him and Secretary Moody.

All in Full Blast.

The Republic Iron and Steel company will put a big machine shop at Birmingham Rolling Mills to replace the one which was destroyed by fire a few weeks ago. The shop will be separated from the plant and will be 50 by 100 feet. It will be fitted sufficiently to handle the work in the mills here, heretofore some of it having gone to outside shops. The Republic company is spending considerable money in this district improving their property, all of which is in full blast.

Accidentally Killed Himself.

Garnett Walton, a young man 18 years old, accidentally killed himself Saturday near Washington, Ga. He was hunting and finding a hole in a tree punched in it with the butt of his gun. In some manner the trigger was pulled. The barrel of the gun was resting against his stomach and the entire load entered, causing instant death.

NOBILITY OF RATTLES.

THE ONLY SNAKES THAT GIVE THEIR VICTIMS A WARNING.

In This Snake-Parade America's Poisons Reptile Foes to Show the Cobra of India—Venom Which Insures an Easy Death—Neutralizing Snake Poisons.

Among the big glass cages and the forest of palms in the Zoological park reptile house visitors were listening to a snake man's impromptu lecture on the deadliness of the various snake poisons. In front of the huge cage of the cobra the party halted. Within, tall knotted around the tip of the cage tree, body resting partly coiled on the palm leaf bungalow and head resting on the floor, lay Naigna, brownish gray, the splendid 14-foot specimen, said to be the finest of her kind in captivity.

"Doesn't look so wicked," suggested one of the men. "Take the rattlers over in the corner, and whether you knew they were rattlers or not you could see the poison in their eyes. But this chap—"

"That's one of the characteristics of the species," interrupted the snake man. "Harmless to look at. Harmless as far as pain goes, even in death, but there never was a surer death than that following the bite of the cobra. It is the quantity of the poison emitted from so large a snake which makes the attack so fatal. Likewise the method of injecting the venom. The fangs of the cobra are short. In the case of the rattler and the other vipers the fangs are long. A quick slash buries the poison at a depth where it is sure to enter the blood. But all the cobras have short fangs, and to inject the venom properly they hold on tight. Like the grip of a bulldog, giving the poison time to be absorbed in the blood.

"There is no easier death than that due to a cobra bite. The poison contains 95 percent of nerve attacking and 5 percent of blood destroying venom. The victim, therefore, is paralyzed by inches, long insensibility and thinking that he is on the road to recovery until the last. As the end comes he sinks into sleep so gently and passes off so painlessly that frequently with physicians sitting by the bedside, it is impossible to say just when life quits the body.

"Unlike most poisonous snakes, the cobra lays eggs, which are hatched into its young. As a rule, it is only the harmless snakes that lay eggs—from 60 to 80 at a time—while, according to a wise provision of nature, the young of the venomous reptiles are born as in the case of warm-blooded animals, in broods numbering only six or eight at a time.

"The diamond-back rattlesnake, for instance, brings its young to earth alive. The American rattler, in a scale of poisons, numbers only about third, the fer-de-lance of the West Indies, as well as the cobra, ranking before him. The fangs of the rattler are long and sharp as the bones of a shad. Deep and quick they penetrate the victim's body, the sensation being as slight as the prick of a needle until the poison begins to take effect, which is within five minutes. Contrary to the cobra's bites, the sting of a rattler entails tremendous suffering. Analyzed, the venom contains 95 percent of blood-destroying and 5 percent of nerve-destroying poison—directly opposite to that of a cobra. The consequence is that the victim dies with all the anguish and pain of a full case of blood poisoning, all the suffering of a protracted illness being crowded into the space of a few hours.

"Of all snakes none is at bottom a more noble reptile than that peculiar to our own country. Never yet has a rattler struck before giving warning. The signal, as is well-known, is emitted from the rattles at the tail of the snake. In sound it resembles the far-away rattle of a mowing machine in a country meadow or the hissing emitted by the escape of steam from an ordinary radiator.

"Among the dangerous snakes of our own south, perhaps not another can come up to the cotton-mouth moccasin. He is one of the few poisonous water-snakes in existence. But the bite is almost as fatal as that of the rattler himself. In the swamps and canals of North and South Carolina the moccasin is at home. Here he lies awaiting anything that comes along in the fish line from frogs to minnows.

"In the reptile house, when we have a brood of young rattlers or baby moccasins every possible care is taken in their handling. The youngsters require more care than their older kind. It is necessary to change their water oftener and to feed them at shorter intervals. In a large glass box showing plainly from all sides where the little ones are located the babies are kept. The snake man detailed to handle them is provided with long forceps. After opening the door with care it is necessary to remove some of the brood near the water for the food trough to be cleaned. One or two of the reptiles are picked up between the thin fore legs of the instrument and thrown into a heap in the farther corner of the cage. There it is amusing to watch their wrath at having been disturbed. The little ones coil into a spiral, their heads are extended and with the tiny tail, as yet unpossessed of rattles, they perform a tremolo, as if warning the intruder away.

"As for a chemical analysis of cobra poisons a curious fact is that two substances having almost identically the same chemical composition can have effects so different on the human system as to represent on the one hand the best supporter of life and on the other the quickest termination of the same. The albumen or white of an egg and the poison of the Indian cobra are so nearly alike in composition that it takes the most careful analysis to determine the difference. It was the similarity which for a long time baffled scientists in finding a remedy which would destroy cobra poison taken into the human system. It was argued that whatever was administered to attack the poison would as well attack the albumen of the human system, and that the cure would be as bad as the disease.

"The effects of scientists toward solving the problem of neutralizing snake poisons have been unremitting ever since chemistry and medicine have been known to man. In our latitude it is difficult to understand that the cure of the snake still rests heavily on man. But in India and in the jungle countries of South America the death rate due to snake bites is enormous. Annually the Indian list of cobra victims numbers thousands, not to mention the victims fallen to the venom of other snakes. The problem, however, has been solved of recent years; antivenom, the same remedy applied in the case of diphtheria, being the antidote. Even here in the reptile house we keep a vial of the liquid fresh and on ice ready for accidents."

PARK PHILOSOPHY.

The Policeman Moralizes About Suicide He Has Seen.

"Yes, they come here to end their lives a good deal," said the old Prospector Park policeman. "A great many, of course, have come under my personal observation, and the more I've seen the more I realize that you can't account for any of the vagaries of the human mind. All sorts of apparently trivial things—wounded pride, jealousy, grief and the like—have been responsible for a great number of suicides here, although despair and poverty lead in the general average. Do you know the greatest number of suicides, so far as my experience has gone, occur at the beginning of winter, and the beginning of summer? Now, isn't that strange? As soon as the first cool breath of autumn comes or the first snow, or the time when the apple blossoms appear, then you want to keep your weather eye open for suicides. They outnumber the self-inflicted deaths of the intermediate seasons ten to one. The women here always take carbonic acid, and that's curious, too, because they suffer so. A police surgeon told me the other day that they do not suffer as much as they appear to, because the acid kills the nerves of the throat. But I know better, because I have seen them suffer—lots of 'em. Men as a rule shoot themselves in here. That kind of method is easy enough to understand, but the acid gets me.

"Queer cases—yes, indeed. A sweet faced old woman used to visit this section of the park every day several springs ago. Her hair was white as snow and she was dressed in black. She used to sit on that bench over there, and I used to look for her every day because she seemed so lonely. But she always smiled sweetly and said, 'Good morning' to me. I can see her now—that sweet face and that smile. And so it went until one morning early in June I saw something black lying at the foot of the Payne monument—the fellow who wrote 'Home, Sweet Home.' It was the old woman dying from carbonic acid. We investigated her case and found she had lost her little home several months before. So there she goes to that monument and kills herself. Right over her were the engraved words, 'There is no place like home.' I felt sorry for her, I can tell you.

"Then last summer an old fellow who looked like a professor or something used to come here every day and stand by the big flower beds. He looked just like he was watching them grow. Every once in a while I would come up the path and find him on his knees examining a flower with a magnifying glass. One day I came up and stopped and he began to talk beautifully about the flowers. He would point out one and tell me what it meant. One he saw stood for everlasting life, another for remembrance, another for hope. Then he picked one and pulled it all apart and told me about its various parts and how it grew and was first cultivated. He went on and talked for an hour, and I just stood there and listened. I couldn't help it, although it was against regulations. Finally he got through and said:

"Well, I must move on—see you again." I moved away and a second later I heard a pistol shot, and there was my old friend dead among his flowers. You'd kind of imagine that a man contemplating such a move would think and talk of something else besides flowers, wouldn't you?

"And that is the way it is here right along. The very persons that you ought to keep your eye on fool you completely. Those that act queer and seem to be watching could not be hired to kill themselves. They say that the majority of men found drowned in the waters hereabouts have congress garters on. Well, every suicide here is well dressed, and that is about as strange as the fact about the garters, isn't it?"—New York Sun.

A Tip on European Society.

If it could only be impressed on such of our compatriots as contemplate wandering that few foreigners without an axe to grind ever frequent the society of strangers or welcome one to their fireside, much heart-burning and disappointment might be avoided. We, however, have such a free way of asking stray foreigners, with or without "characters," to walk in and sit down, that we find it a bit hard to be kept waiting in the street after knocking at European doors; yet, humiliating as the axiom must be, such is often the case.—Elliot Gregory, in the Century.

Household Matters

Teakwood Lanterns.

Quite the loveliest topping off for a Chinese tea room, or even a more common, is the carved teakwood lantern shown in a fascinating "Japanese" department. It really is Chinese, though. In fancy, picture your little corner, some shelves of the carved teakwood, for the dainty chinaware a table to match, and some uncomfortable seats in the same style (no, we'll not sit on the floor, even if the Orientals do). Of course, there are Chinese embroideries on the wall, and a Chinese matting beneath the feet.

Over all let us hope you have on your altars shine forth a soft light from the big lantern above. It costs $15, the elaborate framework, which suggests a joss house, serving to hold together a number of painted glass panels. The scenes are dramatic, but obscure, and would seem to portray the lovers familiar in the harrowing willow pattern after they had again become human, gotten married and also into difficulties more bitter than love's sweet sorrow.—Philadelphia Record.

An Acorn Portiere.

"An acorn portiere? How perfectly ridiculous!"

"By no means," said the girl who had made one. "You've seen the head ones that the Japs make, and the wonderful shell ones, haven't you? Well, the acorn ones are made something like them. I brought mine back from my summer outing this year, and as I made it myself and originated it, I feel justified in boasting about it."

"I had to bribe all the children in the Inn to get the acorns for me. It took nearly a bushel. You might think they'd be easy to find, but they weren't."

"You can imagine how pretty it is, with its soft tans, deep browns and golden yellows."

"I strung them on heavily waxed cord of a brown dye, and now it hangs between my study and my dressing room, and has the coziest little rattle and tinkle when you go through. It's capable of more modifications, I believe, but this is my first one, and so I had something to learn."

"Big portieres from little acorns grow," said the girl, smiling. "Try to do it and see."—New York Herald.

The Cooking of Meat.

One principle holds in all meat cooking, whatever the method employed. Unless the object is to extract the juices, as in soups, the aim is to soften the fibre and make it digestible with as little loss as possible of the juice. To accomplish this a high temperature at first should sear the outside, which will then serve as a case to retain the juice. In baking the oven is raised to a high temperature, kept there for five or ten minutes, and then gradually reduced to a lower heat.

If the meat is to be boiled, it is a good idea to brown the cut sides in a little fat before turning in the hot water. Since albumen, which toughens readily at a high temperature, is a constituent element of flesh, only the outside should be subjected to great heat. The slower the cooking of the meat, the more tender will be its fibre, and the more delicious its flavor. Indeed, the best authorities claim that the water in which beef is cooked should not come to a boil, and that a long application of slow heat will produce the toughest cut a tender, juicy dish.

Beef is a mode, pot roast and corned beef are the common forms in which meats appears boiled.

RECIPES.

Bread Pancakes—Cover stale bread with hot water and let stand ten minutes; then press out all the water; to one cupful of the softened bread add one beaten egg, half a teaspoonful of salt, one-third cupful of flour and about one cupful of milk, or enough to make a smooth batter; stir in one teaspoonful of baking powder; pour milk may be used; in that case use one-quarter teaspoonful of soda instead of baking powder.

Tomato Souffle—Stew three cups of tomatoes down to a pint; then drain off any liquid part remaining; then rub the pulp through a sieve. Separate six eggs and beat yolks and whites separately. Mix yolks with the pulp and season to taste with salt and pepper. Beat whites to a froth and stir them in; then turn into a buttered baking dish and bake ten or fifteen minutes until set, in a hot oven. Serve as soon as done.

Meat Souffle—Put two level table-spoonfuls of butter in a frying pan; when it is hot add two table-spoonfuls of flour; stir until smooth; then add gradually one cup of cold milk; stir until boiling; add half a teaspoon of salt, a little pepper and a cup of any kind of chopped meat or chicken and the beaten yolks of two eggs; let this cook one minute; put aside till cold, then beat the whites of two eggs; fold them carefully into the meat mixture; turn into a buttered dish and bake in a moderate oven twenty minutes; serve as soon as removed; if chicken is used, a little grated nutmeg is an improvement.

A Town of Bees.

Caracas, on the West coast of Ireland, is composed entirely of bees. There are large stone quarries near by, but the inhabitants stoutly decline to have a proper house on the ground that an inverted fishing boat is more comfortable. It has been thus with Caracra since the foundation of the place in 1720.

SHOE! SHOES! SHOES!

Where will I get my shoes this winter? That is a question a great many are asking themselves just now. In answering this there are three important things to consider, namely: 1st the wear of the shoe, that is, the lasting quality of the shoe. 2nd the fit, 3rd the price of the shoe. We have solved this question for you we think. Out of several hundred pairs of shoes which we have sold the past year we have not had one dissatisfied customer express himself thus, "The test of a pudding is eating the pie," and so, the test of a shoe is wearing it. Call on us and let us show you a shoe that comes nearer to what you want than you could have planned yourself. A shoe that is worth all the money you pay for it.

JUDSON STROCK, CLANTON

Out of One Clay. Many years ago before the days of railroads a nobleman and his wife, with their infant, were traveling across Salisbury plain. As the story is told in Mr. A. P. Russell's "Characteristics," they were overtaken by a severe storm and took refuge in a lone shepherd's hut. The child had taken cold before they could find shelter and the nurse began to cry once to undress it by the warm cottage fire. As she pulled off one of the child's garments after another the shepherd and his wife looked on in awed silence. At last the process of undressing was completed and the little naked baby was being warmed by the fire. There it sat, with all its splendid outer husks peeled off, its little body beginning to glow in the hut by the fire. The shepherd drew a long breath and exclaimed, "Why, it's just like one of ours!"

A Story of Mark Twain. When Mark Twain was beginning his career as a humorous lecturer, he one day arranged with a woman acquaintance that she should sit in a box and start the applause when he should stroke his mustache. The lecturer started off so well that he did not need any such help, however, for he caught the audience from the first. By and by, when not saying anything worthy of particular notice, he happened to pull his mustache, and his anxious ally in the box at once broke into furious applause. Mark was all but broken up by the misadventure, and ever afterward carefully avoided employing such help to success.

An Animal's Memorial Stone. In the center of a field at Waverhill, Suffolk, England, is a large flat stone covering the grave of a mare that died in 1852. Inscribed as follows: "Pops. She never made a false step. Ecclesiastes III. 10." A reference to chapter and verse shows the following: "For that which befalleth the sons of men befalleth beasts, even one thing befalleth them; as the one dieth, so dieth the other." This is probably the only instance of a text from the Scriptures appearing on a memorial stone to an animal.

Mending Umbrellas. Sometimes an umbrella that begins to show tiny cracks and pinholes may be mended at home. Open the umbrella and hold it up to the light. Mend the holes on the inside with black silk courtplaster cut slightly larger than the holes. Sun umbrellas and parasols are more effectively mended in this way than umbrellas, which sometimes require a repetition of the mending after being thoroughly wet.

And there is another set of hypocrites who infect our southern land. I mean those who for the sake of filthy lucre and nothing else invite Roosevelt to visit their city and they promise him an ovation. He comes nearer being a figure head of a president than any we have ever had. He is a confirmed slanderer of a great and good man, and he knows he slandered him and will not retract or apologize. Our women have just said a bitter story for a moment in his honored daughter and our veterans and members of the legislature appeared like the prodigals and yet some of the same creatures would invite Roosevelt to Savannah and Macon and Augusta.

Mary was told of the meeting with Him, for she Congress Meekison of Ohio.

Rep. David Meekison is well known not only in Ohio but throughout the United States. He was elected to the Fifty-third Congress by a very large majority, and is acknowledged leader of his party in the House of Representatives.

One who has shared the otherwise complete silence of this rising statesman, (Carter) writes in his personal approach and testimony: "I have used several bottles of Peruna and I feel greatly benefited thereby from my attack of the head. I am encouraged to believe that if I use it a short time longer I will be fully able to eradicate the disease of thirty years' standing."—David Meekison, Member of Congress.

Darwin's Unused Coffin.

Second-hand coffins, as stated by an undertaker in the Lambeth County Court, would generally be of little value, but in some cases they may be of interest and profit. At a public house near Bromley, in Kent, one forms an attraction, and has a curious history. In it the body of Charles Darwin is said to have been placed for two days before his burial in Westminster Abbey was decided upon, when a new shell was provided. The coffin was made by the village carpenter, who frequently made cases and boxes for Darwin's collections. One day the carpenter complained of sickness, and asked Darwin for a job. He was told that he could make a coffin, the order was carried out, a nameplate being affixed after Darwin's death. The coffin again passed into the carpenter's possession, and on his death was purchased by the publican—London Chronicle.

An architect of New York City says that with the modern steel frame a building can be carried to a height equal to 7 1/2 times the diameter of the base. By this rule on an ordinary city block could be erected a building 1500 feet high, 500 feet higher than the Eiffel tower. It would have 125 stories and cost about $30,000,000.

MINERS ANSWERED

Lehigh Company Submits Statement to Commission.

The statement of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation company, submitted to the anthracite coal strike commission, now in session at Scranton, Pa., in answer to the demands of the miners, is made public. The answer states:

"The Lehigh Coal and Navigation company is the oldest corporation engaged in the mining of coal in the anthracite region. It was chartered in 1822. It also required certain rights on the Lehigh river which were granted in 1813.

"It owns and controls about 18,000 acres of coal lands which are estimated to contain over 600,000,000 tons of available unmined coal. Its employees number about 6,000 and its capacity of production is over 200,000,000 tons a month. Its capital stock and funded debt amount to upward of $32,000,000.

"The profits on coal mined by the company during the ten years ending December 31, 1901, has averaged 11.09 cents per ton after charging off taxes on coal lands and depreciation, but not including any charge for royalty, which represents the value of the coal in the ground."

Referring to the claim of the miners that better wages are paid in the bituminous fields for substantially similar work, the answer states:

"In 1901, for a day of ten hours, contract miners earned an average of $3.14 per day, skilled labor $2.31, unskilled laborers $1.83, boys $1 for work underground."

Denial is made of the claim of the miners that their earnings are insufficient to maintain the American standard of living.

"Out of 3,063 families, 870 own their own houses. Planos will be found in 116 and organs in 337. The company owns and rents to its employees 671 houses at an average rental of $4.75 a month. The character of these houses is fully up to the average in any part of the country occupied by any other class of workmen. Those who have their permanent home in the region have at least $1,000,000 on deposit in banks and saving funds in the vicinity, saved from the wages earned in the employment of this company.

"The claim for a reduction of 20 per cent in the hours of labor without any reduction in earnings for all employees paid by the hour, day or week, would be peculiarly absurd if forced against this company. In point of fact the brothers of the company are able only to run 9 hours a day and not ten. The miners work from only five to seven hours a day. The men employed by the day work as a maximum only nine hours, and as many of them consume from half an hour to an hour in going to and from their work to the foot of the shaft, they do not work even nine hours."

The company emphatically protests against the miners' demand that there shall be an agreement with the United Mine Workers in this connection. The answer says:

"The conditions of mining in the Lehigh and Schuylkill regions are quite different from those which exist in the Wyoming and Chautauque districts. While this company has no objection therefore to its employees organizing among themselves, it has always objected and does object even to an organization which includes other anthracite fields, working under different systems of compensation, as a result of which its men are ordered upon strikes by reason of controversies in which they have no interest."

The Southern will at once build an extension to the site of the new steel mill at Gadsden.

New Cure for Seasickness.

The Italian ambassador to this country has noticed that fixing the eyes on a mirror at sea results in complete relief from sea sickness. One explanation of the new remedy is that "the eyes and mirror form one body and the changing of horizons being reflected by a surface equal in every plane, the eye loses the consciousness of the different changes."

Jewish Defense of Christ.

"Jesus, the Jew," is the title of a book written by Harris Weinstein, a prominent California Jew, in which he claims that Paul, not Jesus, was the founder of Christianity. He says that Jesus had no thought of establishing a new belief or sect, but preached only Judaism in its simplest form, and that it was Paul who realized the necessity of laying the letter of the Jewish religion in order to infuse the spirit of its truths among the millions of heathen."

Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar, died Sunday morning.

Carnum's Circus Back.

After a five year's tour of Europe Barnum's circus returned to New York. The whole show was brought on the Atlantic transport steamer Minneapolis, taking up every inch of room on the ship. The largest elephant, Mandarin, went mad and had to be killed. One famous monkey died on the way and a young zebra was born. The animals were shipped to Bridgeport, Conn., the winter quarters of the circus.

NO CHANGE REPORTED IN SOUTHERN IRON MARKET

Alabama Seems Busiest of the Iron Producing States—Furnace News and Production Figures.

The week closed with the iron market featureless from a southern point of view. Prices are about the same as they have been for some weeks. The bulk of the iron made for the first half of 1902 is sold, but selling on a large scale for the second half has hardly begun.

The monthly blast furnace statement reflects the disheartened feeling among furnace men who have been experiencing so much trouble in securing a supply of coke. The active furnace capacity November 1 was 337,559 gross tons weekly, against 345,048 tons October 1. More furnaces were blown out during October than were blown in. The furnaces in the anthracite region which were laid off during the miners' strike are slowly resuming. A few have been blown in since the first of the month and others are being prepared for an early resumption of work.

Of the forty furnace stocks in Alabama thirty-four are now in blast, as compared with thirty-two in blast October 1. The Alabama production in October amounted to 118,710 gross tons.

The largest and strongest freight cars in the world have been built in Pittsburg for a Pittsburg corporation, for use within the limits of Pittsburg. They mark what is believed to be the latest advance in railroad rolling stock construction, and how great that advance may be gathered from the fact that one of these open freight cars weighted with the full load that it is intended to carry, 20,000 pounds, or 100 tons, would have been unable to pass safely over the bridges and trestles of any railroad. These cars will be used to transport ore, coal, pig or scrap iron, billets or other materials to and from the various departments and mills belonging to the company. Hauling iron and steel is heavy work and requires heavy cars to do it economically. The cars which have just been delivered weigh 40,000 and 40,700 pounds.

A Girl's Daring Nut Deal.

The Chicago Tribune tells of a Texas girl, Bernice Bardine, not yet 20 years old, who quietly leased every pecan grove and forest in the Colorado valley, thus cornering the crop. Next she is said to have planned a balloon which she ordered constructed and from which she gathered choice nuts at the top of the tall trees, usually considered beyond reach. Buyers came and offered 7 1/2 cents a pound for the crop and Miss Bardine, it is predicted, will make a fortune in a few months.

Swiss Army's Pistol.

Switzerland, "the country of rifle-men," is providing its army with a newly invented repeating pistol, the Parabellum. The projectile is of lead, jacketed with platinum, and weighs six grams. A velocity of 350 metres is attained. One hundred shots per minute can be discharged.

At a Leavenworth, Kans., funeral the officiating clergyman being unable to obtain a choir, purchased a phonograph with records of "The Holy City" and "Jesus, as Thou Wilt," which were rendered during the services to the satisfaction of the relatives. He expects to adopt this method in other cases.

Grafting With Pig Skin.

The skin of a young pig was grafted onto a 15-inch burn on the back of a ten-year-old girl in Richmond, Va. The mother and relatives having refused to sacrifice the necessary cuticles, Dr. Stuart McGuire resorted to the porcine method.

Canadian Oil "Spouters."

A rich oil strike is reported near Chatham, where a well with the capacity of 1,000 barrels a day was opened lately.

Trust Buys Coal Lands.

The steel trust has control of 5,000 acres of Indiana coal lands for a term of years. This step is taken to avoid future coal famines and is the result of the gradual failure of natural gas in that region.

Public Ownership Test.

Two electric plants to be owned and operated by the city of St. Louis, Mo., will begin operations within sixty days; the power to be utilized in the various public institutions. The plants, to be constructed for $45,000, will do the lighting, which has heretofore cost the city $35,000 annually.

Bad Roads Cost Much.

An official of the agricultural department states that the people of this country are paying annually $650,000,000 for bad roads, a tax of over $7 on every man, woman and child. He advocates the construction of brick track roads with convict labor.

The first week of Circuit Court over, and it has been especially quiet. As one gentleman very truly remarked, "Chilton county keeps on in its present prosperous condition, with every man attending to his own business, and leaving other people's affairs alone, we shall soon be able to do without court altogether. Litigation is a bad thing for lawyers, but it is altogether good for the client, even when they gain the case; and the absence of litigation shows a good feeling exists among our citizens. "Small profits and quick returns" is a good motto for our merchants, but small court and no returns is a better one for the people. Why, even the lawyers acting in the best interests of their clients, prefer to settle their cases amicably between themselves instead of carrying them before a jury, and the consequence was that not a single case went before a jury this week, and the jurors had an easy time.

Now, I don't know whether there is any truth in this story, but has been said that the lawyers did not like the looks of Jury No. 1, and were afraid to let their cases go before them, and so they settled them without troubling the jury. Jury No. 1 was as fine looking a set of men as ever sat on a jury, so really can't believe that the lawyers were scared of them, and you know it takes very little to scare a lawyer. Perhaps it was jury No. 2 and three that scared the lawyers, so they refrained from letting their cases go before any of them.

Some talk is going around about a visit of a postoffice inspector here looking into the post-office arrangements, and the possible chances of change of postmasters. It would really appear that some of the would-be postmasters are a little premature. It is undoubtedly very necessary for the post-office department to send its inspectors around, but it surely does not follow that every time an inspector comes we are to have a change of postmasters. Postmaster Downs gives very general satisfaction, and is more than doubtful that we could get better service by any change. Some of the would-be postmasters might do well to wait awhile. In the event that there should be a change made I think most of us would ascribe it to political influences—Mr. Downs was delegated to the lily-white convention.

Jemison.

Editor Banner—I have long since become painfully sensitive of the dearth of our correspondents, so to speak, in our little burg. "It is a pity" thinks I, "that with all the goings-on and happenings in and about our little village that so few will lay it to heart and answer the still small voice that says "write" and say "I write." Indeed, the harvest is great and the reapers few! Awake! Awake! Why slumberest thou, O correspondents? And to think too that there is a world of honor, to say nothing of benefit, in writing. Of course silence bespeaks a spirit of contentment and ease which is credit to the name of our town, for the good book says, "Doth the wild ass bray when he hath grass? or loweth the ox over his fodder?" And though I lay myself open to the rebuke of that proverb which says "The rottenest bough cracks first," yet to let the world know that all the correspondents of Jemison are not dead, I write. I can't hope to "entertain" you with notes of singing bees, and wedding bells, and fox-hunts, and campaign rehearsals, but such as I have, you are welcome to it. And for fear you or your readers get the idea that I am the pick of the writing material of Jemison, I will make the humble acknowledgment in the beginning by saying that "there are better writers here," but like the squire's donkey, they are a little backward about coming up to the rack, yet I would not impress you with the idea that modesty is their sole virtue, for who is more modest than the children of wisdom? A still tongue makes a wise head, is an old proverb whose reverse is equally true. I would have been glad that some of our worthy ones would have essayed to answer the call and write the incidents of our weekly life, for I dislike to impress the distant readers of your paper that we are a herding of ignoramus. I never had, or squeaking truer, took the advantage of a common school education, and hence if I spell correctly or write after the form of the king's English, please don't accuse me of being stuck-up or holding malice against any one, for it was through ignorance that I did it. There's nothing like knowing what to say and how to say it, except that other, which is sometimes better, when to say it. For don't the Bible or something or another say "Wait till you have something to say, and say it right," I guess this makes reference to writing as well as saying, but I have found it a good idea to write a little bit whether I have anything to say or not—just for practice you know. But "the fool speaks his mind at first, the wise man keeps it back", for another time. I "alers" takes the imitation, if I can't get the "genewine." Success to the Banner. Humbly yours,

DEATH OF MRS. T. A. CURRY.
"Earth's joys grow dim, its glories pass away," and on Saturday last a noble spirit was wafted to its celestial home above when Mrs. T. A. Curry departed this life after a short illness. She was a splendid young woman, only twenty-five years of age, and a devoted husband and two little girls are left to mourn her. They will sadly miss her, and her noble example of a blameless life is one for all to follow. The funeral took place on Sunday afternoon in the cemetery at Clanton, and Dr. G. S. Anderson delivered a very impressive address. Among the mourners from a distance were her brother, Dr. Joe Johnson, of Chattanooga; Rev. Dr. Curry and wife, of Livingston; Rev. Renfro Curry and Mrs. Watson. Mrs. D. A. Campbell, of Oklahoma, arrived too late for the ceremony. Mrs. Curry was a general favorite, and our sympathies are with the bereaved ones—God be with them.

A Thanksgiving Dinner.
Heavy eating is usually the first cause of indigestion. Repeated attacks inflame the mucous membranes lining the stomach, producing a swelling after eating, heartburn, headache, sour risings and finally catarrh of the stomach. Kodol relieves the inflammation, protects the nerves and cures catarrh. Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia, and all stomach troubles by cleansing and sweetening the glands of the stomach.

Thorsby.

Thorsby is going right ahead, many new buildings are going up, another church is being erected, the waterworks are being extended, franchises for telephone and electric lights have been granted by the city council, the Normal School is well patronized, the cannery and other factories are a big thing for the town, The Thorsby Times, the new republican weekly, is making things still more lively, and everybody wants to move to Thorsby.

Desirable building lots are already scarce and there is a big demand for houses. We need 25 more houses in Thorsby at once, and in another year we will need 50 more.

In order to make room for this expansion I have been induced to put upon the market a couple of my tracts located right in the heart of the city, the finest residence property in Thorsby. I will sell these tracts as a whole, or subdivide them into smaller tracts or lots to suit the purchasers. If you want a safe and profitable investment there is nothing better, if you want a choice residence location with magnificent view of all the surrounding town and country there is nothing to equal it. As the town grows, this property is bound to enhance in value. If you have the cash, buy now and double your money. For particulars call on, or address the owner, K. G. FAEGRE, Thorsby, Ala.

Cured of Piles After 40 Years.

Mr. C. Haney, of Geneva, Ohio, had the piles for forty years. Doctors and dollars could do him no lasting good. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured him permanently. Invaluable for cuts, burns, bruises, sprains, lacerations, eczema, tetter, salt rheum, and all other skin diseases. Look for the name DeWitt on the package—all others are cheap, worthless counterfeits.

Mr. James Critchfield Brown, a medical authority of the highest rank, says that enteric fever reduced the effective strength of the British forces in the South African war by at least 70,000 men. But for this drain he declares the war could have been ended a half year or more sooner, and scores of millions of pounds of public money could have been saved. Sanitary organization in some armies, it is evident, still needs no small degree of improvement.

A tablet has been placed in St. Rumbold's church, England, in commemoration of Robert Browning's first known ancestor, who was "footman and butler to Sir John Bankes, of Corfe castle." It sets forth the condition of the man, and has for motto: "All service ranks the same with God." The London Academy thinks such a memorial absurd, since it is put up, not in honor of the footman, but merely because one of his descendants happened to be a famous poet.

The Chicago police have done a cruel thing. They have seized some 20,000 love letters sent by ailing swains and tender maids to matrimonial agencies which worked in connection with a "turf exchange." The list of mate-seekers was also used as an address book for pill-sellers. It is cruel to destroy illusions; and it is hard enough to pay $5 for an opportunity to marry beauty or wealth, without having to learn that you were paying for a chance to buy pills or racing tips.

It has been a fine year for the increasing thousands who have fads about their food, says the Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post. The high prices of almost everything in the market have given the opportunity. The advocates of no breakfast, of meat once a day, of no meat at all, of certain kinds of vegetables, of no kinds of vegetables, of nuts only, of the absolute avoidance of nuts, of raw fruit, of fruit only when cooked of neither coffee nor tea nor saffron, and of all the other things or of any part of things or of no things at all, have come forth not singly but in battalions, and have told us how to live to be a 100—if we don't die.

A general impression exists that farms for the production of diamond back terrapin of the choicest quality have not been profitable in the long run. The finest "counts" of turtle nobility have scornfully refused to develop their most delicate flavor when caged, cribbed, confined. But the enterprising promoter of a frog farm deserved success even if he did fall short of the complete fruition of his hopes. Fat batrachian legs appeal to the fancies of epicures, and "strictly fresh" bit-bits of that kind, like "strictly fresh" eggs, ought always to be in demand. Yet a frog farmer of renown has recently gone into bankruptcy. What could the matter be?

One of those subjects that generally seem too elusive for careful examination is nalled down by life to a question and an answer. "How good a time does it pay to give a young girl just out in society? A mother was heard to say the other day: "My daughter does not seem inclined to marry. She has too good a time as she is. So do Clara Jones, and Olivia Robinson, and other girls of her time and set. They don't seem to be marrying girls. They have too good a time." Many observers are familiar with the situation this lady has described. Yet deserving parents continue to strain their resources and lavish their strength in order that their young daughters may have the time of their lives in society. What must they think of their labors and sacrifices when they find that their girls are all too happy as they are, and are highly contented with the untrammelled single state? The better policy may be to keep like young women so restrained that they will look about and take thought how they may improve their condition. To make life so dull for them that they are tempted to elope with the coachman would be a mistake, but the mistake American parents are prone to make is of the other kind, and results in the conclusion by the over-indulged maiden that the chances are against her bettering her condition by changing it. That state of mind usually does not last forever, but it may easily last until the whom-thall-I-have period has given place to who'll-therefore, and then one's condition may not be so readily improved.

Where Are They From.
The report comes from the gulf coast that a few lobsters—crustacean variety—have made their appearance in the waters of the Mississippi sound, and the fishermen are much puzzled over the matter. Investigation thus far has failed to disclose the origin of the way the lobsters have made their way to that section, and the hope is being felt that they have come to make it a permanent abiding place, thus adding another delicacy to the sea edibles gathered in large quantities along the coast. Some of the parking establishments, it is understood, will attempt to propagate the lobsters, and the result of their experiment will be a matter of much interest and importance to the gulf coast people.

LOUISIANA SHOOTING.
Thomas O. Planché, a Young Lawyer, Kills Rizmoro L. Barbin.

Thomas O. Planché, a prominent young lawyer, of Marksboro, La., shot and fatally wounded Rizmoro L. Barbin. The men had quarreled Sunday night. When they met Planché demanded an apology, which Barbin declined to give, and Planché says Barbin put his hands behind him as if to draw a gun, whereupon he shot. He fired five times, three of the shots taking effect.

Planché was arrested. Barbin leaves a wife and three children.

Hunting Accident.
Dr. Frank P. Phillips, a well-known physician, was accidentally shot and killed by James Stigler, a bosom friend, while on a hunting expedition near Ruleville, Miss., Sunday. Mr. Stigler had a shotgun in his hands which was accidentally discharged, the contents entering the head of Dr. Phillips, causing instant death.

GOMPERS REELECTED

Boston the Choice for Next Meeting Place.

The following officers were elected by the Federation of Labor:
President—Samuel Gompers.
First Vice President—James Dunne.

Second Vice President—John Mitchell.
Third Vice President—James O'Connell.
Fourth Vice President—Max Morris.

Fifth Vice President—Thomas I. Kidd.
Sixth Vice President—Dennis A. Hayes.

Treasurer—John B. Lennon.
Secretary—Frank Morrison.
Fraternal Delegates to the next labor convention of Great Britain—Max S. Hayes and Martin Lawler.

Fraternal Delegate to Canada—Joe Coleman.
Place of next convention—Boston.
The officers are all holdovers from last year, the fraternal delegates, however, not being classed as officers.

Go to the Poorhouse.
Dr. R. H. Gibbons, of Scranton, the anthracite strike commissioner, said that the occupation of a miner subjects a man to pleurisy, gout, neuralgia, asthma, bronchitis, catarrhs and other diseases. He believed the day would come when men will be subjected to medical examination before they undertake mining. Children, he said, who have suffered from any form of disease of the respiratory passages should never be permitted in the mines under the age of fifteen.

Dr. Gibbons said that he did not mean to be understood as saying that miners form an unhealthy class.

Dr. Gibbons was followed by Dr. Eugene J. Butler, a member of the central poor board of Luzerne county, who testified that 70 per cent of those in one poor house in Luzerne county were miners, and that 40 per cent were crippled by accidents in and about the mines. Many of these, he said, had become insane through worry of their affliction. A man who works a few years as a miner, he declared, is not fit for anything else.

EXTENSIVE SHOPS
To Be Built by Southern Railway at Birmingham.

A strip of land 900 feet wide and nearly a mile long has been purchased by the Southern railway near Birmingham for $49,100, upon which will be erected one of the largest shop plants on the system.

Plans already drawn provide for the erection of eight large brick buildings, each 100 by 400 feet, and thirty-five tracks of railway have been laid out upon the tract.

NON-UNION MINERS
Will Be Granted a Hearing by the Commission.

President John Mitchell, of the United Mine Workers, after being on the witness stand four and one-half days, has been released by the attorneys.

Judge Gray then announced the decision of the commission in the matter of the application of J. T. Lanahan and J. T. O'Brien, attorneys for the non-union men, to appear in the case. In the light of all their claims, said Judge Gray, they could be allowed to appear, but the commission could not consent to the withholding from the public the names of the non-union men as their attorneys had desired.

The Standard Oil Company announced a dividend of $10 a share on its stock, making a total of $45,000,000 for the year and over $350,000,000 in ten years.

New Railroad.
Huntsville business men who are interested in having a railroad built to Birmingham took steps for the organization of the Huntsville and Birmingham Railroad Company. Right of way from Huntsville to Birmingham will be secured and permission will be asked of congress for the bridging of the Tennessee river near Hobbs Island. A committee was appointed to attend to the details of the incorporation, which will be effected immediately.

On for Big Maneuvers.
The North Atlantic squadron, under Admiral Higginson, left Hampton Roads November 15 for Porto Rico, where it will take part in the West Indian winter maneuvers. The European squadron has also started for the West Indies.

The Guatemala consul reports that the Santa Maria volcano has totally destroyed the best coffee plantations of the country.

For a Union of Churches.
Dr. E. B. Sanford, general secretary of the National Federation of Churches, a movement looking to the union of all Protestant churches in the country, reports splendid progress in many sections. The general conference of the M. E. church, south, representing 1,000,000 members, has approved the idea and many churches are preparing to send representatives to the national federation convention to be held in Washington in 1905.

Water power in Alabama has almost doubled its usefulness since 1870.

Information is received that the building committee of the new Pennsylvania capitol at Harrisburg, which is to cost $4,000,000, will use the Winstonsburg, S. C., granite. The granite is quarried at Ryan, S. C., and the quarries can be worked the year around, which fact had considerable weight with the building committee in making its decision. A large force of hands will be put to work in order to get the stone out in time to begin the building.

ALABAMA IS SPEEDY

Finishes Second in Great Naval Race.

For the first time in its history the ships of the North Atlantic squadron have engaged in a long distance speed contest in the open sea.

Five of the ships lined for the start at noon on Saturday, the Alabama, the Kearsarge, the Massachusetts, the Indiana and the Machias, baby of the fleet. The last named is a gunboat only 190 feet long, and of 1,000 tons displacement. The other four are battleships.

The Massachusetts and the Indiana are sister vessels and mark the earlier type of first class battleships of the navy. The Kearsarge and Alabama represent later types of sea fighters.

Thirty-five miles behind the line of battleships as they passed the Virginia capes came the protected cruiser Cincinnati. By reason of her speed this was regarded as a fair handicap for the greyhound of the fleet, which to do her destined work should easily outclass them all in cruising qualities.

Almost from the start the Alabama began to forge ahead of her rivals. She gained visibly on the Indiana and the little Machias. The Kearsarge was regarded as her most dangerous adversary. Intense rivalry has always existed between officers and crews of these two ships. No device was neglected on either of the giants of the fleet to speed them to their limit. Four hours from the start, just before twilight, the Alabama left the Kearsarge's hull down astern with only her fighting tops in sight.

Barring accidents, it was the Alabama's race so far as the battleships were concerned, but at sundown the lookout on the stern of the leader sighted the Cincinnati. She had made up her handicap, had paced all the others and was speeding in the wake of her sole competitor. When Culebra light was picked up the Alabama was under forced draught and barely two miles astern of the cruiser at midnight she hoisted the Kearsarge, Massachusetts, Indiana, Machias and was not in sight at the finish.

More Railroads Raise Wages.

The wage increase example set by the Pennsylvania railroad has been followed quickly by similar increase in the pay of the employees of several other railroad systems during the past week. The 10 per cent raise of the New York Central affects 650,000 men. The Reading and Wabash have followed suit, although President Ramsey, of the latter road, intimated that it will have to be evened up by higher freight rates, saying that the "prosperity" is more apparent than real. Advances are also reported on the Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Missouri Pacific, Texas Pacific and Denver and Rio Grande. Similar steps are anticipated by the Erie, Nickel Plate and others.

Venezuela Feels Kindly.

Discussing Venezuela's foreign relations, Dr. Lopez Baralt, minister of the interior, said: "Toward the United States Venezuela entertains the kindest feelings of friendship and she remembers with gratitude the attitude of the great republic in the past. Venezuela is determined so far as she is concerned that nothing shall occur to disturb in the slightest degree the existing understanding with the American legation and the friendly relations between the two countries. Venezuela has nothing to complain of regarding the way in which the various important questions have been treated and except for some pending questions her foreign relations have been of a cordial character."

Bryan Fights Lotteries.

W. J. Bryan declares that newspaper guessing contests are lotteries and that he will bring the matter to the attention of the postoffice officials. Failing to secure a ruling against this wrong, he will urge congress to act.

Presbyterians Accept Revision.

The New York presbytery has voted almost unanimously to accept the decision of the general assembly regarding a revision of the church's creed.

New York's combined transit systems will be the largest of its kind in the world. It will have a total of 91 miles of track and a stock issue of $3,000,000, with bonds for $39,000,000.

Yellow River Road Added to L. & N.

A special from Pensacola says that the final transfer of the Yellow River railroad to the Louisville and Nashville has been made and the first meeting of the new board of directors held. The Yellow River road will be conducted for the present apart from the Louisville and Nashville, being under separate management, although owned by the big system.

Work is resumed at Imogene mines in Shelby county. From 150 to 250 tons of coal per day will be produced.

The government of Sweden has decided to convert the 4,200 miles of government owned railways in that country into electric traction systems for the purpose of utilizing the natural water power of the country. The work will be completed in three years.

FREDERICK ALFRED KRUPP, THE GUNMAKER, DEAD.

He Was the Richest Man in Germany and Was Charitable and Public Spirit. Owned 5,469 Houses.

Herr Krupp, the great gun maker and the richest man in Germany, died suddenly of apoplexy Saturday afternoon at his villa at Hugel.

Herr Krupp had been ill for several days. According to the medical reports, his physicians succeeding in restoring Herr Krupp to consciousness, but their patient soon relapsed into insensibility.

The great gun maker lived in almost feudal fashion. He was not regarded as a hard master by his workmen. He ordained various institutions at Essen for their benefit and built hundreds of model houses on sanitary principles for their use, charging for them a moderate rental. Moderate estimates of the fortune of the deceased place it at $125,000,000, and his annual income during his recent years of prosperity at $10,000,000.

Frederick Alfred Krupp succeeded to the control of the immense works at Essen about fourteen years ago. At that time he was only 32 years old, but was already a master in the science and art of gunmaking and steel manufacture. His father, Alfred, had been the greatest of his wonderful family, and it was he who had brought the steel works to their highest perfection and had mapped out the lines on which their growth has spread since the time of his death.

The founder of the works was Frederick O. Krupp, grandfather of the man just deceased. This ingenious manufacturer little dreamed of the vastness to which the business was to attain. When Alfred died the property was turned over to his son, a veritable principality of industry, paying to its owner an annual revenue of more than $5,000,000, or 21,000,000 marks.

As soon as he was made the trustee of this immense wealth young Krupp began to meditate schemes whereby the philanthropic features of Essen could be extended and improved.

He took a step in advance of his father in the methods of dealing with employees. A co-operative system by which the workmen received a certain percentage of the yearly profits, was planned and put into practice. The "model houses" were improved or beautified and several novel features were added to the public sanitation and the public pleasure-giving methods of the town. He also provided liberal pensions for old and injured employees.

He owned 5,469 dwellings, each to whatever group it belonged being constructed with variations in the architecture to avoid monotony. Each house had a front yard in which were bits of ornamental gardening.

Herr Krupp had also a variety of institutions, some of them rather singular as "bachelor's homes" and "widowers' retreats. Besides convalescent hospitals and orphanages he had a pension fund for his employees amounting to $4,125,000. He contributed last year as required by law $372,000 to the national insurance fund and gave voluntarily $4,050,000 to other insurance funds.

MERELY HISTORY NOW.

Elizabethton, Tenn., is Only a Spot on the Map.

Practically the entire town of Elizabethton, Tenn., and once heralded as "The Iron City of the South," went under the sheriff's hammer at public sale Friday. The sale marks the final chapter of a gigantic enterprise. The town was projected by the Watauga Land company, which included among its backers John G. Carlisle, Senator McComas, of Maryland; Robert P. Porter and others of national fame. The city was to be the seat of innumerable enterprises of mammoth size, and as a matter of fact was decided upon as the location for the United States naval armor manufactory. But all of these plans were shattered by the floods of 1901 and the entire property, over 1,000 acres, is not worth over $50,000.

The closing down of the mills of the Cannon Manufacturing Company in Concord and Albemarle throws at least three thousand operatives out of employment. Several other mills in Concord have been compelled to follow the action of the Cannon mill.

So far Charlotte mills have not been bothered very materially on account of the scarcity of coal, but this is explained from the fact that Charlotte is getting her coal from three or four different points. Up to the present time the price of this much-needed article has been lower here than at any point the same distance from the mines.

Senator and Congressmen are now flocking into Washington.

The Pennsylvania railroad during twenty-four hours moved 923 trains of 46,325 cars in and out of Pittsburgh.

HON. TENNENT LOMAX

Succumbed to Cancer of the Tongue Saturday.

Tennent Lomax died at his residence in Montgomery early Saturday morning after an illness of nearly four months from cancer of the tongue. He was conscious up to the hour of his demise and fully aware of the approaching end, as he had been for several weeks past. Every effort was exhausted to save him, but in vain. Some weeks ago he was taken to New York city, where medical experts treated him, but to no purpose, as it was too late, and he was brought back home to die.

The county court house was draped in honor of the distinguished dead, Mr. Lomax having been solicitor of the Montgomery county criminal court.

Hon. Tennent Lomax, born in Montgomery, Ala., April 29, 1855, was the only son of Col. Tennent Lomax, who while commanding the Third Alabama regiment, confederate army, was killed at the battle of Seven Pines.

Mr. Lomax received his early education in the public schools of Montgomery. In 1873 he graduated from the University of Alabama at Tuscaloosa and a year later completed the law course at that institution. He was admitted to the bar of Montgomery and formed a partnership with Judge J. R. Tyson, now on the supreme bench of Alabama.

From 1880 to 1886 Mr. Lomax was assistant solicitor of the Montgomery district. When Montgomery was made a separate district in 1886 he was elected state solicitor for the six-year term and re-elected in 1892 and 1898. In 1878 he was chosen secretary of the democratic executive committee just after attaining his majority, which position he held for ten years and was continuously a member of the state democratic committee to the time of his death. He was a delegate to the democratic national convention of 1888, 1896 and 1900, serving as chairman of the Alabama delegations in 1896 and 1900. In the constitutional convention of 1901 he served with conspicuous ability as chairman of the committee on preface and declaration and as a debater on the floor.

Mr. Lomax was prominently identified with the military organizations of Montgomery, being an honorary member of both the True Blues and Greys, companies of the national guard. He was an enthusiastic member of the Sons of Veterans and commander of Camp Holtzclaw of Montgomery, which he organized. Mr. Lomax was especially well known for his connection with fraternal affairs, particularly as related to the Knights of Pythias. In 1890 he was made grand chancellor of Alabama and was supreme representative to the supreme lodge of the United States.

Mr. Lomax was also a member of the board of trustees of the state university. He was a most eloquent orator and a strong and forceful speaker. His funeral in Montgomery Sunday was the longest and most largely attended ever held in that city.

VOLCANO REFUGEES COME

Reach San Francisco and Tell Story of Devastation and Suffering.

THE ANDS OF NATIVES KILLED

Plantations Buried Under Several Feet of Ashes, Lava and Sand—Refugees Escaped Only in Their Clothes—Bands of Thieves Swarming the Desolated Sections—Starvation Faces Survivors.

San Francisco, Cal.—The first of the refugees from the devastated lands of Guatemala arrived on the Pacific Mail steamer City of Para. They came from the districts from the inland sea and traveled over a country laid waste by sand, ashes and pumice before reaching a railway station. They then made the journey by rail to Champerico, and there took the steamer to San Francisco. The refugees sailed on November 7, when the volcano was still smoking. They escaped with little more than the clothing they wore.

The Guatemalans confirm stories of the loss of life. They say that the victims for the most part were Indians, thousands of whom were asphyxiated or buried in the sand. Miles of plantations are under ashes, and absolute ruin is the lot of many planters, whose all was invested in the Pines. One refugee comes from within half an hour's ride of General Barrios, and brings information that the General and his family are safe.

Bands of robbers are now swarming the desolated sections, robbing and murdering refugees on the road and looting the abandoned and desolate plantations. The people left behind on the plantations, it is said, are in danger of death from starvation, for the food supply has been cut off, and there is no way to send in supplies to the afflicted districts.

The steamer City of Para met evidences of the volcanic eruption soon after leaving Odos. Great quantities of pumice were found floating in the water. When the vessel came off the coast of Guatemala the shore was seen to be covered with light ashes. At Champerico there was about half an inch of ash over the roofs of the houses and the ground was covered as by a snowstorm. Ashes were then falling, although it was sixteen days after the first eruption of the mountain. All the territory about Palmar, San Felipe, Pueblo Nuevo and Retalquiles were buried under ashes. Many of the plantations were buried under from five to seven feet of debris, and all hope of ever reclaiming them had been given up. The entire neighborhood for miles was a burning wilderness.

News from Mazatenango said that hundreds of refugees were collecting there and many more were pushing on to places further away from the volcano Santa Maria, fearing further destruction from it. Many of the refugees were without bread or shelter, and their condition was pitiful. At that place most of the buildings had been badly damaged, if not completely destroyed, by the fierce earthquakes that accompanied the eruptions of the volcano. When the last word came from Mazatenango, fifteen days after the first eruption of Santa Maria, the earth had been in constant trembling.

At Champerico a modest estimate of the loss to the coffee crop places it at 400,000 quintals.

ROOSEVELT AT MEMPHIS.

The President Makes Four Speeches—Reception to General Wright.

Memphis, Tenn.—Although the festivities of the day celebrated the homecoming of General Luke E. Wright, Vice-Governor of the Philippines, President Roosevelt's presence was the overshadowing feature. He made four speeches.

Excursion trains were run, and a number of distinguished people were present, among whom were Governor Benton McMillan and General Joseph Wheeler.

Immediately after the President's arrival there was a parade to the Gayoso Hotel, where a breakfast was tendered to the President and General Wright jointly by the women of Memphis.

In response to a toast proposed in his honor by Judge Hammond on behalf of Mrs. Hammond, President Roosevelt responded as follows: "I do know of Southern women, for I am the son of one of them. (Applause.)"

"Now, one word about the women of Memphis. That you are charming goes without saying; any one can see that. (Applause.) And that you have the proper spirit, I am certain, after having listened to Mrs. Hammond directing the Judge what to say." (Applause.)

President Roosevelt also paid a high compliment to General Wright for his services in the Philippines.

At the conclusion of the President's remarks the audience of more than 3000 united in singing "God Be With You Till We Meet Again."

At midnight the Presidential party left for Washington over the Southern Railway.

Wu Ting Fang Starts For China.

The start of Wu Ting Fang from Washington for China was the occasion of much ceremony. Mr. Wu proceeded from the Chinese Legation to the railroad station in company with the entire Legation staff and a number of servants. At the station he took leave of his subordinates in a formal and dignified manner. Mme. Wu has gone to Atlantic City to visit her son. They will go to China later.

ROOSEVELT'S HUNT ENDS

President Breaks Camp Without a Shot at a Bear.

WILL STAY LONGER NEXT TIME

He Remains Till the Last Moment But Bears Given Him the Slip—He Leads His Party a Chase Back to His Train and Says He Had a Fine Outing—A Deer Secured.

Smedes, Miss.—President Roosevelt's bear hunt in Mississippi is ended, and he has not had even a shot at a bear. The last day of the chase was simply a repetition of the three preceding days, so far as his luck was concerned. Try as the hunters would, they could not get a bear within range of the President's rifle.

The dogs got a fresh trail early in the morning, and the President and Holt Collier followed it half a dozen miles to the Big Sunflower River. The bear crossed a mile below the ford. They went to this point, and, believing the bear was making for the cane brake on the other side, they endeavored to head it off. When they got into the brake, however, they were disgusted to find that the bear had doubled on its tracks and crossed the river still further down. It was then 1 o'clock, and as arrangements had been made to break camp at 2:30 o'clock the President was reluctantly compelled to abandon further pursuit of the elusive quarry.

While the President was out after bear, Major Helm, Dr. Lung and Secretary Cortelyou had a more successful deer drive on this side of the Big Sunflower River. They jumped up a buck and a doe. Major Helm killed the latter from his horse at about forty yards.

Although the President has failed to kill a bear on this expedition, he has enjoyed his outing, and speaks in high praise of the hospitality that has been accorded him. He philosophically attributed his ill-fortune to the traditional hunter's luck, and says the next time he goes after bear he will arrange to stay long enough for the luck to change.

The deer killed on the last day and the bear killed on the day before, will be taken to Washington on the special train. Old Remus, the greatest dog in the pack, whose last hunt was ahead of the President of the United States, was badly used up and with several of the wounded dogs was put in one of the wagons.

When all was in readiness the President and the members of the party mounted their horses and rode into Smedes, leaving the wagons to follow. The President is a hard rider, and the pace was rapid, in spite of the bad trails. The distance, which is fully twelve miles, was covered in less than an hour.

Upon the President's arrival here he found fully 500 people, practically all the negroes from the surrounding plantations, assembled to greet him. He thanked them for their demonstrations, but made no remarks. They waited around him on the sidewalks until dark, hoping he would make a speech.

Mr. Fish at night gave a dinner in his private car to the President, and members of his party. At 9:30 o'clock the special started for Memphis, having added the record of a Presidential bear hunt to the fame of Smedes, which first became known to the outside world through the story that here the experiment of teaching monkeys to pick cotton was to be tried.

FIGHT ON MORMON AS SENATOR.

The Ministerial Alliance to Take Case to Congress if Necessary.

Salt Lake City, Utah.—The Ministerial Alliance of Salt Lake City is making preparations for a vigorous fight against the election of Reed Smoot, the apostle, to the United States Senate, and, failing in this, to carry the fight against him to the halls of Congress. A plan for organized effort on this line has been outlined, and will be taken up at the next meeting of the Alliance. The general idea is to make a fight similar to that waged against Brigham R. Roberts in the House.

Not only will the case be brought before the non-Mormons of the State, but if the fight is unsuccessful in the Legislature an attempt will be made to make Mr. Smoot's election a National issue, and a petition will be drafted to Congress, asking that Mr. Smoot, as a high official of the Mormon Church, be not permitted to take a seat in the Senate.

INTENSELY COLD IN EUROPE.

London Swept by Biting Winds—Shaking in Austria, Germany and Switzerland.

London.—Intense cold has set in throughout Europe, and in England the thermometer stands at thirty-two degrees Fahrenheit, accompanied by biting easterly winds and storms along the coast. Similar reports come from Germany and other countries, and in Austria winter has come unexpectedly early. Fourteen degrees Fahrenheit are recorded in Vienna, and the weather is still colder in Bohemia, Moravia and Galicia.

There has been a heavy fall of snow on the Semmering Pass in the Austrian Alps. The Adriatic is being swept by an icy gale, and the rivers in Russia are frozen over. Skating is general in Austria and in Switzerland, while in Southern Russia an intense black frost threatens the wholesale destruction of the young winter crops.

The sweet-shop in the Ghetto is made possible by the myriads of emigrants fleeing from hard conditions in Europe, who are willing for a time to work for the meager chance to live. No employer, however greedy, states the Christian Register, has the power to compel any one to work for him on his own terms. It is hard to find a native American in a sweet shop.

A FRAUD ORDER NULLIFIED

School of Magnetic Healing Wins in the Federal Supreme Court.

DECISION IS REVOLUTIONARY

Justice Peckham, Who Followed the Opinion, Says That the Efficiency of Any Particular Method of Treatment of Disease Is Not a Matter For the Decision of the Postmaster-General—Case Passed Upon

Washington, D. C.—A novel and important decision, covering subject matter not heretofore passed upon by courts of law, was handed down by the Supreme Court in the case of J. H. Kelly and the American School of Magnetic Healing, of Nevada, Mo., against J. M. McManis, postmaster at that place, to prevent the latter from executing the "fraud order" issued by the Postoffice Department against the delivery of mail to that institution. The opinion was delivered by Justice Peckham.

The effect of the decision upon the attitude of the Department in the matter of protecting the mails from fraudulent use is revolutionary, as it practically declares the broad principle "for the public good" to be inoperative where the fraudulent character of the scheme is a matter of opinion and not of fact, and then it lays down the principle that the efficacy or effect of certain medical or healing treatment is purely a matter of opinion and not of fact, and clearly outside of the powers of the Postmaster-General to determine. The right of the courts to review the actions of the executive departments in such matters is also established by the decision overturning the present practice.

The opinion is of more than ordinary interest because of its bearing on the doctrine and practice of Christian Science healing, which is on trial in several States under the laws against malpractice. While the decision does not refer to the Christian Science School by name, it does go into the question of mental healing and also takes up the questions of treatment by electricity, vaccination, homeopathy and even the "regular school."

The case was one of the most notorious fraud orders passed upon by the Postoffice Department. The American School of Magnetic Healing was conducting an extensive business upon the "absent treatment" plan, pretending, upon payment of certain fees, to heal disease at a distance by mental process. After an investigation by inspectors, the Postmaster-General issued an order declaring the business a fraudulent one, denied the concern the use of the mails on that ground, and directed the return of all mail matter addressed to the school.

Kelly, its general manager and Secretary, brought action in the United States Court for the Western District of Missouri for an injunction to restrain the execution of the Department's order, and when that court denied his petition he appealed to the Supreme Court on the grounds, among others, that the law under which the Postmaster-General had acted was unconstitutional, because it deprived him (Kelly) of property without due process of law, and made the postmaster and Postmaster-General the sole judges of their own cases. Without passing on the constitutional questions raised, the court reversed the decision of the lower court and directed it to hear evidence upon the legitimacy of the business conducted by the school.

While the legal officers of the Postoffice Department are greatly surprised at the opinion, they consider the case still unsettled. The court, from their standpoint, did not pass upon the main question upon which Kelly took an appeal, namely, the constitutionality of the act under which the Postmaster-General proceeded. Then, too, they point out, the court did not pass on the merits of the case, that being referred back to the lower court.

The Postoffice officials are apprehensive that under the decision they will be unable to in the future proceed against the bond investment and get-rich-quick associations, as on the same basis it would be difficult to prove as a matter of fact and not of opinion, that they were of fraudulent intent.

Decline in Cotton Prices.

Cotton prices have declined twenty points, or one-fifth of a cent per pound, as a result of bearish speculative sentiment influenced by enlarged crop estimates and continued full receipts at ports, although the latter had not quite equalled the movement for the corresponding week last year. There is still much uncertainty as to the yield, as is indicated by "expert" estimates ranging all the way from ten to twelve million bales.

Swede Dies Rescuing an American Flag.

John Nystrom, a Swedish sailor on the United States Army transport Sumner, at San Francisco, Cal., sacrificed his life while attempting to save an American flag which had been torn by a gust of wind from the stern of the vessel's steam launch. He plunged into the water and got the banner, but was caught by the strong ebb tide and drowned before he could be reached by a boat.

Big Iowa Cattle Firm Fails.

C. C. Bigler & Sons, of Pottawatt County, Iowa, have assigned for the benefit of their creditors. The liabilities are $100,000 and the assets are placed at $200,000. For years they have been the largest breeders of thoroughbred Short-Horn cattle in the West.

The cork forests of Spain cover an area of 420,000 square miles, and are reputed to bear the finest quality of cork known to the market. The harvesting process is first performed when the tree is old enough to stand the rough handling and at intervals of not less than three years afterward. Under this process a tree will continue to thrive and bear for upward of 100 years.

EVERYONE was pleased to see Judge Denson presiding again at circuit court. Client and lawyer, prisoner and advocate, all recognize in Judge Denson a fearless judge, and know that their case is safe in his hands and he will see justice done.

"LET us have peace," says the Thorsby Times, and then devotes a column and a half to a communication from Mr. L. H. Reynolds, in which the writer endeavors to stir up a hornet's nest. Let us have peace, by all means, but the way in which to get peace cannot be found in making baseless insinuations and trying to work upon the prejudices and misconceptions of the people. Mr. Reynolds has been elected representative of Chilton county in the legislature and it behoves him to strive and do all he can for the constituency that has honored him. But this desirable end cannot be accomplished by appeals to passion and prejudice.

It is not a thing to boast of by a representative that nearly every merchant, lawyer, doctor and professional man was against his election—that is an indirect way of saying to the farmer that the interests of the merchant, lawyer, doctor and professional men are not the same as those of the working men.
There were no class interests to be consulted in the recent election, and merchant and farmer, lawyer and sawyer, professional man and working man, were doubtless influenced to vote for whomsoever
they thought best calculated to promote the general prosperity of the whole community. All alike feel the ill effects of bad legislation, and the professional man needs a good representative fully as much as does the working man.

Mr. Reynolds says: "They were all united in trying to defeat the people." That is absolute nonsense. Mr. Reynolds is not the people—he is merely a unit, and unfortunately for the people a very small unit indeed in the legislature.
Taking Mr. Reynolds' own valuation upon himself—that he is the people—well, we hope he will acquit himself to the satisfaction of the people, then lawyers and doctors and professional men will accord him all the honor and glory he merits. If he acquit himself worthily, then none will do him more honor than The Banner.

Another inconsequential charge
he makes: "Talking about fighting a court house 'click'." What that actually means none but Mr.
Reynolds can determine, but it was evidently meant to prejudice the minds of the people against the county officers. That any and all officials have a perfect right to vote for any man they please, we can hardly think Mr. Reynolds will dispute, but because they openly state, prior to the election, that they will not vote for him, most certainly does not constitute a "click." Again he says: "I never saw a closer and better organized court house crowd in my life." This,
as everyone knows, who is at all conversant with public affairs, is the rankest demagoguery—an appeal to unthinking men that a conspiracy was about to defeat Mr.
Reynolds' election. We venture to say there was not one solitary man in Chilton county who imagined that Mr. Reynolds if elected would do the county much good or harm,
and in either case there was no occasion for anyone to "click."

Mr. Reynolds' references to The Banner we disdain to notice.

CIRCUIT COURT.

The first, or civil, week of circuit court convened at Clanton on Monday morning shortly after ten o'clock, Judge N. D. Denson presiding. The grand and petit juries were duly empanelled, and Judge Denson made an unusually impressive charge to the grand jury, more especially dwelling upon the fact that it was a misdemeanor for any person to sell or to give to any minor any cigarette paper or tobacco, or any substitute therefor.
He was also particular in impressing upon the jury the great evil that exists in persons carrying concealed weapons, and the crime that resulted therefrom. He also dealt fully on the liquor question.

Judge Denson complimented the county on its low record for crime, and congratulated the people on the absence.

Mr. D. I. Deramus was chosen foreman of the grand jury, and Mr.
Seborn Jones bailiff.

There were no cases of public importance, and not a single case was taken before a jury. On Tuesday afternoon the petit juries were discharged, and the grand jury adjourned at 3:00 p. m., Thursday.

REPORT OF THE GRAND JURY.

To Hon. N. D. Denson, Judge of the Fifth Judicial Circuit, presiding:

We, the Grand Jury, empanelled
by your Honor, at this term of the Circuit Court of Chilton County, respectfully submit this our final report.

We have investigated all violations of the law that have been brought to our knowledge, and as a result of our investigations have found no indictments.

We have examined the Court House and Jail and find them to be in good condition and well kept.

We have looked after the county poor and find that they are well cared for, with the exception that they need one more bed.

Reports on public roads are that they are in fairly good condition, but we would recommend that they be improved by greater diligence
by road officials. We have examined the books of the various county officers as best we could in the limited time we have had, and find them neatly and correctly kept.

The financial condition of our county is good, as shown by the report of the Treasurer, hereto attached and made exhibit A.

We recommend, if it can be done without additional taxation, that a more suitable room be provided for the Grand Jurors, as the one now used is entirely too small for the comfort of the jury and the transaction of business.

We think it would be well for the County Commissioners Court to carry out the recommendation of the last Grand Jury concerning court houses.

Now, in conclusion, we thank your Honor for the able and explicit instructions as to our duties, and Solicitor Brewer for his assistance in the discharge of our labors, also Mr. Jones, our bailiff, for his efficient services. Believing we have discharged our duties to the best of our ability, we now respectfully ask to be finally discharged.

D. I. DERAMUS, Foreman.

Next week the principle cases
on the docket are:

Randall Lee, colored, murder in first degree.

George Washington, colored,
rape.

Gus Walker, colored, charged with burglary.

Jody Miner, bastardy.

Will Wailes, colored, carnal knowledge.

Notice of Day Set for Hearing Probate of Will.

The State of Alabama, Probate Court,
Chilton County.
To Mrs. Ellen Strook, Mrs. Callie D.
Zimmerman, Mrs. Belle Green, Mrs.
Anna Pope, and Miss Mary D. Logan,
minor, per Miss Delaney Duke,
guardian.

You will please take notice that on the 17th day of November, 1902, a certain paper, in writing, purporting to be the
last Will and Testament of Margery D.
Logan, deceased, was filed in my office
for probate by John A. Strook, and that the 18th day of December, 1902, was appointed a day for the hearing thereof, at which time you can appear and contest
the same, if you see proper.

Given under my hand this, the 17th
day of November, 1902.

2:15. Is the teacher the greatest factor in character building? Prof.
C. L. McCarthy.

3. Necessity of having fewer schools in townships. J. T. Means.
H. A. Harris.

It is very important that teachers
attend the Institutes both days. We usually have a large number of teachers on Saturday, though very few on Friday. This should not be,
and I trust will not in the future.
The law allows teachers to count
the time on Friday and so enter on
their quarterly report, and hence,
the law requires teachers to attend
the Institutes. J. W. Moore, Sup.

Thanksgiving Day today—let us
all be thankful.

Jemison.

Jemison is booming right along with the hard times as some may call it. Just wait until the Repe get in power in Alabama and then they can whistle. Mr. O. C. Atkinson who has been staying here has gone to Helena to the regret of one of our young ladies. Mr. C. W.
Adams paid us a visit last Sunday.

The young people enjoyed themselves at a singing last Sunday night at Mr. J. W. F. Garner's.

Next Sunday is the day for the Sunday-school convention at Jemison, everybody is coming, you are expected too.

ADVANCE INFORMATION.

A monster Christmas edition to
be issued by The Montgomery Advertiser. Biggest paper ever printed in Alabama.

Formal announcements have just
been made by The Montgomery Advertiser that that paper will issue a magnificent Christmas edition on December 14th, numbering upwards
of fifty pages. The master efforts
of this famous Southern daily will contain many special features.
Among the more prominent things
it will have a comic colored section
for the little folks as well as for the older ones who are fond of humor and the funny side of life. Many special articles, written expressly for
The Advertiser, such as new, crisp,
bright Christmas stories for young
and old, sketches of famous characters in Southern every-day life; a
most instructive article upon one of Alabama's most valuable and extensive industries. Many handsome half-tone illustrations of places and
persons you know will add greatly
to the beauty and interest of this magnificent edition. Alabamaans living outside of Montgomery
should order early to be sure of getting a complete copy. Single copies will be mailed to any address upon receipt of price 5 cents per copy, and
3 cents additional to cover postage.
Eight cents per copy by mail to any address in the United States. All orders should be addressed to the Circulation Department, The Advertiser, Montgomery, Ala.

LECTURE.

Come out Monday night and be of good cheer; Louis Spencer Daniel to see and to hear; the wife and the children should come along too;
the sprightly young dude with the girl he would woo; the hardened old bachelor should not stay away, because of a nicker and two times to pay; all should come early and get a front seat; for Louis Spencer
Daniel will give us a treat.

Jumped on a Ten Penny Nail.

The little daughter of Mr. J. M.

Rev. Irl B. Hicks 1903 Almanac.

To say that this splendid work of science and art is finer and better than ever, is stating it mildly. The demand for it is far beyond all previous years. To say that such results, reaching through THIRTY YEARS, are not based upon sound sense and usefulness, is an insult to the intelligence of the millions.
Prof. Hicks, through this great Almanac, and his famous family and scientific journal WORD AND WORKS is doing a work for the whole people not approached by any other man or publication. A fair test will prove this to any reasonable person. Added to the most luminous course in astronomy for 1903, forecasts of storms and weather are given, as never before, for every day in the year, all charmingly illustrated with nearly two hundred engravings. The price of a single Almanac, including postage and mailing is THIRTY CENTS. WORD

Perfect and Peerless

Where will I get my shoes this winter? That is a question a great
many are asking themselves just
now. In answering this there are
three important things to consider,
namely: 1st the wear of the shoe,
that is, the lasting quality of the
shoe. 2nd the fit, 3rd the price of
the shoe. We have solved this question for you we think. Out of several hundred pairs of shoes which
we have sold the past year we have
not had one dissatisfied customer

so, the test of a shoe is wearing it.

JUDSON STROOK,

Many years ago before the days of railroads a salesman and his wife, with their infant son, were traveling across Kentucky. As the story is told in Mr. A. P. Russell's "Characteristics," they were overtaken by a severe storm and took refuge in a lone shepherd's hut.

The child had taken cold before they could find shelter and the nurse began at once to undress it by the warm cottage fire. As she pulled off one rich silken garment after another the shepherd and his wife looked on in amazed silence.

At last the process of undressing was completed and the nurse noted baby was being warmed by the fire. When it sat, with all its splendid outer husk peeled off, its little body beginning to glow in the heat by the fire. The shepherd drew a long breath and exclaimed
"Why, it's just like one of ours!"

Thousands of people have catarrh who would be surprised to know it, because it has been called some other name than catarrh. The fact is catarrh is catarrh wherever located, and another fact which is of equally great importance is that Peruna cures catarrh wherever located.

Story of an Animal That Has More Than Its Share.

Jimmy, two mistresses harness him without trouble or danger, but he delights in alarming one girl cousin who visits at the house. Sundry fidgetings and nervous starts of her own were enough to show Jimmy of what manner and temperament she was, and he is merciless in taking advantage of that knowledge. If she enters the stable where he stands accepting the harness in the most docile manner, he opens his mouth, showing a wicked row of teeth, and makes a feint of snapping at her. She shrieks, his mistress scolds and reasons with him, and Jimmy apparently is then reluctant.

A HEALTH POLICY

The system is from natural causes, debilitated or run-down both in the spring and fall. The seasons' changes are always a strain on the human organism. The blood becomes impure in the spring, and vitality lags in the fall. A little care, a little assistance, and nature will do the rest, as it is always trying to maintain health. Frequently the weakest organ will show the most disorder, and this often leads to wrong treatment. For the debilitated conditions of spring or fall, or any other time, for that matter, the right thing to do is to build up the whole system. It is not your stomach, or liver, or nerves alone that cause the trouble; you are weakened all over and must have renewed strength and vitality. These you cannot get so quickly or safely as by using

Dr. HARTER'S IRON TONIC

When you use Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic you are helping to renew the vigor of every fiber of your body. You are cleansing and enriching your blood; you are strengthening your stomach and increasing the digestive fluids; you are building up and renewing the activity of your kidneys and liver; and you are feeding and revitalizing your nervous system. You cannot do this without getting well, and you cannot take Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic without doing it.

CHICAGO, ILL., Nov. 26, 1901.

The Dr. Harter Medicine Co., Dayton, O., has been awarded the highest prize for its Iron Tonic by the National Association of Druggists. Every spring and fall you should take a bottle of Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic. It is the best medicine for the blood, and for the past three years it has been awarded the highest prize by the National Association of Druggists. THE MAN ON THE CORNER

One of the Rights We Saw, and Some We Saw Not.

We have had two interesting entertainments this last week. Last Friday night Miss Horn, of Thorsby, came down and gave us a very pleasant evening's amusement at the court house, and on Monday and Tuesday nights Prof. Louis Spencer Daniel lectured at the Baptist church. There should be more entertainments of a like nature to help pass off these long nights.

A little spell of bad weather, and now again we are enjoying splendid sunshiney days and warm nights. Even winter in the Sunny South is pleasant and we can congratulate ourselves that we escape the rigors of a northern climate.

DEATH OF MR. A. L. FOSHEE

A good man passed away on Tuesday, November 25, when Mr. Albert Luke Foshee died at his home, two miles west of Clanton. He had been a sick man for about three years with throat trouble. He was in the prime of life, about fifty years of age, and leaves a widow and seven children to mourn his loss. For many years he was a member of the Primitive Baptist church, and was highly respected by all who knew him. The funeral took place at the Childers graveyard on Wednesday, Rev. F. M. Dykes preaching the funeral sermon, a large concourse gathering around the last resting place.

A Resolution of Thanks

By Amand Lodge, A F & A M, No. 350, Cooper, Ala.

At a regular communication of this Lodge, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That we tender our sincerest thanks to Rev. J. W. Howell and wife for Christian courtesy and kindness shown to Bro. McCollum on his visit to our Lodge.

This Nov. 22d, 1902.

We have at last had some rain and gathering is about a thing of the past; small grain which was sown in the early fall is looking fine. The debate at Culp's school house is progressing finely; it is true some have quit attending, but it seems to be doing just as well since they quit as before. Some of the boys are improving very fast and put up some excellent speeches, all things considered. In fact we have the most quiet neighborhood in the county, no boisterous behavior, no drinking, no tale telling or tattling and our school is progressing finely under the auspicious hand of Miss Tommie Hall, who is always ready to do anything in her power to improve the morals, as well as to educate her pupils. Her efforts are unceasing, her patience untiring; we wish every school had such a teacher.

Jemison.

My dear Editor—Thanksgiving day has passed. We had thought to keep it, but like all other things connected with life it would not stay. Life itself is uncertain and fleeting.

—Like a flash of a meteor, a splash of the wave.

Man passes from life to his rest in the grave.

But we enjoyed it while it lasted. Sallie adorned the little Dams in their best Sunday rigger, and we had a merry-making after the good old pattern of the long ago. Tim, our five-year old, remarked that he wished that George Washington had been born every day in the week except Sunday. The little innocent, like a many another of greater age, had very narrow notions of Thanksgiving. But the next day was as full of rejoicing as the preceding one. The Banner brought joy to the household, dady had got his name in the paper; you ought to have seen the little tots dancing with glee, even Sallie congratulated me that I had been so fortunate as to get my name before the public. But the elation of the children was amusing, it was with difficulty that I persuaded them that I hadn't been elected to the legislature or some important office.

But the funniest part to me was the puzzled mind in which it put old aunt Tabitha Hawkins, she had never seen me sign my full name, and of course she didn't suspicion that I was author of the piece.

I haven't got over laughing about it yet, she said she had read it both forwards and backwards, and started it in the middle and read it both ways, and she was plagued take if it wasn't a puzzle to her.

She gave it as her opinion that it was somebody who had learned a few verses out of the Bible, and had kind of jined them together and made it readable; but she thought that no manner of jining would make it "rentelligible."

She never fails to tender me a little bit of advice, she has always had the opinion that I coveted some public office, and she says: Now, Dan, if you ever do happen to be so lucky as to get elected do pray keep your mouth shut, I'm sick of hearing people brag on themselves. I'm like good old John Ploughman, if people must sing their own praises let them be set to the minor key and sung to short meter. Now there was old Jack Mullins the big gest coward that ever started to war, (it has come out since that he jined the Yankees) and I haint no idea he was in a single battle, but he came back with his sword all hacked and his bayonet bloody and bent, a bragging of his valiant services and the great number of dave-devil Yankees that he'd fought with and killed.

Now if you ever happen to be so fortunate as to come out of war with a whole hide lift a grateful heart to the Lord who preserved you and keep your tongue in your head; or if you get elected to office and know you wuz opposed by all the smart and sensible men in the country have horse sense enough to let some other fool tell it.

But it would take a week to reproduce one single curtain lecture of aunt Tabitha, so I won't worry you further now.

The little razor-back acorn hunters are at the lot gate a squealing fit to run a sane person crazy, and Sallie's out hallowing "co-wench," at the top of her voice—a gentle hint that I should be out looking after the nightly chores.

Awkardly yours,

Thorsby.

Thorsby is going right ahead, many new buildings are going up, another church is being erected, the waterworks are being extended, franchises for telephone and electric lights have been granted by the city council, the Normal School is well patronized, the cannery and other factories are a big thing for the town, The Thorsby Times, the new republican weekly, is making things still more lively, and everybody wants to move to Thorsby.

Desirable building lots are already scarce and there is a big demand for houses. We need 25 more houses in Thorsby at once, and in another year we will need 50 more.

In order to make room for this expansion I have been induced to put upon the market a couple of my tracts located right in the heart of the city, the finest residence property in Thorsby. I will sell these tracts as a whole, or subdivide them into smaller tracts or lots to suit the purchasers. If you want a safe and profitable investment there is nothing better. If you want a choice residence location with magnificent view of all the surrounding town and country there is nothing to equal it. As the town grows, this property is bound to enhance in value. If you have the cash, buy now and double your money.

CONGRESS IN SESSION

Estimated Budget for 1904.
$589,189,112—a Decrease.

Congress convened Monday at noon. The senate was in session twelve minutes and the house less than an hour.

The senate adjourned out of respect to the late Senator McMillan, of Michigan, and the house in honor of the late Charles Russell, of Connecticut. Both chambers were gay and fragrant with flowers and the galleries were filled. A number of the diplomatic corps were present. Some of the desks were completely hidden by flowers.

All the proceedings were purely perfunctory. A prayer, the calling of the roll, the swearing in of members elected to fill vacancies created by death or resignation during the recess, the adoption of the customary resolutions to appoint a committee to wait upon the president, to inform the other branch that each was ready for business and to adjourn, constituted the business done. Tuesday the president's message will be received in joint session.

The secretary of the treasury transmitted to congress the estimates of the appropriations required for the government service for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1904, as furnished by the heads of the several executive departments. The total appropriations asked for are $589,189,112, which is $21,638,376 less than the estimate for 1903 and $3,050,014 less than the appropriations for that year. Following is the estimate by departments:

Legislative, $11,508,483.
Executive, $319,509.
State department, $2,676,825.
Treasury department, $172,313,524.
War department, $130,986,605.
Navy department, $84,725,798.
Interior department, $163,018,618.
Postoffice department, $10,363,481.
Department of agriculture, $5,660,150.
Department of labor, $184,220.
Department of justice, $7,341,906.
Grand totals, $589,189,112.
Legislative salaries and pensions, increase $393,913; public printing, increase $718,000.
Executive salaries and expenses, increase $13,000; salaries and expenses civil service commission, increase $76,000.
State department, foreign intercourse, increase $11,000.
Treasury department, public works, increase $7,000,000; miscellaneous, increase $37,000,000.
Naval department, naval establishment, increase $6,000,000.
Postoffice department, salaries and expenses, increase $115,000.
Department of agriculture, salaries and expenses, increase $462,000.
Department of justice, miscellaneous, increase $472,000.
War department, military establishment shows a decrease of $14,000,000.

Representative Bankhead conferred with the chief of engineers regarding the improvements authorized on the Tombigbee and Warrior rivers. He was informed that satisfactory progress had been made and the plans and specifications for locks one, two and three had been approved and on the 23d instant bids would be opened in Mobile. As soon as the contract is let work will be started. The contractors have been unable to get a scowling dredge for use on the outer bar of Mobile harbor. Fifty thousand dollars was appropriated for this work, and it is likely that a dredge will be brought by the government from Charleston.

The Rev. W. H. Milburn, the blind chaplain of the senate, who is now in California, has forwarded his resignation to President Pro Tem. Frye.

Representative Brownlow held a meeting with the members of congress who are interested in the passage of the bill for the passage of a national forest reserve. The senate has passed the bill. The bill appropriates ten million dollars, two millions to be made immediately available. Under its terms four million acres located in Alabama, Georgia, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia and West Virginia are to be purchased.

Minister Called Home.

Senator Concha has been relieved as minister for Colombia, and it is believed that Dr. Thomas Herron, the present secretary of the legation, will be accredited as minister to succeed him. Meanwhile Dr. Herron has been clothed by his government with full authority to prosecute the negotiations looking to a canal treaty with considerable increased powers. Minister Concha having blood feud against strong representations from his government favoring a treaty, the latter decided to place the further negotiations in the hands of Dr. Herron. It is assumed that the chances of the treaty have been bettered.

The report on the practical operation of the bankruptcy law for the last year shows that the aggregate number of voluntary petitions filed during the year was 16,374 against 17,000 in 1901, and 20,000 in 1900. During the same period over 2100 involuntary petitions were filed. The states showing the greatest number of voluntary proceedings were New York, 1906 cases; Illinois, 1814, and Alabama 1436.

FIRST LEASE FOR HIRE OF STATE CONVICTS

Go to the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company at 75 Cents Per Ton.

A special from Montgomery says: The governor and cabinet board let the contract for a majority of the state convicts engaged in mining, to be not less than four hundred, to the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company at 75 cents per ton of coal delivered on the railroad cars at the tipple. Under this arrangement the company furnishes the stockade, hospital, machinery and mining equipment and the state does all the rest.

The board went far enough to decide that the Sloss-Sheffield company will get the balance, but some minor details remain to be arranged and the price is not given out. The contract will differ from the other in the fact that the coal is to be delivered at the mouth of the room in the mine. The governor stated that the price is such as will yield a net result equally as profitable.

The board has made the calculation that the present profit of $90,000 from the convict system will be doubled under these contracts.

The contents of rejected bids are not yet disclosed.

The number of convicts allotted to the Tennessee company represents practically the number of state convicts now employed by it. This leaves 200 or 250 for the Sloss-Sheffield, which is about the number that company now employs. The Tennessee also works about 400 county convicts and the Sloss about 250.

A Stove Factory.

It is reported that a stove foundry will be established at Eufaula at an early date. The company has already been organized. It has at its head men of ability and experience and is backed by plenty of capital. The site to be considered will be on the property of Mr. Felix Foster, and it is said that advantages are such that the promoters of the enterprise consider it worth their while to pay a visit and investigation. It is possible that a short while after its permanent establishment that the Anniston Electric and Gas company will extend its car line to Eufaula, which is located a few miles west of Anniston, on the Louisville and Nashville and Southern railroads.

Requires a Special Act.

Assistant Secretary Taylor, of the treasury department, has approved the selection of the site for the Selma, Ala., public building. The price for the property is $11,250, but no purchase can be made until the legislature passes an act ceding the ground. Most of the states have a general law for the cession of sites for federal government buildings. Alabama is one of those in which a special act is required. Mr. Taylor has written to Governor Jelks to urge the adoption by the legislature of a general measure, so that there may be no delays in choosing sites for government structures.

Killed Himself at Mobile.

Captain Fred Jonsson, a retired stevedore of considerable wealth, committed suicide in Mobile Monday by shooting himself in the head. His mind was temporarily deranged. He was 78 years old, a native of Sweden and had resided in Mobile for forty years.

Captain H. W. Crook, a member of Jefferson county's board of revenue, was felled by a negro at Bessemer Monday night. The captain was not seriously hurt, and the assailant has not been captured.

Crane, the trotter, is at Selma.

North Birmingham is to have a big soil pipe plant.

Four cents was the magnificent gain of burglars who robbed the postoffice at Thomas Sunday night.

Birmingham's city council will elect city officers Wednesday.

The Cuban government has opened to commerce sixteen ports.

The letter of the secretary transmitted estimates of appropriations for the service of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1904, recommends $19,000 for the Alabama interior revenue district, $25,000 for the Anniston public building, $18,750 for the Selma building. The total amount to be appropriated for the Mobile harbor is $200,000, Black Warrior, Warren and Tombigbee $400,000; Tennessee river below Chattanooga $350,000.

Ad Wims offered the deputy collectorship under J. D. Thompson, has refused the office.

Street cars in Houston, Tex., are not running, owing to a strike.

Representative Brownlow introduced a bill to create in the department of agriculture a bureau of public roads, with a director at its head. The purpose is to secure uniformity in road construction and a uniform system of taxation for road purposes.

Representative Clayton, of Alabama, defines the report of republicans legislation against the trusts as a joke.

TAYLOR OPENS FIRE

Will Investigate the Suffrage Question.

The question of validity of the constitution of a southern state and effort to make a sweeping investigation into the disfranchisement of negroes was injected into the proceedings of the house within a few minutes after the meeting of congress. When Representative Glass, of Virginia, had been sworn in Mr. Taylor, of Ohio, offered a resolution requesting that his credentials go to the elections committee for examination.

Taylor's resolution asks whether the credentials of Glass are based on the returns of a lawful election, under what character of registration lists and under color of what constitution or ordinance, and whether at said election the right of franchise was accorded to all citizens of the United States who were entitled to vote were unlawfully deprived of their privileges and immunities secured to them under the constitution and laws.

Under the resolution the committee is empowered to hold its sessions at such times and places as it may seem best and to summon all and any persons and papers it may deem necessary. The democrats generally take the view that the investigation is simply on the Crumpacker idea confined to the state of Virginia. The passage of the resolution they realize would be an entering wedge to investigate conditions in other southern states.

Railroad Figures.

The interstate commerce commission submitted its report for the year ending June 30. It shows the returns of railway companies operating 195,945 miles of road, or about 98 per cent of the whole.

The passenger earnings of these railways were $472,291,665, and the freight earnings $1,200,884,603. Including these and other earnings from operation, gross earnings amounted to $8,736 per mile of line, and operating expenses were $71,395,421 greater than during the previous year.

The total income of the operating roads of the country, including $32,144,402 derived from investments and miscellaneous sources, was $688,311,287. The dividends declared on stocks amounted to $150,685,959, substantially $29,834,630 greater than for the previous year. The surplus from the operations of the roads was $79,185,368.

The Southern is one of the nineteen companies that reported its increase of wages officially, the amount being equal to $1,490,694 per annum.

President Francis, of the World's fair, St. Louis, has received from General Corbin an encouraging report of the interest manifested in the Louisiana Purchase exposition by those persons in Europe with whom the American generals were in touch during their recent trip. General Corbin says that the American generals were much impressed with the fact that comparatively few whom they met in either England or Germany had visited the United States. On inquiry the Americans learned that out of nineteen members of the English cabinet, secretaries and under secretaries, but two had visited America, and that of the prominent generals of the English army none have been here. They found much interest manifested in official circles and a strong desire to take advantage of the World's Fair to visit the United States. They learned that both the emperor of Germany and the king of England were strongly inclined to encourage such visits on the part of these high officials.

Two thousand bales of cotton shipped from Pensacola to Genoa, Italy, caught fire in the bay and were destroyed.

Unsatisfactory reports have come to the state department in regard to the sanitary conditions in Havana. Wood's report of 1899 and 1900 shows that the Cuban city was exceedingly healthy as a result of the American methods of sanitation enforced. The state department is advised that a relaxation of this system is taking place gradually, but surely.

Corea's cabinet has resigned.

BISHOPS MEET IN NEW YORK.

Episcopalists Consider the Plan of Raising a $22,000,000 Missionary Fund.

Church dignitaries in New York, headed by six bishops, are assembled to take part in the week of Advent Missionary meetings.

Twenty-two million dollars are needed annually, churchmen say, to defray the expenses of sending white missionaries to foreign lands, and for the present meetings of the clergy are for the purpose of discussing means for raising the church's share of funds for the work and for making public ideas to the people of New York city showing how the work is carried on.

A report from Colonel Adair, chief surgeon in the Philippines, states that there has been an increase of cases of malaria among the troops in the Philippines, and a decided decrease in the number of cases of cholera.

A very rough passage was experienced by the St. Louis last week. At one time her captain feared she would be lost.

STEEL MILLS MERGE

U. S. Steel Corporation Buying up Competitors.

The event of the week has been the merger of the United States Steel Company, says the Iron Age. The consolidation thus accomplished with the new organization one of the leading factors in the steel trade, particularly in the production of wire rods and wire products.

It is intimated that the consolidation plan proposes the taking over of several other properties, presumably in the wire trade. The new company will not only be in possession of the most modern appliances for production, but at the same time will control an adequate supply of raw material.

The drift seems to be toward the concentration of business in the hands of the larger companies, especially in steel products. The scarcity and high price of raw materials, together with the reduction in the finished product, have diminished the output of the smaller producers who do not control their raw materials, and the larger companies are securing a much greater share of current business than a short time since. Manufacturers are finding great difficulty in supplying their customers with material in reasonable time, owing to the freight blockades.

WILL RESUME WEDNESDAY.

Strike Commission Will Have Tabulated Statistics of Miners' Wages Submitted to Them.

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 28.—Attorney Darrow, counsel for the United Mine Workers, announces that coal road presidents had promised to give the tabulated statistics in regard to miners' wages, etc., to the counsel for the miners. The big coal mining companies have had expert accountants at work preparing these figures for several weeks past. It was because this evidence was not ready for presentation that the adjournment of the commission became necessary. Counsel for the miners will have until next Wednesday in which to expect this important part of their opponents' evidence, when the commission shall meet. District President Nichols will be placed on the stand by the miners. President Mitchell was in conference with Mr. Nichols most of the day.

Cuban Railroad Opened.

A dispatch from Havana says the Cuba Central railroad, from Havana to Santiago, opened Friday. The trip from Havana to Santiago, about 500 miles, will be made in about twenty-two hours, whereas three days are required by steamship, the only means of travel heretofore.

With the opening of this new railroad Cuba is expected to enter upon a new era—a career of industrial development and activity. The main line of the road is of standard gauge and its bridges are of steel and masonry. The equipment generally is similar to that of the best American roads, it being intended to run through sleeping cars between Havana and Santiago.

Pump Plant.

It is reported that a large pump manufacturing concern is considering the location of a plant in the Birmingham district. The concern, it is understood, will invest about $75,000 and will employ about 100 men. Chattanooga and New Decatur are also being considered.

Foot and mouth diseases are raging among New England cattle. A quarantine has been established.

Cables state that the steel market is active for prompt delivery, the demand being better from European consumers. Prices for importation have been advanced from 50 to 75 cents per ton for December shipment, but for future delivery as low as $26 New York cargo lots is said to be made.

Grain freight rates have been raised by northern and eastern railroads.

Lincoln's Portrait in Mississippi's Capitol.

A special from Jackson, Miss., says: A portrait of President Lincoln will be placed in the Mississippi Hall of Fame. The picture was furnished by Robert T. Lincoln, of Chicago, in response to a request, and will be placed alongside that of Robert E. Lee.

Dr. Joseph Parker, the famous London preacher, is dead.

Mt. Pelee was in violent eruption again last week.

British relations with Venezuela are so strained that Mr. Haggard, England's minister at Caracas, has requested a warship.

The judiciary committee held its first meeting and took action toward getting an anti-trust measure before congress.

A movement is on foot to merge the Linotype companies.

HIS LEG FAIRLY TWISTED OFF BELOW THE KNEE

Deane Weaver, of Selma, May Not Survive Shock of Horrible Hunting Accident.

With his leg literally broken off between his knee and ankle, Deane Weaver lay four hours in a field waiting for medical assistance and suffering torture until weakened by loss of blood he became unconscious.

The young man has been practically a cripple since his birth, the bones of both legs being diseased. The left leg, which was hurt by the accident, was the least affected and it had to be amputated. The young man was out alone hunting in a cart and was thrown out, his foot going between the spokes of the wheel and catching on the shaft. The horse wrung the leg off between the ankle and the knee, leaving the foot attached to the knee joint by only a few tendons and about two inches of flesh.

It was midnight before the patient was considered sufficiently over the shock to permit of the operation and he had lost so much blood and the fracture was so complicated that grave doubts are entertained if he will live.

HUNTING FATALITY.

Young Morgan County Man Mortally Wounded.

While out on a Thanksgiving hunt near Trinity a young man named Hiram Russell was fatally wounded by an accidental shot from the gun of his companion, Harry Shenault. Shenault shot at a rabbit, the load of No. 2 shot taking effect in Russell's shoulders, causing a mortal wound. Both are prominent farmers.

DEFENDED HIS MOTHER.

Cullman Boy Shoots His Father for Assault.

Saturday afternoon Charley King, of Cullman, aged 16 years, shot and almost instantly killed his father. It is said the elder King came home drunk, and being displeased gave his wife a severe beating. As the father began striking the mother young King secured a double barreled shot gun and emptied both barrels into his father's head.

State Printing.

The contract for publishing the laws to be enacted by the next legislature has been let to the Birmingham Age-Herald and Montgomery Advertiser jointly. Under this arrangement the state pays the amount allowed by law and gets the full benefit of the combined daily and weekly circulation of the two papers.

Public Building Site.

Assistant Secretary Taylor has selected a site for the federal building at Selma, on the corner of Alabama and Lauderdale streets; price, $11,250.

Pilot Boat Blown Ashore.

The pilot boat Ida Lowe, belonging to Mobile, reported blown ashore near Fort Morgan, is a total wreck. The crew was saved.

An inspector of the postoffice department, who recently investigated the Montgomery postoffice, has reported against Postmaster C. W. Buckley, recommending his removal. The postmaster general said he had not finally passed upon the case. It is understood that the question of politics does not enter into the case. But the recommendation for removal is based solely upon the conduct of the office.

West Huntsville is to have a $500,000 cotton mill.

The store of Frank Feagin, of Brooklyn, was broken into Wednesday night. The safe was blown open, from which $200 in cash was taken and $10,000 in mortgages and other securities. No clue to the thieves.

Dolly Dreber, who last year forged a bond to get her bridegroom out of jail, has been pardoned.

Little Miss Pearl Jones, of North Huntsville, was playing around the machinery at the plant of the Huntsville Hoop and Heading company and was caught by one of the large beltings. Her escape from death was miraculous.

Minnesota's supreme court has declared the inheritance tax unconstitutional.

Coal mines of good quality have been opened at Palm Rock.

A. W. White, of Huntsville, has been designated for examination as a second lieutenant in the regular army.

Venezuela's debt to Germany will reach two million dollars. Owing to the nation's poverty Castro has begged for time.

The United States has won almost every point in its coal controversy with Russia.

EVERYBODY IS BUSY

All Lines of Industry Enjoying Good Times.

Buying Kentucky Lands.

A syndicate composed of Chicago, Duluth and eastern capitalists has closed a deal for 100,000 acres of fine mineral and timber lands in the border counties of eastern Kentucky and has options on 400,000 acres more. Surveyors are laying off the lands and the abstracts are being examined by experts, but it will probably require two years to complete this work. It is said that included in the scheme for the development of this vast amount of mineral wealth is the extension of three large railroad systems into the Big Sandy region. These roads are the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton and the Seaboard Air Line.

The syndicate has been working on this deal for a year or more and its agents have quietly bought up and secured long term options on the richest mineral lands in eastern Kentucky.

Freight Rates Advanced.

A 20 per cent advance in freight rates on the mill and furnace tonnage of Pittsburgh is to go into effect January 1. In the cheaper grain traffic an advance of 15 per cent will go into effect December 8. Indignant shippers declare the proposed charges out of proportion to increased cost due to recent advance in wages.

European Steel Combine.

Twenty-three Austrian and Hungarian iron and steel industries have formed a combination with $70,000,000 capital. Each establishment will be worked separately, but a central board will regulate output and fix prices. A great improvement in the industrial situation is expected from this combination.

Kansas Appeals for Coal.

The treeless region of western Kansas is entirely without coal and the inhabitants are appealing to the governor for a supply. The railroads were charged with confiscating coal consigned to dealers, and the people threatened to organize, stop trains and confiscate coal on engines in retaliation.

Steel Plants for India.

As a result of the recent visit to Pittsburgh of James N. Tata, a wealthy manufacturer of Bombay, arrangements have been made for the development of iron and steel industries in the central provinces of India, which will involve expenditures of upward of $12,000,000.

Strike on Behalf of Mules.

Three hundred Indiana coal miners went on a strike because mules used by their employees were ill-treated. The next day the company promised that the animals would be properly fed, watered and carried before being put to work, and the strike was declared off.

Most Northern Railroad.

A narrow-gauge railroad is to be built in Alaska from Nome to Central City, almost under the Arctic circle. Members of the Pioneer Mining company, the richest corporation at Nome, have appropriated $1,000,000 from surplus funds for the construction of the road.

Tri-National Railroad.

It is reported from St. Louis that the Frisco railroad system is negotiating a deal with the Grand Trunk which, if successful, will extend the Frisco system from Canada to Mexico.

Mitchell to Write a Book.

President John Mitchell, of the Miners' Union, announced to personal friends at Scranton that he was going to write a book dealing with the question of capital and labor and giving the detailed history of the 1900 and 1902 strikes.

A $75,000,000 fall in copper stocks is reported from Boston.

The annual report of Commissioner of Indian Affairs Jones shows the total cost of Indian schools has been $5,877,785, or $121 per capita. The plan at withdrawing rations and making the Indians self-supporting is a success. Twelve thousand have been dropped from the ration roll.

The postoffice department believes that the success of the rural free delivery service warrants an appropriation of $12,000,000 for the next year, an increase of $5,000,000 over the present year.

The annual report of the bureau of American republics proposes that the bureau erect a suitable building for its accommodation in Washington.

Secretary Wilson, of the agricultural department, says the cattle disease in Massachusetts will not reach the West.

Venezuela has agreed to satisfy the demands of England and Germany. Castro saw that Uncle Sam would not intervene.

CIRCUIT COURT.

The second, or criminal week,
of circuit court convened on Monday morning, with a pretty good crowd in attendance. Judge Denson soon empaneled the petit juries and business was proceeded with.
Following are the principle cases disposed of:

Jodie Miner, bastardy, continued.
Will Wailes, colored, charged with carnal knowledge, but the indictment was charged to assault, to which he plead guilty and was fined $1.00.

German Crosby, assault with intent to murder, noble proessed.

Jim Powell, colored, petit larceny,
four months hard labor for the county.

Randal Lee, colored, manslaughter in first degree, eighteen months in penitentiary.

George Washington, colored,
rape, twelve years in penitentiary.

Oce Holoman, temporarily using another man's buggy, five months hard labor for county.

Jim Edwards, colored, grand larceny, stealing a yoke of oxen, eighteen months in penitentiary.

Tom Allison, Nathan Calhoun
and Joe Anderson, all colored,
charged with the burglary of Mr.
Deramus' store at Verbena. Allison pleaded guilty and was sentenced to three years in penitentiary; the other two were acquitted.

William Williams and Ed
Thomas, both colored, charged with the burglary of Mr. T. D.
Parnell's dwelling at Dixie, were sentenced to three years each in penitentiary.

R. A. Miller, charged with wanton injury to a cow, was fined $20 and costs.

Some few unimportant cases were continued, but the entire docket was nearly cleaned. Court adjourned at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Following juries were empaneled:

B. F. Raspberry, J. W. Waldon,
J. H. Buckhalter, Wiley Letcher,
J. W. Pattillo, B. F. Franklin, D. C.
Gandy, C. L. Ingram, D. H. Mitchell, T. A. Hardy, C. R. Childress,

The Fanning of Populism.

Lost—the Populist party; the finder may keep it; it's of no consequence now. Six years ago it was different. It then controlled several States and elected its representatives to the senate and house. In the next congress there will not be a single Populist on the roll of either house, and in no State in the Union is the party one to be longer reckoned with. It was composed of Republican and Democratic "come-outers" who have gone back to their old camps.
There will be no more "Populists," no more "Silverites," no more "Fusionists"—Buffalo Commercial

LET US HAVE PEACE

Clanton, Nov. 29, 1903
Editor Banner—I like the above expression, "Let us have peace,"
and I do not mean that cry of "peace, peace" where there is no
"peace," but I mean that peace that comes after a just and amicable settlement of all questions at issue;
and now since the question of fair elections is settled, and everybody agrees that we have and are to have henceforth and forever a fair and honest count in elections, so that each voter will know that as he expresses his views at the ballot box it will be so returned and thus the humblest citizen will rank as high at the polls as the greatest statesman. The last election was one of this character, one in which all the people were satisfied as to the result so far as votes were concerned, and in view of this state of affairs I feel that every good citizen should rejoice and be at "peace."
As to political parties this county has been for years, and is now, Democratic in principle. True, the great Democratic family divided in 1893. But notwithstanding they divided they remained Democrats in principle, and those of us who fought under the Kolb banner fought our first battles as Jeffersonian Democrats, and while we lost in the count and on the face of the election returns we did not lose our labor. We have lived to see the day in which all the Democratic family speak the same thing on the subject of elections and this was the plea for co-operation with the Republicans in 1894. Some of our people said let us put Republicans on the State ticket and co-operate with them or any other political party in order that we may obtain fair elections. Those who favored co-operation with the Republicans would ask why advocate any public policy until we obtain fair elections, and so we co-operated with the opposition to the Democratic party, and the battle cry was honest election, and later the Democrats themselves argued that the welfare of this State politically, morally and religiously demanded that we change the methods of elections, return to fairness and equality to each elector, and to this end the constitutional convention was held, and the Democrats pledged their honor to the people that after the negro was out of politics the returns would be just what we had all desired—fair and correct. And they have kept their pledge, so says the chairman of the Republican State campaign committee. Now, what else can we expect? Can any sane man hope to see men who have all their life been Democrats in principle forsake their principles and join the Republicans, and support the principles and policies of that party that has never been in accord with what most of us have advocated?
Echo answers no, we will not!

And now, permit me to say in conclusion, that it is my honest judgment that since the issue which is honest elections is settled the best thing for our people is to fight their battles inside the Democratic party, and why do I say this? Will the reader listen? First of all because the great majority of the people in the State of Alabama are Democrats, and justly and of right belong to the Democratic party, and second, because the State is in the hands of the Democratic party and if the last election indicates anything it indicates that the State will be in the hands and under the control of the Democrats for many years, and it also indicates that the Republicans are not in it, only three counties in the State elected opposing members to the next Legislature. Where is the wisdom in fighting for recognition outside of the Democratic party? General Lee knew when he was overpowered and he was as honorable in his surrender as he was in battle, and while the Populists had an issue
they fought, and no man can gainsay or belittle their courage, but now we have no issue, no organization, nothing for which to fight, and if we would take the example of one of the greatest generals this country ever produced and, like General Lee, ground our arms, and say that since our guns have made the impression that we were in earnest in battle, and the prize for which we fought has been won,
and our numbers are decreased until there is no more judgment in continuing this fight against the Democratic party than there would have been when Lee surrendered for him to have fought the unequal numbers longer. And now let us labor to unite our people, to the end that we united stand and thereby make our influence felt for good in both State and county that the greatest good to the greatest number of all our people may be obtained in all our public affairs. With malice to none and good wishes to all, I am Sincerely yours,
S. M. ADAMS.

PROGRAM TEACHERS' INSTITUTE

To be held at Jemison, December 19
and 20, 1903.

Friday, 10:15 a.m. Devotional exercises, conducted by Rev. J.
W. Moore.

2:15. Is the teacher the greatest factor in character building? Prof.
C. L. McCarthy.

3. Necessity of having fewer schools in township. J. T. Means.
H. A. Harris.

It is very important that teachers
attend the Institutes both days. We usually have a large number of teachers on Saturday, though very
few on Friday. This should not be,
and I trust will not in the future.
The law allows teachers to count
the time on Friday and so enter on
their quarterly report, and hence,
the law requires teachers to attend
the Institutes. J. W. MOORE, Supt.

A New Remedy.

The old friends of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will be pleased to know that the manufacturers of that preparation have gotten out a new remedy called Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, and
that it is meeting with much success in the treatment of constipation, biliousness, sick headache,
impaired digestion and like disorders. These Tablets are easier to take and more pleasant in effect
than pills, then they not only move
the bowels, but improve the appetite and correct any disorders of the Stomach and Liver. For sale

WEEDS

Consumption is a human weed flourishing best in weak lungs. Like other weeds it's easily destroyed while young;
when old, sometimes impossible.

Strengthen the lungs as you would weak land and the weeds will disappear.

The best lung fertilizer is Scott's Emulsion. Salt pork is good too, but it is very hard to digest.

The time to treat consumption is when you begin trying to hide it from yourself.
Others see it, you won't.

Don't wait until you can't deceive yourself any longer.
Begin with the first thought to take Scott's Emulsion. If it isn't really consumption so much the better; you will soon forget it and be better for the treatment. If it is consumption you can't expect to be cured at once, but if you will begin in time and will be rigidly regular in your treatment you will win.

Scott's Emulsion, fresh air, rest all you can, eat all you can, that's the treatment and that's the best treatment.

We will send you a little of the Emulsion free.
Be sure that this picture is

Revolution Imminent

A sure sign of approaching revolt
and serious trouble in your system
is nervousness, sleeplessness, or stomach upsets. Electric Bitters will quickly dismember the troublesome causes. It never fails to tone the stomach, regulate the kidneys and bowels, stimulate the liver, and clarify the blood. Run down sys-

ADVANCE INFORMATION.

A monster Christmas edition to
be issued by The Montgomery Advertiser. Biggest paper ever printed
in Alabama.

Formal announcements have just
been made by The Montgomery Advertiser that that paper will issue a magnificent Christmas edition on December 14th, numbering upwards
of fifty pages. The master efforts
of this famous Southern daily will
contain many special features.
Among the more prominent things
it will have a comic colored section
for the little folks as well as for the older ones who are fond of humor
and the funny side of life. Many special articles, written expressly for
The Advertiser, such as new, crisp,
bright Christmas stories for young
and old, sketches of famous characters in Southern every-day life; a
most instructive article upon one of Alabama's most valuable and extensive industries. Many handsome
half-tone illustrations of places and
persons you know will add greatly
to the beauty and interest of this magnificent edition. Alabamians
living outside of Montgomery
should order early to be sure of getting a complete copy. Single copies
will be mailed to any address upon
receipt of price 5 cents per copy, and
3 cents additional to cover postage.
Eight cents per copy by mail to any address in the United States. All orders should be addressed to the Circulation Department. The Ad-
vertiser, Montgomery, Ala.

A Costly Mistake.

Blunders are sometimes very expensive. Occasionally life itself is the price of a mistake, but you'll never be wrong if you take Dr. King's New Life Pills for Dyspepsia, Dizziness, Headache, Liver or Bowel troubles. They are gentle yet thorough. 25c, at Clanton Drug Co.

Anna Pope, and Hillary D. Logan,
minor, per Miss Delaney Duke,
guardian.
You will please take notice that on the 17th day of November, 1903, a certain
paper, in writing, purporting to be the
last Will and Testament of Margery D.
Logan, deceased, was filed in my office
for probate by John A. Stock, and that the 18th day of December, 1903, was appointed a day for the hearing thereof, at
which time you can appear and contest
the same, if you see proper.
Given under my hand this, the 17th
day of November, 1903.
S. M. ADAMS, Judge of Probate.

"My brain is on fire" tragically exclaimed Mrs. Bob as she threw herself down upon the sofa.
"Why don't you blow it out?" absentmindedly replied Bob, deeply absorbed in the newspaper. And then he dodged a flying hairbrush.

SHOE! SHOE! SHOE!

Where will I get my shoes this winter? That is a question a great
many are asking themselves just
now. In answering this there are
three important things to consider,
namely; 1st the wear of the shoe,
2nd the lasting quality of the shoe, 3rd the price of the shoe. We have solved this question for you we think.
Out of several hundred pairs of shoes which we have sold the past year we have not had one dissatisfied customer to express himself thus, "The last of a pudding is eating the pie," and
so, the test of a shoe is wearing it.
Call on us and let us show you a shoe that comes nearer to what you want than you could have planned yourself. A SHOE THAT IS WORTH
ALL THE MONEY YOU PAY FOR IT.

JUDSON STOCK, CLANTON

Mushrooms Easily Grown.
Any one may raise mushrooms in his cellar or even in his attic with very little labor.

He should have a bed which may consist of a shallow box and the bottom should be filled with a dark rich soil to the depth of say eight inches. It should be in a dark place, and a damp place also is beneficial, but if he uses an attic the room may be kept dark by heavy curtains and the earth damp by frequent watering. An average temperature of from 60 to 70 degrees should be maintained. Almost all seeds men sell the spawn blocks, and when the bed is prepared the spawn should be broken into fine surface particles and just covered with the earth.

Notwithstanding the popular belief,
mushrooms do not come up at night,
but they do in four or five nights, and when once up their growth is very rapid.—Exchange.

A Disappointed Kentuckian.
At the time when John G. Carlisle was senator from Kentucky his speeches were widely printed and attracted a great deal of attention. One day when the senate was in session a mountaineer from the wildest wilds of Kentucky presented himself at the door and asked to see Senator Carlisle.
The visitor wore homespun and leather
boots and was travel stained and dusky.
He explained that he had read Mr.
Carlisle's speeches and considered them great, and had walked more than a hundred miles in order to see the senator from his state. Mr. Carlisle was busy at the time, and the clerk informed the visitor that he could not be disturbed. The farmer looked disappointed and seemed reluctant to depart. Finally he asked if he might be taken where he could just catch a glimpse of the great man he had walked so far to see. The request was granted, and Mr. Carlisle was pointed out to him. After a brief scrutiny the farmer turned to the attendant:
"Reads a heap better'n he looks," he remarked sentimentally, and prepared to walk back home.—New York Times.

The Electric Eel is Very Old.
Certain species of electric fishes have been known from very early times. Occasionally we find people ascribing mysterious powers to them both of good and evil. It is certain that the Abyssinians knew an electric eel and used it "as a remedy for nervous diseases," and the Hindus and other nations of the east in times past were also conscious of its powers. Humboldt describes an old method of capturing this eel practiced by the East Indians, which consisted in driving horses into waters inhabited by the eel and allowing the eels to exhaust themselves by attacking the horses with their electric organs, when they were finally harpooned by the Indians; but subsequent travelers in the same parts where Humboldt says the custom was practiced have denied the report, and it is now not generally believed. However, the electric eel has been known to those people for centuries.

Notices to Non-Resident.

The State of Alabama, Chilton County, in the County of Chilton, Alabama, Seventh District, Northern District, Division.

John F. Welch, Administrator, &c., Complainant.

vs. John F. Welch, as Administrator, &c., of said Defendant.

In this case it is made to appear to the Register by the affidavit of Wm. H. Craig, one of the subscribers of record for the complainant, that the defendant, John Welch, is a non-resident of the State of Alabama, and is a minor under the age of fourteen years, and residing with his mother and stepfather, Annie and Wm. H. Welch, in the City of Meridian, in the State of Mississippi, and that the defendant, John Welch, is a non-resident of the State of Alabama, and resides at Rome, in the State of Georgia, and further, that, in the belief of said plaintiff, the last named two defendants are over the age of twenty-one years.

It is therefore ordered by the Register, that publication be made in The Banner, a newspaper published in Clanton, once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring them, the said John Welch, Annie Welch and Vesta Welch to answer or demur to the bill of complaint by the 15th day of October, 1902, and failing to do so within thirty days thereafter, a default judgment may be taken against them in said case.

THE MAN ON THE CORNER

Some of the Rights We Saw, and Some We Saw Not.

"The best of all ways to lengthen your days is to steal a few hours from night, my dears."

So sang Tom Moore, and it was recalled to my memory from the fact that for some time past I have been "stealing a few hours from night, my dears," and I begin to think if I steal many more it will also do the other thing, that is, shorten my days. But, there, life is not worth living unless you have plenty to do, and when you have lots of work on hand that ought to be done the best thing is to pitch in and do it, even if you do have to encroach upon the night which cometh "when no man can work."

Speaking of night—we have recently had some very dark ones, and it makes one think that Clanton is big enough and prosperous enough to be able to afford a few street lamps to lighten our darkness. The expense would not be much and would repay itself in a remarkably short time by the comfort it would afford our citizens. Then you could get backward and forward from church and prayer-meeting, without running the risk of getting lost in the dark. It would likewise make it easier for you to visit your friends these long winter nights. After the day's work is done you could "steal a few hours from night, my dears" and go visiting.

One more notice to clerks of churches of the Unity and Chilton County Associations. There is still a number of minutes on hand and you can get them by calling or sending to The Banner office; please get them.

Thorsby.

Our school is progressing splendidly under the excellent management of our skillful faculty.

Thanksgiving day was celebrated in the usual genial fashion. Everybody seemed to have enjoyed a delicious dinner, and were in grateful spirits. In the evening Mrs. Johnson's elocution class gave a fine entertainment at the college. Everything went off splendidly and a very pleasant time was enjoyed.

Our Literary Society is a perfect success. It is one of the most valuable features of our school and is a blessing and refreshment after the toil of the week. Prof. M. P. Johnston, of our business department, is getting along nicely with his band of students, fitting them for a successful career in the business world. Our young professor in Telegraphy is getting along splendidly, judging by the fruits of his efforts. Preparations for a grand Christmas festival are in progress.

What's in a Name?

Everything is in the name when it comes to Witch Hazel Salve. E. C. DeWitt & Co. of Chicago, discovered, some years ago, how to make a salve from Witch Hazel that is a specific for Piles. For blind, bleeding, itching, and protruding Piles, eczema, cuts, burns, bruises and all skin diseases DeWitt's Salve has no equal. This has given rise to numerous worthless counterfeits. Ask for DeWitt's—the genuine.

PUBLIC SALE.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY

Take Laxative Bromo-Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25 cents.

Randolph, Dec. 8, 1902

The effort to arouse class prejudice on the part of L. H. Reynolds is apparent to all thinking people, when he states that all the merchants, lawyers and county officers were against him. It is exceedingly strange that Mr. Reynolds can't extend as much charity to other people as he claims for himself. He claims that he went to the Republican party because he believes in its principles and that he is not a Democrat because he is too good to be with such bad people. Now, would it not be charitable, to say the least of it, that some of the people who were against Mr. Reynolds were honest in opposing him and the Republican party. It is a pity that any man should possess the opinion that the people who dared to oppose him were all "clicks" and seeking to do harm to the other citizens. Any man can see with one eye that Reynolds is seeking to build himself up politically on the prejudice of a certain class of our people against the other class, but that is a sandy foundation, the people are not as blind to his schemes as he imagines, and a sober second thought will help him to understand that the people can make out without following him into the Republican party.

OLD CITIZEN.

Jemison.

Our town is progressing nicely. It is not on a "boom" and I am glad it is not; a boom is to unhealthy a condition for a small town, but for steady, honest progress. I scarcely think Jemison can be surpassed by any town, on the L. & N. R. R., in Chilton county. It has a reasonable number of good business men and an unusually large number of good-looking, charitable women, why should it not prosper?

Some new buildings are being erected, the Odd Fellow's Hall is going to be a nice, well located structure.

The cold snap has made big wood fires necessary and been the death of many a fatted grunter. We slayed two of our best cooks the first of the week, and received a visit from our well beloved Aunt Tabitha Hawkins on the day following. She never fails to come somewhere about hog killing time, but she almost forgets to leave afterwards.

But on last Saturday morning, with a liberal share of spade-ribs, back-bones and liver bundled up, and with many expressions of regret that her domestic affairs would not permit of her remaining longer with us, she bade us farewell, consoling us, however, with the promise that she would visit us again shortly. What a blessing it is to have such kind, loving aunts!

Hurriedly yours,

PINKY WOODS DAN.

MARRIED

At Jemison, Dec. 2, Mr. Alex Ray and Miss Pearl Beasley, D. L. Langston, J. P., performing the ceremony. Best wishes to the happy young couple.

At residence of bride's father at Cooper, Dec. 4, Mr. J. L. Thomas and Miss B. S. A. Miller, Rev. J. L. Hand officiating. Long life and happiness to them.

At the court house, Clanton, Dec. 10, Mr. W. L. Nix and Miss B. M. Raspberry, Judge Adams tying the nuptial knot. Good luck to the youthful pair.

A Frightened Horse.

Running like mad down the street dumping the occupants, or a hundred other accidents, are every day occurrences. It behooves everybody to have a reliable Salve handy and there's none as good as Bucklen's Arnica Salve. Burns, Cuts, Sores, Eczema and Piles, disappear quickly under its soothing effect. 25c, at Clanton Drug Co., and Hopkins Drug Co.

Mineral Springs.

Here we are as happy as linnetts at Mineral Springs. I am indeed surprised that this place is not an ideal summer resort, since all its deficiencies is equipment. Splendid locality, five miles east of Thorsby, best mineral water in Alabama; lovely mountain views and picturesque scenery. We have a singing society that meets bi-weekly, preaching every second Sunday; a good school—second to few country schools. It is not a college nor university, nor a professor teaching it, what sense is there in calling these little third, second, or even first grade teachers professors? If we were to advertise, as some schools do, we could say we have students from five States in the U. S. and some from Europe. We realize that gas is not what we need so much as honest, earnest effort, therefore we desist. Messrs. W. E. Green, Willie Bean, Wiley Bean, R. N. Headley and Misses Mattie Bean, Viola Littleton, and Clara Robinson and Emma Gronquist were on honor roll last week. We are glad to have Mr. Charlie Bowles, from Autauga county in our school. Mr. Bowles will take a business course. Mr. W. E. Green will take a telegraphic course next Spring.

Well, I guess the teachers are grinding out something big to say at the Institute. Just here let me say co-workers don't put your "fodder" so high that this humble novice can't get it. The sky is mighty pretty as it is. If you will give me something practical, I'll thank you and do my best to apply it. As to listen is all I can do in Institute work I am partial to the practical talk. Oh I forgot I can shake hands in some sort of way, even if it should be in a churning fashion. Mr. Robert Bean and Docia Bussy were happily married the 7th inst, we hope their ideal life may be perfectly realized in their future. There are a few who get sick, but when they get our panacea, (mineral water) they are soon well again. Our Thorsby neighbors haul the wonderful panacea away by cart loads. Oh ain't you sorry for me, I am going to see my sweetheart get married Xmas eve. I'll be an old maid then won't I?

COUGHS AND COLDS IN CHILDREN

Recommendation of a Well Known Chicago Physician.

I use and prescribe Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for almost all obstinate, constricted coughs, with direct results. I prescribe it to children of all ages. Am glad to recommend it to all in need and seeking relief from colds and coughs and bronchial affections. It is non-narcotic and safe in the hands of the most unprofessional. A universal panacea for all mankind.—Mrs. Mary R. Melendy, M. D., Ph. D., Chicago, Ill. This remedy is for sale by Hopkins Drug Co., and A. Horn, Thorsby.

Thorsby.

To such parents who wish to come to Thorsby to educate their children we will give special rates on choice building lots within short distance of dormitory and college building. Call at our office or address

THE CONCORDIA LAND AND IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION.
THORSBY, ALA.

Thorsby.

Thorsby is going right ahead, many new buildings are going up, another church is being erected, the waterworks are being extended, franchises for telephone and electric lights have been granted by the city council, the Normal School is well patronized, the cannery and other factories are a big thing for the town, The Thorsby Times, the new republican weekly, is making things still more lively, and everybody wants to move to Thorsby.

Desirable building lots are already scarce and there is a big demand for houses. We need 25 more houses in Thorsby at once, and in another year we will need 50 more.

In order to make room for this expansion I have been induced to put upon the market a couple of my tracts located right in the heart of the city, the finest residence property in Thorsby. I will sell these tracts as a whole, or subdivide them into smaller tracts or lots to suit the purchasers. If you want a safe and profitable investment there is nothing better, if you want a choice residence location with magnificent view of all the surrounding town and country there is nothing to equal it. As the town grows, this property is bound to enhance in value. If you have the cash, buy now and double your money. For particulars call on, or address the owner,
K. G. FARRER.

A Cold Wave.

The forecast of sudden changes in the weather serves notice that a hoarse voice and a heavy cough may invade the sanctity of health in your own home. Cautious people have a bottle of One Minute Cough Cure always at hand. E. H. Wise, Madison, Ga., writes: "I am indebted to One Minute Cough Cure for my present good health, and probably my life." It cures Coughs, Colds, LaGrippe, Bronchitis, Pneumonia and all Throat and Lung troubles. One Minute Cough Cure cuts the phlegm, draws out the inflammation, heals and soothes the mucous membranes and strengthens the lungs.

By distributing his gifts through Scotland, Ireland and all sections of America, Mr. Carnegie has assured himself the satisfaction of being thanked in an immense number of districts.

An interesting suggestion was made at a conference held a short time ago in Brussels. It was that the blind could be given occupation advantageously in telephone and telegraph offices.

One of the oldest coins in the world, the German thaler, is disappearing. It is to be replaced by a four-mark piece, equivalent to our American dollar, as the five-mark silver pieces have been found to be too heavy.

Lake Morat in Inverness-shire is the deepest fresh water lake in the United Kingdom. A recent survey shows that the greatest depth is 1007 feet. For seven miles the bottom of the lake is 600 feet below the level of the sea, from which it is separated by a narrow strip of land, and the deepest part is 927 feet below sea level.

The Montana young woman who shocked her friends and the reading public by her literary improprieties has not been heard from for some time. The public is good natured. When anybody arises and says, "I am a genius," there is generally a disposition to take the goods on trial. But a rejection is usually final, asserts the Washington Star.

In order to encourage the study of science among women, the Association for Promoting Scientific Research Among Women has offered two prizes of $1000 each for the best papers prepared by women. One is for the best work based on independent laboratory research in biological, chemical or physical science, and the other on any scientific study. The chairman of the prize committee is Miss Ellen H. Richards, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Boston.

Of 141 students who took an entrance examination in spelling for Northwestern University eighty-five missed twenty or more words out of a list of 150, which was fairly selected, without special search for the unusual and the difficult. The comment of Professor Clark on the showing is: "As long as the word method of spelling is taught in the public schools, just so long will boys and girls enter college unable to spell correctly." This is not an unreasonable deduction from his experience, past and present, but if his theory is wrong, says the Chicago Inter-Ocean, there is still a very unsatisfactory condition to be explained.

In a few years white oranges may grace the American dinner table or the Italian's fruit wagon. One of the explorers of the Agricultural Department discovered this freak of nature in his rambles along the shore of the Mediterranean some months ago, and brought some cuttings from the tree to the United States. These were carefully grafted on an ordinary stock at the Department grounds, and are now three feet high. A cutting of this plant was sent to Santa Ana, Cal., to be tried in that climate. A couple of years will see the first fruit. If it proves of fine flavor, cuttings will be widely scattered, and in time the white orange may be as plentiful as the seedless orange.

The Juvenile Court of New York City, appointed to adjust and correct the wrongs of little ones, is found to perform a long-needed function, and, if justice and humanity are to be granted children and the future men and women of the world made better, it will be wise for every state in the Union to create such an institution, thinks Success. An important feature of the New York City court is the effort which is being made to throw the responsibility and expense of properly caring for children on their natural guardians. Its work has already borne the fruits of great good.

The Argentine Republic is taking energetic measures to develop its agricultural wealth. Arrangements were recently made to ship its cereals to Europe by government transports, and now the minister of agriculture has determined to send a steamer with cargo to South Africa once a month, for six months, as an experiment. On the return voyage, passage will be given at low rates to Boer families that may wish to settle in Argentina.

Ex-Speaker Passed Away Saturday at Midnight.

Thomas Brackett Reed, former speaker of the house of representatives and for many years prominent in public life, died Sunday morning at 12:10 in his apartments in the Arlington hotel. The immediate cause of death was uraemia.

Mr. Reed reached Washington Sunday, having come to attend some matters in the United States supreme court. He was at the capitol Monday visiting with friends and former associates in congress, and witnessed the convening of the second session of the fifty-seventh congress. Apparently he was enjoying good health, but later in the day complained of gastric distress.

Mr. Reed's mind was in such a state during the day that he did not realize the seriousness of his condition. He was cheerful and conversed with those about his bedside. When it became apparent that he would not survive his illness his wife and daughter were notified and they remained constantly at the bed until the distinguished patient breathed his last. With only a faint hope of saving his life oxygen was administered throughout the day.

The heart became weaker and weaker, but the patient retained consciousness until 11 o'clock, when a complete coma came on.

At the bedside, when he died were Mrs. Reed and Miss Catherine Reed.

Mr. Reed passed away peacefully and without pain.

FIRST DEATH AT THE HOME.

Captain Phil May Passes Over the River—Veterans Attend Funeral.

Captain Phil May, the first inmate of the new confederate home at Mountain Creek to pass over the river, was buried there with every mark of respect which his comrades could bestow. Captain May was of Sumter county and was all alone in the world, his eleven sons and daughters having preceded him to the grave. He was a captain in Roddy's cavalry and made a gallant record. That the new home comforted his declining days is a title to the respect and active help of all the people.

Action of Shareholders.

Several shareholders of the Southern Building and Loan Association held a meeting to discuss the wisdom of taking the association out of the hands of the receiver and reorganize to continue business. President Whitten stated that he had a proposition from a large trust company to take the assets of the association, issue debentures for all outstanding stock redeemable in two years, with interest, members to exchange stock for debentures dollar for dollar. The trust company also offered to pay all expenses of winding up the affairs of the association excepting the receivership to date.

New Dormitory Needed.

President A. P. Montague, of Howard college, will commence a canvass of the Baptist churches to raise $8,000 to erect a dormitory at the college. For some time he has contemplated this work and already has nearly $4,000 promised toward the erection of the building.

President Montague says that he intends erecting a building that will be one of the most complete and convenient connected with any college in the state. The dormitory proposed will accommodate a large number of students and will also have several recitation rooms.

New Furnaces.

Announcement is made that Pennsylvania parties are looking to an extensive purchase of coal and ore lands in Birmingham, and the discussion of the formation of a furnace company of magnitude. It is reported that the erection of new furnaces is proposed and that no old furnaces are to be looked after.

FRANCHISE GRANTED

For a $20,000 Electric Plant at Jasper, Ala.

A franchise has been granted by the mayor and board of aldermen of Jasper for the installation of an electric plant, which will be built at once. Provisions are made in the franchise for a minimum of five arc lights to be located on the principal streets and thoroughfares of Jasper and also leaving the city full option of purchasing plant after a specified term of years.

A five-acre tract of land has been purchased whereon a power house will be erected.

Mayor Wright and eleven Denver aldermen have received sentences of four months in jail for contempt of court.

Seventy-thousand dollars is the cost of the Southern accident at Sunbright, Tenn.

Howard Gould has arranged to take a party in his yacht, Niagara, on a six months' tour of the world.

The Latest From Among Our Law Makers.

Senator Morgan, of Alabama, has introduced a bill into the senate authorizing the Spanish claims commission to take cognizance of claims growing out of injuries caused by the destruction of the battleship Maine in the harbor of Havana.

WRIGHT CARRIES HIS POINT.

Army Officers Will Be Assistants to the Philippine Constabulary.

General Luke E. Wright, vice governor of the Philippines, appeared before the house committee on insular affairs and supplemented his argument in favor of the bill providing for the detail of army officers as chiefs and assistant chiefs of the Philippine constabulary with the statement that Adjutant General Corbin and General Young favored the bill. Colonel Clarence R. Edwards, chief of the bureau of insular affairs, war department, also spoke in favor of it.

The committee decided to report the bill favorably without amendment. The bill provides that army officers may be detailed for service as chief and assistant chiefs of the Philippine constabulary, the officers serving as chief to have the rank and pay of brigadier general, and those serving as assistant chief to have rank and pay of colonel, the difference in pay to be paid out of the Philippine treasury.

Minister to Japan Dead.

United States Minister to Japan Buck went on a hunting trip last Wednesday from Tokyo and was taken suddenly ill and expired before medical aid could reach him.

Alfred E. Buck was a native of Maine, and was about 60 years of age. Many years ago he removed to Atlanta and became a leader in republican politics. For some years he served as United States marshal of Georgia and in 1897 was appointed by President McKinley United States minister to Japan, which post he has since held. He lived in Mobile, Ala., several years. Huntington Wilson, the secretary of legation, was designated to take charge of the office.

Navy Growth.

Secretary of the Navy Moody's report says that the fighting strength of the American navy, counting ships launched, under construction and authorized by congress, has increased four-fold since the beginning of the war with Spain. He favors constant increase and asks for a permanent hospital ship. To make up the deficiency of 1,360 officers more promotions from the ranks are urged.

Report on Agriculture.

Secretary Wilson's annual report says that $20,000,000,000 is invested in American agricultural industries, comprising 5,000,000 and 415,000,000 of improved land on which 40,000,000 people live. The most valuable crops in order stated are Indian corn, hay and forage, cotton, wheat and oats. The meat bill is $1,000,000, while dairy products half a billion and poultry and eggs $300,000,000.

Sixty men under Captain Pershing, who marched across the island of Mindanao, Philippines, reported that Moros were surprised to find that Americans were not monsters 10 feet tall, with horns and tails. No hostility was shown and the captain was asked to arbitrate differences between two warring tribes.

Annual Surplus $91,287,376.

Secretary of the Treasury Shaw reports treasury receipts for 1902 as $684,226,289 and expenditures $593,389,904, leaving a surplus of $91,287,376. He recommends redemption of silver in gold, appropriation for the suppression of anarchists, exchangeability of every form of government money and means for increasing the circulating medium.

Report on Army.

Secretary of War Root in his annual report recommends maintaining the strength of the regular army at 60,000, reorganization of the militia, creation of the title chief of staff for commanding general, repeal of the anti canteen law, educational advantages for young officers, levying of 25 per cent of the Dingley tariff rates on imports from Philippines and fixing of gold standard there.

Mississippi's exhibit at St. Louis is planned on advanced lines. A textile plant will be a feature and an oyster packing plant is under consideration.

Space has been requested at the St. Louis fair in which to exhibit a relief map of the Appalachian range, showing all that part which it is proposed to convert into a forest reserve in North Carolina, Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia and West Virginia, and following the course of the New and Great Kanawha rivers. This section is said to be very productive and immigration and settlement is much desired.

Located on Lookout Mountain near Gadsden.

The reported find of a large and valuable tract of coal land near Tabos has caused much interest in real estate. The coal lies on Lookout mountain about nine miles from Gadsden and is said to be of a fine grade and is found to be a large vein, which is being bought up rapidly. The records in the probate office show that there has been some heavy transactions in that section recently and in a very short time there will be a large number of both coal and ore mines opened up and the output can be consumed in Gadsden by the furnaces, steel plant and car works.

TO AMEND THE LAW.

Auditor Sowell Will Make a Recommendation.

In his forthcoming report, which is now in the hands of the printer, Auditor Sowell will make only one recommendation looking to amending the present law regulating the transactions of his office.

There is at present no way whatever of checking tax collectors on the poll tax, the auditor simply having to take the collector's word for it. Mr. Sowell will recommend that blank receipt books with stubs be furnished collectors, who will be required to account for each of the receipts either by remitting the money or producing the blank receipt itself, precisely as probate judges are now required to account for the licenses furnished to them.

BONDHOLDERS MAINTAINED.

Demurrer Overruled in Case Against Mississippi Railroad.

Chancellor Conn overruled the demurrer set up by the defense in the case of Grigsby Thomas, of Georgia, et al, vs. the Alabama and Vicksburg Railroad Company. The suit involves $2,000,000. The demurrer contended that the claim was barred by the statute of limitation and that the bill of complaint did not show cause of action.

The ruling of the court has the effect of maintaining the claim of the third mortgage bondholders. If maintained in the supreme court the further effect will be to set aside the sale of the Alabama and Vicksburg railroad and restore the property to the Vicksburg and Meridian company.

Kentucky Negroes Sold.

Two colored women and one man, convicted of vagrancy in Lancaster, Ky., were sold at auction by the sheriff November 28 to the highest bidder. The man sold for one year at $7 and the woman for one and three years at $5 each.

The governor has appointed T. H. Smith and J. P. Carter to be notaries at Manatee, Monroe county, and J. O. Snellgrove to be a notary at Enterprise in Coffee county.

Will Talbert, charged with killing James Thompson at the Littleton trouble a few weeks since, has been captured in Mobile.

Allen McCaskell, the popular conductor of the Geneva branch of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, died at Georgiana of fever Friday.

A bill introduced in the Virginia legislature as health measure makes kissing a misdemeanor, punishable with a fine.

Bryan on Negro Policy.

In last week's Commoner W. J. Bryan, speaking of President Roosevelt's negro policy, said that the president would not dare to appoint a negro to a postoffice in any republican community in a northern state, and ended with this question: "Why should he not display genuine courage?"

The much discussed and momentous bill for the reorganization of England's public school system, finally was forced through the house of commons under the closure rule Wednesday by a vote of 246 to 123. The most notable amendment of the many which were accepted gives control of the religious teaching to the whole body of school managers, a majority of whom are laymen, thus preventing the clergy from dictating school policy. This has caused great dissatisfaction among churchmen. The bill now goes to the house of lords.

HUDSON CONVICTED.

Was Charged With Murder of His Wife.

The state versus George Hudson, charging the defendant with the murder of his wife, Clara, was tried before the circuit court of Gadsden. The jury was out over an hour and returned a verdict of guilty of manslaughter, and sentenced the defendant to two years and six months in the penitentiary.

At Least That is the Claim in Mississippi.

Since the call was issued for a prohibition mass convention to assemble in Jackson on the 17th of February the press of Mississippi has commenced to express itself in outspoken terms on the subject, and a strong sentiment is being manifested against statutory prohibition.

Several of the leading papers of the state are strenuous advocates of an absolute prohibition law and are demanding the insertion of the subject as the leading issue in the state campaign next year, but a large majority of the papers, as indicated by their editorials, are opposed to any change of the existing local option laws or the establishment of the dispensary system.

"Prohibition cannot prohibit," is the general cry that is being set up all over Mississippi, and among the politicians a diligent effort is being made to prevent the issue from being made in the state campaign. On the other hand the prohibitionists are unusually active and declare that no man shall be elected to the legislature or a state office who does not support their cause.

Temperance orators and anti-temperance orators will be imported into the state, and the campaign means the expenditure of thousands of dollars. Aspirants for public office, regardless of their personal views on the subject, realize that the prohibition campaign will be unpleasant music to face, and they are decidedly reluctant to declare their sentiments until they are forced to do so.

Indians' Death Dance.

The "Death Dance" of the Choctaws was celebrated among the Indians of Newton county last week in honor of a member of their tribe who had died over in Alabama and the remains were brought home for burial.

This weird ceremony, which is now seldom performed among the Indians, was carried out with all the formality of the olden times, and the celebrated rites were witnessed by hundreds of white people who flocked to the scene. The night was wild and stormy, but this did not deter the mourners from carrying out the function, and throughout the night the mystic demonstration was carried on over the grave of the departed redskin.

The funeral customs of the Choctaws have undergone radical changes in recent years and very few of the old features are now observed, but occasionally the members of the tribe take a notion to bury one of their brethren with all the olden formalities, and they are usually enraged for about a week in the ceremonies.

Wants Grant's Picture, Too.

Since Director Rowland, of the department of archives and history, has decided to place Abraham Lincoln's portrait in the Mississippi hall of fame, the suggestion has been made that a portrait of General Grant should also be placed on the walls. Hon. J. W. Buchanan, of Grenada, is the author of the suggestion, and he strongly urges that the action be taken, declaring that there was never a more magnificent victor on the field of battle than General Grant, and that as president he was not hostile to the South; that acts such as these will forever blot out sectional lines, and if General Lee's picture is fit to adorn the walls of the New York hall of fame it is equally fitting to place General Grant's picture on the walls of Mississippi's hall of fame.

One hundred thousand horses and mules for the restocking of Transvaal farms are concentrated at Lathrop. Their shipment begins January 15.

Poultry and Stock Show.

The Mississippi Poultry and Pet Stock Association will hold its annual exhibit at Aberdeen from the 17th to the 19th of January. Exhibits will be sent from all parts of the state. Although the association has been in existence but a few years it has already done much toward improving the grades of poultry and giving an impetus to the poultry raising industry.

Notwithstanding the failure of repeated experiments, several industrial promoters are still convinced that oil may be found in the southern part of Mississippi and well boring outfits are still busily engaged in the attempt to puncture a hole in the ground far enough to find a flowing well. A derrick has just been erected at Enterprise and a well drilling experiment by the Alabama-Mississippi Development Company will be commenced during the present week. Geologists are confident that there is no likelihood of oil being struck in Mississippi, but the experiments may have a good result in the discovery of artesian water.

A heavy demand is being made on Mississippi for holly boughs for the northern Christmas celebration, and holly is now being shipped from the state by the car loads. The little town of Crystal Springs has shipped three car loads of holly to Chicago. One town in the northwestern part of the state will ship six car loads of holly to New York next week.

Was One of Miller-Duncan Gang Serving 25 Years.

John D. West, one of the Miller-Duncan gang of safe blowers, escaped Friday afternoon from the stockade at the Pratt mine by climbing a plank from the outer fence. He has been seen several times since and shot at four times. Bloodhounds, deputy sheriffs, guards and policemen have been on his trail since a few minutes after his escape.

Guards had the prisoners in the outer yard for a bath and put about ten all were returned to the inner stockade except West, who had in the past and was not missed until the prisoners were counted. He was a plank off the fence and made a straight line for the woods. Just as he was entering them he was seen by the guards several of whom started to pursue him. The police and the sheriff were notified and several deputies started out to meet him. The pursuit was through the woods, but in the darkness failed to catch him. West was sent for by the sheriff, but he had been seen by the trail, but they lost him. He is known to have a great deal of money, as he has been seen frequently at the mine. A reward of $1,000 is paid for that information.

COSTS ON PROSECUTION.

Men Who Tried to Imprison Lovejoy Have to Pay $1,000.

The costs in the Lovejoy impeachment case fall on the citizens who brought the action and they are estimated by court officials to approach a thousand dollars. The principal prosecutor was T. L. Johnson, the largest taxpayer in Etowah county. Lovejoy at once filed suit against Johnson, J. W. Lawrence, J. C. Prather and F. King in the Etowah court for $50,000 damages for prosecuting him, but withdrew it on further consideration. It was said at the time that it was withdrawn pending the decision of the supreme court. Nothing was given out here as to whether the judge will renew his suit.

FORT PAYNE BANK FAILS.

J. P. Stanley, Cashier, Appointed Receiver by Chancellor.

The Fort Payne bank suspended operations Friday and J. P. Stanley, cashier, was appointed receiver by Chancellor Simpson. The liabilities are unknown, but it is thought the assets are sufficient to cover all the liabilities. The bank is a state organization organized in 1892. The capital stock is $50,000, all paid up. The last available statement showed deposits of $19,000, loans and discounts $6,000. The business of the bank was done through Chattanooga almost wholly. Its New York connection was one of the largest in the country.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE MEETS.

Great Gathering Convened in Montgomery Wednesday.

The Alabama conference of the Methodist Episcopal church south meets in Montgomery Wednesday. Bishop Coke Smith will preside for the first time over this conference, and being almost unknown in Montgomery there is universal pleasure over his assignment as giving an opportunity to the people and preachers to know the youngest of the bishops. There are over 200 preachers and many delegates from among the laymen, all of whom have been provided with homes ready for them on arrival.

O'Rear Appointed Sheriff.

The governor has settled the long and heated contest for the vacancy in the office of sheriff of Cullman county by appointing A. R. O'Rear. The leading men of the county were well divided, the most prominent of O'Rear's backers having been Senator Hip. The new sheriff is a merchant.

Truckers' Association.

On December 17 the farmers of Mereng county will have a meeting at Linden for the purpose of organizing a truckers' association, the object of the organization being to develop the growing of small crops.

The Louisville and Nashville railroad will have its own expert in attendance, and the road is proposing to give a good deal of attention to developing the country along the line of the Seima and Linden branch. Commissioner Poole and Captain Seiden of the agricultural department, both of whom are from Marengo, will go down.

The treasury reports no surplus for November and only $14,000,000 for the last five months. Expenditures have increased, due to demands of war and navy department chiefly.

James J. Hill's proposal to the government to transport soldiers from Chicago to the Philippines for $25 and freight at $5 a ton is expected to cause the government to abandon the transport service.

OUR BUDGET OF HUMOR.

The Past and the Present.

In days gone by
When the world was
Would drive through leafy lanes,
I begged my fate,
But all in vain,
To let me hold the reins.

Two long ago—
Now, to my way,
My vigor slowly wanes
For I am old,
I want you and me,
Still firmly holds the reins.

—The Smart Set.

No Embarrassment.

"Is it true that Piker is financially embarrassed?"

"He is awfully in debt, but it doesn't seem to embarrass him any."—New York Times.

The Wary Purchaser.

Mrs. Youngwood—"And what are these?"

Dealer—"Salt mackerel, mum?"

Mrs. Y.—"Are they quite fresh?"—Chicago News.

A Cause For Anxiety.

"Don't you think we would better send for the doctor?"

"What for?"

"Well, the baby is too well to last long."—New York Herald.

Play the Poor Hunters.

The Deer—"There certainly should be a law against this promiscuous hunting."

The Chick—"Your buckskin's whole—what you kicking about?"

The Deer—"But just think of the poor hunters."—Minneapolis Journal.

A Mistake.

Stella—"I came near missing a proposal last night."

Bella—"You did?"

Stella—"Yes. He got down on his knees, and I thought he was merely looking for a ping-pong ball."—Harper's Bazaar.

Before the Axe Fell.

Charlotte Corday was being tried for the murder of Marat.

"But," protested her counsel, "you exaggerate the affair. He merely got a dirkish bath."

Despite this masterly defense, the guillotine once more did its deadly work.—New York Times.

Reassuring George.

She had been shopping and he was naturally dispirited.

"I hope you didn't spend much money while you were downtown today," he remarked.

"Not a cent except carfare, George," she answered, reassuringly. "I had everything charged."—Chicago Post.

Shakespeare's Blunder.

Shakespeare had finished Hamlet when Anna Hathaway pointed out his blunder.

"I told you so, William," she remarked, "you should have made it a novel and then dramatized it."

Savage at having thus ruined it for Broadway, he dashed off a line about a low voice being an excellent thing in a woman.—New York Times.

A Critical Expression.

Miss Gushington—"Mr. D'Auber was showing us some of his sketches in oil. I think his style is just cute, don't you?"

Mr. Knox—"Oh, I wouldn't say 'cute' exactly."

Miss Gushington—"No?"

Mr. Knox—"No; I should say 'artless.'"—Philadelphia Press.

Concerning the Future.

They were seated in the parlor conversing on the uncertainty of life.

"The future is a vast, unfathomable mystery to us, isn't it?"

"Yes; and we know it that we have to go some time."

Voice from the library—"It would suit the convenience of this household if you'd make it sooner than that."—New York Herald.

The Importance of Numbers.

"What do you regard as the most important element of a young man's education?"

"Arithmetic," answered Senator Sorghum. "You can employ somebody to do your reading or your writing; but when it comes to figuring out expenses or profits, you want to give the subject your close personal attention."—Washington Star.

Anxious to Be Right.

The children had quarreled, and Willie had struck Tommie. Instead of returning the blow, Tommie turned and ran down the hall.

"Where are you going, Tommie?" asked his mother.

"Kitchen," answered Tommie, tersely.

"What for?"

"To see if anybody was mean to me to beat coals of fire on his head, as I'm going for the coals."—Chicago Post.

AGRICULTURAL.

Bleaching Old Combs.

Old combs that have had brood reared in them for any length of time become very dark colored, and honey, no matter how clear it be, will become stained if stored in them. But these old combs are tough and make the best of extracting combs if properly treated. Lay them out in a rain, turning occasionally to get each side filled, and let them soak for awhile. Place them on a division board, one at a time, and give a quick downward motion, which will throw nearly all the water out of the upper side. Turn the comb over and repeat. The water will be very dark and strong. Continue this operation of filling and soaking until the water runs clear. Use pure, soft water to pour on the combs if it does not rain.

A Warm Coop.

When the chicks are about twenty-four hours old, I put twenty with one hen and place them in a dry goods box which has an old window for the front so that in stormy weather they can be shut up with just a crack for air. It has a good floor which is necessary for early chicks. In bright days I let them out in the middle of the day. The chicks are not fed before twenty-four hours old. Then they are given meal mixed with sour milk or water. Meal is never fed as soon as mixed, but is allowed some time to swell and is then fed warm. Chicks are fed four times a day until they weigh two pounds, and after they are a few weeks old cracked corn is fed at night. The accompanying illustration shows a picture of the coop.—Adeline W. James, in New England Homestead.

Photography on the Farm.

We are only just coming to understand the value of photography on the farm. For the young folks it has the highest interest, affording them a way of passing the time when other means of recreation fail. It is by no means wasted time and money to develop the artistic talent of the boys and girls in this way. Then, too, they are able to get representations of the farm buildings, the stock and the scenery about the old home which will prove of marked value in days to come.

It has a good floor which is necessary for early chicks. In bright days I let them out in the middle of the day. The chicks are not fed before twenty-four hours old. Then they are given meal mixed with sour milk or water. Meal is never fed as soon as mixed, but is allowed some time to swell and is then fed warm. Chicks are fed four times a day until they weigh two pounds, and after they are a few weeks old cracked corn is fed at night. The accompanying illustration shows a picture of the coop.—Adeline W. Photography on the Farm.

We are only just coming to understand the value of photography on the farm. For the young folks it has the highest interest, affording them a way of passing the time when other means of recreation fail. It is by no means wasted time and money to develop the artistic talent of the boys and girls in this way. Then, too, they are able to get representations of the farm buildings, the stock and the scenery about the old home which will prove of marked value in days to come.

THOMAS Brackett Reed, formerly Speaker of the House of Representatives, died at Washington last Sunday morning. For many years he was prominent in public life,
and his death will be a national loss.

VENZUELA, like most of the South American republics, is used to being in trouble, but this time she is in it a little deeper than usual, with an English and German combined fleet seizing her war vessels and promising other stringent measures.

SOME time ago we spoke of the great advantage many sections of the country were enjoying in the matter of free rural delivery of mail matter. This is a subject that comes home to every family, and there is but one reason our people are not already enjoying its benefits.
A route must be mapped out and a petition presented, signed by those living on or near the proposed route. There can be no question but that all of our people would prefer to have their mail delivered at their homes every day, instead of having to wait until they can go to their post-office, and to this most desirable end we suggest that several routes be planned, and the petitions forwarded to Congressman Bowie, who will, we are sure, be only too glad to assist us in getting this boon. Who will go to work?

It is much to be regretted that the Thorsby Times will insist upon trying to prejudice the farmers against other people in Chilton county. We are one people—
"Lawyers, doctors, storekeepers, cotton buyers and money changers"
and farmers—their interests are identical, and each and every one is directly interested in good government and in good representatives.
Professional men, as a rule, feel more immediately the ill effects of bad legislation, and consequently are more apt to look into the qualifications of their representatives.
In an agricultural community like Chilton the welfare of the professional man and storekeeper is dependent upon the success of the farmer, and for the Times to say that they are opposed politically to the farmer is the rankest demagoguery.

The common school should be the very best school that we have so far as it goes, instead of being the poorest school, as it is to-day in most of the Southern States.
The majority of the people look today and must always look to that branch of the public school system for the preparation of their children for citizenship and for success in everyday life.—Supt. J. W. Ab-ercomb.

Every boy born in the world should be put in the way of maintaining himself in honest independence. No education that does not make this its first aim is worth anything at all. The being able to do something is of infinitely more value than the ability to answer questions. More and more it is coming to be seen that the industrial hope of the South is in a wider dissemination of scientific, technical and manual education, in making universal, so far as may be, that knowledge of the forces of mechanics that will lead to the development and mastery of the material resources that still lie slumbering
in the depths of our hills and fields and forests—this is the supreme need of our impoverished Southland.—Prof. C. C. Thach of Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Farmers' Mutual Insurance Assoc's
To the members of the Chilton County Branch:
Brethren—On Sunday night,
November 30, 1902, James M.
Garner of Beat 2, one of our members, lost his dwelling house and contents by fire. Bro. Garner had not paid for assessment No. 10,
which expired at noon on Friday, Nov. 28, 1902, so by the laws of the Association, he is not entitled to any protection from noon on Friday, Nov. 28, until he paid up and was reinstated. Paragraph 6 of the agreement on all policies, reads as follows: "That should the insured neglect to pay any assessment to meet the loss of property of any member of the Association, that at noon of the thirtieth day after the Treasurer's notices have been issued, the liability of this Association shall cease until such a time as the insured be again restored to membership in the Association, but the Treasurer shall collect last assessment, it being the premium for past protection." Bro.
Garner paid up on Monday,
Dec. 1, 1902, but we, as the officers of your Association, cannot levy an assessment to pay him for what happened to him between noon on
Nov. 28, 1902, and noon on Dec.
1, 1902. Any of the members that wish to pay Bro. Garner voluntarily, they can send in their amount,
and the Treasurer will give it to him, but no assessment will be sent to any member for his loss. The value of the property destroyed was $525.00, which would be 23 cents per $100.00.

RESOLUTIONS

passed by Collins Chapel Baptist Sunday-school, December 7, 1902.
RESOLVED: That we, the Baptist Sunday-school at Collins Chapel, set apart December 21, as Orphan's Home day, and take a collection for the same.

2. Furthermore, we ask that the Baptist Sunday-schools of Chilton county set apart one Sunday in this month to take a Christmas collection
for the Orphan's Home at evergreen.

3. We have set apart the Sunday-school contribution collected on our preaching day for the Orphan's Home.

4. Let the Baptists of Chilton remember the orphans left in their charge

The farmers in this part of the country are done gathering, and Santa Claus is drawing near.

We are having cool weather now and we can hear of a great deal of sickness near here.

Rev. S. Smitherman filled his regular appointment here Sunday and preached us a rattling sermon.

Mr. Love Hodgins and wife visited here last Sunday.

Mr. Tom Prim visited here last Sunday.

Mr. Will Glass of Jemison was a pleasant visitor here Sunday.

Mr. H. G. Cofer has moved to Mr. W. H. Mahan's.

Mr. A. J. Oates has left here recently.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure.

Digests all classes of food, tones and strengthens the stomach and digestive organs. Cures Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Stomach Troubles, and makes rich red blood, health and strength. Kodol rebuilds worn-out tissues, purifies, strengthens and sweetens the stomach. Gov. G. W.
Atkinson, of W. Va., says: I have used a number of bottles of Kodol and have found it to be a very effective and, indeed, a powerful remedy for stomach ailments. I recommend it to my friends.

PROGRAM TEACHERS' INSTITUTE

To be held at Jemison, December 19
and 20, 1902.

FRIDAY, 10:15 a.m. Devotional exercises, conducted by Rev. I.
Winslow.

10:45. Welcome address, W. A.
McCreless. Response, I. T. Means.

11:15. Method of encouraging pupils to attend regularly and promptly in rural schools; Prof.
Robert Jones, Mrs. A. G. Dunlap.

1:30 p.m. The fundamental principles of education; Prof. C. L. Mc-Carthy.

2:15. Literature in rural schools;
R. E. Tidwell, Miss Eleanor Hinton.

3. How to teach Geography; V.
J. Gragg, John T. Martin.

7:30. "God among the Stars."
Prof. C. L. McCarthy, of the State Normal college, Troy, Ala.

SATURDAY, 9 a.m. Devotional exercises.

9:30. Use of Bible and other moral agencies in the public schools;
P. G. Maness, G. L. Speer.

10:15. Methods of discipline; A.
M. Armstrong, J. M. Collier.

11. Model lesson in Reading; J.
F. McCreless, Miss Treacy Garrett.

1:30 p.m. Education for citizenship; W. E. Johnson, G. P. Dickinson.

2:15. Is the teacher the greatest factor in character building? Prof.
C. L. McCarthy.

3. Necessity of having fewer schools in townships. J. T. Means H. A. Harris.

It is very important that teachers
attend the Institutes both days. We usually have a large number of teachers on Saturday, though very
few on Friday. This should not be,
and I trust will not in the future.
The law allows teachers to count
the time on Friday and so enter on
their quarterly report, and hence,
the law requires teachers to attend
the Institutes. J. W. Moore, Supt.

A New Remedy.

The old friends of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will be pleased to know that the manufactures of that preparation have gotten out a new remedy called Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, and
that it is meeting with much success in the treatment of constipation, biliousness, sick headache,
impaired digestion and like disorders. These Tablets are easier to
take and more pleasant in effect
than pills, then they not only move
the bowels, but improve the appetite and correct any disorders of
the Stomach and Liver. For sale
by Hopkins Drug Co., Clanton, and
A. Horn, Thorsby.

TEACHERS' EXAMINATION.

The next State examination for teachers for Chilton county, will be held on the first Monday in January, 1903, at the court house,
Clanton. J. W. Moore, Supt.

Sick Blood

Feed pale girls on Scott's Emulsion.

We do not need to give all the reasons why Scott's Emulsion restores the strength and flesh and color of good health to those who suffer from sick blood.

The fact that it is the best preparation of Cod Liver Oil, rich in nutrition, full of healthy stimulation is a suggestion as to why it does what it does.

Scott's Emulsion presents
Cod Liver Oil at its best, fullest in strength, least in taste.

Young women in their "teens" are permanently cured of the peculiar disease of the blood which shows itself in paleness, weakness and nervousness, by regular treatment with Scott's Emulsion.

It is a true blood food and is naturally adapted to the cure of the blood sickness from which so many young women suffer.

We will be glad to send a sample to any sufferer.

No sure that this picture is the form of a label on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

Perfect and Peerless

CURES
Rheumatism

and all Liver, Kidney and Bladder troubles caused by uric acid in the system. It cures by cleansing and vitalizing the blood, thus removing the cause of disease. It gives vigor and tone and builds up the health and strength of the patient
while using the remedy.

URICOL is a luminary in the medical world. It has cured and will continue to cure more of the above diseases than all other known remedies, many of which do more harm than good.
This great and thoroughly tested and endorsed California Remedy never disappoints. It cures infallibly if taken as directed.

Try it and be convinced that it is a wonder and a blessing to suffering humanity.

Price $1.00 per bottle, or 6 bottles for $5. For sale by druggists.

A Good Cough Medicine.

[From the Gazette, Toowoomba, Australia.]
I find Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is an excellent medicine.
I have been suffering from a severe cough for the last two months, and it has effected a cure. I have great pleasure in recommending it.
—W. C. WOCKNER. This is the opinion of one of our oldest and most respected residents, and has been voluntarily given in good faith that others may try the remedy and be benefited, as was Mr.
Wockner. This remedy is sold by Hopkins Drug Co., and A. Horn,
Thorsby.

When a girl puts on long dresses
she puts off simple innocence that is the most beautiful of earthly mantles.

Revolution Imminent.

A sure sign of approaching revolt
and serious trouble in your system
is nervousness, sleeplessness, or stomach upsets. Electric Bitters will quickly dismember the troublesome
causes. It never fails to tone the stomach, regulate the Kidneys and Bowels, stimulate the Liver, and
clarify the blood. Run down, systems benefit bariculary and all the usual attending aches vanish under its searching and thorough effectiveness. Electric Bitters is only 50c, and that is returned if it don't give perfect satisfaction. Guaranteed by Clanton Drug Co., and Hopkins Drug Co. Druggist.

Notice of Day Set for Hearing Probate of Will.

The State of Alabama Probate Court
Chilton County
To Mrs. Eliza Strock, Mrs. Callie D.
Zimmerman, Mrs. Belle Green, Mrs.
Anna Pope, and Hillary D. Logan,
minor, per Miss Delaney Duke,
guardian.

You will please take notice that on the 17th day of November, 1902, a certain
paper, in writing, purporting to be the
last Will and Testament of Margery D.
Logan, deceased, was filed in my office
for probate by John A. Strock, and that the 15th day of December, 1902, was appointed a day for the hearing thereof, at
which time you can appear and contest
the same, if you see proper.

Given under my hand this, the 17th
day of November, 1902.
S. M. ADAMS, Judge of Probate.

THE BANNER

Published Weekly
CLANTON, ALA.

A statistical study presented before the French Academy of Moral and Political Sciences by M. Lévy, the other day showed that during the past century the population of Europe has increased 129 percent, while that of France has increased only 44 percent.

Jesting about the "new woman" and the "athletic girl" seems quite misplaced when, one by the energetic use of her parasol saves her escort from a savage dog's attack and another saves hers from blindness and probable death when he is kicked by a horse.

The London papers say that the government will make the new South African colonies pay $500,000,000 toward the cost of the war there. It is probable that mining profits will be taxed 10 percent more than they were before the war.

Taking it easy comes natural to the majority of people. If they were not urged by the spur of necessity to develop their powers, our list of great, or even useful men and women would be very short, reflects Success. The world would go backward instead of forward.

The luminous and pregnant notion that the motor vehicle is a convenience like a cab, not a medium of sport, like a racehorse, is gradually penetrating the intellects of faddists devoted to rapid motion. In the nature of things, it ought to take root and bear fruits meet for latter-day civilization, thinks the Philadelphia Record.

President Elliot of Harvard, in words that burn, has denounced the mischievous prevalence of gambling of various kinds in the American civilization of today. The goddess of chance has too many insensate votaries in present circumstances, and the President of Harvard University has not gone too far in his rebukes.

In a recent speech Lord Charles Beresford expressed the belief that Great Britain was entering on a century of peace. He advocated a closer union between Great Britain and the United States, and declared that the International Mercantile Marine Company was not a monopoly, and that it would prove more favorable to England than to America.

Modern economy permits less and less to go to waste. It gathers up the fragments, saves odds and ends, finds a use for what once was called worthless. The saving may take a philanthropic turn, as in the case of a large factory in Jena, Germany, which utilizes its surplus hot water in such a way as to give the laborers nearly a thousand baths a week.

Another prophet of evil has risen in France. Dr. Bertillon, the discoverer of the measurement system for identifying criminals, predicts that if the present excess of the death rate over the birth rate continues, "before thirty years are over France will have ceased to exist." France has survived many similar prophecies, and will doubtless outlive Bertillon's.

It is well for one to consider the educational features of advertising, observes Printers' Ink. By its means new goods and commodities are made known to the public as necessities or luxuries, and men have by it been taught where to go to make their purchases. The name is legion of those who scan the advertising column not only to see where to buy, but also to search for what they may believe they need.

What is the highest form of human ambition? The question has oftentimes been answered by saying that it is the thirst for fame. Material success alone, the acquisition of great wealth, may or may not be in itself a noble aim. That depends, of course, upon what one intends to do with his success and upon the use to which he purposes to put it. If success and wealth mean merely individual comfort and the gratification of one's personal tastes, with the ability to do pretty much what any one desires, then the ambition to attain these things, while it is perfectly intelligible, can hardly claim to be a high ambition. But to desire fame has always been regarded as an attribute free from sordidness and consistent with distinction. If it be an infirmity, it is proverbially an infirmity of noble minds, asserts the New York Commercial Advertiser. More than that, it has been held to be the most satisfying of human passions when it has attained its gratification.

THE IRON MARKET

Outlook Promising for an Active Year.

The iron market continues firm and the outlook for next year is most promising.

Bookings during the holiday season will not be numerous, but after the middle of January activity will again prevail. This time last year it was generally predicted that prices would begin to soften by the 1st of July, but when the 1st of July came the market was stronger and prices higher than ever.

The unprecedented crops and the unprecedented prosperity of the country assured high prices for another year, and no practical business man now thinks of a flagging market this side of July, 1903, and many iron makers think high prices will continue throughout the year. Rogers, Brown & Co.'s circular says:

Taking advantage of a temporary quietness in the iron market, quite a few buyers entered the market during the past week and placed contracts for their requirements in pig iron for next year. Some sellers were pleased to find that offers they made for deliveries during the entire year were accepted, indicating full confidence in the future; in other cases sales were made for deliveries during the last six months of the year. The presence in the market of numerous small buyers covering for their requirements for months to come is taken by some as a forerunner of a greater buying movement which was not expected to begin until the dawning of the new year.

Consumers have recently been slow to contract for their year's supply of fuel for next year. There are very few independent coke operations, however, that have not disposed of their coke output for the greater part of next year, and at figures double the asking price a year ago.

TEXAS TOBACCO.

Southern Pacific Agents Experimenting With the Soil.

The management of the Southern Pacific purposes to establish Texas as one of the nation's foremost tobacco producing regions. For a long time the road's industrial agents have been experimenting with the soil of certain sections of the state and they are convinced it is well adapted to the culture of high-grade tobacco, including many kinds that now are imported. It is planned to interest tobacco growers of Wisconsin, Kentucky, Virginia, Connecticut and other parts in the possibilities of Texas.

It is the purpose of the road to afford a systematic course of education to tobacco growers of the country, with special endeavor to fill the want of a territory that can give to America what now can be had only from foreigners. Well informed tobacco men say that if the plans of the Southern Pacific are realized the tobacco trade will be revolutionized, with almost inestimable benefits to the country at large. It is believed that Texas can be made to equal if not surpass Cuba and Sumatra as a producer of high class cigar goods.

Much Testimony.

The testimony taken by the subcommittee on territories on the house omnibus statehood bill has been printed as a senate document and made public. It makes a book of 394 pages with maps and includes the questions and answers of many people examined by the subcommittee with reference to the size, population, resources, schools and churches, business, moral and other characteristics of the three proposed states, and miscellaneous information.

England and Germany bombarded Puerto Cabello, Venezuela, Saturday, silencing the guns, but not doing any damage to the city. President Castro has issued a proclamation advising against violence.

Work on Anniston's new court house will begin in a few days.

John Barrett Declines.

Secretary Hay has received a cablegram from John Barrett, dated at Calcutta, India, stating he regarded it his duty to continue his connection with the St. Louis exposition, and therefore declining the Japanese mission, which had been tendered to him. It is understood that Lloyd Griscom, now minister to Peru, who was charged d'at-faires at Constantinople, and in that capacity did much to effect a settlement of the American claims, will be the successor to the late Minister Buck.

Alabama field trials take place at Huntsville Tuesday.

George Coffey, white, who has been on trial in Scottsboro for three days for the murder of a negro about four months ago, was convicted and sentenced to eighteen months in the penitentiary.

A young man named Malone was killed at the mines of the Consolidated company near Attalla. He fell between the tram cars and the wheels passed over his body, killing him.

SENATOR MORGAN HAS A NEW SOLUTION

Proposes That Negroes Be Colonized in Philippines—President Is Interested and Sends Negro Leader to the Islands to Investigate.

After two years of endeavor Senator Morgan has succeeded in interesting President Roosevelt in a plan to colonize the Philippine islands in colonizing the negroes of the United States. The war department has made arrangements to test the practical possibilities of the plan and the president has sent the negro leader, T. Thomas Fortune, to the Philippines to make investigations and report on conditions there. Senator Morgan, it is understood, has held consultations with Governor Taft and other officials of the islands.

It is the Alabama senator's purpose in the future to construct legislation on this line. As yet he believes the time is not ripe for legislation, the farmers of the South think they need the negro and for the present at least he will withhold legislation.

He believes, however, that the move now under way will result eventually in millions of negroes emigrating to the Philippines, and there working out of their own salvation. This he believes to be the solution of the negro problem. The senator's plan is to give them homesteads of about twenty acres each, all possible commercial advantages, under the protection of the United States government.

"The principal reason for my attitude in the senate toward retaining the Philippine islands," said the senator today, "was my belief that those islands would afford a home for the negro. I introduced a resolution when I first came to congress to recognize the Congo Free State as an independent nation, merely to afford the negroes of this country a place to which they might emigrate.

"The acquisition of the Philippines has opened up a vastly superior country for the negro. The land is richer, the climate better suited to them and they would still be under the American flag, a condition which the negro likes exceedingly well. I will try to put the plan in operation without endangering the labor of southern farmers, and I believe under the present scheme it will work out this way. "It will take time, of course, but the plan when accomplished will prove satisfactory to everybody."

GEORGIA LAWMAKERS ADJOURN.

Despite Governor Terrell's Veto His Term Is Extended.

A bill was passed by the Georgia legislature over Governor Terrell's veto, which extends the terms of the governor and other state officers eight months beyond the time at which they would otherwise have expired. The bill also provides that the legislature shall meet on the fourth Wednesday in June instead of the fourth Wednesday in October, as at present.

The legislature adjourned sine die tonight, the fifty-day limitation having expired. The next session will commence in June, 1903.

MANY SUITS FILED

By Negroes Against Virginia State Officers.

A special from Richmond, Va., says: Suits for $5000 each against the governor, members of the constitutional convention and election officers in behalf of negroes disfranchised by the new Virginia constitution, were filed in the United States court. The suits are against the governor, all the convention members in the eastern district of Virginia, and the judges of election at precincts where the negroes were not permitted to vote, all made defendants collectively and individually.

Colonel W. F. Cody (Buffalo Bill) declared just prior to his departure for Europe that his show, "The Wild West" had appeared in this country for the last time. Colonel Cody plans to spend the next two years in a European tour with his show. When he returns to this country he will devote his time exclusively to business.

Bonds for $50,000.

The city of Anniston will issue bonds to the amount of possibly $50,000 within the next few months if granted permission by the legislature. Under the new constitution municipalities can issue bonds only when given permission by the state legislature, and at the next session of the general assembly Anniston will apply to that body for privilege to issue the bonds.

The bonds will be issued for the purpose of refunding certain outstanding bonds of the city heretofore issued by authority of the general assembly of Alabama.

Red river is now on a stand at Shreveport and the situation is beginning to assume a more favorable aspect. The damage above Shreveport is not irreparable and it has been greatly exaggerated. There are only a few cases of destitution.

A CONSOLIDATION

Of Banking and Insurance Interests.

A banking consolidation is announced which will bring into harmony the large financial and insurance interests of the Mutual Life company, the Equitable Life Assurance Association and the Morten Trust Company. This was brought about at the meetings of the directors of the National Bank of the United States, which was acquired some months ago by the interest which controls the trust company and of the Western National Bank. The directors of the Bank of the United States voted to amalgamate with the Western and to raise the capital to $1,000,000. The new institution will be known as the Western Bank of Commerce.

COTTON WEEVILS COMING.

Experts Are At Work to Kill Them Before They Reach Here.

According to government experts the Mexican cotton boll weevil is no longer confined to the Texas coast country and to that part of the state adjoining Mexico, but is moving steadily northward and eastward and is now within sixty miles of Red river.

Under ordinary circumstances this news would be calculated to cause great alarm among the cotton growers of the states other than Texas toward which the pests seem to be heading. It is, however, that the experts who are now at work in Texas will be able to devise some effectual manner of fighting the pernicious insects, in which event there would probably be little or no trouble experienced in securing an appropriation necessary to carry on the work on the part of the government.

Sues for $10,000.

Suit for damages in the sum of $10,000 has been filed in the circuit court of Hinds county by the Laurel Cotton Mills against the Gulf and Ship Island road. The declaration states that when the mills were built the railroad company entered into a contract with plaintiffs to give a freight rate that would allow them to compete successfully with the Stonewall mills, near Meridian, and also to give a through bill of lading rate on raw cotton from points along its line, with stopover privileges at Laurel for manufacturing purposes, the finished product to be credited pound for pound on the original cotton package. After carrying out this agreement for one year the declaration avers it was abandoned by the railroad company, and the mill management now asks damages in the sum of $10,000.

He Swore Falsely.

A runaway marriage and alleged false swearing to secure the license is the result of the downfall and incarceration of Claud Phillips, a young ex-soldier, in jail at Athens. A young man secured the aid of Claud to get a license to marry a daughter of Charley Thomas, a prominent farmer living near Gilbertsboro. The bride-to-be was only 15 years of age, and Hurd employed Phillips to go in and make the necessary affidavit to the probate court to secure the license. He went in and swore that Miss Thorne was over 18, and upon this showing the court granted the license. Hurd and his child bride ran away and were married. The father of the girl had Phillips arrested for perjury, and failing to make bond he is in jail. Thorne intends to push the case to its utmost.

Donahoo's Successor.

It is reported that Robert H. Mangum, of Selma, is a candidate to succeed the lamented J. H. Donahoo as grand secretary to the Knights of Pythias. Mangum is now the private secretary to Acting Grand Chancellor Ellis.

Shot and May Die.

John Richards shot and seriously wounded a young man named Monroe Longan at Sim's landing, near Ball Play. The facts in the case are hard to ascertain, but as near as can be learned: Longan refused to go on an errand and a fuss started. Richards drew a dirk and Longan picked up a stick. Richards seized a musket and Longan a shotgun. Richards fired first and Longan fell to the ground. Richards left immediately afterwards and has not been captured. Longan was seriously wounded and may die. Richards is a widower 35 years old and Longan is 23 and single.

Plan for Child Labor Law.

The executive council of the Alabama Federation of Labor will meet in Birmingham, and action will be taken looking to a fight for a child labor law to be adopted by the next legislature.

ROOT TALKS OF THE ARMY.

Should War Occur the Chief of Staff Named in Bill Would Rank as a Lieutenant General.

Secretary Root appeared before the military committee of the house and submitted an argument in support of the war department bill introduced by Mr. Hull, of Iowa, for a general staff to have charge of the preparations of the national defense and the mobilization of military forces in time of war. Mr. Root earnestly urged the advisability of creating a general staff along the lines of the bill. Mr. Root explained that should war occur, the chief of staff, who under the terms of the bill, will have the rank and pay of a lieutenant general, would not be expected to take the field, but would have a primary campaign to try to hand to whatever officer the president might select for the field. The latter would not necessarily have to follow this plan, but he would have the benefit of it. Effective administration of the army, the secretary said, could not be had unless the man at the head had the support of men loyal to his administration. The secretary recommended that the bill take effect August 10, 1903, in order that it might not in any way affect General Miles, the present head of the army.

"The bill would," said he, "increase rather than diminish his power, but he dislikes the change, and I do not ask you to do anything prejudicial to him or anything that would wound his feelings.

"If the bill goes into effect August 10, 1903, it will be after he has retired from the active list by operation of law."

The secretary read a letter from General Young, who he said, was to succeed General Miles, warmly commending the bill as the best possible solution of the administration of the army.

Mrs. U. S. Grant Dead.

Mrs. U. S. Grant, wife of President Grant, died at her residence in Washington Sunday. Death was due to heart failure. Mrs. Grant having suffered for some years from valvular disease of the heart, which was aggravated by a severe attack of bronchitis. Her age prevented her rallying from the attack. Her daughter, Nellie Grant Sartoris, was the only one of her children with her at the time of her death, her three sons who had been summoned all being out of the city.

General Frederick Grant is in Texas. The remains of Mrs. Grant will be deposited in the tomb at Riverside park, New York, where those of her husband now repose. Mrs. Grant, whose maiden name was Julia Dent, was born in St. Louis in 1826. She was married to General, then Captain Grant, in 1848. During the civil war Mrs. Grant was with the general much of the time and remained as near as possible to him when he was campaigning. She saw her husband twice inaugurated as president and accompanied him on his journey around the world.

Uncle Sam Wants to Know.

At the instance of Secretary Hay, Dr. Herran, Colombian charge d'affaires, called at the state department to discuss the canal treaty negotiations, that the secretary might be able to report the exact status of the canal situation to the cabinet. Dr. Herran was unable to give the secretary any reply from the Bogota government as to the price which Colombia will accept. It was explained to Dr. Herran that in view of the many other weighty diplomatic matters pressing for attention and the growing impatience at the capital at the delay in the conclusion of a canal convention, immediate action by the Bogota government was imperative. Dr. Herran cabled Bogota the wishes of the state department.

MEXICAN BOLL WORM

Senators Ask the Nation to Help Destroy It.

Evidence that the gravity of the cotton boll worm situation has increased are multiplying from the reports that are coming in. The fact that, according to careful estimates, there has been a considerable increase of over 100,000,000 bolls of cotton in the south, has been of much concern to the cotton growers of the south. The boll worm is a subject of serious concern among southern senators and representatives.

Representative Blanton, of Texas, has introduced a bill for the purpose of securing the cotton crop from the ravages of the boll worm. The bill provides for the appointment of a commission to investigate the extent of the damage done by the boll worm, and to report thereon to the next session of congress. The bill also provides for the appointment of a commission to investigate the extent of the damage done by the boll worm, and to report thereon to the next session of congress. The bill also provides for the appointment of a commission to investigate the extent of the damage done by the boll worm, and to report thereon to the next session of congress.

Another Texas representative, Mr. Slayden, has undertaken to secure from the railroads of the state all possible information in their knowledge of the damage done by the insect in their respective territories. He has just received a statement from San Antonio to the effect that the loss along the Arkansas Pass alone amounted to 200,000 bolls.

"I fail to see why," said Mr. Slayden, "if the government can take measures so heroic to protect New England cattle interests it should not adopt like measures to save the cotton interests of the south from incalculable injury, especially since they are far superior in importance to any live stock industry of the entire New England region."

In Mississippi's Pen.

Jake Cooper, the oldest convict in the Mississippi penitentiary in length of service, was released. Cooper was sent on the 4th of January, 1873, on the charge of manslaughter and served nearly thirty years in the institution. He is now nearly seventy years of age.

The next oldest prisoner in length of service now within the walls is Joe Johnson, who was sent up from Louisiana county in October, 1871, to serve a life term for murder. Twenty-eight years of his life have been spent working for the state and he is still hale and hearty at the age of 52.

From Tidewater to the City.

A number of residents of Boston, feeling that something should be done toward getting over the transportation difficulty in the present coal situation, have circulated a petition addressed to President Roosevelt asking that the national government furnish a transport, to carry coal from tidewater to Boston, as the coal companies deliver coal at tidewater only.

Dividends of Standard Oil.

Stockholders of the Standard Oil Company received Christmas presents in the shape of a $10 dividend on each share of their holdings. This is $2 a share in excess of the dividend declared at this time last year, but on the other hand the total amount of the company's dividends for this year falls slightly below the total for last year.

FOLLOWING THE TRAIL.

SOUTHWESTERN SCOUTS ARE KEEN-ER THAN BLOODHOUNDS.

Tracked Indians Over Back—Soldiers Led Over Ground as Hunted on Asphalt, Where No Signs of Footprints Appeared—Avalanche of Bloodhounds That Hunted No Endless.

One of the things of which humanity has long stood in wonder is the extraordinary smelling faculties of the bloodhound, and the manner in which he is able to trail criminals over ground of almost every character long after the scent has become cold. Few, however, realize that in New Mexico and Arizona, and also northern Mexico there are men who far surpass the bloodhound when it comes to trailing.

Men who served during the campaign against Geronimo and the hostile Apaches, many of them expert trailers, were from day to day overwhelmed with astonishment at the almost superhuman instinct of the Mexican and Indian scouts, who on that memorable campaign followed the feeling Apaches over deserts harder than asphalt and floors of solid rock upon which the pursuing soldiers were unable to see much as a trace of passing footprints.

One of the military organizations that performed meritorious service in that campaign was Troop B of the Fourth cavalry, which, in 1887, was, by way of reward transferred to Fort Myer, Va., which from that time forth has been a cavalry post, this being the first body of cavalry that had been east of the Mississippi river since the civil war. In talking recently with a member of this body a Post reporter learned much of interest concerning the human sleuth hounds that were employed in the southwest in those days.

"Yes," said the sergeant, "I served all through the latter part of the Geronimo campaign under General Lawton, who was then a colonel. We are out six months, and during that entire period not one of us had a change of clothing. The campaigning was through one of the most mountainous countries in the world. Sometimes we would climb up the side of an almost perpendicular slope, and at other times the descent was so steep that we were obliged to let our horses down over ledges of rocks by lariats tied to their tails.

"Accompanying our command were about 100 friendly Indians, enlisted and used as scouts. Talk of trailing—why, I never until then dreamed that it was possible for human beings to do what these men did every day of the campaign. Frequently we would descend mountains, along the slope of which old scouts of my company were able to barely make out the trail of the Apaches, until we reached a valley about half or three-quarters of a mile in width, the surface of which was as hard as adamant. Here we could see nothing, but the scouts ahead, on coming to such places, never hesitated one minute, but struck boldly across, following the trail up the mountain side again.

"As we crossed these valleys and mounted once again up the side of the high ridges, we could again catch traces of the Apaches in the softer and looser soil of the mountain side, and many a time we have wondered at how our Indian trailers were able to follow the track on ahead of us over the valleys, where the surface was as hard as asphalt and crossed by fresh trails of hundreds of cattle, horses and burros that had passed up or down the depression after the Indians.

"The most remarkable case of trailing that ever came under my notice, however, occurred in 1887, when the San Carlos Apaches broke out of their reservation and went on the warpath south into Mexico. This occurred shortly after the Geronimo campaign, at a time when the war department had discharged all the Indian scouts attached to the southwestern posts, thinking that the trouble was all over, and that there would be no longer any use for them. Consequently, when we received a hurry order at Fort Huachuca to go in pursuit of the San Carlos Apaches we were obliged to leave without taking any of these human bloodhounds with us.

"We soon began to feel the need of them, for although two-thirds of the men in the command were accomplished scouts they could not begin to do the work with the skill and certainty of the Indian scouts trained to the work from infancy.

"Along about the eighth day out we crossed a range of mountains into one of the most peculiar depressions I ever saw. It was surrounded on all sides by high mountains, but the singular feature was that the bottom rose up like an inverted bowl. This curious formation was solid rock that in some past period of time had been lifted up and tilted in such manner as to leave no hollows in which sand or soil could gather. Up to this time we had made slow progress tracking Indians, but when we reached this spot we gave up the task in disgust, as there were no earthly means, so far as we could see, of tracking them across such an expanse of naked stone.

"We sat down to think matters over, when Col. Lawton, in stirring about, ran across an old Mexican riding along on his burro. The colonel asked him if he would be our scout and whether he felt himself capable of taking up and following the trail of the Indians. The old fellow gave a grunt of assent, and two minutes later had found the trail, and to our unpeakable astonishment, was leading us almost on a run across the barren spot, and up the mountain. It was then 2 o'clock p. m., and he led us in a trot from that time on until 5 p. m., when we caught sight of the Indians camped in a hollow. We charged down upon them, but failed to make a capture, as they saw us in time to escape.

"This old Mexican served as our trailer for the rest of this brief campaign until we finally overtook and captured our recalcitrant Indians. In all that period he never once missed us frequently passed over places where no signs of tracks were apparent to us. This, to my mind, was the most wonderful piece of trailing I ever saw.

"One thing about the southwestern Indian is that he can endure what would kill three white men. In our pursuit of Geronimo we at one time went without water 48 hours. The rains in that country occur in the spring and winter, and all over the country are deep holes in the rock, in which water collects during the rainy season and stands all the year round until the next winter, and it was upon such places that we had to depend for our supply of water. You have no idea of what the water in these holes is like. It fairly swarms with tadpoles and wiggle-tails, but to us it tasted sweet enough. Whenever we reached these natural wells Gen. Lawton used to place a guard around them to prevent the men from wasting the water, which was doled out by a sergeant as long as it lasted. Sometimes when we would camp in the bed of a dried-up creek, the men would spend the whole night digging holes in the sand in which about a pint of water would collect in three or four hours.

"The vegetation of the southwestern country is peculiar in that nearly every growing thing has thorns on it. The result was that long before the six months of our campaign was ended over half of our command were partly naked. All I had was a pair of pants and shoes and a ragged hat, the rest of my clothing having been torn to shreds. It used to amuse me when passing through a Mexican village to hear Gen. Lawton shout: 'Boys, straighten up and try to appear as decent as you can.' Of course, all that we could do was to throw out our chests and look brave with what few worn and delapidated clothes we had on our backs.

"I accompanied Gen. Lawton as a member of the guard that took Geronimo and his band to St. Augustine, Fla. These Indians had never been on a railroad train in their lives, and it made them seasick. In fact, their illness became so serious that we had to stop 10 days at San Antonio to let them recover. In this the Indians showed up at the little end of the endurance question, but take them in their native mountains and they can stand anything. I think, though, that another six months of the kind of campaigning that we underwent on this trip would have made us harder than they.

"The hardships that we stood were something awful. On one occasion, when we had been without food for 48 hours, we found a cow that the Indians had killed, and the carcass of which had laid out in the sun for four days. We drove the buzzards away, and though the meat was decidedly 'ripe,' we ate it. Gen. Lawton saw what we were doing and sent an orderly to tell us to leave the meat alone, that it would make us sick. But we sent him a steak, which he ate that evening, saying that he had never tasted better in his life. On another occasion we lived on dried apples and beans, without salt, mind you, for 16 days."—Washington Post.

THE DESTRUCTIVE WOLF.

Females Kill Seemingly from Pure Desire to Slay.

It has long been a question among the intelligent cattle breeders of New Mexico and Arizona, whether or not the black wolf of those regions and the white one that occasionally occurs are different species of the wolf tribe, or simply a natural variation in color in the same species. The unknown cause. The few white wolves the writer has seen, and these were observed away back in 1889, appeared to be larger than their fellows in gray and black, while the black wolf seemed taller than either of the others and swifter, but not so heavy. The Mexican sheep herders, who are very close observers in matters that personally interest them, say that in destructiveness the white and black wolves far exceed the ordinary big gray animals. How this may be or whether it is true or not is a matter that the writer has never been able to satisfactorily verify. The one thing he does know is that in a litter of five young wolves two were very much darker in hue than the others, and gave every indication of a determination to a deep black when they had attained to their full maturity in size.

One fact in wolf life is established beyond any doubt. The female wolf is more destructive than the male. She seems to kill out of a pure love of destructiveness. One female wolf, on the borders of New Mexico and Arizona killed in one night over 40 sheep belonging to a Mexican shepherd. It made no attempt to eat any portion of the sheep thus destroyed. Their throats were simply bitten half through, and this killing was accomplished within one hundred yards of the Mexican jacal or sleeping place, a clay built hut, with its owner reposing within it. It was a dark or rather a pitchy black night, with a heavy electric storm of thunder and lightning in progress, with an occasional fall of a few drops of rain. The language used by this shepherd next morning when he witnessed the destruction exhausted the Mexican-Spanish vocabulary in invectives, which is not excelled by any tongue upon earth.—William Hugh Roberts in Shooting and Fishing.

PAINTED HIM GREEN.

Amazing Record of a Prisoner's General With an Awful Wound.

The local color in the Jefferson Market Police court was mostly green when the case of the People vs. Max Stollhoff and David Fitzpatrick was called. No physiognomies ever beamed more effulgently than did those of the two prisoners arraigned before Magistrate Brann. David Fitzpatrick, whose face would have caused a glow of appreciation to burn within the artistic soul of the late Aubrey Beardsley, was most artistically daubed with green paint, from the roots of his hair to the tip of his chin. His appearance bore testimony to the fact that Max Stollhoff is a painter. The parts of Fitzpatrick's face which the brush of Stollhoff had neglected stood out in pale relief, a sad contrast to the verdant surrounding them. An erstwhile black monstach drooped greenly over his mouth. Underneath the paint Fitzpatrick's face was sad. It was plain that he felt the indignity of his position.

Stollhoff, who literally stood in the reflected glory of Fitzpatrick's face, was prevented from smiling as contentedly as he might at sight of his handiwork by an aching void, which filled the space formerly occupied by two of his front teeth. In his impressionist work on Fitzpatrick he had himself been a bit splashed with green. In the greenness which irradiated from the two Magistrate Brann looked pale.

"It was this way," said Stollhoff, in a voice thickened and impeded by swollen lips: "I was in his way, and he told me, and then I told him I wanted to paint the front of the house, only he wanted to hang the awning, and I moved away to give him room, and I told him he had no right to do so, but he hit me in the mouth and broke two teeth for me." Here Stollhoff opened his mouth and showed the aching void.

With the solemnity of Solomon, Magistrate Brann asked the injured painter if the teeth were false, which was indignantly denied. Stollhoff adding, "but I suppose the next ones will be."

The magistrate would not go into that, however, and turning an unused eye upon the toothless man, continued his catechizing:

"Then, when he struck you, you turned about and painted him?"

"Yes, sir; that's all I can do. That's my trade," answered Stollhoff.

Magistrate Brann turned to Fitzpatrick. There was a long contemplation before the judicial lips opened.

"Fitzpatrick, I can tell by your face that you're Irish," he said.

The awning hanger had to admit that the magistrate's acumen was not at fault.

"But, man, dear," continued the court in a rich brogue, "it's a beastly shame to give you a French goatee."

Fitzpatrick again admitted that "them were his sentiments."

"You are not as green as you are painted, however," resumed the court. "Tell me how you came to be decorated."

Fitzpatrick declared that he was engaged in putting up an awning in front of a Hudson street house when Stollhoff appeared on the scene with paint and brushes and peremptorily ordered him to desist from hanging his awning, as he (Stollhoff) had another coat of paint to apply to the building.

"The paint was green, your honor," said Fitzpatrick.

"Yes," replied Magistrate Brann, "it's evident on the face of it."

"Well," went on Fitzpatrick, "I told him I would put up the awning in spite of him, and he swished me with his paint brush; then I hit him."

The magistrate sermoned the chromatic Fitzpatrick for behaving like "a kid," and submitted to both prisoners the alternative of paying $10 fine each or of accepting a discharge. The choice was left to Stollhoff, who was the complainant. After a moment's hesitation and a glance at Fitzpatrick: "I'll call it square," said the painter. —New York Commercial Advertiser.

"Death Watches."

The British Journal of the board of agriculture has some interesting particulars regarding the so-called "Furniture Beetles." Two species of the beetle make the curious ticking noise which has given rise to their popular name of "Death Watch." This noise is made chiefly during the pairing season, and is produced by the beetles striking their heads upon the wood on which they are standing, so as to attract their mates, who make a similar noise in reply. It is made during the day as well as at night, but it is not so noticeable as at the latter time. It is said that the larva can also produce the sound, but this is not definitely known. The larvae make long galleries into the wood, and when mature pupate in little chambers from which the beetles escape by eating their way out.

The Journal recommends that when furniture or woodwork is attacked by these beetles and their larvae, steps be taken at once to destroy them. Painting with a camel hair brush with corrosive sublimate should be resorted to. The poison kills the beetles as they make their exit. Fumigating with hydrocyanic acid gas also kills. Where small objects, such as chairs, are invaded, they may be put in some closed cupboard and left in the fumes for some days. It must be remembered that this gas is a deadly poison as well as the cyanide of potassium used in its manufacture. Benzine may also be applied to polished furniture, but is best mixed with carbolic acid. Furniture so treated has, of course, the polish taken off, and will require repolishing.

AGRICULTURAL.

Grain Feed For Calves.

An excellent grain feed for calves is oats and corn, equal parts, well ground. If oats are not obtainable, use bran or ground wheat screenings. Sheep oats is also excellent. If corn is not available or too high priced, oats will do well.

Disposing of Dead Animals.

Regarding the disposal of dead animals, it is a loss to bury them. If they are chopped to pieces and covered with fresh manure they will soon decompose, and the heap should then be raked over, the bones removed and ground or pounded into small pieces. To reduce the bones put them into wood ashes, keeping them damp with liquid manure; or convert them into superphosphate by adding one pound of sulphuric acid to one and one-half pounds of bone. While the carcass is in the manure the heap should be well covered with dirt.

The Value of Ensilage.

At this season of the year the value of ensilage is plainly seen. Being juicy, it is appreciated by cattle and is relished because it varies the food. Some claim that good corn fodder is fully equal to ensilage, but those who have silos claim that, while cattle will reject corn stalks, they leave but little of the ensilage as refuse. The quality of ensilage has something to do with its acceptance by stock, for which reason it should be cut at the proper stage of growth and put in the silo with care, and with the object of having it come out of the silo in good condition in winter.

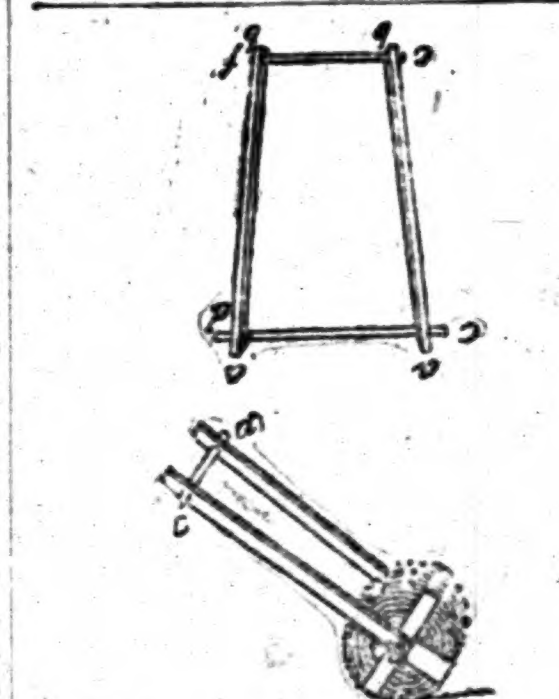

Forest Leaves For Bedding.

With the high price of hay and feed stuffs, it becomes important to utilize to the best advantage everything produced on the farm. Many successful stock keepers use large quantities of leaves for bedding their horses and other stock. Where they can be obtained easily, they make one of the best materials for this purpose. They are dry, clean, sweet and have the power of absorbing much moisture. When added to the land with the manure they carry a considerable amount of fertility and much humus.

Leaves should be gathered when dry and about as rapidly as they fall. Where trees are thick, a supply can be obtained in a short time. A good plan is to take a large sheet of canvas, such as used for covering stacks or binders, attach a light pole on each side, and allow them to project a few inches at each end. Spread this out flat on the ground and rake the leaves on to it. When a good pile is obtained, bring the two poles together, and a man at each end can then lift it readily and empty it into a large wagon box to be hauled to the barn and deposited in a dry place. If a few pine needles can be mixed with the forest leaves, they will add greatly to the sweetness and healthfulness of the stable.—Orange Judd Farmer.

To Handle Barbed Wire.

Handling barbed wire with the device shown herewith is very much easier than by the old way. It saves clothes and lacerated hands, and works well on uneven ground and through brush. Two strips, a-b, one inch by two and a half inches wide and thirty inches long, are used. Two inches from the end of each strip an inch hole is bored. Two round sticks one inch in diameter are necessary. Hardwood broom handles will serve the purpose. The one shown at c-d should be two feet long, while e-f is twenty inches long. The handle, c-d, may be fastened by driving a nail through the sidepiece, but e-f should be keyed so it may be removed from the frame and passed through the spool of wire as shown in the drawing. The wire is easily handled by drawing it over the ground with this simple device.—W. Gordon, in New England Homestead.

DEVICE FOR HANDLING BARBED WIRE.

The Wild Carrot.

We have seen occasional plants of the wild carrot, but never found it very serious trouble, though it is reported as completely taking possession of fields in certain sections. In Connecticut it became so much of a pest that in 1881 they enacted a law that classed it with the Canada thistle, and required every owner or occupant of land where they grow to cut them down so often as to prevent them going to seed, and also upon the highway adjoining their land, under penalty of a fine of not less than $1 or more than $5 for each day they were allowed to remain after having been notified to destroy them. But as the law required a complaint entered by a citizen of the town or some person aggrieved, it has not proved very efficient. Few people like to complain against a neighbor, unless there is a personal feeling, and there have been but few complaints. Such a law is of little effect should have a town officer to attend to such matters. We have killed the wild carrot by cutting the root a few inches below the surface and pulling it out as soon as we saw the white blossoms, and where a field is plowed and cultivated well for a year or two it does not appear again very soon.—The Cultivator.

A PLOT FOR A NOVEL.

One Offered Ready-Made For the Delectable Librarian.

A novelist in Boston—do not laugh, there are novelists in Boston, yet, and actually living here—said to us the other day: "If I could only find a plot! Here is a plot for him free of charge, and the story is a true one:—

"In 1789 a lady—a real lady—came into Birmingham, England, with a handsome equipage, and desired the landlord of the inn to get her a husband, being determined to marry somebody or other before she left the town. The man bowed, and supposed her ladyship to be in a facetious humor, but being made sensible how much she was in earnest, went out in search of a man that would marry a fine lady without asking questions.

"After many repulses from poor fellows who were not desperate enough for such a venture he met with an exception, a man who said 'he could not be in a worse condition than he was,' and accordingly went with the inn-keeper and made a tender of himself, which was all he had to bestow on the lady, who immediately went with him to one who gave them a license and made them man and wife, on which the bride gave her spouse £200, and without more delay left the town and bridegroom to find out who she was or unriddle this strange adventure. Soon after she was gone, two gentlemen came into the town in full pursuit of her; they had traced her so far upon the road, and finding the inn where she had put up, they examined into all the particulars of her conduct, and upon hearing that she was married, gave up their pursuit and turned back.

"Truly, a noble dame, one worthy of a full length portrait in the gallery constructed by Thomas Hardy.

"Why did this noble dame offer herself to the first comer? And why were the respectable males of the town so backward? There was no hint of scandal. Who were the pursuers? Did she wish by one sudden marriage to escape one deliberately contrived and repugnant? Was the ex-cise man a pretty fellow in spite of his abject condition? Did she ever see him again? Did she ever regret that she had not braved the world and lived with him? Perhaps the memory of her apparition haunted him; perhaps it aroused him to do worthy deeds. It's a pity that Mr. Hardy has not accounted for her action and her fate with his grim irony." —Boston Journal.

The Rally For Liberty.

"Gentlemen," said the speaker, rising to his full height and almost carrying his hearers off their feet with his matchless eloquence, "the time has come for us to assert our independence. We are free-born citizens. God has given us as a birthright the privilege of governing ourselves as we see fit. We bow our knee to no kings and no princes. We have only ourselves to blame if we permit others to deny the liberty that our fathers have bequeathed to us—the liberty made sacred by their hallowed blood. I appeal to you, my fellow citizens, to arise in your might. Let us exhibit our manhood; let us teach the world the great lesson of independence. Let us—"

"Say, gent," yelled the janitor, as he suddenly stepped out upon the platform, "I'm goin' to shut this hall up now. Clear out o' here. I've been up three nights with the toothache, and I'm goin' to bed early. Git before I turn out the lights on you!"

One minute and seven seconds later the doors were locked and the great rally for liberty was one of the things that had been.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Saved His Master From a Bear.

The five-year-old son of John Lukens, living on a farm east of Manton postoffice, in southeastern Shasta, was saved from death by a faithful shepherd dog. The boy had gone into the woods with his elder brother hunting, and the dog accompanied them as company for the small boy, to whom he was firmly attached.

A short distance from the farm the elder Lukens spied a squirrel and gave chase, the little boy and dog staying behind. In a short time the cries of the child and baying of the dog brought the elder Lukens boy back to the spot where he had left them. The dog had nearly finished a good-sized brown bear in a bloody fight.

The bear had evidently attacked the boy and handled him roughly, as several severe scratches and cuts were found on his head. The dog apparently sprang to the rescue and saved the youngster's life. The bear's hide now adorns the Lukens' sitting-room floor.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Substitute For Celluloid.

The extensive commercial use of celluloid has caused a great many people to try to find substitutes for, or imitations of, it. In Germany, a popular imitation has been made by dissolving in 16 parts by weight of glacial acetic acid, 1.5 parts of nitro-cellulose, and adding 5 parts of gelatin. Gentle heating and stirring are necessary. After the mass has swollen, it is mixed with 7.5 parts of alcohol (96 per cent.), and stirring is continued. The resulting product is poured into molds, or, after further dilution, may be spread in thin layers on glass. As an underlay for sensitive photographic films, the material has important advantages, not the least being that it remains flat in developing.

Any singer can take a high note if it is of the greenback variety.

POPULAR SCIENCE.

The Gulf Stream flows at the rate of about the speed of a half mile an hour. Five miles is exceeded in some places, and the rate varies much with conditions of weather and tide.

A crab has been found in the Dutch East Indies, that climbs to the top of a sixty-foot palm to feed on young coconuts. They have also been seen climbing mangrove trees for the fruit.

A decoction of coffee husks has been used as a remedy for malaria by Dr. Restrepo, of Medellin, in the State of Antioquia, Colombia. It was found effective in cases where quinine failed, and in other diseases as well, such as enteric colic and chronic dysentery.

The Commissioner of Street Cleaning in New York City recently made a bacteriological test of the air in the best, and also in the worst, residence quarter of the city. The test was made with gelatine plates, which were exposed for half an hour. Those exposed in the best parts of the city captured ten or twelve colonies of bacteria, while those exposed in the tenement districts captured from seventy-five to a hundred thousand.

The tremendous power exerted by water in violent motion is well shown by some experiments carried out by English engineers to determine the stress exerted upon the foundations of a lighthouse. Thomas Stevenson discovered that at Skerryvore and Bell Rock pressures of 6983 pounds per square foot, and 3013 pounds, respectively, were to be encountered in ordinary weather. This is only about forty-two pounds per square inch, and is doubtless much exceeded in severe storms.

Professor Paul Haupt, of Johns Hopkins University, has just returned from a tour of research abroad. He says that the mines of Tarashish, where King Solomon got his gold and silver and precious stones, were situated in what is now the southwestern part of Spain. Baron Rothschild now owns the mines, but he gets out of them no gold or precious stones, as they contain only iron ore. Professor Haupt found in the old workings many specimens of cryolite of great beauty, and he believes that Solomon used much of this to ornament his temples.

An engineer named Omori has become familiar with the apparatus used in detecting and registering earth tremors through his service on the Imperial Earthquake Commission of Japan. He was thus led to consider the question of utilizing seismometers for another purpose. Some of the strains to which bridges are subjected, especially the ordinary bending from stationary loads, can be easily computed in advance. But another set, due to moving loads, are not so readily ascertained. These are vibrations, up and down, crosswise or endwise. They have more to do with the security or insecurity of a given structure than the bending strains. Mr. Omori has tried his seismometers on bridges long enough to prove that they are so delicate that they will afford valuable information. He advises making tests at regular intervals, as in this manner warning would be given when a bridge was weakening through age.

An Apologetic Luncheon.

Just for the sake of argument, say he was from Jersey, although it is possible that he came over the Brooklyn Bridge. He was considerably past middle age and he possessed gray chin whiskers and hair that curled under in the back.

It was noon, and he walked into a restaurant which was by no means a quick lunch place.

"Just bring me a little bread and butter and a cup of tea. I don't feel very hungry."

After the waiter had disappeared the footman approached him. "Have you given your order, sir?" he asked.

"Yes," explained the old gentleman in a conciliatory voice, "I just ordered a little bread and butter and a cup of tea. I ain't very hungry."

Just as he had finished his luncheon an acquaintance entered and took a seat by his side.

"Had your lunch?" inquired the friend.

"Yes; I wasn't very hungry, so I just ordered a little bread and butter and a cup of tea."

When he stopped at the cashier's window he presented the check, which called for ten cents, and put down the coin.

"I only had a little bread and butter and a cup of tea," he explained. "I wasn't very hungry." —New York Herald.

Building For Winter Homes.

A matter to which attention ought to be paid is the construction of houses with a view to economizing fuel. Solidity, good workmanship and compactness are obvious means of protection against cold weather. The suggestion has been made that the winter sunshine might be utilized more extensively than it is at present. The verandas, which are now becoming every year more common, might be inclosed in glass during the winter months, and so converted into sun parlors. Even when there is no scarcity of fuel it is pleasant and healthful to bask in the winter sun, and it is customary to advertise the sun parlor as one of the attractions of winter resort hotels. There is no reason why this luxury should not be more generally enjoyed. The cost of the glass would soon be paid for in the saving in coal, and a pleasant room would be added to the house.—Toronto "Globe."

The Commission appointed by the Governor to undertake the work of perfecting the plans and details for a proper display of the matchless resources of Alabama at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition at St. Louis in 1904, met at Montgomery on Wednesday, December 10th. It was determined that unless Alabama could take her proper place among her sister states at this great international exposition, it would be better that she should make no appearance there whatever. Each and all of the other States have signified their appreciation of this great event by providing handsome appropriations for the exposition and display of the resources of their several commonwealths. Alabama must do as much. Our fields and forests, our mines and manufactures are unsurpassed by those of any of our sister states. We must display them before the 30,000,000 people of those nations of the world who will visit the exposition. The following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, the Louisiana Purchase Exposition is the crowning event in the exposition idea, and

"Whereas, it affords opportunities for the advertisement and exploitation of the resources of Alabama and its matchless gifts of the forest, field and mine, and

Whereas, the benefits to accrue from a proper and adequate exhibition of products and possibilities of our State will rebound to the good of all, from the humblest laborer to the highest citizen, in the commonwealth, therefore,

Be it resolved, that we endorse the movement of the State Commission for an adequate display at St. Louis of every county and section of this State, and we urge our Senators and Representatives in the Legislature to appropriate not less than $50,000 to this end."

KILLED AT BOZEMAN.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure.

Digests all classes of food, tones and strengthens the stomach and digestive organs. Cures Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Stomach Troubles, and makes rich red blood, health and strength. Kodol rebuilds worn-out tissues, purifies, strengthens and sweetens the stomach. Gov. G. W. Atkinson, of W. Va., says: I have used a number of bottles of Kodol and have found it to be a very effective and, indeed, a powerful remedy for stomach ailments. I recommend it to my friends.

Editor Charles Yeuell, lately of the DeKalb Times, Fort Payne, Ala., has given up its publication and is devoting his time and talents to the publication of the Collinsville Clipper. The Times is a Republican paper, but local conditions in DeKalb sickened Brother Yeuell of his party, so he disposed of it and with his new paper is putting up a vigorous Democratic fight. Mr. Yeuell says:

"There will be two Republican organizations in Alabama before long—the Lily White and the Mongrel, the Mongrel will have national recognition and get the 'pie' and it will be composed of men of all colors and of all parties who are in politics for revenue only, and who are not overburdened with principles or troubled with prejudices, and of course the 'old guard' will stay loyal no matter what arises, although they will spend most of their time 'cussing' Teddy and will work and vote against his nomination and not vote for his election. The Lily Whites will gradually peter out, some will join the Mongrels, others the Democracy, and that's where we are 'at.' It was the only logical and consistent thing for us to do. We were weary of the everlasting strife."

A TRIBUTE

Died at his home on Monday morning, Dec. 8, at 3 o'clock, H. H. Hurst. Dock, as he was familiarly known, was a young man just turned into his twenty-second year. He came to this county two years ago from Tallapoosa county. Last Christmas he was married to Miss Nora Williams, daughter of Mr. A. J. Williams, with whom he spent the remainder of his days in peace and happiness.

He leaves a wife and babe and many friends to mourn his departure, and to struggle through the world without his aid and companionship. Dock was a peaceable, quiet man and a good husband.

We would say to the bereaved, that while we do not understand the providences of God, let the promises of our Heavenly Father comfort you and enable you to bear up under the severe chastisement that is upon you in this sad bereavement.

Died at her father's home, on Friday night ten minutes before ten o'clock Lola Estelle Partridge. Lola was the younger of two daughters, the older one being married and gone from her parents. She was sick for some considerable time and had the best and most skillful treatment that could be rendered but the disease baffled the most earnest efforts of her friends and physicians. Death claimed her as its victim. In her case the saying seems true, "Death loves a shining mark." Lola was not quite nineteen years old, just merging into womanhood, where in all probability, she would have been useful.

She was a quiet girl, of gentle, timid manners, and was known only to be loved. She leaves a father and mother and two brothers at home to mourn and weep in sadness and loneliness for one they cannot call back to them, though the home may be dark, and the heart heavy; yet we commend to you the grace and promises of Him that has called your dear one away from you. May the bereaved ones share abundantly of the mercies of God.

SPEAKING AT JEMISON.

Hon. Jos. B. Graham of Talladega will address the Teachers and citizens along the lines of Education at Jemison Dec. 19th 1902; at 6:30 p.m. and Prof. C. L. McCarthy, of Troy at 7:30 p.m., subject, "God among the Stars." I insist that the citizens turn out and give these gentlemen a large attendance.

Revolution Imminent.

A sure sign of approaching revolt and serious trouble in your system is nervousness, sleeplessness, or stomach upsets. Electric Bitters will quickly dismember the troublesome causes. It never fails to tone the stomach, regulate the kidneys and bowels, stimulate the liver, and clarify the blood. Run down systems benefit particularly and all the usual attending aches vanish under its searching and thorough effectiveness. Electric Bitters is only 50c, and that is returned if it don't give perfect satisfaction. Guaranteed by Clanton Drug Co., and Hopkins Drug Co. Druggist.

PROGRAM TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

To be held at Jemison, December 19 and 20, 1902.
 Friday, 10:15 a.m. Devotional exercises, conducted by Rev. J. Windsor.
 10:45. Welcome address, W. A. McCreeless. Response, I. T. Means.
 11:15. Method of encouraging pupils to attend regularly and promptly in rural schools; Prof. Robert Jones, Mrs. A. G. Dunlap.
 1:30 p.m. The fundamental principles of education; Prof. C. L. McCarthy.
 2:15. Literature in rural schools; R. E. Tidwell, Miss Eleanor Hinton.
 3. How to teach Geography; V. J. Gragg, John T. Martin.
 7:30. "God among the Stars," Prof. C. L. McCarthy, of the State Normal college, Troy, Ala.
 SATURDAY, 9 a.m. Devotional exercises.
 9:30. Use of Bible and other moral agencies in the public schools; P. G. Maness, G. L. Speer.
 10:15. Methods of discipline; A. M. Armstrong, J. M. Collier.
 11. Model lesson in Reading; J. F. McCreeless, Miss Treacy Garrett.
 1:30 p.m. Education for citizenship; W. E. Johnson, G. P. Dickinson.
 2:15. Is the teacher the greatest factor in character building? Prof. C. L. McCarthy.
 3. Necessity of having fewer schools in township. J. T. Means, H. A. Harris.

It is very important that teachers attend the Institutes both days. We usually have a large number of teachers on Saturday, though very few on Friday. This should not be, and I trust will not in the future. The law allows teachers to count the time on Friday and so enter on their quarterly report, and hence, the law requires teachers to attend the Institutes. J. W. Moore, Supt.

A New Remedy.

The old friends of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will be pleased to know that the manufacturers of the preparation have gotten out a new remedy called Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, and that it is meeting with much success in the treatment of constipation, biliousness, sick headache, impaired digestion and like disorders. These Tablets are easier to take and more pleasant in effect than pills, then they not only move the bowels, but improve the appetite and correct any disorders of the Stomach and Liver. For sale by Hopkins Drug Co., Clanton, and A. Horn, Thorsby.

TEACHERS' EXAMINATION.

The next State examination for teachers for Chilton county, will be held on the first Monday in January, 1903, at the court house, Clanton. J. W. Moore, Supt.

PROFIT

The matter of feed is of tremendous importance to the farmer. Wrong feeding is loss. Right feeding is profit.

The up-to-date farmer knows what to feed his cows to get the most milk, his pigs to get the most pork, his hens to get the most eggs. Science.

But how about the children? Are they fed according to science, a bone food if bones are soft and undeveloped, a flesh and muscle food if they are thin and weak and a blood food if there is anemia?

Scott's Emulsion is a mixed food; the Cod Liver Oil in it makes flesh, blood and muscle, the Lime and Soda make bone and brain. It is the standard scientific food for delicate children.

Send for free sample.

Be sure that this picture is the form of a label on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

Knox is not far distant. We have already heard a few fire-crackers pop, and some of our boys are paying many hurried visits to Thorsby of late; when thou seest these things, know ye that the time is nigh at hand.

The gypsies have been with us several days now, and I learn are doing considerable horse-trading. One or two of our horse-trading friends have swapped some three or four times, got their same horses back, and are out only fifteen or twenty dollars in the several operations, verily, they have done well.

I hear we are to have a teacher's meeting of some kind in our town Friday and Saturday. What are they up to now? Do you suppose they are going to strike for higher wages? They are getting a great many new get-ups these days, yet they all seem to end in some kind of a money-raising scheme.

They have invited the public though, so I think I'll go out and see what they do. I haven't never sent to school any yet, but Sam says he wants me to start about now.

half-dozen or so next year. So I think it somewhat prudent to get the hang of things and learn how they are going, and not jump into anything too sudden like.

The children's grandpa, on Sallic's side of the house, says he wants me to send "Tim to school and make a school-teacher out of him. I want to try to give all my boys a tolerable good education, but I don't like the school-teacher idea much. I think school-teaching is the poorest business a fellow can start at. I never knew a school-teacher that had anything, and nearly everyone of them get bald-headed. I had much rather Tim would be a lawyer, doctor, or big preacher—a little preacher don't stand much show, especially if he is a Methodist preacher. But I won't worry about that now, Tim has many pomes of bread to eat, as Aunt Tabitha says, before he makes much of anything. Yours as ever,

A Good Cough Medicine.

[From the Gazette, Townsboro, N. C.]
 I find Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is an excellent medicine. I have been suffering from a severe cough for the last two months, and it has effected a cure. I have great pleasure in recommending it.—W. C. WOCKNER. This is the opinion of one of our oldest and most respected residents, and has been voluntarily given in good faith that others may try the remedy and be benefited, as was Mr. Wockner. This remedy is sold by Hopkins Drug Co., and A. Horn, Thorsby.

Non-Resident Notice.

The State of Alabama,
 Chilton County,
 In Chancery, at Clanton, Alabama, 7th District, Northern Chancery Division.
 Inas Webb, Complainant, vs. Richard Webb, Defendant.
 In this cause it is made to appear to the Register, by the affidavit of Thos. A. Curry, Solicitor for Complainant, that the Defendant, Richard Webb, is a non-resident of the State of Alabama, and that his post-office address is unknown, and that, according to a plan's information and belief Respondent resides in Marion county, State of Florida, and further, that, in the belief of said affiant, the Defendant, Richard Webb, is over the age of twenty-one years.
 It is therefore ordered by the Register, that publication be made in the Banner, a newspaper published in Clanton, once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring him, the said Richard Webb, Respondent, to answer or demur to the said bill on or by the 15th day of January, 1903, and failing so to do within thirty days thereafter a decree pro confesso may be taken against him in said cause.
 Done at office, in Clanton, Alabama, this 17th day of December, 1902.

"Along the Caribbean Sea," said an their bare legs sticking in the water.

"They have a strange reason for this strange conduct. They are much troubled by a little insect kind of tick—which borres itself to their flesh, and is very hard to dislodge, and as when the ticks have gotten in, then they go in the water bury the infected

Dyspepsia Cure

Digests what you eat.

This preparation contains all of the ingredients and digests all kinds of food. It gives instant relief and never fails to cure. It allows you to eat all the food you want. The most sensitive stomachs can take it. By its use many thousands of dyspeptics have been cured after everything else failed. It is unequalled for the stomach. Children with weak stomachs thrive on it. It is the best of all remedies. A diet unnecessary. Cures all stomach troubles.

Prepared by F. C. D. W. & Co., Chicago, Ill. The $1 bottle contains a three-month supply.

Mrs. Laura S. Webb.
Vice-President Women's Democratic Club of Northern Ohio.

I dreaded the change of life which was fast approaching. I noticed Wine of Cardui and decided to try a bottle. I experienced some relief the first month, so I kept on taking it for three months and now I menstruate with no pain and I shall take it off and on until I have passed the climax.

Female weakness, disordered menses, itching of the womb and ovarian troubles do not wear off. They follow a woman to the change of life. Do not wait but take Wine of Cardui now and avoid the trouble. Wine of Cardui never fails to benefit a suffering woman of any age. Wine of Cardui relieved Mrs. Webb when she was in danger. When you come to the change of life Mrs. Webb's letter will mean more to you than it does now. But you may now avoid the suffering she endured. Druggists sell 50 bottles of Wine of Cardui.

KIDNEY CURE.

There is no disease so distressing, so slow but sure, as kidney disease, or so wide-spread. The symptoms are so slight as to generally escape notice.

The first indications appear in the urine, with varied effects. The quantity may be increased or decreased; it is likely to be highly colored and muddy; it may be pale or thin, or thick and milky with a sediment. Later on more pronounced symptoms will be present, such as dizziness, bloating, etc., with marked bladder and urinary disorders.

Persons who make matter collected by the blood from all parts of the system and carried to the kidneys, where it is separated and sent out through the urine. The kidneys deal with the blood only, keeping it pure and free from all impurities. If the blood is impure, the kidneys are not only overworked, but they are also poisoned. It is the duty of the kidneys to keep the blood pure and free from all impurities. If the blood is impure, the kidneys are not only overworked, but they are also poisoned. It is the duty of the kidneys to keep the blood pure and free from all impurities.

There are thousands of just such cases as the above that are treated without results because they are wrongly treated. Mr. Cordell's condition resulted from an exhausting fever; the kidneys, as well as the rest of the system, had been wasted by disease. No wonder Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic promptly cured, because it purified and carried the blood, and such blood carried new strength and vitality directly to the kidneys and to all the organs.

LET THE PEOPLE RULE

VOL. XI

CLANTON, ALA. THURSDAY DECEMBER 25, 1902

NO. 10

THE MAN ON THE CORNER

Some of the Sights He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.

He thought himself a poet,
Wanted everyone to know it,
He got off this weary load,
And it being Christmas time
He just tumbled into rhyme,
With a gall that is sublime
He fired off his Christmas ode
And Xmas you are jolly,
No time for melancholy,
The grieving is a folly,
As we jog along life's road;
You are laden deep with pleasure,
Of good cheer a brimming measure,
And your memory we'll treasure
As we sing each Xmas ode.

But it pains me much to say
That upon that Xmas day
The good things he put away
Turkey, pastry, wine—a load,
That I will take him quite awhile
To raise another "amile,"
For the doctor's bill's a pile
That he to Xmas "owed."

Now to all this good advice
Don't, because a thing is nice,
Like at once too big a slice
Or you'll wish that you had who'd
And when this your eye is meeting
Like this, my Christmas greeting
Merry, merry Xmas
And all your bills "un-owed."

And this is Christmas day.
Kindly accept my best wishes at this festive season; may you live long and die happy. It has become customary in all Christian lands to celebrate the nativity of the Savior with feasting and rejoicings that are apt to overlook the fact that we are celebrating the birth of the Savior of mankind. But that surely is something we may all rejoice in, and perhaps there is no better way of showing "Peace on earth,
good will to men" than by meeting
each other with a cheerful greeting.
Who is there that does not love to meet with a cheery "Merry Christmas to you." You may not have any special reason for feeling merry, but you appreciate the kindness. To be "merry and wise" about the acme of human happiness, and blest be he that combines the two in proper measure. A merry Christmas to you.

One of the most pleasing features of Christmas is the custom of making presents. "Tis more blessed to give than to receive," and at this special season one loves to give.
The spirit of Santa Claus is about,
and the memory of the gift we take now may be cherished by the recipient years after we have passed away. In the big cities of the world the rich of their abundance provide a dinner for the poor. Here, apparently, while "the poor we have always with us," we have not that extreme poverty that is so conspicuous in crowded cities and our gifts are offered to each other in a spirit of brotherly kindness. The present may be of small pecuniary value, but it is not the value of the thing itself we prize, it is the kindly thought that prompted the deed. "Christmas gift" has a meaning sound to both giver and receiver.

By the way, in the express office Monday morning, the floor was literally covered with whiskey jugs and, wait a minute, that may be wrong, but anyhow it was covered with jugs of something or another.
A remark was made that the express charges alone on that collection of—er, jugs—would be more than sufficient to pay for the lighting of Clanton streets after dark for the rest of this winter, and still leave a margin for other purposes, that there is a large number of—er, jugs—constantly coming to Clanton is an indisputable fact,
and there is a terrible waste of money in some direction. If it is not possible to keep the—er, jugs—from coming here, it does look as if they might as well get whatever credit can be derived from them.
They may be—and probably is—a waste of money sending for these—er, jugs—but if people will waste their money, someone must get the credit of their waste, and there must be no special reason why the express companies should get it.

Clanton, Dec. 23, 1902
Editor Banner—In your last paper, you call attention to the coming city election. You are right, it is time we all were looking out good men for the places to be filled.
Several citizens, in talking over the situation, rather favored Mr. W.
M. Wilson for mayor. He is an upright man, a large tax payer, and prompt and fearless in doing his duty. Put him in, give him good councilmen and we will have our city ordinances enforced without

ner. ALEX G. DAKE

Clear Creek, Dec. 15th 1902
Mr. Dake—I notice in the Banner that you can't issue a warrant for Mr. Garner for his house being burnt, on account of his delay in paying his dues. I want to state that myself and G. B. Armstrong, Hugh Heary, S. A. Curry, C. C.
Gentry and A. Rachel had not paid as well as Mr. Garner. We all expected to send it down on Monday as we had friends going to court. We know that Mr. Garner intended to pay his dues. We hope that all our brethren will pay Mr.
Garner as he has always paid. We ask that you publish this in the Banner and ask all of our brethren to pay Mr. Garner as he is in bad need of it and oblige. Yours,
G. B. Armstrong,
D. W. Killingsworth.

Editor Banner—Please give me space in your most valuable paper to state to the public that there are two stray hogs at my house, and have been since about last March.
They are barrows, one white and the other white and black pided, with split and underbit in the right and

Jemison.

We would like to join the merry circle again, as Pineywoods Dan does not give the news around our city which we enjoy reading.

Xmas is at hand and all are expecting a jolly time. Entertainments are very cheap, have one every night, except snowy ones.
But the ladies are very timid, some cannot go because they have a new dress to make, and some, "I have to work," "I have a cake to cook for Xmas," and some say it is too cold, and it is too dark, and some,
"I don't want to," and "papa and mamma won't let me," "I haven't got anyone to go with me," but I think that is a poor excuse, for I have been longing and waiting just for a chance like that and if they say so, brother and I will both come and expect a few more. They all would if they could, but papa said I was too young, but I don't think so, he lets brother go but I'm too young, isn't it too bad, but I'll be a man some day, I'll bet. So ladies come and enjoy yourselves and we are sure to enjoy your company.

The young people of this place were entertained at Mr. L. H. Reynolds' Sunday night, and also at
Mr. Charles Shaw's Monday night.
Mr. Rasmus Langston has been suffering with rheumatic pains for several days, but is improving speedily.
Mr. Fouts Skaggs and cousin attended a wedding near Providence
Sunday and report a nice time.
BROTHERS.

In Memoriam.

At ten o'clock Friday night, Dec.
12, the "Death Angel" came, and bore away the spirit of Lola, the beloved daughter of Mr. and Mrs.
Fletcher Partridge. We cannot understand why this young life, just blossoming into young ladyhood, should be taken.

Not now, but in the coming years,
We'll read the meaning of our tears.
Then, sometime we'll understand,
Yes, Lola, all who knew you loved you, and home is sad without you.
True, our loss is great, but we can only be submissive to God's will, knowing that in this hour, He will not forsake us, but in due time will heal our wounds and make us know, "He doeth all things well."

Many friends came to pay the last tribute of respect, and sympathize with the grief-stricken family.
She was laid to rest until the Lord shall bid her rise to sleep no more.
A FRIEND.

COUGHS AND COLDS IN CHILDREN

Recommendation of a Well Known Chicago Physician.
I use and prescribe Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for almost all obstinate, constricted coughs, with direct results. I prescribe it to children of all ages. Am glad to recommend it to all in need and seeking relief from colds and coughs and bronchial affections. It is nonnarcotic and safe in the hands of the most unprofessional. A universal panacea for all mankind.—
Mrs. Mary R. Melendy, M. D., Ph. D.,

Thorsby.

Thorsby is going right ahead,
many new buildings are going up, another church is being erected, the waterworks are being extended, franchises for telephone and electric lights have been granted by the city council, the Normal School is well patronized, the cannery and other factories are a big thing for the town, The Thorsby Times, the new republican weekly, is making things still more lively, and everybody wants to move to Thorsby.

Desirable building lots are already scarce and there is a big demand for houses. We need 25 more houses in Thorsby at once, and in another year we will need 50 more.

In order to make room for this expansion I have been induced to put upon the market a couple of my tracts located right in the heart of the city, the finest residence property in Thorsby. I will sell these tracts as a whole, or subdivide them into smaller tracts or lots to suit the pu-chasers. If you want a safe and profitable investment there is nothing better, if you want a choice residence location with magnificent view of all the surrounding town and country there is nothing to equal it. As the town grows, this property is bound to enhance in value. If you have the cash, buy now and double your money.

In Switzerland the studies of many years have determined the fact finally that the glaciers are not only steadily receding, but that their rate of recession is becoming greater each year. There are only a few glaciers that still grow. The Boveyre glacier in Canton Wallis is the only one that has increased since 1892. The famous Rhone glacier has receded almost 800 yards since 1876.

Healthy advance in the educational resources and activities of the country is indicated by the annual report of the United States Commissioner of Education, which was recently submitted to the Secretary of the Interior. The report shows that the grand total of pupils in schools of all grades, public and private in the republic for the year 1900-01 was 17,299,330, an increase of 278,520 as compared with the report of the previous academic period. The enrollment in special schools of the country for the same time being the grand total up to about 17,750,000. A vast increase is shown in the resources of the public schools in the past 30 years. In 1900 the value of property used for public school purposes was $180,000,000. At the end of June, 1901, the public schools represented a property valuation of $576,963,089. The expenditure on schools per capita in 1870 is shown to have been $1.64. In 1900-01 it was $2.95 per capita of the population, and the figure is the highest in the history of education in the United States. It indicates an increase of 10 cents per capita over the figures for the year that ended in June, 1900.

The Medical Department of the Army reports forty vacancies in the grade of assistant surgeon. As to the reasons why the commissions go begging the New York Tribune says: "The rank of the new assistant surgeon in the United States Army is first lieutenant, with about $1000 a year pay, not enough to lure many men from the quiet path of general practice to the strenuous work of the army surgeon. After five years' service the assistant surgeon advances to the grade of captain, and there he remains, unless something extraordinary happens, for twelve or fifteen years, and if he is then still physically competent to perform the duties of the place, he may become a surgeon, with the rank of major. The army register shows that a few surgeons gained the gold leaf in less than ten years, but that one lucky man reached the grade of major in about seven years after his captain's commission was issued. But the majority of the sixty majors in the department had to wait from twelve to sixteen years for the promotion. This condition is believed by many physicians to be one reason why the examining board has had mediocre material to deal with, and has been compelled to reject all but five of the candidates for the vacancies." With a few changes this branch of the service might be made popular.

LABOR WORLD.

Chicago chamberlains are organizing a union.
Buenos Aires, Argentina, has forty labor organizations.
California has 65,000 general agents, of whom 40,000 are in San Francisco.
A Japanese railway company has girls as waitresses for their passenger trains, and intends to employ them in the ticket service.
Foundry workers at Tacoma, Wash., have secured a nine-hour day without a decrease in wages. The minimum scale is now $3.50 a day.
Twenty-three per cent of children in Saxony, Germany, are forced to work. Of 604,000 children of school age, 137,831 are employed in trade.
Silverminers at Baltimore, Md., have organized a union and have been granted a nine-hour day at the same wage previously paid for ten hours' work.
The strike of National Boot and Shoe Operators at Glasgow, Scotland, has been settled, wages, hours of labor and other disputes having been adjusted.
A general increase of wages of trainmen on the Southern Railway, beginning on the Southern Railway, averaging about five per cent, has been granted.
The Illinois State Federation of Labor will make a fight to have the Legislature pass measures looking toward freeing convicts out of competition with free labor.
The Intercolonial (Canadian) Railway telegraphers are understood to be satisfied with the proposed advance in wages of $3.50 a month. They now receive $38.
Street car employees at El Paso, Texas, have been granted an advance of five cents an hour. They demanded twenty-five cents an hour, but compromised on twenty cents.
The Indiana Supreme Court has decided that the weekly pay law is constitutional. This will compel manufacturers in this State to pay their men weekly whenever it is demanded.

LILY WHITE VICTORY

Explanations Again Due From Washington.

The president has appointed Daniel W. Patrick collector of customs at Pamplet, N. C., to succeed Mayer Hahn and an explanation is now due from the White House. Hahn is an anti-lily white. He has supported the policy of the president in North Carolina against Senator Pritchard, and with a number of negroes was thrown out of the recent North Carolina convention to make way for Pritchard delegates. In addition he is a man of standing and wealth, and is admittedly efficient, no charges having been made against him. On the other hand the appointee, Patrick, is a lily white, and has followed Senator Pritchard in disfranchising the negroes. The appointment is accordingly a big Pritchard victory. In administration circles it is said that the lily white issue is now entered into the case, and the president appointed Patrick simply because he was recommended by Senator Pritchard, a republican member of Congress.

It is difficult to see how this explanation can be reconciled with the removal of Collector Bingham of Alabama, unless it be that the president is going to retain lily whites in office when they have influence and vice versa. Not the least interesting feature of the two cases of removal is the president's utter disregard of the civil service principles involved. Both Hahn and Bingham were competent officials, one an anti-lily white and the other a lily white.

BIRMINGHAM IS PROMINENT

In Statistics—Not All Complimentary, Either.

Statistics gathered by the department of labor for the last ten years in 127 American cities of over 30,000 population show that Richmond, Va., is the oldest legal city and New York the youngest, having existed in its present corporate capacity for less than a year. The birth rate is highest in Fall River, Mass., but most marriages occur in Birmingham, Ala. The marriage rate is lowest in Scranton, Pa. St. Joseph, Mo., has the lowest death rate and Charleston, S. C., the highest. Somerville, Mass., and Charleston, S. C., had no divorces, while McKeesport, Pa., had the most. Death rate due to accident was lowest in Troy, N. Y., and highest in East Superior, York, Pa., had the fewest arrests and Birmingham, Ala., the most. Providence, R. I., expended the most per capita for schools, and Birmingham, Ala., the least. The total tax rate is highest in Peoria, Ill., and lowest in New Haven, Conn. Boston averages the highest in good points and Birmingham, Ala., the highest in bad ones.

Lowe Impeachment Case.

The supreme court overruled the demurrer in the impeachment case against Solicitor Lowe and fixed January 16 as the day for hearing the case on its merits. The demurrer in effect contended that the incompetency assigned as a cause of impeachment in the constitution and laws referred to professional incompetency and not to such as was either mental or physical imposed by the act of God after induction into office. The court adjourned on January 12.

Moses can no longer be called the oldest known law giver, as a Babylonian law code has been dug up in Persia nearly a thousand years older than the law giver of the Bible. Hammurabi code, in 280 separate laws, is the oldest in the history of institutions. It will cause much revision of historical writing.

In January at Birmingham the annual meeting of the Alabama Live Stock Association will be held.

WITHOUT WIRES

Marconi Sends A Message Across Ocean.

After eight experiments conducted with the greatest secrecy Marconi solved the problem of wireless transatlantic transmission and has successfully transmitted messages from the shores of Canada to the coast of England.

Prior to December 19, 1901, the greatest distance covered by wireless telegraphy scarcely exceeded 100 miles. Early in that year Marconi visited Newfoundland, and from Signal Hill commenced experiments with Cornwall, and on December 12 and 13 of that year faint signals of the letter "S" repeated several times were caught by ear only with the aid of telephone. Later he succeeded in establishing communication with Cornwall, a distance of 2100 miles. He met with innumerable difficulties there, but at last succeeded in sending a transatlantic wireless message from Canada to Cornwall, a distance of 2300 miles.

The senate passed Senator Pettus' bill divesting out of the United States its right to certain real estate situated at and near the city of Montgomery and vesting the same in the Southern Cotton Oil company. The real estate was taken by the government in the Beebe & Henshaw suits. The bill simply confirms the proposition of the secretary of the treasury whereby the parties mentioned are to pay the government twenty-five thousand dollars for the property.

Eight-Hour Bill Reaches Senate.

The eight-hour labor bill, as amended by the senate committee on education and labor, reported to the senate accompanied by a written statement of the committee's reasons for its action. It is stated that the bill is substantially the same as the house bill and that it is favored by a majority of the senate committee. The report contains a review of former federal legislation in favor of the eight-hour system, and also a summary of state enactments on the same subject.

Factory Exports Heavy.

Data just completed for the ten months of 1902 show that manufactures now form one-third of the exports of the United States. The figures for the year, it is expected, will reach $415,000,000. Copper, mineral, oil, iron and steel manufactures, leather and agricultural implements form the bulk of the exports, and more than one-half of the total amount goes to Europe and North America, the two greatest manufacturing sections of the world.

Pecans Grafted on Hickory.

Not growers in Chester county, South Carolina, are grafting pecans on hickory sprouts and expect to make a great success of it. These sprouts grow at the rate of five feet a year and are expected to bear in four years, while it takes the pecans just twice that time to become productive.

Subsidized Railroad Progress.

The annual report of the commissioner of railroads says that all the railroads subsidized by the government have settled their indebtedness except one. The roads show an increase of $20,000,000 in net earnings and $27,000,000 in expenses over 1901.

Against Eight-Hour Law.

In a case originating in an attempt of the city of Cleveland to compel a sewer contractor to observe the eight-hour law, the supreme court of Ohio decided that the law was unconstitutional.

Mexico is alarmed. The bubonic plague has appeared at Mazatlan.

The sultan of Turkey has absolutely prohibited football, baseball, polo, etc., in Constantinople. The sultan is said to fear that the crowd of operators may become a mob and the mob a revolutionary army.

The king's speech made only brief and formal reference to the Venezuelan situation.

THE CONSOLIDATED COAL AND IRON COMPANY

WIN Issue Bonds to the Amount of $3,500,000—Baltimore Trust Company Will Be Underwriters.

The International Trust Company, of Baltimore, the largest single interest in Alabama being the Consolidated Coal and Iron Company, has approved the proposed financial plan for the reorganization of that company. The trust company will underwrite the new bonds. The plan calls for an issue of $3,500,000 of 5 per cent bonds and an increase in the common stock of the company from $2,500,000 to $3,500,000. Of the bond issue there would be used $2,500,000 in exchange for a like amount of 7 per cent preferred stock. The holders of this stock are to be tendered a bonus of 25 per cent in common stock to make the exchange, and the holders of $500,000 of bonds now outstanding will also have the opportunity to exchange them for the new bonds.

COTTON REPORT.

December was 126,000 Sales Behind Last Year.

Secretary Hester's weekly statement shows for nineteen days of December a decrease under last year of 126,000 and a decrease under the same period year before last of 176,000. For the 110 days of the season that have elapsed the aggregate is ahead of the same days last year 128,000, and ahead of the same days year before last 106,000. The amount brought into sight during the past week has been 351,731, against 338,635 for the seven days of last year, and 407,382 year before last.

The movement since September 1 shows receipts at all United States ports to have been 4,432,311, against 4,274,670 last year.

The total movement since September is 6,130,992, against 6,003,393 last year, and 6,025,615 year before last.

The total takings of American mills, North and South and Canada, thus far for the season have been 1,642,211, against 1,597,813 last year.

The first section of the cable which is to connect the United States with Hawaii has been laid and the cable ship Silvertown is proceeding so rapidly with the work of laying the cable that greetings from Mr. Dole, of Hawaii, to President Roosevelt may be sent over the cable from Honolulu on Christmas day.

Female Viking Found.

A tomb dating from the Viking age and containing the remains of a young woman in complete armor and the skeleton of a horse has been discovered by Professor Goldberg in western Norway. It is the first discovery of a woman buried with horse and armor. Only persons of celebrity were buried that way.

Cattle Disease Disappearing.

Secretary Wilson believes that the danger of the spread of the foot and mouth disease from New England, where it is epidemic, to other states has passed. "In a few weeks," said Secretary Wilson, "we will have destroyed every animal infected with or exposed to the foot and mouth disease."

The tone of the London stock exchange at the end of last week was cheerful, the feature being the general improvement in America.

VENEZUELA ACCEPTS

Roosevelt will Arbitrate Venezuela Matters.

Caracas, December 21.—In the name of Venezuela, President Castro has signified acceptance of the appointment of President Roosevelt to arbitrate the Venezuelan difficulty.

At London.

It is believed that President Roosevelt's answer to the proposal made by the allied powers that he arbitrate the Venezuelan issue has been received. The strictest secrecy with regard to every phase of the negotiations is observed, and it is impossible to make a definite statement, but such indications as are obtainable point to President Roosevelt's acceptance of the office of arbitrator. A constant interchange of cables is proceeding night and day between the United States embassy and the state department at Washington.

It must be said that the acceptance of the office of arbitrator by President Roosevelt would greatly surprise the foreign office, which always has been doubtful of the issue of the arbitration negotiations on account of the belief that President Roosevelt or the United States was not willing to undertake the responsibility thereby involved.

Judging from private American advisers President Roosevelt, an arbitrator would be favorably disposed toward the temporary adoption of some such method as was arranged with the Venezuelan secret mission.

It has been learned that the governments of Germany and Great Britain have adopted detailed answers to the proposal to arbitrate the Venezuela issues, that the German answer agrees to all substantial effects with the British answer, and makes no separate reservations in behalf of the German cases.

At Washington.

Officials of the state department announced nothing to make public regarding the latest phases of the Venezuelan embargo. While reluctant to take up the role of mediator the president would do so rather than see the unfortunate state of affairs now existing prolonged indefinitely. Although the president was absent from Washington he was in telegraphic communication with the officials, but there were no definite developments so far as could be learned, and it may be a day or two before the European governments reply to our last suggestion again urging arbitration under the Hague treaty.

At Trinidad.

The blockade of Venezuelan ports was begun with an effective force Saturday at midnight. Mr. Haggard, the British minister to Venezuela, said that Great Britain acted only after great provocation, and that the whole world must approve of what she did. The climax to Anglo-Venezuelan relations was reached when a Venezuelan gunboat captured a British merchantman on the high seas, shipped her crew and valuables and landed them at Margarita Island. Then Great Britain determined to act. Mr. Haggard and the German representative, Herr von Pilgrim-Baltzell, are said to have left Caracas secretly in the fear that they might be held as hostages by President Castro.

The United States battleships Kearsarge and Alabama are at Trinidad. Their appearance provoked considerable comment on shore, but when Admiral Higginson called upon the governor of Trinidad and the commander of the British ships, he took occasion to explain that the visit to this port of the American men-of-war was part of the usual winter trip of the squadron. The Kearsarge and Alabama were anchored outside the four Venezuelan vessels, none of which flies either the British or Venezuelan flag.

Iowa Crop Small.

Reports from Iowa show that the rains of the past season were more disastrous than the drought of 1901. Total value of crop is estimated at $15,722,349, or $60,000,000 less than that of last year. Greatest loss is in corn, only 47 per cent of which is marketable.

To Make District a State.

Following the introduction by Senator Gallinger of a resolution to amend the constitution and make a state of the District of Columbia, a mass meeting was held in Washington, demonstrating the popularity of the idea. Many prominent citizens spoke. It was shown that in population and general intelligence the district goes far ahead of several of the states. The chief difficulties to be overcome are the large negro vote and the jurisdiction involved on account of the naval and coded grounds on which the city is built.

To avoid discriminating against a religion by discharging a Seventh Day Adventist because he refused to work on Saturday and also to avoid the threatened conversion of his other clerks to that faith if the matter was ignored, the treasury department has solved the question by transferring the Seventh Day Adventist from a $1,200 position to one paying only $720 a year, thus making him pay for his holiday.

POPULAR SCIENCE

The inertia of a 2000-pound automobile at seventy-five miles an hour is calculated by R. H. Hoptstetter to be the same as would be given by a fall of 100 feet. The retarding power developed by the brakes on the front wheels must average about sixty horse power, though the maximum strain may be nearly twice as great.

The explosion motor holds promise for lightness. The best electric motor with its storage battery weighs nearly 100 pounds for one horse power, and the Serpentine engine, flashing water into steam for one and a half hours, about fourteen pounds for the horsepower. Gasoline engines, however, power with a weight of about eight pounds.

A test was recently made at Cornell University to determine the proportion between the power expended and the power produced in the liquefaction of air. It was found that the use of one horse power to produce one liquid air to produce one horse power for one minute, and that the best known process requiring air would not, therefore, run beyond five minutes.

The new self-luminous candle of a French chemist, claimed to be the only very short exposure to light, and to be unusually brilliant and lasting, consists of twenty per cent of dehydrated aluminum carbonate, five of sodium chloride, one of magnesium sulphate, 500 of strontium carbonate and 150 of sulphur. The self-luminous materials are kept in a water bath for three hours in a muffle from which the air is carefully excluded.

Casks of corkwood, the re-invention of a resident of Algeria, are claimed to have important advantages. Cork being a bad conductor of heat, liquids are protected from freezing on exposure to cold, and perishable substances are preserved from heat in warm climates. An interior coating keeps the contents from contact with the cork. The staves do not warp, and an eleven-gallon cask weighed only thirty pounds instead of the eighty pounds that would have been its weight in ordinary wood.

In a recent issue of the Journal of the British Society of Arts some striking examples of the effect of the use of science in German factories are given. In 1840 154,000 tons of beet root were crushed, from which 800 tons of raw sugar were produced—about five and one-half per cent. In 1890 1,500,000 tons were treated and produced 128,000 tons of sugar—eight per cent. In 1901 12,000,000 tons were crushed and yielded 1,500,000 tons of raw sugar—thirteen per cent. This increase of quantity, as well as percentage of product, is due entirely to scientific treatment. The production of dry colors, chemicals and dyes in Germany shows a corresponding increase in production and dividend paying capacity, which is due to the constant maintenance of laboratories of trained scientists, whose only purpose is to improve and cheapen processes.

All Feet.

The sight of a full-grown centipede is said by travellers in tropical lands to be enough to affect the strongest nerves. Ten to eleven inches is the average length, although larger ones have been seen. Lafcadio Hearn, in "Two Years in the French West Indies," says that the vitality of the centipede is amazing.

Mr. Hearn kept one in a bottle, with food of water, for thirteen weeks at the end of which time it remained active and dangerous as ever. The centipede has one natural enemy able to cope with him, the bat.

The bat attacks him with delight, and often swallows him, head first, without taking the trouble to kill him. The cat hunts him, but she is careful never to put her head near him. She has a trick of whirling him round and round upon the floor so quickly as to stupefy him; then when she sees a good chance she strikes him dead with her claws.

There are superstitions concerning the creature which have a good effect in diminishing his tribe. If you kill a centipede you are sure, to receive money soon; and even if you dream of killing one it is good luck.

Ancient Tiles.

The discovery of the enormous tiles in the Babylonian palace of Nebuchadnezzar proves that in richness of glazing and coloring the people of the time of Abraham were as proficient in certain classes of art work as the best of the modern artists. The world seems always to have had an inability to excel in the production of beautiful things, and it has been maintained in past ages wherever race, climate and governmental conditions made it possible. This age has achieved more than any other largely because of the growth of free government and the fortunate mingling of races in Eastern Europe and in America, and the consequent rise of high ideals in every department of human activity.—Boston Transcript.

Cave in Gibraltar Rock.

A most interesting discovery was made lately on the eastern side of Gibraltar Rock, a cave which, from its position, bids fair to rival the celebrated St. Michael's Cave, having been disclosed during the progress of mining operations at the quarry beneath the Monkeys Alameda.

BILL ARP'S LETTER

Tangle Over Mothers and Wives of Presidents Straightened.

ANSWERS HIS FRIEND, MR. THAXTON

Reverts Some More to President Roosevelt—Announces Publication of Jackson's Speech and a Book of His Own Making.

Dr. Conway is right about James Madison's mother. She was Nellie Conway and not Phany Taylor. Phany was his grandmother. But the good doctor is wrong about Thomas Jefferson. He did not marry Miss Martha Skelton, for she was a widow and her maiden name was Martha Wales, as I said. Neither did Andrew Jackson marry Miss Rachel Roberts. She was not a miss, but a divorced wife and her maiden name was Rachel Donelson. Jackson had to marry her twice in different states to comply with the law. Of course George Washington married the widow Custis. Everybody knows that. It was the typo that made it Curtiss. Dr. Conway says that Millard Filmore never married. He is mistaken. His first wife was Abigail Powers. His second was Caroline McIntosh. It is singular how many of the presidents married widows. Madison's wife, Dolley Payne, was a widow Todd. Her maiden name was Dorothy Coles. I reckon we will get this matter straightened out after awhile. Mr. Thaxton, of Tennessee, writes me that the full list of mothers and wives can be found in the "World Almanac" of 1894. Friend Thaxton is not mad, but he is grieved that I said Johnson's parents were too poor and ignorant to be named in the biography. That was not my assertion, but was a bit of sarcasm on the compiler, who makes special mention of their poverty and lack of education and records that Andrew and his mother and stepfather moved from Raleigh, N. C., to Greenville, Tenn., in a two-wheeled cart drawn by a blind pony, but does not give their names. Mr. Thaxton says his wife's father was an own cousin to Andrew Johnson and Andrew's mother's name was Mary McDonough, but he does not mention the stepfather. Who did Mary marry the second time? The biography in Appleton was written by James Phelan, editor of The Memphis Avalanche, and seems to be very fair and favorable to Johnson and his wife and children. It says that Johnson's father died when Andrew was only four years old and Mr. Thaxton says his mother had many more children. Mr. Phelan says that Andrew learned his alphabet on the tailor's bench, and his wife, Eliza McCord, taught him to read.

My friend Thaxton says that he did not know that poverty and ignorance were tied together. As a general rule they are. That second husband must have been both shiftless and ignorant if he couldn't provide any better transportation for his wife and stepson than a two-wheeled cart and a blind pony for a long journey. If Mr. Thaxton was to see such a cavalcade as that coming down the big road now he would say that poverty and ignorance were tramping along together. But this much we have learned from Mr. Thaxton—that Andrew Johnson's mother's maiden name was Mary McDonough. All honor to him who rose from poverty and obscurity and all honor to his devoted wife and to his accomplished daughter, Mrs. Patterson, who presided so worthily in the white house.

And Roosevelt married twice—that's right! He ought to have a good woman at his elbow all of the time. I reckon he must have been a widower when he wrote those slanders against Jefferson Davis and the people of the south. I am still waiting for him to retract and apologize. But now he is a candidate and is scheming for the solid northern vote and the southern negroes thrown in. He won't retract. If he is to be elected president, I want Miles to be coupled with him on the ticket for vice president. The champion chainer and the champion defamer ought to be paired. One to work on live men and the other on dead ones.

And here is a letter from Mrs. Lucy Harrison Gay Whitfield, of Siddonsville, Ala., who informs me that William Henry Harrison's mother was Elizabeth Bassett. She is Mrs. Whitfield's great-grandmother and was the wife of Ben Harrison, who signed the Declaration of Independence. His mother was Anne Carter, an aunt of Robert Lee. I believe that supplies all the missing links.

I've been enjoying some rich and racy reading—the reply of Horace Greely to the committee who summoned him to trial for signing the ball bond of Jefferson Davis that released him from prison. There were twenty-one who signed it, but Greely was the first and the only republican abolitionist. He volunteered to do it and did it willingly, going from New York to Richmond for that purpose, and it raised a howl all over New York and New England. The northern extremists demanded that Mr. Davis be tried and hung for treason, or for something or anything, so he was hung. Greely belonged to the Union League Club of New York, a powerful organization, and they were outraged and cited him for trial. His reply is a long one and some parts of it are most delightful sarcasm.

"You say you will give me reasonable time for reflection. I want none, nor shall I attend your meeting. It is not my habit to take part in any discussion that may arise among other gentlemen as to my fitness to attend their society. That is their affair, and to them I leave it. No, I shall not attend your meeting this evening. I have an engagement out of town and shall keep it. I do not recognize you as capable of judging me. You regard me as a weak sentimentalist. I arraign you as a set of narrow-minded blockheads, who would like to be useful, but don't know how. Your attempt to base an enduring party on hate and wrath is like planting a colony on an iceberg that has drifted into a tropical sea. The signing of that ball bond will do more for freedom and humanity than you all can do, though you live to the age of Methuselah. I ask nothing of you but that you proceed in a frank, manly way. Don't slide off into a cold repulsion of censure, but make your expostulations. Make it a square stand-up fight and record your judgment by words and signs. I dare you and I defy you, and I propose to fight it out on the line I have had ever since General Lee's surrender. I give you full notice that I shall urge the pardon and re-enfranchisement of all those engaged in the rebellion and those now in exile."

Well, they did not expel him nor censure him. They were afraid. The pamphlet to which I have heretofore alluded is now ready. It contains Henry R. Jackson's great speech on the "Wanderer" and Daniel Webster's speech at Cape Springs, Va., the last and greatest he ever made. There is also a brief biography of General Jackson by Joe M. Brown and a few remarks by myself. There is enough in this little pamphlet to establish the faith and stimulate the pride of every southern man. According to Jackson, the south was not responsible for slavery, and according to Webster, we were justified in seceding. And so the northern saints were in the wrong for violating the constitution and precipitating that most unrighteous war, and ought to make apology and restitution to us. They owe to our people millions and billions of dollars. They owe to me right now $20,000 damages, and if Roosevelt don't retract and apologize, I think I will attach his trunks and his bear guns when he comes in reach. He did not do the stealing, but he is an accessory after the fact, and that is just as bad. Now, I have no interest in the sale of that pamphlet, but I want every young man and woman to have one. The price is only 25 cents, postpaid. Apply to my friend B. Holland, Atlanta, Ga., care Franklin Printing Company.

But I have a book in press—a new and handsome book—my last and best. It contains my letters and ruminations from the uncivil war to date—1861-1903. Price, postpaid, $1.25. Write to C. P. Byrd, Atlanta, Ga., BILL ARP, in Atlanta Constitution.

PROMINENT PEOPLE.

Dr. Sven Hedra, the Swedish explorer, is now lecturing in Russia. Rudyard Kipling has arranged to spend the winter in South Africa. The Sultan of Johore intends to make a tour in the United States in 1904. Lord Rosebery's eldest daughter, Sybil, is engaged to Mr. C. Scott, of the Scots Guards.

Samuel Gompers was re-elected President of the American Federation of Labor without opposition.

Benjamin Kidd, the economist, thinks South Africa is a richer country than the Western United States.

Judge Henry S. Dewey, of the Boston Municipal Court, has resigned his seat and will retire to private practice.

Count Boni de Castellane has purchased the chateau de Grignan, formerly the home of Mme. de Sevigne.

The death is announced of Dr. A. V. son, the French physician, who discovered an alleged cure for creeping paralysis.

Lord Milner has a genius for languages, and learned Dutch as well in a very few weeks as to be able to talk fluently with Oom Paul.

Professor Garner, the anthropologist, who recently returned from Europe, says that, during an absence of twenty years, he has been mainly in the jungles of Africa studying the monkeys and apes. He has brought back 200 photographs of monkeys taken in the jungle and declares he has made some important discoveries.

The British Pacific cable, connecting Vancouver, B. C., with Brisbane, Queensland, has been completed and opened to the public. The cable extends from Ramsdell Creek, Vancouver Island, to Panning Island, in the middle of the Pacific; thence it goes, in several sections, to Norfolk Island, just north of New Zealand, and connects here to New Zealand and to Australia at Brisbane. The first section of this cable is the longest continuous submarine telegraph line in the world.

A SERMON FOR SUNDAY

AN ELOQUENT DISCOURSE ENTITLED "THE SECRET OF HIS PRESENCE."

The Rev. Dr. J. Withers Chapman Delivered an Instructive Message Suggested by One of the Most Beautiful Expressions in the Bible.

NEW YORK CITY.—The distinguished evangelist, the Rev. Dr. J. Withers Chapman has never delivered a more eloquent and convincing message than is contained in the following sermon, entitled, "The Secret of His Presence." It was preached from the text: "He that dwelleth in the secret place of the Most High shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty." Psalm xxi, 1.

To me this is one of the most beautiful expressions in all the Bible; beautiful because it is poetic, but more than that for the reason it holds up before us a picture of the greatest privilege that can come to the children of God.

There is a difference of opinion as to who the author of the Psalms may be. We get into the way of thinking that David wrote everything in the Psalter, but Moses is the author here. The Psalm describes the life of a true saint, the rule is that all the Psalms without a name in the title are to be ascribed to the poet whose name is given in the nearest preceding verse. This is the Psalm quoted by the Lord when he was tempted Christ upon the mountain, and it has ever been the rule of the world that the devil will tempt the soul. Whoever wrote it, it is beautiful, and all will agree that the lesson taught is one touching our communion with God and our fellowship with Him.

It is very true that all Christians do not occupy the same position in the world. All are saved, and it is by the grace of God that we are saved. But there is so much more to the Christian life than simply being saved; that is only the beginning. The blessings here offered are given to very general use, but they are not for persons and up it is as if he had said, any one who will fulfill the conditions may have the blessing; and as there is only one condition, namely, that we shall be in the "secret place of the Most High," you would think that all would accept, for the promise is that we shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty. The blessings here promised are not for all believers, but only for those who live in close fellowship with God. Every child of God looks toward the very center of the universe, and he has all do not dwell there. They run to it at times and enjoy occasional glimpses of the face of Him who is here to face, but they do not dwell there. It is in the mysterious presence, and this is possible for every one.

It is with the desire that I might learn the lesson of the "secret place" that I am writing this. I want to know how to abide in the "secret of His presence" that I may be able to see the face of the Lord help us every one. I have been on the mountain tops of Christian experience, when I have seemed to see the face of Him who is here to face, but I have not been able to stay there. I am sure that you can say the same; but the text says that we may abide there in our thoughts while we may be all the time in the very thickest of the world.

"I love in solitude to shed the penitential tear."

And all His promises to plead with the world, give I unto you.

There is something about the word "shadow" that always interests me, for there never has been a shadow without the light; thus the "secret place" must be a place of brightness. It is a place where God is, for the nearest of all things to me as I journey in the sunlight is my shadow, and he who walks in my shadow or rests in it must be very near to me. I know that when I am in the shadow of God, I can reach forth my hand and touch Him; I can lift up mine eyes and see His face. When I am in the shadow of God, I am always near Him. He is in all things, and He is everywhere. But there is something about the "secret of His presence" to which every one is a stranger unless he has dwelt there.

In the 10th Psalm the psalmist seems in the first part to be writing of the presence of God in a general sort of way. As another has said, "He had been beating out the golden ore of thought through successive paragraphs of marvelous power."

If one surrenders to God, he is better in this world, our lives would be purer. It is very easy to be good in the company of some people we know; they seem to draw out the best in us. But to be good in the presence of God is to be lifted near Heaven; to touch a little child pure as the angels of God is to receive a benediction that will last forever. The presence of God is to be the presence of God, and if we only were all the time conscious of it. This is just what we may have, did I but dwell in the "secret place" of the Most High. The presence of God is to be the presence of God, and if we only were all the time conscious of it. This is just what we may have, did I but dwell in the "secret place" of the Most High.

The typical reference must be to the holy place of the tabernacle, which the priests were privileged to enter, and which we have become in the new dispensation "a holy priesthood," so that it is possible for us to enter on that ground. If the tabernacle was a house of prayer, then it is something wonderful almost to describe, to which we are bidden, for in the tabernacle just beyond the veil was the glory cloud, and all its majesty that could be wrought in gold and silver, purple and fine linen.

But I am persuaded that even that was as nothing compared to that which is the holiest of all, the presence of God. The writer to the Hebrews tells us just how we may enter. "Having, therefore, brethren, boldness to enter into the holiest by the blood of Jesus, a new and living way, which He hath consecrated for us, through the veil, that seems to have been torn away, let us draw near with a true heart, and let us have grace to enter into the rest."

A Christian is all wrong according to the text if he thinks that all the life here below must be turmoil and strife, for there is a shining way, a way of peace, an undisturbed communion even in the midst of the tempest. A dwelling place is a home, not a temporary shelter to which one may run for momentary relief, as the birds fly to the boughs of the trees in the midst of the storm and then leave again when the storm has passed. It is the idea of a home. What can be more restful and comfortable? The Hebrew for the expression "shall abide" is "shall dwell." It is not a "wandering" thing, it is a "dwelling" thing. It is a home, and it is a home that we have to go to. It is a home that we have to go to. It is a home that we have to go to.

The British Pacific cable, connecting Vancouver, B. C., with Brisbane, Queensland, has been completed and opened to the public. The cable extends from Ramsdell Creek, Vancouver Island, to Panning Island, in the middle of the Pacific; thence it goes, in several sections, to Norfolk Island, just north of New Zealand, and connects here to New Zealand and to Australia at Brisbane. The first section of this cable is the longest continuous submarine telegraph line in the world.

failed; but immediately following that expression is this: "Take My yoke upon you, and learn of Me; for I am meek and lowly in heart, and ye shall find rest unto your souls."

I suppose one might secure the former and never come to the latter. In fact, the rest that comes to us when we are near enough to learn of Him, which is only another way of speaking of the "secret place."

What a home is so comfortable as the home of the world, there we have that which seems to soothe and to quiet. Could there be anything more expressive of the world's way of life than the fourth verse of the 10th Psalm. "He shall cover thee with his feathers." It would be almost a sacrifice for one to leave the world, if they were not in the "secret place." There can be no effective service that is not the outcome of communion. Our Lord's day proceeds the work of the world, and this is always the case of God. The wonderful fifteenth chapter of John is founded on that idea. We must abide first, and after that we can do anything. We must be in the "secret place" of the Most High, and then we can be as near to Him that we can be magnetized and charged with a spiritual power that the world could never give us.

I have left to the very last the most practical question of all, and that is, how can we enter the "secret place" of the Most High? It may all be summed up in a single word: "Abide."

Abide. None can "know" the Father, but the Son, and he to whom the Son will reveal Him. It is impossible for any one to enter into the "secret place" of the Most High except through Jesus Christ. He is the only way. I have the door, for He, if any man will, shall enter in.

It is just what Paul meant when he said, "But now in Christ Jesus we who were sometimes afar off are made nigh by the blood of Christ." There are some places in the Bible where the way seems plain. "Abide in Me," says the Lord, "and I will abide in you." "Abide in Me," says the Lord, "and I will abide in you." "Abide in Me," says the Lord, "and I will abide in you."

place, and I know it not." And if we can see it, it is wrong for us to go.

3. In the "secret place" there is power. Our best hope for all of us is to be near Him. I am familiar that tells us that we may have power of intellect or of human might. But there is a promise that we shall have power of the Holy Ghost. The Holy Ghost will dwell in us, and in the secret place He will literally fill us with the Holy of Holies, so that at one time it was almost impossible for one to enter. This will come to us in three ways: we dwell in the "secret place" in I. Chronicles we read, in the fourth chapter, twenty-third verse, of certain men who dwelt with the king for his water. There can be no effective service that is not the outcome of communion. Our Lord's day proceeds the work of the world, and this is always the case of God. The wonderful fifteenth chapter of John is founded on that idea. We must abide first, and after that we can do anything. Luxury Does Not Bring Achievement

P. O. S. Marden.

THE history of our country is a record of the successes of poor boys who seemed to be hopelessly shut off from books, culture and education, except that of the most meagre kind—from almost every opportunity for mental development. The youthful Lincolns, Franklins, Hamiltons, Garfields, Grants and Clays—those who became Presidents, lawyers, statesmen, soldiers, orators, merchants, educators, journalists, inventors—giant in every department of life—how they stand out from the pages of history, those poor boys, an inspiration for all time to those who are born to fight their way up to their own lot!

The youth who is reared in a luxurious home, who, from the moment of his birth, is waited on by an army of servants, pampered and indulged by over-protected parents, and deprived of every incentive to develop himself mentally or physically, though commonly regarded as one to be envied, is more to be pitied than the poorest, most humbly born boy or girl in the land. Unless he is gifted with an unusual mind, he is in danger of becoming a degenerate, a parasite, a creature who lives on the labor of others, whose powers ultimately atrophy from disuse.

Dependent and Independent.

P. A. M. Purdy.

OF class of men, as a rule, are more independent than farmers. They can stand strikes without any great loss. They raise enough to depend on for their living, and can exchange one with the other. Neighbor Thompson had a lot of hay out, help was short, a storm was brewing. A neighbor stepped in with the salutation: "Well, neighbor, I thought I would step in and see if I and the boys couldn't help you get that hay in before the rain comes on. We can put off the cultivating of our potatoes a day or two, and besides, we may get caught as you are, and it is faster for you will come good."

"Well, if that isn't kind in you. You couldn't have offered me help at a more favorable time. I will certainly pay you back, and, by the way, neighbor, I see one of your road horses is lame. There is my man in the pasture doing nothing. Send one of the children over when you wish to use him."

"Thank you. My wife was saying this morning she wanted to get to town to-day."

So it went on all through the season, each helping the other, and so it should be between farmers. The joint work, the sociability, the kindly feeling make life more enjoyable.

Where there is a business man more independent? His barns and cellars are full of everything of all necessities for man and beast. If there is a strike and it goes up, he can cut his own wood for fuel and supply his neighbor. If a hard strike occurs he can remain at home with plenty to keep him, and his neighbors to visit back and forth.

Domestic Science For Girls.

By Mary E. Williams, Professor of Domestic Science, Columbia University.

JUST twenty-five years ago whatever training girls received in domestic science was imparted by their mothers in their own homes. Today the demands of the school upon the girls' time make even this absolutely impossible. The state takes the child almost from the mother's arms into the kindergarten, and her training is institutional until she is graduated from high school or college, ready for business. But it is worthy of note that she is fitted for almost any business except that most important of all businesses to women, the business of home-making.

I think the increase of "bachelor apartments" and of "bachelor maids' apartments," the lament of empty churches, the cry of public corruption, and the complaint of competition of labor between the sexes are strong evidences that thimble of marriage are constantly decreasing.

Thenceforward to the state of such a condition are fraught with danger. As I have said, so the state is.

The men of to-day who think they can purify the world at the polls are making great mistakes. Nor can they do it by entering into competition with men in commercial work. Their work is to train the coming generation of men for affairs of the world. And this work must be commenced in the nursery as a continued habit and character are formed. And if we are to do away with the evils of to-day we must prepare the future wives and mothers to just this work.

Until fact is recognized by our school boards, the training of a girl, unlike that of her brother, will be incomplete. For his training aims to fit him for his no position in life, for his struggle with the world. The training of a girl, as is now, seems to have the same aim for her; while her normal life-work—care of the home—is practically ignored.

What, then, the remedy? Nothing less than to make domestic science a part of the regular course for girls; necessary for promotion from elementary schools to high schools and from high schools to colleges.

If this be accomplished we shall have gone a long way toward solving the problem of the training of our girls. We can hope then to turn out a generation of future mothers who will be equipped for that life-work so aptly described by Emerson: "The mission of the ideal woman is to make the whole world home-like."

Self-Assertiveness

George C. Lorimer, D. D.

FEW months ago while traveling in England, the members of our party found themselves in a smoking compartment of a railway carriage with a stranger, and a stranger who smoked.

When about halfway between stations, he calmly pulled out his tobacco, and lighting up, puffed away, seemingly to his own enjoyment quite as much as to the discomfort of the ladies under my charge.

Seeing the annoyance his smoking was causing, I asked him if he would be good enough to desist until we came to the next station, when we would change our seats to another carriage; and I was not a bit embarrassed at his reply:

"I am smoking within my rights, sir, and must decline."

But the retort sounded to me as if it was a statement of the truth—he was, within his rights; and, further, that he was, as he proposed to have the matter, while recognizing his privilege, I could not feel that we in America had no right to be willing to waive our rights in little things, preferring to keep our energy for the holding on to those in the greater events of life.

The incident got me to thinking. The Englishman never forgets nor ceases to demand to obtain his due, no matter how trifling the obligation may be, and quite as much as nothing to interfere with the happy and peaceful enjoyment of life.

What are the most available of individuals. We live in a country where we are obliged to give and take, and we should be considered as much as we are as we become citizens.

GREAT BRITAIN'S ATTITUDE

Will Use Further Coercive Measures Against Venezuela if Necessary.

WILL NOT LAND A BRITISH FORCE

Lord Lansdowne says it has been decided to resort to a blockade of the Ports of the Alleged Debtor—Italy's Affairs in Charge of Minister Bowen—Hay's Reminder to the Powers.

London.—Replying to a question in the House of Lords Lord Lansdowne, the Foreign Secretary, said if the seizure of the Venezuelan gunboats did not produce the desired effect further coercive measures would be employed.

The matter had been considered in consultation with Germany, and it had been decided to resort to a blockade of the ports. It was not intended to land a British force, and still less to occupy Venezuelan territory.

Replying to a question in the House of Commons under Foreign Secretary (Cranborne) said no attempt had been made by Great Britain to refer the dispute with Venezuela to arbitration.

CABINET DISCUSSES VENEZUELA.

The Government has faith in the Promises of England and Germany.

Washington, D. C.—The Venezuela troubles were the subject of discussion at the Cabinet meeting, and finally at the executive session of the Senate.

All the members growing out of the operations of the allied naval forces and the subsequent action of President Castro, terminating with an offer to submit the dispute to arbitration, were discussed at the Cabinet meeting.

While this Government is naturally anxious for a speedy and amicable settlement of the dispute, it is felt that the United States will not be involved in the trouble. No conclusion different from that upon which the President and Secretary have acted since the trouble commenced was reached at the meeting.

Until there shall be happenings to warrant a change in the present policy, the United States will rest upon the assurance that Great Britain and Germany have no intention to violate the Monroe Doctrine by occupation of Venezuelan territory.

Italy Gives Her Notice.

Washington, D. C.—The Italian Ambassador has called at the State Department and advised Secretary Hay that Italy has joined the allies in the operations against Venezuela. He requested that Mr. Bowen assume charge of the Italian interests in Venezuela, and the Secretary granted this request subject to the approval of Venezuela.

Italy enters the combination on the same plane as to abstention from territorial seizures as Germany and Great Britain.

Rome, Italy.—The claims of Italy on Venezuela referred to by Foreign Minister Brinetti in the Chamber of Deputies comprise losses by Italy during the recent revolutions. Most of the 70,000 Italian residents of Venezuela have been heavy losers.

Italy to Join Allies.

Berlin, Germany.—The Foreign Office has stated that Italy would participate in the Venezuelan blockade by agreement with the allies, and that a portion of the coast would be assigned to the Italian ships. The proceedings against Venezuela thus become tripartite. The German Government will ask the consent of the Bundesrath to a proposal to make the Venezuelan blockade more stringent.

A Call For Information.

Washington, D. C.—Representative McCall (Rep. Mass.) has introduced in the House a resolution directing the Secretary of State to inform the House concerning any understanding or agreement between the governments of Great Britain and the United States, or any assurances by these governments to the diplomatic officers of the United States as to the nature, extent or purpose of the joint demonstration of these governments against Venezuela, and particularly with reference to the occupation of the territory of Venezuela. The resolution also asks that correspondence regarding this subject be transmitted to the House.

Arbitration Proposed.

Washington, D. C.—Minister Bowen's proposal to arbitrate the Venezuelan troubles, Secretary Hay addressed to the dispatches to the American States Ambassadors at London, Berlin and Rome, instructing them to call the matter again to the attention of the governments to which they are accredited, with a view to securing an early expression of opinion from them.

British Construct Redoubts.

Paris, France.—A dispatch to the Matin from Caracas states that the British were constructing redoubts in the environs of San Felipe.

The newspapers of Caracas continue to print violent attacks on the British and Germans.

Most of the political prisoners who were released at Puerto Cabello have gone to Caracas to join the revolutionary commander, General Soto. Instead of rallying to the defense of the country, as was expected.

Murderer Hanged in Kentucky.

Boone, Mo.—The body of a man, who was hanged in Kentucky, was found in the river near Boone, Mo. The man was identified as Henry Dixon, a father-in-law.

Cape Clematis Accused of Murder.

The Dutch Deformed Church, says the Cape Town correspondent of the London Times, is going to hold a court of inquiry into the case of the murder of Mr. Van der Merwe, a Dutchman, who was killed in the war. Mr. Van der Merwe was killed in the war.

THE SON OF EX- U. S. MINISTER TO ENGLAND

Commends Peruna to All Catarrh Sufferers.

Hon. Lewis E. Johnson is the son of the late Reverend Johnson, who was United States Senator from Maryland and Attorney General under President Johnson and United States Minister to England, and who was regarded as the greatest constitutional lawyer that ever lived.

In a recent letter from 100 F Street, N. W., Mr. Johnson says: "No one should longer suffer from catarrh when Peruna is accessible. To my knowledge it has caused relief to so many of my friends and acquaintances, that it is humanity to commend it to all persons suffering with this distressing disorder of the human system."

Catarrh Poisons.

Catarrh is capable of changing all the life-giving secretions of the body into seething fluids, which destroy and inflame every part they come in contact with. Appearances to the places affected by catarrh can do little good save to soothe or quiet disagreeable symptoms. Hence it is that gargles, sprays, ointments and inhalants only serve as temporary relief. So long as the irritating secretions of catarrh continue to be formed so long will the man continue to be inflamed, no matter what treatment is used.

There is but one remedy that has the desirable effect, and that remedy is Peruna. This remedy attacks at once to the root of catarrh by restoring to the capillary vessels their healthy elasticity. Peruna is not a temporary palliative, but a real cure. Send for Dr. Hartman's latest book, sent free for a short time. Address: The Peruna Drug Manufacturing Co., Columbus, Ohio.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis. Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.
